"Foxy Grandpas" are doing a good work in urging upon the youngsters to save up and buy a home for themselves, and stop paying rent. To live only for the present is foolish. The way to have money is to quit wasting it. The old adage "in times of peace prepare for war" should be used as a motto for all wage earners. An interview with J. T. O'Connell & Co., the real estate hustlers, of 38 Hunter street, would be a wise step for many of our young people. In these prosperous days, they should make some provision for the inevitable rainy day. Let them read carefully our Real Estate announcements and watch the first chance for a good investment.

There are many more men who are now candy lovers than formerly. A few years ago women used to be jeered at for their craze for "goodies," and a man who was seen eating sweets was accounted a weakling. Now, it has been shown that men of all classes eat sweetmeats much more than they did, and that whenever a people eat more largely of sugar they take less to intoxicants. The wholesomeness of Coleman Bros.' candies has increased the consumption of certain dainty lines; and men are known to make a regular habit of taking home a pretty bon-bon box of the choicest flavours.. The Colemans are doing quite a business this month in wedding cakes, and it was a surprise to learn the number of orders they still have to fill.

Just now when the furnishing of summer cottages is engaging attention, Robert Fair & Co. show a splendid varied assortment of needed things. They show cottage curtains, floor mattings, window blinds, fishnelette sheets, pillow cases, warm comforters, bed and table napery, Swiss curtains, and other suitable lines to make the cottage comfortable and home-like.

Many of the most particular housekeepers in Peterborough have made Madill's Drug Store their favourite store for drug needs. Mr. Madill has been building up a successful business on the solid foundation of right qualities, careful dispensing, fair profits and prompt attention. Among the proprietary preparations most sought after are those bearing the name of W. Madill, druggist.

It's no use thinking of holidays without thinking of a summer suit. The new ranges of two-piece suits shown by Merrill & Meredith are made up of Hewson tweeds, stripes, homespuns and fancy worsteds. What will not suit the particular dresser in ready-mades can be supplied in the tailoring branch, where men can be fitted to their particular notions. This firm also carry a full range of the new styles in straw hats, fancy hosiery, shirts and other summer toggery.

If your wife likes to own a nice set of enamel ware, ask her to visit MacPherson's store and examine the new Pyrolité non-leak utensils made in tea kettles, tea pots, coffee pots, saucepans, rice boilers, cereal cookers, preserving kettles and many other articles. The kitchen is the housewife's pride, and it is a pleasure for her to know that it is equipped with the most up-to-date ware that will stand the fire.

Everybody likes toast, but everybody don't know how to make the best toast. The toast that comes nearest the celebrated ranks which are admired for their uniform crispness and delicious flavour is the toast made on an electric table toaster. Their convenience, cleanliness and simplicity commend them to housekeepers generally. The toaster is plated on the breakfast table, and the cord connected with the lamp socket, the electric current is turned on, and you have lovely toast in five minutes. These handy toasters are made by the Collier Cunningham Co., this city, and are on sale at local store.

It is not the thing this summer to have the parasol match the frock. Instead it must match the hat. Girls with left over parasols can utilise them by having their hats made to match instead of buying the sunshade to match the hat. If a new parasol must be bought, Harry Adams excels in this particular line this season. One of the best whitewear offerings this season is also offered at Adams', as a special for Saturday. White underskirts and gowns are marked down to 98c each, the regular values being $1.50 and $1.75.

New Spring straw hats are having a refreshing of originality. McWilliams, hat store these days. The newest blocks and shades in American and English novelties, and staples are in full bloom. The window display is unique and effective, and is expressive, and is expressive of refreshing on quality. McWilliams, the hatter, is popularizing "The Spot for Values."

Plan to make your verandah the most liveable place in your house this season. Make it as homelike as the indoor living room—it doesn't take much. A verandah has the advantage of open air, of vines and shrubbery, of grass and flowers. It needs but little in the way of ornamentation. The Peterborough Hardware Co. have some very pretty weaves of hammocks, and one of these swung across the verandah will furnish a delightful siesta in the warm days. A few rustic chairs and settees, a wicker table for books, papers, work basket and some cushions, may be selected at E. B. Clegg & Co.'s furniture store. Shut in away from the heat and the wicked world, there may be lots of comfort taken on the verandah.

Lang & Maher's entire store is in accord with the new summer styles for men and boys' wear. Especially worthy of gentlemen's attention is their high-class brand of clothing. The prospective buyer finds it easy, in the "Daylight Store," to see the colour, shade, tone, fit and durability of the clothes he may choose from. The models are designed for the smart dresser, who knows the cut and finish of the garment which appeals to him. Although there are many weaks of good service yet to be had this season, there is a pressing argument in the actual savings to be made by taking advantage of the 20 to 30 per cent. reductions off regular prices at Lang & Maher's.

Mr. Elliott, proprietor of the Knitting Works, is giving back 25c on every dollar's worth purchased at that store. 'It is an unusual benefit to the purchaser and an opportunity that calls for prompt action on the part of those who care to economize. Every day, some particular line of the goods is running out, so that people will be wise who buy early and save the twenty-five per cent. The Knitting Works will be moved next to the "Bee Hive" about the 1st of July—that's the reason, for the snaps in cashmere and wool goods, underwear and stockings at the Knitting Works just now.

THE BAKERS IN CAMP
MEETING LAST NIGHT

Talk of a Rise in the Price of Bread—How Flour is Soaring—Mr. Houedry's New Peas and Beans.

It is stated that the local bakers held a meeting last night, and talked over the question of a rise in the price of bread. It was difficult to obtain any accurate information regarding the proceedings at the meeting, but the public are expecting to hear of an advance in the price of the staff of life, "before the snow flies."

From one source it was learned that a two-cent advance on the large loaf is probable, making the price 12c instead of 10c, as at present. Credit is said to be due to one large baker for holding down the price, he having declined to agree to an advance because of the large stock of flour which he holds, bought when the market was easy.

It is said that the great scarcity of Ontario wheat has brought the price up as high as Manitoba wheat, something that has never been known before.

The Campbellford Milling Company's quotations for factory flour is $6.00 and $6.10 per barrel. Mr. Houedry, of the Houedry mill is selling Glenora flour freely at $5.25 per hundred, and is busy delivering to local bakers in large quantities.

Mr. Houedry, who returned from a visit to France about a month ago, shows a new sample of French beans and a novelty in African peas, which he is introducing in this district. About 600 bushels of this new pea have been sown round Peterborough. It grows in a very bushy stalk about three feet high with roots two and three inches in the ground.

The Romantic Beginning Of The Famous Finnan Haddie

Widow, Bereft of Her Breadwinner, Receives Gift of Haddies From Former Suitor—Too Many to Use She Cures the Remainder—Simple Commencement of a Now Flourishing Business.

ENORMOUS OUTPUT YEARLY

(From Canadian Grocer.)

The little village of Findon, or, as it is locally pronounced, Finnan, lies a mile or so on the Aberdeen side of Stonehaven, and seventy or eighty years ago was the chief fishing town on the east coast of Scotland. There the regular mail coach between Aberdeen and Edinburgh at that time stopped for breakfast, and the guard, himself fond of fish, found a very toothsome morsel in the "reekit haddies," which were then beginning to establish a market for themselves at Stonehaven and Aberdeen. By way of giving a treat to his brother, who lived in Edinburgh, he brought him up a parcel of finnan haddocks, and they were so much thought of that the treat was looked forward to with considerable interest when the coach was due in the capital of Scotland. The guard's brother ran a store in the Grass Market, and was a victual dealer in a very considerable way.

Demand Quickly Arises.

The "good thing" being sometimes shared with friends and business connections, the excellence of the cured fish in time became known, and a demand arose for them, so much so that the weekly consignment now regularly ordered on from the north was as eagerly picked up on its arrival by a steadily increasing run of customers.

A well-known lord of session was one of the first to introduce the finnan at his famous breakfasts. He had them regularly when on circuit at Aberdeen, and, hearing they were to be had at the Grass Market direct from Findon, had them served up by way of a speciality, and thus gained renown, not only for his well-remembered and well-attended breakfasts, but for the "reekit haddie" as well. Dates are wanting by which to fix the start and progress of the trade, but the "haddies" soon became known in the markets of both Edinburgh and Glasgow, and, with the easier transit of steam, every village between Aberdeen and Stonehaven made a specialty of the "Finans" to supply the constantly increasing demand. That was sixty years ago, at least.

A Romantic Beginning.

But, to begin at the beginning. A very old fisherman told me some years ago that he could remember the time when a few dozen haddocks were now and again home smoked by fishermen's wives in the peat reek of their own firesides. They did this when there was an extra good catch, and when there was not the same facility for getting rid of them as there is now. With them it became a necessity to "cure" the haddocks, so that they might be kept for a few days longer than in the fresh state, and until a sale could be effected, like many other branches of industry, the origin of the "finnan haddock" was more a matter of force than choice.

Remembers His Former Love.

There is a glamour of romance attached to the discovery of the "cure" no less interesting than the fact that it was accidentally hit upon by the party interested. A widow residing in the village of Findon, who had been left with a large family of young children when bereft of her breadwinner in a wintry gale, was occasionally presented with a basket of haddocks and coddlings by a former but rejected sweetheart, who, although married and with a family of his own, had still a soft spot for his love of former days, and in her hour of distress lent her a helping hand. But, as she was not able to consume all she received fresh, and not wishing to be wasteful, she opened them, gutted them, and then stretching them flat, hung them up in her chimney to dry and season in the peat reek (smoke) till she could place them on her frugal table, or exchange them as she frequently did, for some other household commodity of which she was in more immediate want. It was by these exchanges that "Maggie's" (Margaret) fish became famous, and the housewives round about were not slow in picking up the process, especially so when they came to be asked for by Aberdeen and other merchants.

Such was the discovery of the Finnan haddies, otherwise known in the trade as "yellow haddocks," "Aberdeen haddocks," "north-country haddocks," and so on; and which are now cured much after the same original fashion from John O'Groat's to Maiden Kirk, whenever the haddock can be landed, but more generally on the east coast and at Aberdeen and the Moray Firth villages in particular.

Development of the Industry.

When the fame of the "reekit haddie" began to spread, orders for supplies came from far and near. The introduction of the "iron horse" made the commerce in finnans an important business, and it soon became organised as a regular branch of the fish trade. When a ready and constantly extending market was opened up by railways and steamboats, the smoking of haddocks and young cod in quantity was found to pay almost as well as if sold "fresh," so that in the progress of time the fireside smoking was transferred to the smokehouse or kiln, where the business could be, and is, carried on more systematically than in the fisherman's cottage.

There are no fireside smoked haddocks on the market nowadays, but if you breakfast in any of the marine hotels in Cove, Portlethen, Mouchalls or Stonehaven, on a holiday, and ask for a home-cured haddock, mine host can easily furnish it, and may charge a penny or so extra for the trouble, but it is well worth the extra coin.

Product of the Peat Reek.

The original finnan was a product of the peak ree. So is the fish of the present day, but with this difference: In the early part of the nineteenth century, and well o mithrough the first half of it, the finnans were "reekit" (smoked) at the fireside, and received more attention than is now bestowed on them in the factories. The women and old men, who did the "reeking" took particular care to shift the fish as necessity arose from the top to the bottom, so that each fish had its modicum of heat, as well as smoke. But now such individual attention cannot be paid to the tons and tons of cured haddies that must be turned out of a morning for dispatch by the next mail. In short, the "cure" has become deteriorated, the work is hurried, and the peats are not up to the chips of former days, while hardwood chips and sawdust are so often substituted for the more acceptable peat.

Yet, for all these drawbacks, the finnan haddock is by a long way the best in the market. Whether they are got off Shetland, Orkney or Caithness, whether they are the produce of the steam liners from the Firth of the Forth, or the fruits of the Dogger Bank brought into Fraserburgh, Peterhead, or Aberdeen by the magnificent fleet of trawlers working from these ports, if they are cured fish, i.e., brought for the purpose of making yellow haddocks, then they may pass muster as "real finnans" and be confidently accepted as such. When fish are not put fresh into the smokehouse, they cannot come fresh out of it, and it is a decided drawback to this method of curing when the fish are not brought into the market specially for the purpose. Codlings and whitings are often cured and sold as "finnans," but the haddock is the best fish for smoking, colours nicely, and has a better look than either the whiting or the cod on the breakfast table, and is much more toothsome to boot.

Under the Solder Seal

In 1900 the haddock taken in the waters of the United Kingdom amounted to 600,000 tons, ranging in weight from four ounces to four pounds. Within the last eight years this quantity has been just about doubled. In Aberdeen alone the haddock represents one-half the trade in white fish, and of the half million quintals landed there last year two-thirds were converted into finnans.

The haddie is likewise canned for export, and keeps sweet and wholesome for two or three years under the solder seal.

Foster Predicts Threatening Conditions Around June 16

Some Cool Weather is Coming in a Week--Month Will be Good for North Western Spring Wheat But Not for Corn --The Comet is Coming But Its Effect Can Not Be Estimated.

Washington, D.C., June 12.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 13 to 17, warm wave 12 to 15, cool wave 15 to 19. This was expected to bring unusually high temperatures and dangerous storms. Better watch for threatening conditions June 16, 17, 18. Very few places will be disturbed by these severe storms, but all can afford to be on the outlook in order that the few may be prepared. The hot wave will take a southern route, crossing the Mississippi about 15, while the cool wave will cover northern states and Canada, crossing meridian 90 about June 19.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 18, cross Pacific slope by close of 19, great central valleys 20 to 22, eastern states 23. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 18, great central valleys 20, eastern states 22. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 21, great central valleys 23, eastern states 25.

During this storm period temperatures will average about normal, unusually cool preceding the storm centre, not very warm accompanying it, nor very cool following it. Pacific coast will get very severe weather not farm from June 18. Temperatures will average above normal June 21 to July 1 inclusive, and this will be good corn weather where there is sufficient moisture.

Indications are that heavy rains will fall, 14 to 21, in the cotton states near and east of the lower Mississippi river and drouth will prevail elsewhere. Not a good corn month; better for northwestern spring wheat.

THE COMET.

Yes; the comet is coming, and no man can now determine what, if any effect it will have on the earth. A thousand chances to one it will not affect the earth, but if it should strike the earth centrally, not much life would be left. The poisonous gases of the comet would destroy animal life, cause vegetable growths to increase enormously, and darken the sun or shut out its light by greatly increasing the cloud belts.

I am firmly of the opinion that these very conditions obtained many thousand years ago when out moon then a great comet, struck the earth glanced off, lost all its water, clouds and gases to the earth, being followed by that "age of darkness" generally believed to have existed far back in the earth's geological history when these immense animals and vegetable growths existed and whose remains are now found in many parts of the earth. Possibly that great poem, "The Book of Job," was produced thousands of years before the time of Abraham, and that it describes some of the scenes of that "age of darkness." I am also confident that the great dragon, so inseparably attached to all that is Chinese, represents the fiery monster, our moon, which, after it struck the earth, remained encircling close to it. Something similar is described in "The Book of Job."

HE COMPLAINS THAT PROFANITY AMONG BOYS IS GROWING

Halifax, N.S., June 5th, 1909.
To the Editor of the Examiner,
Sir:—

Of late we see many accounts both in the United States and Canada calling attention to how profane and bad language is increasing among the boys. The truth of this cannot be denied by any one who happens to come in contact with the groups of boys who congregate in public places and on the streets. This is really a sad state of affairs, as if such a low habit is to be allowed to continue and become a fixed one among the coming youths, it cannot do otherwise than eventually lead us to become a very irreverent and disrespectful race. The class of youths who seem to become most addicted to this habit are those ranging in ages from 12 to 20, who seem to believe that an oath or some other form of bad language makes them appear more manly. What is the most shocking of all is the way in which they can be heard calling on the Name of "Jesus" or "Jesus Christ," or calling upon God to "Damn" everything. Blasphemous and other degrading language has become very common of late, not only among the lower classes, but also among those in the higher walks of life, which seems almost incredible, seeing that such a low habit as profanity answers no good purpose, and can only be an indication that the people who do so are naturally inclined to fall into low and degrading habits. The reason of this practice becoming so epidemic among the boys can only be placed to the way in which it has been used by the stage in the past, but it must be credited owing to the strong opposition that has been brought to bear against it by the Press, the Church, the Band of Name Societies, etc., etc., that it has been greatly lessened amongst the men, but I do not believe that it will have the desired effect among the youths where the seed of profanity has been sown, and who are practically innocent of its evil. It has been stated that the schools might assist greatly in checking this habit among the children, but I do not believe that they can accomplish much without its use being discouraged by the older people and by their parents in their homes.

Yours truly,
GEORGE WRIGHT.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

The great haunches gathered under it, the eager hoofs drummed the grass, as faster and still more fast the frantic horse bore himself and his rider toward the wall. Would Nigel spring off? To do so would be to bend his will to that of the beast beneath him. There was a better way than that. Cool, quick and decided, the man swiftly passed both whip and bridle into the left hand which still held the mane. Then with the right he slipped his short mantle from his shoulders and lying forward along the creature's strenuous, rippling back he cast the flapping cloth over the horse's eyes.

The result was but too successful, for it nearly brought about the downfall of the rider. When those red eyes straining for death were suddenly shrouded in unexpected darkness the amazed horse propped on its forefeet and came to so dead a stop that Nigel was shot forward on to its neck and hardly held himself by his hair-entwined hand. Ere he had slid back into position the moment of danger had passed, for the horse, its purpose all blurred in its mind by this strange thing which had befallen, wheeled round once more, trembling in every fiber, and tossing its petulant head until at last the mantle had slipped from its eyes and the chilling darkness had melted into the homely circle of sunlit grass once more.

But what was this new outrage which had been inflicted upon it? What was this defiling bar of iron which was locked hard against its mouth? What were these straps which galled the tossing neck, this band which spanned its chest? In those instants of stillness ere the mantle had been plucked away Nigel had lain forward, had slipped the snaffle between the champing teeth, and had deftly secured it.

Bliad, frantic fury surged in the yellow horse's heart once more at this new degradation, this badge of serfdom and infamy. His spirit rose high and menacing at the touch. He loathed this place, these people, all and everything which threatened his freedom. He would have done with them forever; he would see them no more. Let him away to the uttermost parts of the earth, to the great plains where freedom is. Anywhere over the far horizon where he could get away from the defiling bit and the insufferable mastery of man.

He turned with a rush, and one magnificent deer-like bound carried him over the four-foot gate. Nigel's hat had flown off, and his yellow curls streamed behind him as he rose and fell in the leap. They were in the water-meadow now, and the rippling stream twenty feet wide gleamed in front of them running down to the main current of the Wey. The yellow horse gathered his haunches under him and flew over like an arrow. He took off from behind a bowlder and cleared a furze-bush on the farther side. Two stones still mark the leap from hoof-mark to hoof-mark, and they are eleven good paces apart. Under the hanging branch of the great oak-tree on the farther side (that Quercus Tilfordiensis is still shown as the bound of the Abbey's immediate precincts) the great horse passed. He had hoped to sweep off his rider, but Nigel sank low on the heaving back with his face buried in the flying mane. The rough bough rasped him rudely, but never shook his spirit nor his grip. Rearing, plunging and struggling, Pommers broke through the sapling grove and was out on the broad stretch of Hankley Down.

And now came such a ride as still lingers in the gossip of the lowly country folk and forms the rude jingle of that old Surrey ballad, now nearly forgotten, save for the refrain:

The Doe that sped on Hinde Head,
The Kestril on the winde,
And Nigel on the Yellow Horse,
Can leave the world behinde.

Before them lay a rolling ocean of dark heather, knee-deep, swelling in billow on billow up to the clear-cut hill before them. Above stretched one unbroken arch of peaceful blue, with a sun which was sinking down toward the Hampshire hills. Through the deep heather, down the gullies, over the watercourses, up the broken slopes, Pommers flew, his great heart bursting with rage, and every fiber quivering at the indignities which he had endured.

And still, do what he would, the man clung fast to his heaving sides and to his flying mane, silent, motionless, inexorable, letting him do what he would, but fixed as Fate upon his purpose. Over Hankley Down, through Thurstey Marsh, with the reeds up to his mud-splashed withers, onward up the long slope of the Headland of the Hinds, down by the Nutcombe Gorge, slipping, blundering, bounding, but never slackening his fearful speed, on went the great yellow horse. The villagers of Shottermill heard the wild clatter of hoofs, but ere they could swing the ox-hide curtains of their cottage doors horse and rider were lost amid the high bracken of the Haslemere Valley. On he went, and on, tossing the miles behind his flying hoofs. No marshland could clog him, no hill could hold him back. Up the slope of Linchmere and the long ascent of Fernhurst he thundered as on the level, and it was not until he had flown down the incline of Henley Hill, and the gray castle tower of Midhurst rose over the coppice in front, that at last the eager outstretched neck sank a little on the breast, and the breath came quick and fast. Look where he would in woodland and on down, his straining eyes could catch no sign of those plains of freedom which he sought.

And yet another outrage! It was bad that this creature should still cling so tight upon his back, but now he would even go to the intolerable length of checking him and guiding him on the way that he would have him go. There was a sharp pluck at his mouth, and his head was turned north once more. As well go that way as another, but the man was mad indeed if he thought that such a horse as Pommers was at the end of his spirit or his strength. He would soon show him that he was unconquered, if it strained his sinews or broke his heart to do so. Back then he flew up the long, long ascent. Would he ever get to the end of it? Yet he would not own that he could go no farther while the man still kept his grip. He was white with foam and caked with mud. His eyes were gorged with blood, his mouth open and gasping, his nostrils expanded, his coat stark and reeking. On he flew down the long Sunday Hill until he reached the deep Kingsley Marsh at the bottom. No, it was too much! Flesh and blood could go no farther. As he struggled out from the reedy slime with the heavy black mud still clinging to his fetlocks, he at last eased down with sobbing breath and slowed the tumultuous gallop to a canter.

Oh, crowning infamy! Was there no limit to these degradations? He was no longer even to choose his own pace. Since he had chosen to gallop so far at his own will he must now gallop farther still at the will of another. Spur struck home on either flank. A stinging whip-lash fell across his shoulder. He bounded his own height in the air at the pain and the shame of it. Then, forgetting his weary limbs, forgetting his panting, reeking sides, forgetting everything save this intolerable insult and the burning spirit within, he plunged off once more upon his furious gallop. He was out on the heather slopes again and heading for Weydown Common. On he flew and on. But again his brain failed him and again his limbs trembled beneath him, and yet again he strove to ease his pace, only to be driven onward by the cruel spur and the falling lash. He was blind and giddy with fatigue.

He saw no longer where he placed his feet, he cared no longer whither he went, but his one mad longing was to get away from this dreadful thing, this torture which clung to him and would not let him go. Through Thurstey village he passed, his eyes straining in his agony, his heart bursting within him, and he had won his way to the crest of Thurstey Down, still stung forward by stab and blow, when his spirit weakened, his giant strength ebbed out of him, and with one deep sob of agony the yellow horse sank among the heather. So sudden was the fall that Nigel flew forward over his shoulder, and beast and man lay prostrate and gasping while the red rim of the sun sank behind Butser and the first stars gleamed in a violet sky.

The young Squire was the first to recover, and kneeling by the panting, overwrought horse he passed his hand gently over the tangled mane and down the foam-flecked face. The red eye rolled up at him; but it was wonder not hatred, a prayer and not a threat, which he could read in it. As he stroked the reeking muzzle, the horse whinnied gently and thrust his nose into the hollow of his hand. It was enough. It was the end of the contest, the acceptance of new conditions by a chivalrous foe from a chivalrous victor.

"You are my horse, Pommers," Nigel whispered, and he laid his cheek against the craning head. "I know you, Pommers, and you know me, and with the help of Saint Paul we shall teach some other folk to know us both. Now let us walk together as far as this moorland pond, for indeed I wot not whether it is you or I who need the water most."

And so it was that some belated monks of Waverley passing homeward from the outer farms saw a strange sight which they carried on with them so that it reached that very night the ears both of sacrist and of Abbot. For, as they passed through Tilford they had seen horse and man walking side by side and head by head up the manor-house lane. And when they had raised their lanterns on the pair it was none other than the young Squire himself who was leading home, as a shepherd leads a lamb, the fearsome yellow horse of Crooksbury.

CHAPTER IV.

By the date of this chronicle the ascetic sternness of the old Norman castles had been humanized and refined so that the new dwellings of the nobility, if less imposing in appearance, were much more comfortable as places of residence. A gentle race had built their houses rather for peace than for war. He who compares the savage bareness of Pevensey or Guildford with the piled grandeur of Bodmin or Windsor cannot fail to understand the change in manners which they represent.

The earlier castles had a set purpose, for they were built that the invaders might hold down the country; but when the Conquest was once firmly established a castle had lost its meaning save as a refuge from justice or as a centre for civil strife. On the marches of Wales and of Scotland the castle might continue to be a bulwark to the kingdom, and there still grew and flourished; but in all other places they were rather a menace to the King's majesty, and as such were discouraged and destroyed. By the reign of the third Edward the greater part of the old fighting castles had been converted into dwelling-houses or had been ruined in the civil wars, and left where their grim gray bones are still littered upon the brows of our hills. The new buildings were either great country-houses, capable of defence, but mainly residential, or they were manor-houses with no military significance at all.

Such was the Tilford Manor-house where the last survivors of the old and magnificent house of Loring still struggled hard to keep a footing and to hold off the monks and the lawyers from the few acres which were left to them. The mansion was a two-storied one, framed in heavy beams of wood, the interstices filled with rude blocks of stone. An outside staircase led up to several sleeping-rooms above. Below there were only two apartments, the smaller of which was the bower of the aged Lady Ermyntrude. The other was the hall, a very large room, which served as the living-room of the family and as the common dining-room of themselves and of their little group of servants and retainers. The dwellings of these servants, the kitchens, the offices and the stables were all represented by a row of penthouses and sheds behind the main building. Here lived Charles the page, Peter the old falconer, Red Swire who had followed Nigel's grandfather to the Scottish wars, Weathercote the broken minstrel, John the cook, and other survivors of more prosperous days, who still clung to the old house as the barnacles to some wrecked and stranded vessel.

One evening about a week after the breaking of the yellow horse, Nigel and his grandmother sat on either side of the large empty fireplace in this spacious apartment. The supper had been removed, and so had the trestle tables upon which it had been served, so that the room seemed bare and empty. The stone floor was strewed with a thick layer of green rushes, which was swept out every Saturday and carried with it all the dirt and debris of the week. Several dogs were now crouched among these rushes, gnawing and cracking the bones which had been thrown from the table. A long wooden buffet loaded with plates and dishes filled one end of the room, but there was little other furniture save some benches against the walls, two dorseret chairs, one small table littered with chessmen, and a great iron coffer. In one corner was a high wickerwork stand, and on it two stately falcons were perched, silent and motionless, save for an occasional twinkle of their fierce yellow eyes.

But if the actual fittings of the room would have appeared scanty to one who had lived in a more luxurious age, he would have been surprised on looking up to see the multitude of objects which were suspended above his head. Over the fireplace were the coats-of-arms of a number of houses allied by blood or by marriage to the Lorings. The five ermine-spots which flared upon each side gleamed upon the blue lion of the Percies, the red birds of de Valance, the black engrailed cross of de Mohun, the silver star of de Vere, and the ruddy bars of FitzAlan, all grouped round the famous red roses on the silver shield which the Lorings had borne to glory upon many a bloody field. From side to side the room was spanned by heavy oaken beams from which a great number of objects were hanging. There were mail-shirts of obsolete pattern, several shields, one or two rusted and battered helmets, bow-staves, lances, otter-spears, harness, fishing-rods, and other implements of war or of the chase, while higher still amid the black shadows of the peaked roof could be seen rows of hams, flitches of bacon, salted geese, and those other forms of preserved meat which played so great a part in the housekeeping of the Middle Ages.

Dame Ermyntrude Loring, daughter, wife, and mother of warriors, was herself a formidable figure. Tall and gaunt, with hard craggy features and intolerant dark eyes, even her snow-white hair and stooping back could not entirely remove the sense of fear which she inspired in those around her. Her thoughts and memories went back to harsher times, and she looked upon the England around her as a degenerate and effeminate land which had fallen away from the old standard of knightly courtesy and valor.

The rising power of the People, the growing wealth of the Church, the increasing luxury in life and manners, and the gentler tone of the age were all equally abhorrent to her, so that the dread of her fierce face, and even of the heavy oak staff with which she supported her failing limbs, was widespread through all the country round.

Yet if she was feared she was also respected, for in days when books were few and readers scarce, a long memory and a ready tongue were of the more value; and where, save from Dame Ermyntrude, could the young unlettered Squires of Surrey and Hampshire hear of their grandfathers and their battles, or learn that lore of heraldry and chivalry which she handed down from a ruder but a more martial age? Poor as she was, there was no one in Surrey whose guidance would be more readily sought upon a question of precedence or of conduct than the Dame Ermyntrude Loring.

She sat now with bowed back by the empty fireplace, and looked across at Nigel with all the harsh lines of her old ruddled face softening into love and pride. The young Squire was busy cutting bird-bolts for his cross-bow, and whistling softly as he worked. Suddenly he looked up and caught the dark eyes which were fixed upon him. He leaned forward and patted the bony hand.

"What hath pleased you, dear dame? I read pleasure in your eyes."

"I have heard to-day, Nigel, how you came to win that great war-horse which stamps in our stable."

"Nay, dame; I had told you that the monks had given it to me."

"You said so, fair son, but never a word more. Yet the horse which you brought home was a very different horse, I wot, to that which was given you. Why did you not tell me?"

"I should think it shame to talk of such a thing."

"So would your father before you, and his father no less. They would sit silent among the knights when the wine went round and listen to every man's deeds; but if perchance there was anyone who spoke louder than the rest and seemed to be eager for honor, then afterwards your father would pluck him softly by the sleeve and whisper in his ear to learn if there was any small vow of which he could relieve him, or if he would deign to perform some noble deed of arms upon his person. And if the man were a braggart and would go no further, your father would be silent and none would know it. But if he bore himself well, your father would spread his fame far and wide, but never make mention of himself."

Nigel looked at the old woman with shining eyes. "I love to hear you speak of him," said he. "I pray you to tell me once more of the manner of his death."

SCRAPING THE STOMACH

Guelph, Ont., Aug. 6, 1908.

I suffered for many months with dreadful Stomach Trouble, with vomiting and constant pain, and I could retain practically nothing.

My doctor stated that I must go to the Hospital and undergo an operation of scraping the stomach and be fed by the bowels for weeks. All the medicine the doctor gave me I vomited at once. I was dreadfully alarmed, but I dreaded an operation and had refused.

I had heard of "Fruit-a-tives" and the great success they were having in all Stomach Troubles, and I decided to try them. To my surprise, the "Fruit-a-tives" not only remained on the stomach, but they also checked the vomiting. I immediately began to improve, and in three days the pain was easier and I was decidedly better. I continued to take "Fruit-a-tives" and they completely cured me.

Mrs. Austin Hainstock.

"Fruit-a-tives" are 50c a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, trial box 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ANAEMIA
Pale Cheeks, Bad Color

Chlorosis or anaemia is simply thinness of blood.

If confined too much indoors, anaemia develops, because the lungs are insufficiently supplied with oxygen, and the blood is consequently ill-nourished and half-starved.

But there is a cure.

Dr. Hamilton has solved the problem in his famous pills of Mandrake and Butternut, as a blood enricher their equal is not known.

All the functions upon which life depends are helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Richness and purity are instilled with wonderful promptness into the vital fluid. Healthy color supplants that pallid, ashen face. Better appetite, strong digestion, and dreamless sleep are sure to follow, because of the increased blood supply furnished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

That is another strong point about a "Pease." There is absolutely no dust-nuisance in the cellar when you shake it, because the large dust-flue takes it up into the Combustion Chamber. Here in the air-tight—because all Mechanical joints are "ring" joints, and the cement line in the "ring"—as the cement cannot fall away, all perpendicular joints are riveted steel plates.

A VISIT TO GUELPH COLLEGE

From Farm and Dairy.

"Farming, as generally practised, is neither scientific nor is it business," said Prof. J. B. Reynolds to a representative of Farm and Dairy who visited the Ontario Agricultural College recently. "This is the situation in spite of all teaching through various mediums, including the agricultural press. Investments in modern labor saving implements and in drainage will pay dividends. Drainage is far from as common as it should be. Many seem afraid to invest their capital in their own business. I know of cases where farmers are buying lots in the city and building on them instead of putting their money into their own business. No successful manufacturer would do that sort of thing."

SOME SHADOW AND SOME CURTAIN

Prof. W. H. Day, who is at the head of the department that has charge of the drainage survey work that is being conducted on Ontario farms, said, "This spring has been an eye opener to those farmers who work undrained land. Farms that are drained are farther advanced with their seeding than those that are not drained. Once we get examples of the advantages of underdraining in a neighborhood the work soon grows." The professor informed us that already he had four men on drainage survey work but he could employ as many more. A larger appropriation would be needed for this work next year. As many as 10 applications have been received in a day this spring. More applications for survey work are already in than were received during the whole of last year. In all probability the department will not be able to do more work this year than is covered by the applications already filed.

MONEY IN DRAINAGE

"Money talks in drainage as well as elsewhere," continued the professor. Referring to the article published in the May 13th issue of Farm and Dairy, the professor pointed out that of the three examples quoted of the returns from underdraining, the lowest was over 50 per cent. for the first year. In the second example given, over 100 per cent. was realised, and in the other several hundred per cent. "The chief difficulty in installing underdrains is the labor problem. The ditching machine is solving this question. We want about a dozen of these machines in Ontario during the present year." Prof. Day's brother has purchased a ditching machine and is giving his entire time to its operation.

PROFITS IN BROILERS

Over 200 broilers have been placed on the market this spring from the poultry department of the College. They realised from 40 to 45 cents a pound. Their average weight was two pounds. Prof. W. R. Graham stated that there was a profit of about 25 cents a piece on each broiler in spite of the fact that they had been hatched by Short Course Students who had never operated machines before.

ORCHARD SURVEY WORK

A new departure is being made by the Horticultural Department of the College. Two men are now in the Lake Huron district of Ontario on orchard survey work. These men are making an orchard and an agricultural survey of the district with a view to finding out the present conditions of agriculture, especially in reference to fruit growing, and to determine the possibilities of that section. The idea of such work originated in New York state five years ago. Similar work has been carried on also in the states of Oregon and Washington. Valuable, accurate statistics of fruit growing were obtained by means of these surveys. The idea of the work is to find out the areas devoted to fruit growing, the number of acres, varieties of fruit, number of trees of different kinds, production, prices and methods of selling. In the work now being done in Ontario, accurate statistical information is not being aimed at. The idea is more to get information that can be used to help farmers in that section of the country and to find out the possibilities of agriculture in particular sections in order that Government aid to agriculture may be wisely directed.

The College and its campus are in all the glory of their spring garb. While the crops on the farm and on the experimental plots were more or less backward, in keeping with the season, still they compare very favorably with those in other districts of Ontario. Much of interest and of instructive value awaits the excursionist when he visits the College this month.

CAREFUL HORSE BREEDING PAYS

From Farm and Dairy.

Certain counties are noted for the superior quality of their draught horses. They include Ontario, Huron and Perth. This is the result of careful and intelligent breeding. Pure bred sires, that were sound and of good weight and quality have been used for the last forty years. The farmers of these sections are now reaping the reward of the intelligence and forethought they have put into business. Dealers who purchase horses by the carload, know that they can secure the right kind in large numbers in these counties and they are willing to pay a higher price for them than where the distance to be travelled in their assembling [illegible] less freight thereon.

The [illegible] quality of the stock that has been bred in the [illegible] is the result of careful [illegible] The farmers, also, for the most part have been consistent in their chosen line of breeding. They have stayed with the Clydes through all these years and the result is that many of the mares are registered and bring an enhanced price for breeding purposes.

This is in marked contrast with some other sections where a look at the average horses of the neighborhood will reveal to the expert judge a mixture of nearly all the known breeds that go to produce the general purpose horse. Although a very useful animal for such work, the general purpose horse seldom brings a fancy price on account of the market being overstocked with them.

The chief mistake that is made consists in raising a filly from a sire of one breed and then using the sire of another breed on that filly. When such a course of breeding is followed, little is accomplished.

THE SPRING'S LESSON

From Farm and Dairy.

Grain crops sown as late as the first week in June, have been known to mature. Those so situated that they were forced to sow in June deserve sympathy. Not in years have the beneficial results of under-drainage been so apparent as during the past few weeks. In many districts seeding was far from completed by the end of May. Indeed, the situation in some localities, and in isolated places, was such, it was doubtful if seeding could be completed by the first week in June, if at all. It is in times such as we have just come through that we are forced to take notice of the advantages of drainage. Professor Wm. H. Day, who has charge of the drainage survey work conducted by the Ontario Agricultural College, informed us recently that the fringe only of drainage work in Ontario had been touched. Far more is yet to be, than has been done.

Many drains established in olden times are lacking in efficiency. Tile of small diameter was largely used and many drains are too shallow. Deeper drainage is now being advocated. Men of practical experience are coming forward in favor of the deeper drains. Mr. Jas. Marshall, of Wentworth Co., Ontario, has put in upwards of 100,000 tile during the past twenty years. He says, "put the drains in three feet deep or over, even in heavy clay." Commenting upon his experience, Mr. Marshall says, like many others, "that his only regret in regard to underdrainage is that he has not done more."

From the great number of applications for survey work being received by the Physical Department of the College, from Ontario farmers, it is clear that our farmers are becoming more and more alert to the advantages of under-drainage. It is but fair to hope that within the next few years, a repetition of the conditions that prevail this spring will not find our farmers generally so wholly unprepared to meet them.

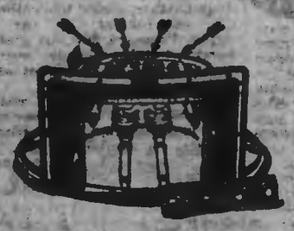
A Settin' Hen.

From Farm and Dairy.

When a hen is bound to set,
Seems as though 'twint stikat
Downin' her in water till
She's connected with a chill,
Seems as though 'twas akuralay right
Givin' her a dreadful fright,
Tyin' rags around her tail,
Poundin' on an old tin pail,
Chasin' her around the yard.
Seems as though 'twas kinder hard
Bein' kicked and slammed and shooed
'Cause she wants to raise a brood.
I ab'd say it's gettin' gay,
Just 'cause natur' wants its way
While ago my neighbor Penn
Started bustin' up a hen,
Went to yank her off the nest,
Hen, though, made a peck and jest
Grabbed his thumbnail good and stout,
Liked to yank the dum thing out.
Penn, he twitched away and then
Tried again to grab the hen,
But, by ginger, she had spunk,
'Cause she took and nipped a chunk
Big's a bean right out his palm;
Swallowed it, and cool and calm
Histed up and yelled, 'Cah-dah.'
Sounded like she said, 'Hoo-rah!'
Waal, sir, when that hen done that
Penn he bowed, took off his hat.
Spunk just suits him, you can bet—
'Gee,' says he, 'darn yo, suh!'

The Hecla Furnace

These Grate Bars Clean Your Fire Without A Poker



Because each of these four Grate Bars can be shaken separately. When the outer edge of a fire is dead, shake only the outer grate bars. When the outer edge needs a hard shaking, and the center only a few twists, you can clean each part of the fire of all the ashes and clinkers, without turning good coal down into the ash pan. This saves the fire—saves coal—saves sifting ashes—and, of course, one grate is much easier to turn than four geared together.

"Hecla" Individual Grate Bar is only one of a score of improvements possessed by this furnace alone.

The "Hecla" Fused Joints, for instance, insure the Furnace being dust, smoke and gas proof. The joints are fused, making them solid and absolutely airtight.

IT PAYS TO TEST COWS

From Farm and Dairy.

Now that the factory season is getting into full swing, farmers are wondering how the cows will do this year. Cows are expected to make some profit. Great expectations are not always realised, and if pasture is poor, how is the milk flow to be kept up. Happy the man who has provided for a supply of green feed, and who has a silo for summer feeding.

Some check should be kept on the yield of each cow. If the milk is weighed on only three days a month and samples tested once a month, then the owner will know very closely which are the heaviest producers. If weights are taken at every milking any sudden variation will be immediately observed, steps can then be taken to remove the cause.

If a record is kept of the feed, the most profitable cows can be detected, and some that might produce more if fed better will be given the opportunity.

This is what members of the cow testing associations are doing, studying each individual in the herd so as to make sure that each single cow kept gives a profit. This is evidence of good business management. No one wants to harbour a cow that is incapable of making a good profit. Does each one of your cows pay? Do you know that she does? Guess work won't do these days.

Record blanks are supplied free on application to the Dairy Commissioned, Ottawa. Many men since commencing to record are now receiving $60 a cow when they used to get but $40, because they know which are the economical producers. It certainly does pay to test cows.—C.F.W.

VARICOCELE CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month of treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before I took treatment, now I am earning $25 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers know of your valuable treatment.

WOULD YOU CONVICT ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE?

A TANGLED CASE

A TRUE STORY

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

ARTHUR C. TRAIN, formerly Assistant District Attorney of New York county, says:—"It is often said that circumstantial evidence is better than direct, since, while a witness may forget or commit perjury, 'circumstances cannot lie.' Any such distinction is, however, entirely artificial. There is no essential difference, so far as reliability is concerned, between direct and circumstantial evidence, since all evidence depends upon the truthfulness and recollection of witnesses.

"The 'circumstances' don't lie, but perhaps the witness who testifies about them does. He is just as apt to be in error in regard to the shape and direction of footprints as he would be in describing the appearance and actions of the burglar who made them.

"The value of all evidence depends upon the original capacity of the witness to observe, his ability to recollect accurately what he has seen, and finally upon his power to express correctly what he recollects. In these respects there is no difference between witnesses who testify to circumstances and those who testify directly from observation.

"In my opinion there is no possibility of innocent men being convicted of crime in New York city unless the defendant be an exsophist who refrains from putting in any defence to the charge against him in order to avoid having his record brought out on cross-examination."

"STANDING in the southeast corner of the squire's field, where the thyme grows quickly, the sun being then beyond meridian, wind northwest by west, clear weather, I saw a magpie fly twice across the road, from which I argue disaster upon various and sundry; and I bid them beware."

It was only old Singleton, the weaver, and the townsfolk who heard him muttering his nebulous prophecies as he walked the village street passed with a smile or turned again to their domestic tasks with the remark that Jonas went madder every day. Two hours later the luckless star gazer was back again, mouthing a new formula as he paced along.

"Strolling by the mill stream, below the copse, where the water whirls, the weather being overcast and with promise of a southeast storm, I saw the body of the miller, John Smith. Let those who put him there take counsel how they will explain it."

It was seldom that any one paid serious attention to Jonas Singleton and his hallucinations, and the man had repeated these phrases perhaps a hundred times before a passerby caught a glint of significance in them. It so chanced that this one was Thomas Merkle, clerk and assistant to the neighboring magistrate. He took the more interest in the rambling speech from the fact that the authorities were just then greatly agitated over a series of strange mysteries, among them the disappearance of John Smith.

It occurred to him that the eye of the law was not above examining into the sayings of the mentally deranged and, he decided to investigate. He quickly obtained the assistance of several of the villagers and a small searching party started toward the mill stream in the direction indicated by the mad weaver.

"Here is a pretty business," grumbled the wheelwright, as he tramped unwillingly along, "to take the word of moonraking Singleton as if it had been the saying of a man in his proper wits. A waste of a good half hour over foolishness, young man. More than the empty brain of Jonas is needed to come to end the queer doings of the last week."

"You forget that it is our simple duty to let no suggestion pass, however it may be made," said Merkle in answer. "Here is the fourth day that three of the townspeople have been gone from among us, leaving neither sign nor message, it may be that Jonas, the unfortunate, has come upon something in the course of his wanderings that bears upon the case. He is continually at large, spending his days to no man's damage in the fields and picking up odds and ends of happenings which he weaves into prophecies. But he never uses his imagination for the beginning of his fantastic tales, and any one may see that he notes the weather like an almanac."

"Ay," said the wheelwright, noncommittal, "he knows the weather."

The men made their way in single file along the mill pond until they reached the plank that bridged the stream near the miller's home, where several of them crossed to proceed along the path that followed the opposite bank. In truth they had little hope of any discovery. The stream had been regarded as the place where Smith's body probably would be found on the day he was missed and had been covered carefully from end to end. At the point where the race branched from the river, half a mile above, stood the cottage from which the miller had started for his home after a short visit on the evening of November 6. He had walked down, following the path at the verge of the running water, and had never reached his destination. It was now November 11.

The Body of John Smith.

The searchers explored the edge of the stream on both sides, beating among the underbrush and trailing vines, according to Merkle's directions. They had made half way to the river when they came to a point where a twist in the course had aided an eddy to fashion a shallow cove. It was here that they came upon the verification of the weaver's statement—the body of John Smith.

It had been forced into the shallows by the current and lay wedged among the rocks on its back. Apparently the man had been dead the full four days of his disappearance. After they had lifted and dragged it to the path with some difficulty Merkle made a hasty examination for superficial evidences of possible violence, and was more interested than surprised to note that both temples had been battered in, evidently with a rough cudgel. One of the party was sent ahead to notify the magistrate, the coroner and other authorities, while Merkle superintended the removal of the body on a rude stretcher to a room below the town hall.

The news that Smith had been found, and that he had been the victim of murder, brought to boiling point the excitement that had wrought up the village. On the day of the night that blotted John Smith from the community the alarm had also been spread for William Naylor, a young man of some landed property, son of a respectable widow who kept an inn. These two figures were more or less prominent, their absence being the more readily remarked. But public attention having been turned to the search for missing persons, it had developed that Will Crooks, a notorious poacher and dissolute character, had also disappeared on the night of November 7.

For three individuals among whom there appeared to be no essential relation to drop simultaneously from a group numbering less than three hundred souls, a peaceful agricultural hamlet, was enough to make simple folk think upon visitations of evil spirits and betake themselves to pious preparations. While the actual establishing of the fact that the miller was dead aided somewhat in clearing the situation it also served to intensify the tragic element in the cases of the these two.

CROOKS, A ROUGH AND VIOLENT VAGABOND, WAS DEEPLY AFFECTED BY HER EMOTION.

Thomas Merkle, through natural gifts and bent of mind, as well as through his well defined ambition to attain the position of prosecuting attorney, delighted in the unwinding of intricate affairs and applied himself to the extraordinary matter with enthusiasm. He sensed therein an opportunity for advancement by the exercise of the powers of discernment which he believed he possessed and caused the magistrate to depute to him all necessary powers of investigation. With the murder as a point of departure he now began the assembling of his attendant circumstances.

He found an opportunity to visit the miller's home during the absence of Margaret Smith, the handsome niece of John Smith and his housekeeper. The young man decided that the servants would be more willing to communicate details of domestic history than a relative, and he applied first to the maid, Susan, questioning her as to events on the night of November 7. She said, what he already knew, that the miller had gone out with his niece to visit the cottage on the river occupied by John Wilkinson. He was the owner of the place, and Wilkinson's rent was due. That was about seven o'clock in the evening, she said.

"It must have been after nine when Miss Margaret came in alone. She asked me first if I had seen her uncle. I had been sitting on the porch and the master had not come in, as I told her. There had been no one about except a young man, who came along the mill pond and crossed the plank bridge, going on up the path. I could not recognise him for the darkness. She said she had met nobody on the path. She seemed to be excited, her cheeks were flushed and her breath came fast, but I did not notice that she seemed much surprised when I said her uncle had not come in. We sat together for near half an hour, when we heard steps coming from the direction of the bridge.

"'That is not the master,' I said.

"'No,' she answered, 'that is Richard Bracewell.' She must have had wonderful sight to know him, for it was black night."

"Did she mean Richard Bracewell, the young attorney?" asked Merkle.

Forbidden the House.

"Yes," answered Susan. "He has been waiting upon her for a year. The master did not approve of it, and but a week before I heard him declare roundly that Richard Bracewell should never again come courting at his house."

"Did Miss Margaret favor him?"

"Ay, did she. After the master forbade him to come still he came at late hours and sat with her. She was fair angry at master and gave it to him strong for interfering. There was little love lost between master and mistress after that."

"What happened after you heard the steps?"

"Richard Bracewell walked in and I went out the same instant. He looked as if he had been drinking a little, flushed like. When I came back half an hour later he was gone. Mistress asked me if I had met him on the way. I said no; what way did he take? She said he had crossed the bridge to look for master. And that was strange, too, for that was just where I had been and I must have seen him if he took the mill stream path."

In spite of the lurking ill will of the maid against her mistress, evident in her story, the investigator found many points of value in it. Inquiries among the townfolk verified the statement that Richard Bracewell had been very attentive to Margaret Smith for some time. He lived with his father, Stephen Bracewell, also an attorney, about a mile out of town, and gossip had been busy with his love for a girl who was considered by the neighbors as far beneath him in rank. Her uncle, however, had opposed the match from opposite reasons. He held that the young man was without prospects and that Margaret should never wed with any but a solid householder.

Merkle knew the young woman slightly. She was spirited and intelligent, sturdily built and an excellent housekeeper. Perhaps Smith's unwillingness to lose one who managed domestic affairs with such marked success had played a part in his resentment against Bracewell. She had profited by some opportunities as a child to obtain an education most unusual in that part of the country, and her beauty, of a wild and striking type, had become almost a matter for local pride. She had never commented to any one, so far as he could discover, concerning her uncle's ban upon her continued relations with Bracewell. But from his knowledge of her character Merkle thought it likely, as Susan had suggested, that she had not taken it meekly.

He awaited the return of Margaret Smith that afternoon. He could not approach her as a friend or in any capacity other than his official one. After introducing himself he formally asked permission to question her as to the facts surrounding the death of her uncle. She answered him coldly, but said that she was ready to give the authorities any information in her power, adding that since he had the right she hoped he would complete the examination at once.

He asked her to relate the circumstances of the visit at Wilkinson's. She said that they had been at the cottage about an hour. Her uncle had drunk several pints of ale and the result had been to stir up the ill feeling which, she admitted, he recently had held against her.

"It is not well to speak in any way ill of the dead, and, indeed, I was fond of my uncle and grateful for his care of me these years," she declared. "But there had come a strangeness between us on account of a certain preference of mine. He was never long in temper, and at times was quarrelsome, particularly when he had taken liquor. I held my hand on his arm as we started back along the path, but presently he threw it off with a sharp word and walked ahead of me toward home. It was a misty evening and I lost sight of him. When I reached here he had not come. That is all I know of what happened."

Merkle did not press her, desiring to proceed cautiously in a case that presented so many startling possibilities. He abandoned this line of investigation for the time being and turned his attention to tracing the movements of Richard Bracewell and his connection with the miller and the two missing men.

The Case of Will Crooks.

Will Crooks was a son of Old Nell Crooks, keeper of a questionable resort on the outskirts frequented by the vagabonds and shady characters of the neighborhood. He lived with his mother, his brother Ned and his sister, Young Nell. This family, as Merkle learned, had maintained a kind of petty feud against the miller, the outgrowth of numerous raids upon his poultry and garden, and had frequently spoken ill of him. Smith had finally threatened prosecution, it appeared, and about three days before the day of his disappearance Young Nell had come to the mill to plead for her brothers and beg him to drop the case. He had refused and she had gone away in a temper, with threats. This was useful information, serving, as it did, to connect the absence of Will Crooks with the death of Smith. The young investigator then set himself to discover whether there had been any intimacy between this family and Bracewell or Naylor.

He was immediately successful in one particular which apparently carried him forward but which, at the same time, added another thread in the twisted, knotted problem he had undertaken to straighten. He found that Naylor had been too frequently at the Crooks house. The idle fellow, having plenty of pocket money and no employment, had fallen upon evil habits, in which, according to common report, he was initiated and encouraged by Ned and Will Crooks. He had been much in their company and they were believed to have obtained large sums from him at dice. While this fact had small instant bearing upon the death of Smith, it led Merkle to the Black Dog Tavern, which was pointed out to him as the place where Naylor and the Crooks boys had spent many an uproarious evening.

He found the proprietor amenable to the subtle pressure of an official inquiry and made headway at once. On the afternoon of November 7 Will Crooks and Naylor had spent several hours in the tavern. At nightfall, somewhat unsteadily, they had gone out together. About eight o'clock Will Crooks had returned alone. A few minutes later he had been joined by Richard Bracewell. They had sat in a corner over pints and had talked earnestly in whispers for some minutes, after which they had gone out. The proprietor recalled that Crooks had carried a heavy stick or cane. The significance of this narrative was increased by the fact that the innkeeper had never seen Bracewell in his place before, and never before had seen him in converse with either of the Crooks. Merkle felt justified in feeling that a meeting between the young attorney and the disreputable Will Crooks at such a time and place was highly suspicious. When their reasons for common hatred of the miller were considered the case had taken definite form.

In pursuing his inquiry the clerk established another circumstance which, when taken in conjunction with the testimony which the maid, Susan, had given, promised additional strength to the evidence. He found three young farmers who had been on the mill stream path between half-past eight and half-past nine on the evening of the 7th. They had been walking down toward the village, but had struck off into a side path before reaching the mill. They had heard a muffled cry when they were passing a point about a hundred yards beyond where Smith's body was found and had turned back. Seeing no one and hearing nothing further they had attributed the sound to some animal and proceeded. Another witness, a belated angler, swore to having seen Richard Bracewell in the path some time between eight and ten o'clock. He could not place the time exactly.

Merkle laid the sum of his discoveries before the magistrate, who immediately authorized a warrant for the arrest of Richard Bracewell. Then came the climax to the puzzle, for when the clerk, accompanied by the constable, visited the Bracewell home he was met by the information that the young attorney had not been there since early on the morning of November 8.

The villagers were familiar with the weight of appearance against the suspected individuals. Sentiment had ranged high since the discovery of Smith's body, and with the announcement that Margaret Smith's lover, wanted for complicity in the murder, had fled there was a demonstration against the young woman that forced her to leave the mill house secretly and at night. The fact that she took refuge with Stephen Bracewell did not tend to still the clamor.

Getting the Case Tangled.

Merkle was in conference with the magistrate on the afternoon of November 14 when the town constable hurried in with word that Richard Bracewell had been seen in the street and that Will Crooks also had returned. The clerk, armed with his warrants and followed by the constable, started for the home of the Crooks. Just as they approached the house they saw that the young attorney was preceding them, and when they reached the door Will Crooks was just coming out. The two officials were thus witnesses to a remarkable scene.

"Look here, Crooks," said Bracewell, "once for all, what have you done with young Naylor?"

"With Naylor?" asked Crooks, significantly emphasizing the name. "Come, here's a pretty question. 'Twould be best for you, Master Bracewell, if you kept quiet with your questions about missing folk. Happen your own business is dark enough."

He nodded at the clerk and the constable. Bracewell started back and paled, while Crooks leered meaningly. Merkle stepped forward.

"I hold warrants for the both of you for complicity in the murder of John Smith," he announced. "you had better come quietly."

Crooks showed no concern at this sudden turn, but Bracewell was not made of such tough fibre. On the way to the jail the prisoners were surrounded by a crowd of the townspeople, who jeered and threatened them. The young attorney drew back in alarm at the show of public feeling, crying upon Merkle to protect him.

"It's not them you have to fear," was the clerk's response, "so much as certain explanations you will be called upon to make."

"Then God help me if my judges are as ravening after me as these," said Bracewell. Suddenly he turned with an anxious question:—

"Are there any others wanted in this affair?"

"Now, what makes you think of that?" asked Merkle curiously.

"No, but are there?"

"I hold a warrant for the arrest of Margaret Smith," said the clerk, watching the man keenly. The result of the words was to crush the young attorney completely. He had to be supported by the constable during the rest of the journey. Margaret Smith was arrested at the Bracewell home that night. With Richard Bracewell and Will Crooks she was committed to stand trial at the York Assizes.

But one more piece of evidence was discovered by Merkle before the case was transferred to court. The weakest point for the prosecution was the difficulty in establishing that Bracewell had been upon the mill stream path on the night of November 7. This was greatly strengthened by the additional testimony of a servant of John Wilkinson, who swore to having seen him near the spot where the body was found not long after nine o'clock. Stringent measures were taken to find William Naylor, whose part in the affair remained an unlighted mystery, but the authorities went before the jury confident of obtaining a conviction on what Merkle had unearthed.

It was the last day of the trial. The prosecution had completed its plea, as had the defence, which Richard Bracewell conducted for himself and Margaret Smith. The court had been called after the midday adjournment. The judge had begun his summary of the evidence when one of the assistants to the prosecuting attorney hurried into the room and begged for permission to lay fresh evidence before the jury. His request was granted, and he read the following statement:—

"I, William Crooks, do solemnly swear that on the evening of November 7 last I met the prisoner, Richard Bracewell, by appointment at the Black Dog. I had a bludgeon with me, and, after we had drunk several pints of ale, we set out to waylay the deceased, John Smith, near the copse. As the deceased was coming down the field Bracewell whispered to me, 'The old villain has his niece with him.' But the niece stayed behind as her uncle approached the copse. It was a little after nine o'clock. We let him go past the copse a little way and then Bracewell said to me, 'Now's your time, Crooks!' I then went after the miller, but Bracewell kept concealed in the copse. I struck the deceased twice on the head with the bludgeon, then drew the body to the mill stream and pushed it in. I then went into the copse. In a few minutes Bracewell and I came out of the copse and drew the body down to the shady place where it was found. Bracewell promised me good pay, and soon afterward we separated. This, I solemnly declare, is the whole truth of the way in which the miller met his death.

"Signed, WILLIAM CROOKS, (X) his mark.

"In presence of William Bailey, Barrister; Samuel Knubbs, Jailer."

The Verdict.

This confession made a great stir in the court room and finally was admitted after its authenticity had been verified by Crooks himself. He said he had nothing more to add to it. The jury was then charged. After being out about five hours it returned with this verdict:—"We find the prisoners Richard Bracewell and William Crooks guilty of wilful murder; the prisoner Margaret Smith, not guilty."

* * * * * * *

Several attempts were made during the time intervening before execution to obtain a new trial, at least for Bracewell, but without success. Stephen Bracewell and Margaret Smith appealed to every one who might be supposed to have influence or to know of a way in which a reprieve could be had. On the eve of the day during which the two men were to be hanged they visited Will Crooks in his cell.

The aged man and the young girl were accompanied by the chaplain, and they made a last pitiful appeal to the condemned man that if he had anything more to say in regard to the case he should confess now, before it was too late to use it in checking the operations of justice. Margaret Smith fell upon her knees at his side and took his hand, declaring her love for Richard Bracewell and begging him to tell her anything that might aid in saving the young attorney. Crooks, a rough and violent vagabond, was deeply affected by her emotion.

"Wait, wait," was his answer to her plea. "Give me time; give a man time."

But she pointed out that to give him time was to take away her lover's last chance of life.

"I can see that you have held back something," she said, "and indeed I know that Richard was never the guilty man. Why should you drag him with you. If you are the one who took my uncle from me?"

She was watching him intently as she spoke and something in his face led her to make the winning move.

"Do you know," she said softly, "I would stake my own life upon it that even you, who made that confession, had no hand in my uncle's death. Tell me if I have not guessed it."

And then William Crooks yielded. He asked for pen and paper, and the jailer to take down his final statement. He dictated as follows:—

"Every word in my former confession is false, except that Richard Bracewell met me at the Black Dog on November 7 last. He came to inquire after Naylor. I was drinking with Naylor all day on the 7th. He had plenty of money and he told me he meant to leave the country. He got very drunk toward evening and said he would go to see my sister Nell and bid her goodby. I took him into the cowhouse in the bridge field and there struck him one heavy blow on the head with a short bludgeon. He groaned and fell dead on the spot. I dragged his body to the river below the mill and pushed it in. I solemnly declare that Richard Bracewell never plotted with me against any man's life; but that all he ever had to do with me was to ask me about William Naylor. I state this for truth, as I hope God will have mercy on my miserable soul."

It was midnight when old Stephen Bracewell, twenty years younger by reason of excitement and hope, succeeded in obtaining access to the sheriff and the presiding judge. The retracting confession was not deemed important enough to delay the execution of Crooks, but an order reprieving Richard Bracewell was signed and delivered. Crooks was hanged at the appointed time.

A hard, uphill fight to substantiate the last statement of the poacher now confronted the remaining prisoner, but he had not been at work upon his case three days when his efforts were terminated in a most unexpected and surprising way. William Naylor, so long missing and given up for dead after Crooks' confession, walked into the village, most undeniably alive and well. He was summoned before the magistrate and was able to clear the whole troublesome maze.

"I had been drinking for weeks," he said. "Richard Bracewell had refused to pay me money in advance on my property. I took a considerable sum of money from the till of my mother's inn, intending to pay it back. I was drinking with Will Crooks at the Black Dog all day on November 7, and went out with him at nightfall. We quarrelled about something. I remember a heavy blow on my head that made fire flash all around me. When I came to myself I was struggling in the river. I managed to get to shore and considered that this was a good opportunity to leave the country. I walked by the mill, crossed the plank bridge and started for the copse, intending to sleep there over night. I heard some one coming and hid in the bushes. It was the miller, John Smith, and just as he passed me he staggered off the path and fell into the stream. I crawled down the bank to look for him, but could not find him, and thought he must have got out on the other side. Then I slept in the copse and next morning I started for Liverpool, where I have been ever since."

This explanation settled all the doubtful points and verified Richard Bracewell's defence in every particular. He was man of business for Naylor's mother and, at her request, had gone to look for her son after he had robbed the till. He had sought out William Crooks as the likeliest person to apply to and had met him at the Black Dog. Obtaining no clew to the young man's whereabouts he had called at the mill and learned of the miller's disappearance. He had gone a little way up the mill stream, where he was seen by the witnesses, and had then returned to his home. Early next morning he had started for Burnley, where Naylor had relatives, to pursue his search for that young scapegrace. He had not returned from his unsuccessful task until November 14. When he returned his arrest came as a complete surprise, as he had not heard of the finding of the miller's body.

Thus, though the case had resulted in one execution and very nearly a second, there had been no murder. The miller's death had been accidental, the bruises having been caused by the rocks and the swift current.

Richard Bracewell and Margaret Smith were married about two months after the former's release.

WARNING TO MOTORISTS

(Toronto Saturday Night)

Take warning, ye motorists. Get over the excessive speed habit. Be alive to the rights of the other fellow. Put yourself in the place of the farmer for a few moments. Look the problem square in the face from his viewpoint, and then see if you do not curse the automobile speed fiend, as the farmer now curses him. There are several things which the auto driver journeying into the country should remember. The farmer is a powerful factor in this land, and once he gets his mind thoroughly imbued with the idea that the average motorist doesn't care a tinker whether he drives over him or not, it's going hard with the auto man. Then again, think of the timid women and the babies met with continually on the highways. A good half of the horses behind which they drive are as yet unaccustomed to the automobile. The beasts back, plunge, kick, and tear around as if possessed whenever an auto comes in sight. In all fairness there is but one thing to do in such a case, and that is STOP. Give the farmer's wife and baby a chance. If necessary, lead the beast past the machine. Let him see it. Don't whip him and the next time he meets an auto the probabilities are that the horse will behave himself. The farmer will thank you for the trifling courtesy, and everyone will feel better. It may interfere somewhat with your record between points, but what of that? You are out for pleasure and a few minutes more or less will not inconvenience you in the day's run. A little care will make the farmer your friend, and remember you need him far more than he needs you.

WILD ELEPHANTS.

A Herd's Successful Raid on a Granary in Ceylon.

Some soldiers stationed at an outpost in Ceylon, says a Colombo paper, to protect a granary containing a large quantity of rice were sent off a few miles to quiet some unruly villagers, only two of the party remaining behind. No sooner had the soldiers departed than a herd of wild elephants, which had long been wandering about the neighborhood, appeared in front of the granary. Its walls were of solid brickwork, very thick, and the only opening into the building was in the center of the roof, which was reached by a ladder. On the approach of the elephants the two men clambered up into a lofty banyan tree to escape injury. Screened by the thick foliage, though unseen by the elephants, they easily saw all that went on below. The sagacious animals began operations at the corners of the building. Two powerful elephants, after putting forth every effort, but in vain, to make an impression on the building, were forced to retire exhausted. A third came forward, and, applying his tusks as levers, he at length succeeded in dislodging a single brick. An opening once made, others of the herd advanced, and soon an entrance was obtained sufficiently large to admit them. As the whole company could not be accommodated at once, they divided into small groups of three or four. After satisfying themselves they retired and gave place to others until the whole herd, upward of twenty, had made a full meal. By this time a shrill sound was heard from one of the elephants, and those still in the granary rushed out and joined their companions. One of the first divisions, after leaving the building, had acted as sentinel while the others were taking their turn. He had perceived the troops returning from the village and gave the signal for retreat, when the whole herd, flourishing their trunks, moved rapidly into the jungle.

The soldiers found the animals had devoured the greater part of the rice. A ball from a fieldpiece was discharged at them in their retreat, but they only wagged their tails as if in mockery and were soon hidden in the recesses of their native forests.

ASTHMA

Mrs. Farndel of Clementsport, N. S., Suffered All Her Life From Asthma, But Was Permanently Cured by Catarrhozone After All Other Means Failed.

Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma, and hopes that many will follow her example and use Catarrhozone:—

"I am now in my eightieth year, and cannot recall the time when I was free from asthma. I had always a choking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhozone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave relief in five minutes, and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhozone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used I was completely cured. I am as free now from asthma as if I never had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. I prize my Catarrhozone inhaler next to life itself."

HOW FUTURE WARFARE WILL BE FOUGHT IN AIR NEW METHODS IN SIGHT

Searchlights to be Used as Weapons Against the Cruisers of the Air Which Would be Immune From Ordinary Artillery--Airships, Balloons, Stilts, Observation Towers and Other Methods are to be Brought Into Force.

Just as to-day we read Roman history and try to construct before our mind's eye a battlefield without rifles, cannon, powder and shot, so will the student of the future struggle to imagine what the antiquated methods of Gettysburg, Sedan and even Port Arthur must have been like. The gulf that separates us from Pharsalia or Philippi and makes it a labour of the imagination to reconstruct them is hardly greater than that which will separate this student from Gravelotte and Santiago.

This may be taken for a commonplace; but the startling thing about it is that this gulf will be dug within a very few years if the tendencies of 1909 continue, and that this student, striving to reconstruct these battles, may be a half-grown boy now attending school.

Within a very few years it is now certain war will have taken on these changes or more:

War by airship.
War by balloon.
War on stilts.
War by automobile
War with noiseless and smokeless guns.
War by searchlight — searchlight used virtually as a weapon.
War with observation towers eliminated and replaced with ladders substituted.

And if these are the revolutions effected with 1909 in its third month, who can prefigure the other revolutions to be effected before the year is out and within the years immediately to follow:

The whole face of war will change, No one can imagine what the next "improvement" will be.

Within the last year war by airship was still so much a thing of the future that H. G. Wells indulged his fantastic imagination in a story depicting it as it might some day be. But already war by airship is a thing of such present importance and such sober fact that the Krupps have designed a gun for the special purpose of destroying airships.

War By Balloon Certain.

War by balloon is so much an actuality that the Krupps have designed a special form of shell for the destruction of balloons.

War on stilts has progressed so far that in France one regiment has already been trained to their use.

War by searchlight has been taken so seriously that Austria is to-day outfitting troops with them.

War by automobile has reached the point at which Great Britain only recently conducted a military manoeuvre at Hastings with 500 automobiles.

The new observation waggons have been tested by Great Britain, and the revolution in military observation has already been effected, so far as that country is concerned.

The British Army is now engaged actively in grappling with the problem of war by airship, and has recently had a conference with the Wright Brothers on the subject.

The expectation in British army circles is that the airships will be used chiefly for night warfare. The use of searchlights as a means of defence is under consideration. The idea is, as soon as the airships are described hovering over a beleaguered city or camp, to turn upon them an immense number of searchlights, concentrating a tremendous sheet of light upon the enemy's ships.

This use of the searchlight would not be for the purpose of showing the enemy's position in the air, but would be actually the use of searchlights as a weapon—a disabling weapon. The object would be to paralyze the enemy by throwing into his eyes such a glare that his navigators and bomb throwers—the word "gunners" would be obsolete in such a connection—would be blinded, and he would have to retreat through the air to avoid destruction.

Destruction by what? By little aeroplanes, torpedoboats of the air, which would be sent after him, and which would be the only practicable means of attack upon airships or balloons.

Cruisers of the Sky Imagine.

The guns of the defender below would be utterly impotent against the cruisers of the sky, and would have to remain silent while the fight in the air was going on. All that could be done from the surface would be the

While the British have been considering these methods, Germany has gone further.

The Krupps have invented a gun for use in destroying airships and balloons. It is so made and equipped that it can be aimed at an object straight up above the gunner's head, or can be swung lower at will. It can be made to revolve and swing around and follow the manoeuvres of an airship in any direction.

It is equipped with new sighting arrangements, so that the gunner can follow a balloon through all its revolutions, and so that the range can always be accurate no matter which way the balloon goes. The gun is rated 6.5 centimetres, and throws a shell of 8.8 pounds with an initial velocity of over 2,000 feet a minute.

The prospect of war by balloon has perturbed the British considerably, for the reason that hitting a balloon with a shell would not do it much harm unless the shell burst as it passed through the balloon, which would hardly ever happen. If an ordinary projectile hit a balloon it would simply pass through it, and the puncturing of the envelope would be the only damage done. The envelope could stand a great deal of [illegible] without collapsing.

This difficulty, too, has been grappled with in Germany, and the Krupps have found a way to meet it. They have invented a shell which will completely destroy a balloon. It is called a "burning shell," or projectile fumigone. It burns as it goes, and its flight through the air can be seen. Striking the gas bag, this shell would set fire to the escaping stream of gas and the machine would be blown up. A test of "forced march by automobile" was recently made with great success in Great Britain, and it was done at Hastings, where William the Conqueror landed in 1066. The difference between to-day and the day on which William met Harold at Senlac is hardly greater than the difference between to-day and the day when these and the coming improvements are tested in actual conflict.

The problem was this: An invading army has landed at Hastings, as William did nine centuries and a half ago. The railroad is blockaded with troop trains. A relieving force is to be sent to Hastings at the earliest moment.

Members of the Automobile Club loaned 509 machines for the purpose of the experiment. A thousand soldiers were picked up by the automobiles and conveyed to the Crystal Palace, where the start was made, with full war kit and guns.

The "march" was made at 20 miles an hour, the lighter cars going in advance with the soldiers, while the heavier ones brought up the rear with the guns and stores. The experiment was a complete success.

The new observation waggons have been tested, too, and the complete success of the test puts an end to the old necessity of selecting a high point of ground for military observation, or of erecting a heavily constructed tower for the purpose. The waggons are comparatively small and light. While a certain elevation is, of course, necessary, the permanent occupation of a building is not so now.

These new observation waggons look like the light "hook and ladders" of the European Fire Departments, mounted on the understructure of an ordinary gun carriage. They are drawn by four sturdy cavalry horses, and the glasses, signaling apparatus, etc., are carried in the box on the rear of the carriage. The ladders are run up in a few seconds, just as a big extension ladder.

Artillery More Effective.

In addition to ordinary military observation, this invention will increase the effectiveness of artillery. It will be possible to place a gun under cover and still watch the effects of its fire. In the Japanese war one of the greatest fights before Port Arthur was made simply to secure a height from which the Japanese could watch the effect of their shell fire upon the Russian vessels.

The sides of the ladder are of steel tubes. The ascent is made either by rungs fitted into these tubes or by means of a rope ladder attached to a tube. The observer is protected by an armoured shield.

The use of stilts by pioneers, and their difficulties will be greatly decreased. A French regiment of pioneers has already been instructed to walk with them.

Austria has fitted out her balloon battalions with the most powerful searchlights, which are to be used not only for the purpose of throwing the works below into strong relief, but for the purpose of blinding the besieged. In view of the British notion of concentrating searchlights so as to blind the balloonist, Austria's idea of blinding the besieged might result in a battle of searchlights. No stranger battle can be conceived.

The smokeless rifle has already come, and the Maxim silencer caps its convention. What next?

Two Bits of Wood.

Importance cannot be reduced to a matter of size. The success of a piece of work may depend on a tiny detail. Such is the case in regard to that marvel of construction, the violin. Rev. H. R. Haweis in his "My Musical Life" tells of the care and labor expended on two little pieces of wood which go to make up the perfect whole. The sound bar is a strip of pine wood running obliquely under the left foot of the bridge. A slight mistake in its position, looseness or inequality or roughness of finish will produce that hollow, teeth on edge growl called "wolf." It takes great cunning and a life of practical study to know how long and how thick the sound bar must be and exactly where to place it in each instrument. The sound post is a little pine prop, like a short bit of cedar pencil. It is the soul of the violin, and through it pours all vibrations. Days and weeks are spent in adjusting the tiny sound post. Its position exhausts the patience of the maker and makes the joy or the misery of the player.

Moving on Short Notice.

I was lying on the floor of an old country log house one summer day near a big open fireplace when I heard a peculiar, frightened squeak. I got up to see what looked like a huge mouse moving at a very rapid walk across the room. When I got a closer look I saw that it was a mother mouse moving her whole family. At least I hope there was none left behind, for very soon a small snake, but large enough to put into a panic the mother of four less than half grown children, came through the empty fireplace and after the little fugitive. The mother mouse had two in her mouth, and fastened to either side of her, apparently holding on with their mouths and for "dear life," were the other two. I killed the snake and watched the moving family disappear through a hole in the corner. I don't know whether they returned after awhile or whether the father mouse put up a "To Let" sign and joined them in a foreign country, but I do know that I saved a happy family.—St. Nicholas.

The Creditor's Letter.

Here is an interesting letter received by a well known English tailor in reply to a "final" application for settlement of a long outstanding account: "I have much pleasure in informing you that I have placed you on the list of my creditors, your number on the roll being 103. In view of your name appearing so far down my list and in common fairness to my other creditors who have been on my books now for some considerable time, I am afraid I cannot hold out the slightest hope of the 'early' settlement which you ask for. I think it will be well, therefore, if you discontinue forwarding your frequent 'reminders,' which can do no possible good and which are a constant source of annoyance to me."—London Pick-Me-Up.

A Doubtful Outlook.

A woman in evident distress was standing at her door.

"What's the matter, Mrs. Brown?" inquired a neighbor.

"Oh, I don't know what to do!" was the reply. "Bill's away at the football match."

"Well, what about that?" said the other.

"Ah," responded Mrs. Brown, "you don't know Bill! When his side wins he gets on the loose, and when they lose he comes home and whacks me. They've played a draw today, and I'm sure I don't know what he'll do this time!"—London Express.

J. Y. EGAN, Specialist, Office—WEST KING ST., P. O. BOX 201, TORONTO.

THE MOST RELIABLE and Successful Authority—Greatest success in the treatment of Hernia (Rupture) Varicocele (False Rupture) of all known agencies in modern times. He who makes a specialty of one department can certainly be more experienced and capable than those having "many irons in the fire." Don't put off your case, imagining it of no danger. Keep wasting time and money elsewhere, but come to one whose life-long study has taught him what to do. Do not despond or be deterred from making further efforts, or because of repeated failures consider your case incurable. Because others failed in your case just have become discouraged. This is the very time you should consult me, as my reputation has been made in curing hopeless (so-called) cases. Come and have a talk with me.

LADIES suffering from any form of Rupture should not hesitate having their case attended to as quickly as gentlemen. Elastic Stockings for fuller particulars.

CHILDREN—Look to your children—have them cured, while young. Don't allow them to grow up handicapped in the race of life, with rupture. Reliability my guarantee.

MY CHARGES are within reach of all, the poor man as well as the rich. Terms can be satisfactorily arranged, no reason why you should not consult me at once, during this visit.

VARICOCELE FALSE RUPTURE — MEN OF ALL AGES SUFFER from this affliction. There is no affliction that so completely unfits man for the duties of life as Varicocele. Its symptoms are: Nervousness, Lack of Confidence, Despondency, Unfitness for Study or Business, Pimples on the Face, Weak Back, Sunken Eyes, Lack of Ambition, Unnatural Losses, Impaired Vision, Specks before the Eyes, Poor Memory, Loss of Power, Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dizziness, Nervous Dread, Self-Distrust, Aversion to Society, Blotches on the Skin, Hollow Cheeks, Emissions, Sleeplessness, Bashfulness, Unfitness to Marry, Kidney Troubles, Constipation, etc. Do you intend to allow this affliction to impair your vitality? If so, bring to mind if not checked will result in that above conditions. No matter how severe your case may be, time afflicted, or the failures you have had in trying to be cured by so-called specialists, or Electric belts—my Electric system will cure. No temporary benefit, but a PERMANENT cure. NO OPERATION necessary. No detention from business.

Thinking of Something Else

By MARY MALLOWELL

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Whatever you do, Dick," said Mrs. John Murray's wife, half laughing, half angry, "don't you ever marry an absentminded man. A man that is always thinking of something else, like that big husband of mine, may be wonderfully good at his profession, because that's what he's always thinking about, but he is merely a domestic trial at times."

Mrs. Murray laughed, but ill nature having evaporated completely under the heat of her little outburst. Her visitor, Susan Harland, laughed with her, for Dr. Murray's wonderful feats in his fits of abstraction were famous.

"Why, Sue," continued Mrs. Murray, laughing gayly at the recollection, "do you remember when I had that touch of rheumatic fever? One night when I was burning with thirst I woke John and said to him, 'John, if you don't get me a drink of water quick I don't know that I'll live till morning.'

"He got up, sort of dazed, walked over to the mantelpiece and came back to me holding out an empty vase. I wanted a drink of water that much that I hung on to my patience until he was wide awake and knew what I was talking about. Then he went to the refrigerator and came back with a glass brimming full of good cold water. But, if you will believe it, Sue, he just stood there looking at me, and before I could say a word that man drank every drop of that water himself with me glaring holes through him. I declare, it makes me angry to this day!"

Mrs. Murray ran to the foot of the stairs and called out: "Hurry up, now, John! Sue and I are both waiting. You will find your evening clothes laid out for you in the bedroom, and there isn't any time to lose."

Miss Sue and Mrs. John sat down to talk. They exhausted their store of new gossip after awhile and began to fidget. "Goodness," said Mrs. Murray at last, looking at her watch, "that man must have done something foolish! If can't be taking him all this time to dress!"

Dr. John had done nothing foolish. He had done something rather wise. He was sound asleep in bed.

Miss Sue overheard some very active and excited conversation carried on exclusively by Mrs. Murray. At last the deep bass of her husband responded. "My dear," said Dr. John, "don't you know anything about the wonderfully powerful control that habit has over all the species of the animal kingdom? When I began to undress wasn't it natural for me to keep right on and get into bed? Of course it was."

"No, Sue; don't you ever marry an absentminded man," said Mrs. Murray impressively when they drove away at last, with Dr. John safely opposite them.

"As long as he isn't too absentminded to attend the wedding, Sue," chuckled Dr. John, "you take him, provided his name is Dick Kendall."

Sue was glad that the darkness hid her blushes.

"Dick is going to do something great in chemistry, I do believe," said Dr. John. "There's his compound of phospho"

"A wife wants something besides your old phosphates and other ill smelling things," said Mrs. Murray. "Dick Kendall is as bad as you are. He's just as likely as not to come to the dance tonight with his old laboratory coat on."

Dick Kendall did not fulfill Mrs. Murray's dark prophecy literally, but he did so in effect. It is true that he was soberly and blamelessly clad in his evening clothes, being correctly attired even to the tie, but the tout ensemble was somewhat marred by the sad fact that he had a patent leather pump on one foot and a bright russet shoe on the other.

Sue blushed, and then she flushed, and then she grew angry as the titters and smiles ran around the room when unconscious Dick hurried forward to meet her.

She was not a young woman given to exaggerate trifles, but she was not a stoic philosopher either. No doubt it is a small thing to have one's evening pleasure marred a bit, but it seems unduly important at the time.

Luckless Dick was doomed to further disgrace. He had barely repaired the disaster of the shoes by sending a messenger posthaste to his home for the other pump when something worse happened.

During a waltz, when Miss Sue was his partner, somebody brushed against Dick. There was a sharp crackling of broken glass, and the next instant the couple was wreathed in beautiful violet smoke that gradually filled the room.

[illegible] the beauty of its color though. It was so instantly suffocating that there was a rush, wild rush for doors and French windows.

The scent filled Dick's cup, and it overflowed—only a little, but too much. In her anger she stamped her foot and cried: "Dick Kendall, your absentmindedness apparently extends only to me and not to your profession. It is plain that you care more for chemistry than for me, and it would be a thousand pities to disturb your devotion."

She stripped the ring from her finger, and he took it in bewildered silence. Before he could reply she had turned her back and the next moment was walking up the corridor with Dick's pet aversion, Charles Maule, whom everybody called "the model Maul," always description of his mental equipment.

Miss Sue's words had been uttered in the hearing of many persons. Next day the news of the broken engagement was all over town.

Dick tried to placate the girl, but with characteristic lack of policy he did not wait for her anger to cool off. The result was that the breach seemed final to him. In his simplicity he believed every angry word she said and did not realize that the girl was eager to forgive as soon as she had punished him a little.

Dick was absentminded about little things, but not about great ones. With a heart full to breaking, he made his preparations to leave the place.

A week afterward Sue stopped at Dr. Murray's house to accompany Mrs. Murray and the doctor on a drive into the country. Dr. John was not there when she arrived.

"I hope he hasn't gone to bed again," said Sue, smiling. She was cheerful, for she had made up her mind to write to Dick, forgiving him and asking him frankly to forgive her.

"No," said Mrs. John. "Didn't I tell you where he was going this morning? He went to drive Dick Kendall down to the harbor to see him off on the Viking."

Susan Harland's half opened lips and startled eyes showed her surprise.

"Didn't you know?" said Mrs. Murray, embarrassed. "Dick is going on a cruise around the world with his friend Randall, who bought that big yacht Viking this spring."

Susan sprang up, casting aside all pretense, like the honest, warm hearted girl she was. "Kate," she cried, "I can't let him go! I cannot! I cannot!"

Mrs. Murray caught the girl in her arms. "Darling," she said, with a sob, "I thought that it was all over between you."

"I was wicked," said Sue. "As if I would lose Dick for all the absentmindedness in the world! Oh, Kate, we must stop him! I don't care what people think."

"Sue, dear," said Mrs. Murray, "it is too late. Look!" She led Sue to a window that commanded a view across a bluff and far to sea. Some miles out a great steam yacht was steaming toward the horizon.

"I must cable to him at once—at once!" said Sue passionately. For a few minutes Mrs. Murray made no reply, but held her arms around the girl and stroked her hair.

"You must be patient, dear, now, and plucky for awhile. The Viking is bound to the south Pacific, and we shall not be able to reach her for some time—perhaps for six months."

She led the sobbing girl into the library, bestowed her comfortably in an easy chair and wisely left her alone to have her cry and her trouble by herself till the first keenness should have worn off.

She had scarcely re-entered the drawing room before she heard her husband driving up to the door. A moment afterward there entered two men, looking very, very sheepish and guilty. They were Dr. John and—Dick Kendall.

"Now, don't scold and don't laugh, Kate," implored Dr. John. "I'll tell you what happened. I picked Dick up all right at his lodgings, and we did all you told us to do, saw that everything was locked up and counted his baggage and made sure that he had his money in his pockets. See, here's your memorandum, all checked off. But, Kate," added Dr. John, with a twinkle, half humorous, half ashamed, "you forgot to add on the memorandum that Dick was to be delivered on board the Viking."

"And so, you know," interposed Dick, eager to divert blame from his friend's head, "I got to telling John about a new test for white blood corpuscles, and we got interested and stopped for just a few minutes at the board of health laboratory."

"And then, as usual, you forgot all about a little thing like a trip around the world," Mrs. Murray burst out. But, strangely enough, there was a delighted smile on her face.

Taking Dick Kendall by the shoulder, she pushed him toward the library. "Now, you great, useless child," said she, with her eyes shining, "you go in there and sit down for a moment. I have something to say to the doctor."

She closed the door behind him and ran to Dr. John, clapping her hands softly. Dr. John didn't look at all absentminded when she whispered to him, but gazed at the door with as much eagerness and joy in his face as there was in hers.

They waited a quarter of an hour with highly commendable patience. Then Mrs. Murray walked to the door and knocked, but not before she had heard Dick Kendall's deep voice:

"Think of something else? Sue, I couldn't thing of anything except that I had lost you."

"Oh!" came Sue's voice. "And how about the test that made you forget the yacht?"

"Well," replied Dick, "I might forget a little thing like that, but you're not a little thing except in size."

And before the door opened Sue said: "Stop, you bear! You've nearly knocked my hat off."

Coming Near It.

Chinese Banquets.

The place of honor at a Chinese banquet is at the host's left hand.

India.

Only about one-third of the land of India is under cultivation. A portion of the other two-thirds is taken up by rivers, lakes, woods, uncultivatable hills or sandy or stony plain, towns, etc.

Old Time Dainties.

Jackdaws, magpies, squirrels, hedgehogs, cranes, peacocks and swans were popular dishes in the middle ages.

Elephant Tusks.

An elephant tusk is hollow for about a third of its length, although the size of this hollow varies a good deal. It is called "the bamboo" in a dried tusk, and when borne proudly by the tusker it is filled with a jellylike substance.

Persian Newspapers.

Persian newspapers are reproduced from handwriting by lithography, no types being used.

Costa Rica.

Costa Rica means the rich coast, and in most respects it is rich, particularly in the snake family, the most deadly of which is the deadly culebra de sangre, or blood snake.

Australia.

Australia has more unexplored area in proportion to the population than any other country.

The Doll in the Window.

Travelers through Servian villages often see dolls suspended in the windows of cottages. The dolls have nothing to do with child life, but signify that a marriageable daughter or a widow lives in the house.

Manitoba.

Manitoba traces its origin from Manitou, the Indian appellation of "the Great Spirit."

Hot Milk For Sad Tempers.

When it rains in the London zoo hot milk is fed to the lions, tigers and monkeys. It has been found that rain "gets on the nerves" of these animals and that the hot milk produces contentment and sleep.

What Sunshine Furnace does

Sunshine Furnace is designed and constructed to heat a house, church, school or store, and does this more satisfactorily than any other known furnace or other style of heating apparatus.

It does this more rapidly than the hot water boiler because, as soon as fire is started in Sunshine Furnace, heated air can be obtained for the rooms.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

It does this better than other furnaces because, being made from exclusive patterns, it has more commendable features.

It does this more economically than the boiler because even air circulation keeps fuel bill low.

It does this more conveniently than the hot water boiler, because it has no radiators to take up room, congregate dust and mar the paper and woodwork.

It does this more hygienically than the boiler because pure air is admitted to the furnace through a cold air pipe.

WEDDING CUSTOMS.

Rice Throwing Originated in India—Ring Used by Ancient Hebrews.

It is from India that the custom of rice throwing comes to us. At the close of the marriage ceremony in that country the Hindu bridegroom throws three handfuls of rice over his little veiled wife and she retaliates by throwing the same amount over him. With us the rice is thrown by outsiders. The "old shoe" custom is generally supposed to come from the Hebrews and is alleged to have originally implied that the parents of the bride gave up all authority over her. The Germans had a long custom, which perhaps they have not wholly given up even now, of putting the bridegroom's shoe on the pillow of the bridal bed; and in Anglo-Saxon marriages the father gave a shoe of the bride to the bridegroom, who touched her on the head with it to remind her who was now master.

The wedding ring was used among the ancient Hebrews primarily with the idea that the delivery of a ring conferred power on the recipient, and thus the wife wearing her husband's ring shared his authority. The ring in the Roman espousals was a pledge of loyalty and the idea that it should be worn on the third finger of the left hand because "a nerve connects this finger with the heart" originated with the Romans. Orange blossoms were worn by brides among the Saracens because they were held to symbolize fruitfulness; the very general use of these flowers in Europe and America for bridal adornment is comparatively a modern custom. The use of a bridal veil is a relic of the far-off time when the husband was not allowed to see his bride's face till after the marriage.

It is said to be a curious fact that the wedding cake, that elaborate, indigestible compound so indispensable at the modern marriage ceremony, is the direct descendant of a cake made of water, flour and salt, of which at the Roman high-class weddings the married couple and the witnesses partook at the time of the signing of the contract.

A Long Greek Word.

What is believed to be the longest word to be found in any dictionary, one that leaves even German and Dutch hopelessly out of it, may be turned up in Liddell and Scott's lexicon by those who can read Greek characters. Those who cannot may be content to know that this word, which begins, "lepadotemachoselachogaleo," proceeds in like manner through seventy-eight syllables and and counts 170 letters in all. Of course no ancient Greek ever used such a word as this in ordinary conversation. It is a comic word invented by Aristophanes for rythmical delivery in one of his plays and means a dish compounded of all sorts of fish, flesh, fowl and sauces, which are enumerated in the word. The most ingenious English translation of it yet suggested is "hash."

English and American Education.

Americans educate the mass, while we have always educated the leaders. In England—democracy assented to the method—we make a point of specially encouraging the promising pupils. We build ladders for them, and we believe that our indifference to the question of what class of society they may come from is sufficient proof of our genuinely democratic habit of mind. It has been the immemorial practice of England to train leaders for the nation. This was done when most citizens were receiving no education at all. Americans rather concentrate their attention on the ruck. The exceptional boy or girl, it is thought, will rise in any case. The important thing to do is to advance the average of education—London Spectator.

The Wife Knew Better.

"Charlotte, my dear, how is it I find you weeping? Have you had bad news from your husband?"

"Oh, worse than that! My Arthur writes me from Carlsbad that he would die with ardent longings for me were it not that he could gaze affectionately at my picture and cover it with a thousand kisses every day."

"That is really very nice of him. And, pray, is it that you are crying for? I would give anything to have such a poetic and tenderly loving husband as you have!"

"Ah, yes, my Arthur is very poetical! But let me tell you that just to try him I slipped my mother's photo into his traveling bag instead of my own before he started."

Largest Duck Farm.

Australia is said to have the largest duck farm and the largest incubator in the world. The incubator has a capacity of 11,440 ducks' eggs or 14,080 hens' eggs. The machine is, in fact, a hot-house. It stands in open ground and is constructed of ordinary pine boards, with corrugated iron roof. The egg trays each hold 130 ducks' eggs, or 160 hens' eggs, and there are four of these end to end in eleven tier one above the other one each side of the room, making a total of 88.

Gentility is nothing but ancient riches.—Burleigh.

THE CHAMELEON.

This Curious Animal is Like Two Half Creatures Joined.

The chameleon is not allied closely to any other animal. It stands as a genus by itself. The nervous centers in one lateral half operate independently of those in the other. This seems outrageous, and it is, but it is true. The chameleon has two lateral centers of perception—of sensation and of motion. There exists also a third center—that common one in which abides the power of concentration by means of which the two sides of the creature may be forced to work in harmony with each other. But this center of concentration does not always dominate the situation. Notwithstanding the strictly symmetrical structure of the animal's two halves, the eyes move quite independently, and they convey distinct and separate impressions to their respective centers of perception. As of the eyes, so of the other members—each reports to and is controlled by its own center.

The result is that when the faculty of concentration becomes disturbed everything is jumbled. Let the chameleon be much agitated and its movements grow erratic. They are those of two creatures fastened together, or, rather, of two half creatures joined. Each half exhibits its intention of going its separate way. The result is a pitiable confusion of movement. There is no concordance of action. A curious example of the chameleon's helplessness when unduly excited is found in the fact that it cannot swim. The shock of being plunged into water upsets the poise of its faculty for concentration. Forthwith each side strikes out wildly for itself, to its own undoing. The chameleon is the only four legged vertebrate that cannot swim.

When the creature is calm every impulse to motion is referred to the common center of concentration, and the entire organism acts in fitting accord with the commands issued by that faculty. Thus, while totally different impressions from the two eyes are transmitted from their centers to the common one, that concentrating power decides as to which scene is the more important and then directs the eye otherwise engaged also to regard it. The same principle applies in the control of all the members—so long as the animal remains unexcited. Any observer may easily verify the existence of this dual nature in a superficial way by some experiments with a sleeping chameleon. A touch on one side of the animal will wake that side up, while the other side sleeps calmly on.

FLINT AND TINDER.

Making Fire in the Days Before We Had Matches.

A friend of mine of just my age used to laugh about his own boyhood and tell the story of his mother shaking him in bed and bidding him put on his boots when he dressed and his overcoat and wade through the snow to the next neighbor's to get a pan of hot coals with which to make the fire. I suppose Joe's mother had lost her flint. We kept our flint and what was called "the steel" in a round tin box such as would hold a quart of strawberries now, and it was on the mantelpiece in the kitchen. It was half full of tinder. Half the boys and girls of today do not know what tinder is or was.

Now, whoever was in the kitchen in the morning and found that the last hot coal of the wood fire had gone out took down the tinder box and struck the steel with the flint smartly and often until a redhot spark fell on the tinder; then very carefully she blew with her breath on any flakes of the tinder which had lighted until she had quite a little cove of lighted tinder. Then she took what we called a brimstone match and put that very carefully in the little hot hole. If all things worked well, the brimstone lighted and the wood of the match lighted, and she lighted the candle, which made a part of the tinder box.

Oh, dear! There were thousands of tinder boxes in little Boston the day I was born, and a few years ago I tried to buy one as a curiosity, and I could not find one in any of the junkshops. In those days old women would stop at the door and ask you to buy some bundles of matches. They had made these themselves of pine wood four inches long, which they had dipped in hot brimstone at both ends. And those were the only matches that anybody ever heard of.—Woman's Home Companion.

Always Dreaded the 14th.

Most dismal of all men off the stage was Grimaldi, the clown, and his father fathered him. He had that curious dread of a certain date which assails so many. The elder Grimaldi hated the 14th of the month, and when it was passed he regarded himself as safe until the next. He was born, christened and married on the 14th of the month, and, being discontented with all three events, we will hope his death on March 14, 1788, satisfied him.

"The Gendron Driver"

I'll Explain Why
I Always Drive a
GENDRON

"You see the breaking of the springs causes us baby drivers more trouble than any other weakness in carriage cars.

But there is no spring weakness in the GENDRON car. Note that double curve. It is exclusive with the GENDRON It so distributes the strain that the spring never breaks.

And then the wheels,—you see they are specially welded, and cannot warp or break.

Note also that little rubber cap over the nut of the axle. Sometimes when I have a restless passenger, I want to drive the car around the house without scratching the furniture—it is a little point, but a good one. The materials for all the GENDRON cars are the very best in the bodies, tops and every other part. DAYS OF THE WEEK.

At One Time They Were Designated Merely by Numbers.

Formerly the days of the week were numbered one, two, three, four, five and six, beginning with the Sabbath. Even now the custom still prevails among certain modern Greeks, the Slavs and the Finns. Many old fashioned and orthodox Quakers, particularly in the north of England, still hold to this custom, which was the common one in the days of the apostles and down to the fourth century as well as usual among the Jews and the Arabs. The orthodox Quakers use the numerical system in preference to the ordinary on the ground that the gods and goddesses, from whom the names were taken, were not of the highest respectability in point of morals.

The week was originally only a convenient quarter of the lunar month; hence it began on Monday, or moon day. The Italians still call Monday the first and Sunday the seventh day of the week. Tuesday is derived from the Norse Tiw, who corresponded to Mars, the god of war, a most disreputable person in the eyes of Quakers. Thursday was Thor's day, Thor being a god warrior who was morally no better than he ought to be. Wednesday, again, was Woden's day, Woden being the god of battle rage. The Romans called this day Mercury's. Friday was supposed to be the luckiest day of the week—for women. It was called after the Norse Frija, the goddess of love, and is the best day for weddings. For the pagan Romans it was also the day of Venus, though the Christian Romans called it the day of ill luck because Christ had been crucified on that day. Saturday was called after Saturn, and Sunday was known to the Christians as resurrection or sun day.

The week of seven days was imported from Alexandria into Greece and into Italy about the time of Christ. The Greeks had previously divided their month into sets of ten days, the Romans into sets of eight days, three and a half sets being equal to one month.—New York World.

An Author's Initials.

Initials are sometimes the resort of the writer who is anxious to conceal his identity, and a glance through any one of the 700 volumes that comprise the catalogue of the British museum reading room will discover some strange instances. A theological book, entitled "Inquiry Into the Meaning of Demoniacks in the New Testament," is attributed to T. P. A. P. O. A. B. I. C. O. S. Its real author was a certain Arthur Sykes, and the initials reveal his position as "the precentor and prebendary of Alton Borsalis in the church at Salisbury."—London Chronicle.

Revenge.

"That organist Belle jilted for the aged millionaire played a spiteful trick at her wedding."

"What did he do?"

"Instead of playing them up the aisle with the wedding march, he struck up 'Old Hundred.'"—Boston Transcript.

Prospects Brilliant.

"I see you got married yesterday, Chloe. Are your prospects brilliant?"

"Yass. Mah husband's friends brought me fo' mo' washin's."—Circle Magazine.

Cutting Humor.

With cap and bells jangling, he burst into the king's presence.

"Have you heard my last joke, your majesty?" he cried.

"I have," was the reply as the royal ax descended on the neck of the court jester.—Life.

Realism.

The Author—Well, how did you like my play? The Critic—Oh, it was very nice! The Author—Didn't you think the church scene realistic? The Critic—Intensely so. Why, a great many of us actually went to sleep while it was on.—Cleveland Leader.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

CATHOLIC QUEBEC LEADS PROTESTANT ONTARIO

The Temperance Campaign in the Province of Quebec has been pushed with such vigor, during the past few years, that that province now leads Ontario as regards the proportionate number of minor municipalities that are without bars of any kind. In the annual report for the year 1908 of the Board of Moral and Social Reform of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, as presented recently to the General Assembly, it is stated that in Quebec there are 664 municipalities out of 1,008, or considerably over half, that are under local veto. In Ontario, only 334 out of 807 municipalities, or considerably less than half, are without bar rooms or liquor shops. In speaking about the temperance conditions in Quebec, the report says: "The well known action of Archbishop Burchesi and other Roman Catholic authorities along the line of urging Total Abstinence is bearing manifest fruit, in communities where the Catholic faith predominates and constitutes an example worthy to be followed by our own church leaders."

Spread of the Temperance Movement

That part of the report that deals with temperance shows that gratifying progress was made last year by the temperance workers in all the provinces of Canada. The report reads as follows:

"Steady progress has been made during the year in temperance reform. The common-sense, practical policy adopted last Assembly, combining as it does the aggressive and the reasonable, has been heartily endorsed by the strong laymen of the Church and has made its influence powerfuly felt among denominations and temperance organizations, and has probably permanently affected for the better the tone of discussion and methods of work on this great question.

Temperance Legislation

In legislation for temperance reform considerable progress has been made.

"The Dominion Parliament has considerably improved the Canada Temperance or Scott Act, so that it is being more effectively enforced in some parts of the Eastern Provinces.

"The struggle for Provincial Prohibition, provincially enforced is still on in Nova Scotia, and it would seem that the temperance forces, led by Rev. H. R. Grant, are gaining ground. Meantime a special movement is in progress in Halifax for further restriction of licenses, and for a better observance of the License Law.

"In New Brunswick the new Government has committed itself to the Provincial enforcement of both the Scott Act and the Provincial License Act. It has also amended the latter act so as to make it more easily enforceable and has given to municipalities, parishes and wards, the right of local veto on a simple majority vote. One result has been that a campaign for Local Option has been carried on in the Wards of the city of St. John, N.B., with the result that Local Veto carried in three out of the four Wards voting. In this campaign, Rev. A. A. Graham, B.D., a member of our Board, was the recognised leader.

"The Moral and Social Reform Council of New Brunswick has submitted to the Government a slight modification of the policy of our Church, as adopted by last Assembly, for its consideration, and there seems a good prospect of uniting all the forces, including the Roman Catholics and Anglicans, on this ground.

"In Quebec many licenses have been cut off as in Quebec City and Montreal, and the Provincial Government is showing increased activity, and growing firmness in enforcing the Law. 664 of the 1,008 Municipalities are under Local Veto.

"In Ontario 52 licenses in 21 municipalities were during the year cut off by local veto, and about 50 by license reduction, and 40 by action of License Commissioners. In 334 out of 807 municipalities in the Province now there are no bar-rooms nor liquor shops.

The Ontario Law

"The Legislature has again improved the Law. The main purpose of the Bill was to perfect the enforcement machinery rather than to restrict further the liquor traffic. The sale of liquor by brewers in Local Option municipalities is absolutely prohibited, and the sale under a Brewer's Warehouse License is not only prohibited in Local Option municipalities but it is provided that no liquor should be sold to unlicensed persons in places of less than 4,000 population.

Provision is made for granting permits to inspected hotels in municipalities where no liquor licenses are issued. The penalty for a first offence of selling without license is increased from a fine of not less than $20, or more than $100 and costs, to a fine of not less than $100, or more than $200 and costs. Minors can be compelled to state who furnished them with liquor. Power is given to inspectors, police, and other peace officers to seize liquor in transit or in course of delivery, if they believe such liquor is intended to be sold or kept for sale in violation of law. The License Commissioners are given power to withold licenses from clubs, at their discretion.

IN THE WEST

The Manitoba Legislature has during the year removed certain weaknesses and has given the people one of the most effective local veto measures to be found in Canada. The number of municipalities now free from the burden of the bar-room is 26 out of 132, and this year there is the brightest prospect of the number being doubled. The temperance reform in Manitoba is being directed by the Moral and Social Reform Council, of which Rev. Principal Patrick, D.D., is President, and under his statesman-like leadership, the Roman Catholic, Anglican, Lutheran, Methodist, Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian Churches, as well as the Trades and Labour bodies, and the Royal Templars and Good Templars, are all heartily co-operating in the promotion of this and other moral reforms. This great federation has already flooded the Legislature with petitions for the abolition of the bar-room, in line with our Church's policy, and with such effect that the politicians admit that this cry has entered the arena of practical politics.

"While Saskatchewan Legislature greatly improved the License Act in its Local Veto and other features as commended by last Assembly, there has been since a slight retrogressive step taken in restoring to bar-rooms in cities thirty minutes out of the ninety then cut off from the hours of sale. The Moral and Social Reform Council in this Province also has charge of the Temperance Reform, and as it is securing the services of a capable Secretary, decided progress seems assured in the near future.

"In Alberta, while no progress has been made in legislation during the year, much has been done through the Temperance and Moral Reform League, as led by Rev. W. G. W. Fortune, in forming and arousing public opinion, which in the near future is likely to bear fruit.

"In British Columbia, the people have petitioned the Legislature for the right of Local Veto on the local option method. The Government has promised to take a plebiscite to as certain whether a majority of the people of British Columbia believe in the principle or not, and meantime the Legislature has directed a Royal Commission to investigate the liquor question in British Columbia, and to report upon the working of the Gothenburg System of Scandinavia. Meanwhile the public opinion of British Columbia is rapidly taking form against the traffic in intoxicants and especially against the bar-room. The men in the traffic know this and are using the weapons of intimidation and the boycott to prolong their day of opportunity.

Anglicans and Local Option.

The strong stand taken by the Anglican Synod at its Annual Session in Ottawa last year on the temperance question, including Local Option, shows that the Anglican Church, as a body intends to do its part to secure local option. Recently we published in these columns the resolution that was passed by the Synod which endorsed the temperance movement including local option. The following is a report of the discussion that took place while the resolution was under consideration.

"The Anglican Synod of Canada which met in annual session in Ottawa last week, made a strong pronouncement in favour of Local Option. It is recommended, upon the initiative of the Committee of Temperance and Moral Reform, that full advantage be taken when practicable of the Local Option clauses of the License Law by securing the adoption and enforcement of Local Option by-laws.

"The Revised Report of the Committee, submitted by Canon Ingles, of Toronto, recommended, also, that the License Commissioners should be interviewed in every municipality, and the request urged that "Windows should be uncurtained and all obstructions removed which would prevent persons seeing into the bar from the street at all hours of sale."

"An amendment was moved by Judge McDonald that all bars should be at the front of hotels, and open on the street. This was done as it was pointed out that did the windows not open on the street, the value of the former clause would be annulled.

"The amended motion was carried, the words, "Of Sale," being struck out. This change was greatly objected to by Judge Hannington, who urged the claim that after license hours, the bar-keepers should be entitled to close their shutters.

"It was also moved by Canon Ingles, and carried that a league against the habit of treating to liquor should be formed.

"The recommendation was made that where Local Option did not obtain, the hours of sale of liquor should be shortened.

"The recommendation for the formation of a Church of England Temperance Society was also adopted."

Law Enforcement and Local Option.

Some people in Peterborough claim that they are not in favour of Local Option in Peterborough because it would be impossible to enforce it. When these people hear of any cases of liquor drinking in local option districts, they point to them as evidence that local option is not a success. When the law is broken in a district where licenses are issued, nothing is thought of it. For instance, a party of Peterborough young men went on an excursion down the river one Sunday recently and when they returned some of them were so helplessly drunk that they had to be taken home in hacks. Liquor was consumed on this trip in large quantities. Were this to occur next year in Peterborough under Local Option, there would be a general clamour that Local Option was not proving a success.

When Local Option Laws are broken, who breaks them? It is the men who sell the liquor. These men have never hesitated to break the law when they can do so with impunity. This is shown by the following items from the Kingston Citizen.

"The liquor journals are constantly declaring that no-license is a failure, and that drunkenness increases with the banishment of the saloon. And who, pray, are the lawless fellows who conduct the speak-easy and carry on a boot-legging business? Certainly not the no-license folks, but in every instance the emissaries of the liquor trade. And who furnishes them the liquor to be sold in these places? These same brewers and distillers and wholesalers who are crying themselves hoarse about the failure of no-license. What a pretty lot of patriots these people are, anyway! They say law cannot be enforced. Who says the law cannot be enforced. Who says the law good fellows who are doing their utmost to make their word good.

"They say, however, that laws have aimed at the habits of the people cannot be enforced. No, that is not the difficulty. The trouble is the people have not yet understood fully the innate lawlessness of the liquor business. They have naturally expected that when no license laws were enacted, the liquor folks would yield to the public dictum, and they have trusted them to abide by the decision of the people. They have yet to learn that it is the policy of the liquor trade to do any and everything under heaven in furtherance of the business that the public does not forbid by genuine force. When the people do waken to this fact, and this is coming right speedily, the result will be written in vengeance. Both the saloon and the speak-easy are doomed. Their very lawlessness is working their own destruction."

Show Your Colours.

How do you stand on Local Option? Are you afraid to show your colours? If so, be careful that you do not get into worse repute than you would by coming out in the open and taking a stand. In a Local Option contest that took place last January in a municipality within 75 miles Peterborough, an Anglican Minister refused to take a stand in favor of local option. One of the leading hotel keepers in the village was an officer in his church. By declining to support local option, it was generally concluded that he was opposed to it.

When election day came, the hotel keeper drove around to get this minister, expecting him to vote against local option. Many of the leading citizens of the place were strongly in favor of local option. The minister refused to go out and vote. The attitude of this minister had helped the liquor interests. When, however, the hotel keeper found that he could not get this minister to vote, he showed his gratitude by bursting out with, "You old straddle the fence, you are no good to anybody." This minister found that it is a difficult matter to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Lindsay has definitely decided to take a vote next January on local option.

If Peterborough carries local option next January there will be a great procession of other cities and towns throughout the province that will immediately undertake a similar campaign.

The Grand Jury of the General Sessions at Toronto, in bringing in their report recently, took a whack at the open bar room and club room in connection with liquor law and suggested that the open bar and treating system should be prohibited. Judge Winchester stated that the presentment on a whole was the best that had ever been presented in Toronto. Things have got so now that the liquor interests never know from what direction the next blow is coming.

Why Bass' Barley Wine

Is the Cheapest Malt Extract.

We're going to prove to you that, at 30 cents a bottle, Bass' Barley Wine is the cheapest extract of malt and hops ever sold.

The price of most malt extracts is 25c a bottle, some sell for 20c, others as low as 15c.

Now if you pay 25c for a bottle of ordinary malt extract and Bass' Barley Wine contains three times more nutritive value, which is the cheaper?

Many of the so-called malt extracts are nothing more nor less than by-products of the brew.

Of course they contain a certain percentage of nutritive value, but very little.

These extracts are then bottled and, naturally, are in a process of fermentation.

To stop fermentation, preservatives, such as salicylic acid and other preparations, are used.

Ask your doctor what effect salicylic acid will have on your kidneys.

Bass' Barley Wine is made from pure barley malt,—not a by-product,—and hops.

It is aged for three years in casks to remove fermentation and when bottled requires no preservatives to keep it for an unlimited period.

When we say that Bass' Barley Wine is the finest production of Bass & Co., the greatest brewers in the world, this is the highest praise we can give it.

You don't take malt extracts merely for the pleasure of drinking them, but for the amount of good they're going to do you.

Shall you then let a difference of 5c stand in the way, when that difference will give you Bass' Barley Wine with three times more nutritive value than any other malt extract?

Some Astonishing Figures On Cow Testing Trials

The Dominion Department of Agriculture Dairy Division issues the following bulletin on cow Testing Associations: Cow testing association members are astonished, to put it mildly at the revelations of the scales and test. In one herd of 17 cows the average yield was 4,380 lb. milk, 4.2 test, and 183 lb .fat. The highest yield of milk and fat from a 7-year-old cow, whose test was only an average of 3.8 for the full period of lactation. Her total yield was 7,300 lb milk and 274 lb. fat. Notice how high this is above the average, 2920 lb. milk more. The yield of the poorest cow, a 10-year-old was only 3,050 lb. milk, 3.7 average yield ,72 lb. of fat less. But this 10-year-old is actually a difference between the two yields of 4,160 lb. milk, and 163 lb fat. Is the one cow worth twice as much as the other? Carry the figuring one step further in order to ascertain profit. Valuing mil kat $1.00 per 100 lb., and even putting the cost of feed at only $30, one cow made just 50 cents profit on the year's business. Did that pay labour, or interest, or any return for supervision or supply any incentive to keep cows? But even assuming that the first cow consumed feed to the value, not of $30 merely, but fifty dollars, the profit is $22.00, or just 44 times as much as with the second cow. Supposing one could just deposit the profit made on each cow; with the kind that makes $22.00 profit one could stand a bank balance of $1,000 by keeping 46 cows, but with the other kind it would necessitate keeping two thousand. Who can afford that? Farmers, the point is evident; test your cows and ascertain definitely whether the fifty cent cow boards in your stables.

PRISONERS FOUR DAYS IN REFRIGERATOR CAR

Two Hungry Youths Had Almost Given Up Hope of Rescue.

Albany, Jun 12.—His attention attracted by a faint tapping as he was passing a refrigerator car to-day, Daniel J. Sheehy, foreman at the New York Central freight house, opened the door of the car and released two young men who said they had been locked in since Tuesday.

They gave their names as Henry Connolly and Chester Snyder and said they were from Boston. They had been to Buffalo in search of employment on the lakes, but were unsuccessful and were beating their way back.

Worn out by their travels they crawled into the car Tuesday and fell asleep. When they awoke they found they were locked in. The car was switched to a siding here and the prisoners had about given up hope of rescue when Sheehy heard them.

The young men were given food by workmen and although weakened by their long fast they hurried on, fearing arrest, by railroad detectives.

THE TORONTOS ARE RIGHT YET

Joe Kelley Says That His Team Have Been Travelling in Hard Luck, But That He is Satisfied —Phyle in the Game When the Team Gets Back.

AS GOOD AS MONTREAL

Toronto, June 11.—Said Joe Kelley: "Casey has a good team, yet I'll leave it to any fair-minded man to judge whether Montreal has anything on us. We deserved to lose several of the games in the series, but not all of them. An unfortunate mistake or two at a critical moment in the game beat us when we had the game won. Mixplays will happen in baseball. They are part and parcel of the game and must be accepted as such. If the shoe had been on the other foot and Montreal had erred and we had won, it would have been a different story to tell.

"I do not anticipate making any changes in the team, except to play regularly myself as soon as I shake this cold. Phyle will not be able to play on this trip, but may be available when we reutrn home, and there may be a change in the infield. Mahling is making too many errors at shortstop and may require a rest, though he has played some brilliant games this season.

"Kellogg would be a great pitcher with control, and I intend to give him every chance to make good. I think Rudolph, McGinley, Lundgren, and Durham are as good as any in the league, all things considered."

Grimshaw said the team would shake the hoodoo pretty soon.

"Some team's in for an awful beating from us," he said, "and we'll make amends for the past."

VISITOR FROM PANAMA CANAL

Mr. E. L. Reed, of Empire, Central America, on a Visit to the City —Was Here 12 Years Ago— Says Peterboro' Has Made Great Progress.

SPEAKS OF GREAT CANAL

Mr. J. L. Reed, of Empire, Central America, is a visitor to the city and during his stay here is a guest at the Hotel National. Mr. Reed is a nephew of Mr. Chenley, of Ennismore, and spent yesterday with him. He left at noon to-day to visit friends in Rochester, but will likely return to Peterborough before leaving for his home. It is some twelve years since he last visited this city and he remarked to an Examiner reporter this morning, that in that time Peterborough had made wonderful progress. He noted many changes and he was pleased to see the city going ahead. While Mr. Reed never spent any more than a visit of a few weeks here, this town is the birthplace of his mother.

Mr. Reed has been in Central America for some years. "Empire is a town of about four thousand people, all employees of the Government in the construction of the Panama Canal. There are twenty such towns along the route of the canal built by the government and are the centres of the various departments of the work of the construction of the canal. People in this country, Mr. Reed states, have no idea of what an immense undertaking the building of the Panama Canal is. It is intended that it should be completed in five years.

NO ARMOURY FOR LINDSAY

Owing to Lack of Funds—The Minister of Militia Advises the County Council That it Will be Impossible to Erect Building at Present Time.

HE WAS PETITIONED

Lindsay, June 11.—The chances for an armoury being built in Lindsay are not particularly bright.

There has been a strong feeling in town that such a building would be very desirable here and that the town was deserving of an armoury. In fact the county council petitioned the Government for such a building last fall.

A courteous letter from the Minister of Militia, Sir Frederick Borden, informed the county council that the Government could not see its way clear for the present at least, to grant sufficient funds for such a purpose.

The minister "regretted exceedingly to inform the council that, owing to lack of funds, due to falling off in the revenue, very few armouries are being built, and the building of one in Lindsay will have to be postponed indefinitely."

FARM TEAM RAN AWAY

Hanlon Howard, Young Hiawatha Runner, Had Narrow Escape While Driving Horses on His Father's Farm— Were Nearly Frightened.

CAME TO SUDDEN STOP

Examiner Special.

Hiawatha, June 12.—Hanlon Howard had a narrow escape from meeting with a serious accident yesterday afternoon by a team of horses running away on his father's farm. They were drawing a load of manure when one of the lines caught on part of the harness. Young Howard stepped out on the pole to release it when the horses took fright and started to run away. Howard at once jumped over one of the horses and avoided the wheels. The team ran through the field and started to enter a timbered piece of land. One wheel struck a tree and stopped the flight. It was rather badly damaged but the horses escaped serious injury. Howard jumped quickly and safely and undoubtedly escaped a serious mishap to himself.

AN ATTEMPT AT BURGLARY

Two Men Were Seen Prowling Around Residence of Mr. J. W. Meyers, Simcoe Street, Last Night Between Eleven and Twelve O'clock

NOTHING WAS STOLEN

A fruitless attempt was made last night to burglarize the house of Mr. J. W. Meyers, 216 Simcoe street. Apparently the culprits began their work too early in the night. It was between 11 and 12 o'clock when Mr. Meyers was awakened by a noise at the rear of his house. He looked and saw two men, but they made good their escape without gaining an entrance. Nothing was stolen.

Directors of the Fair Learned by Last Year's Experience That Excursions From Outside Towns Enhance Success.

A NUMBER THIS YEAR

The directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition have learned by experience that it is a fine idea to make Peterborough the prospective point for excursions on the days of the fair. Last year a largely-attended excursion arrived from Picton and swelled the gate receipts, besides going away with a good idea of Peterborough and the farmers of the district.

At a meeting last night further arrangements were made to endeavour to bring in as many visitors for the occasion as possible. A deputation was also appointed to await on the Council to ask for the usual grant. The prize lists will be ready ... days.

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED WAS JURY'S VERDICT AT ARMSTRONG INQUEST

Satisfied With Proof of Identity and That Death Was Not Due to Any Foul Play—Dr. Gray Presided at Inquest—Report of Post Mortem Examination.

BODY HAS BEEN BURIED

"That Ely Armstrong came to his death from accidental drowning."

The above verdict was reached last night in the inquest into the death of the man whose body was found on Thursday, June 3nd in the Otonabee River. The identity of the man was positively sworn to and the cause of his death was explained by Dr. Young, who performed a post mortem examination.

Coroner Gray conducted the inquest and the jury was composed of the following: Messrs. Jas. W. Latimer, foreman; James H. Latimer, Wm. Henry, Wm. McIlmoyle, James McIlmoyle, Thos. Cowling, Richard Latimer, Jas. Stuart, Geo. Tretter, Jos. Trotter, Jos. Hopkins, Allen Kidd and Jos. Simlin.

The Evidence

James S. Latimer was sworn and stated that a week ago Thursday he saw a body floating down the river at a point near the boundary of Northumberland and Peterborough counties. He pulled it to shore, secured it there and informed the coroner.

Dr. Young in his evidence stated that the cause of death was drowning. There were no external marks of violence. Examined the lungs and found them in condition of a man who had been drowned.

Mr. Elton York said he identified the body as that of E. B. Armstrong. He knew him well by sight, having seen him at the Oxford Hotel. Eli Armstrong, son of the drowned man, identified the goods found on the body as belonging to his father. Mr. York stated that the son had signified his intention of taking the body away. He was not sure that he had done so. He left the city on the day following his arrival.

The jury was not long in arriving at the verdict given above. The body has been interred in the Little Lake cemetery.

SENT HIM TO JAIL BY MISTAKE NOW THEY ARE TO BE MARRIED

HOLLIE LIENHEART. ELIJAH FIELDIN.

Jasonville, Ind., June 12.—This is a classic in love from real life. It teaches that love enuures.

This is the lesson Mollie Lienheart and Elijah Fielden have learned:

With them love endured through grief.

It endured through hardship.

It endured through resentment and a sense of injustice.

It endured though the woman thought the man she loved a thief.

It endured through the whips and stings and disgraces of the penitentiary.

It endured in spite of the stigma of convict and thief which the woman had given the man.

It endured through time and absence and separation—perhaps the severest test of all.

It endured through the busy business life and fortune hunting which the man took up after his term in prison was ended.

Mollie and Lije knew this when they announced their engagement the other day at Jasonville.

Twenty years before to a day she had sent him, her fiance, to the penitentiary, branded as a thief—the lowest kind of a thief, one who stole his sweetheart's ring.

Two weeks ago the ring was found in a well on Mollie's farm and Lije, now a business man, hastening to Mollie with this proof that he was honest, found a miracle.

Love had endured — for both — through everything.

OPEN DOOR THEATRES

Are Trying to Beat the Theatrical Trust—Will Result in Benefit to the Public, as Good Shows Will be Seen at Much Cheaper Prices.

SHUBERTS IN THE SCHEME.

Chicago, Ill., June 12—"We have not formed a theatrical trust to beat the theatrical trst," says J. J. Shubert.

"All we have done, in our recent so-called fight against the trust, is to tell theater owners that, if they don't want to take Klaw and Erlanger shows, they can take ours."

The Shubert firm has given this bit of news to about 227 theaters in the United States.

"Not so very long ago the owners of theaters were nothing more than janitors. They had to take care of their houses and receive the shows that the firm of Klaw and Erlanger sent them. One time they all had to take the moving pictures of the Burns-Johnson fight."

"These theater owners didn't like it, but what could they do? If they refused the Klaw and Erlanger shows, they could not find enough independent shows to occupy their seasons."

"The open door policy for American theaters is an assured fact, I think.

"The Shubert firm has enough shows this season to give any theater owner 40 solid weeks of attractions.

"But we're not trying to coax these theater owners to buck against Klaw and Erlanger. They can take Klaw and Erlanger shows if they want to."

"Do they object to taking them?"

"In the West they do. Here they have formed the Western Managers' Association, and they have all declared for the 'open door' policy."

In spite of Shubert's denial that the Shubert firm is fighting the dramatic trust, there were issued from the New York and Chicago offices recently the first issue of a small paper in which Erlanger is bitterly attacked.

This attack is also directed, in some measure, against David Belasco, who recently agreed to play in Klaw and Erlanger houses.

A cartoon of Erlanger is believed to be the opening gun in a great theatrical fight between the open door managers and the trust during the coming autumn.

It is not improbable that this fight will result in benefit to the public and that many expensive shows at lower prices than ever before will be furnished, while the fight is under way.

Mr. Montizambert's Departure Is Delightfully Signalized

Last night Mr. T. F. Matthews, at his residence, Water street, was host to a large gathering of citizens assembled on the occasion of the departure of Mr. A. Montizambert, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, for Brantford, some time during the present month.

A delightful evening was spent and after supper a little speaking. Mr Matthews, in the course of a few opening words, remarked that that was the first occasion of the kind in many years that had not been honoured by the presence of Judge Weller, whose death was generally and very deeply regretted.

In proposing the health of the guest of the evening, Hon. J. R. Stratton referred to the three years' residence of Mr. Montizambert, which had been such as to be highly valued and appreciated in all the relations it involved—in the church to which he belonged, in social relations and in his public-spirited discharge of the general responsibilities of citizenship. His management of the affairs of the bank had been capable and prudent. In the adjustment of disturbed conditions in banking matters, to which he had been introduced, Mr. Montizambert had dealt with them in a manner to create as little unpleasantness as could possibly have resulted under any bank manager. He hoped Mr. Montizambert and family would have a pleasant life in their new home.

Mr. Montizambert, in reply, stated that during his residence in Peterborough he had become much attached to the city. The people had permitted the establishment of the most cordial and agreeable relations. Both himself and family had been much pleased with their residence in Peterborough and left it with many regrets. He and they would consider themselves fortunate if residence in Brantford should prove, as it doubtless would do, as pleasant as had been their sojourn in Peterborough.

The ladies of the Golf and Country Club gave a very enjoyable luncheon at the links yesterday afternoon, in honour of Miss Montizambert, who is leaving the city. Miss Montizambert has been a very valuable member of the club and her departure from Peterborough is much regretted. She leaves on Tuesday next for Toronto, where she will visit before joining her parents in their new home in Brantford.

NEEDLE FINDS COURSE THROUGH WOMAN'S BODY

Accidentally Enters Breast of Mrs. Cooledge, Brown St. —Makes Its Way to Right Shoulder, Down Right Arm to Second Finger and is Taken Out—Travelled Three Feet in Six Weeks—Doctors Failed to Find It.

A broken piece of a needle was taken from the second finger of Mrs. Alice Cooledge, Brown St., yesterday, having travelled three feet during the past six weeks after accidentally entering her right breast. The needle's course through the upper part of her body has occasioned sharp pains nearly all the way and presents a rather unique and strange case among the many of similar nature that have been reported.

About six weeks ago, Mrs. Cooledge was carrying an armful of wood from the shed into the house. As is customary with women there was a needle in the right breast of her dress. In releasing the wood from her arms one of the sticks caught the needle, drove it into her breast and broke it almost in the middle.

Baffled Doctors

She underwent an operation at the Nicholls Hospital to recover the broken off part, but the doctors attending her were unable to locate it. An incision was made but without any success. From time to time Mrs. Cooledge felt sharp pains in the vicinity of her right shoulder and gradually they became more pronounced. Most recently the pains, more intense in nature were felt in her right arm and yesterday from the second finger of her right hand the doctor took the piece of broken needle.

On examination it was found to have travelled three feet during the past six weeks, and in making the journey it gave Mrs. Cooledge a great deal of pain.

Cases of this nature have been learned of before. The explanation of the course and movement of the needle is that the muscles in the breast converge toward the shoulder and every time they would be moved the needle would be carried upward slowly of course, but none the less surely. Then in the route through the arm gravity may possibly have had some action and the muscles being longitudinal the needle sought the route where the resistance was least.

Six Of One Family Receive Degrees At University

Toronto, Ont., June 12.—The college record of the MacDonnell family in Kingston, has been equalled. At the convocation exercises of Toronto University yesterday Mr. J. H. One son won Banbery scholarship, another second honours in politic science, and his daughter gained honours in moderns.

Omemee Militiamen Are Clamouring For An Armoury

Lindsay, June 12—Omemee wants an armoury. But the building Omemee wants is just a modest little armoury, or rather drill shed, and not as magnificent a structure as the Peterborough armoury.

Omemee had a drill shed at one time. It was built in 1867, and the Government paid half the cost of construction, the township of Emily and the county furnishing the balance of the money.

On an unfortunate occasion the roof of this building fell in, due to the heavy weight of snow which had been allowed to accumulate, and the company which that village and surrounding country furnish to swell the ranks of the 45th Regiment, have no place to drill in or in which to store their accoutrements.

The township council of Emily petitioned the county council of Victoria to assist in securing another drill shed (or armoury) for Omemee, and the council decided yesterday to memorialize the Government to secure the desired building, if possible.

W. M. S. Will Hold Their Convention Here Next Year

Lindsay, June 11.—The closing sessions of the sixteenth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Bay of Quinte conference, were held Thursday afternoon. The women have departed from the town, well pleased with the hospitality of the citizens of Lindsay, and feeling also that the sessions have been helpful and inspiring.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. (Rev.) Mears, of Welcome and Mrs. (Rev.) Johnston; of Camborne, after which two board delegates were elected in the persons of Mrs. (Dr.) Jeffers, Lindsay, and Mrs. Hammond, of Campbellford. Alternates—Mrs. (Rev.) M. E. Wilson, Dunsford, and Mrs. Kendry, of Peterborough. Miss Miller, of Lindsay, was appointed conference representative, and Mrs. Campbell, of Peterborough, branch auditor.

Charlotte St. Methodist Church auxiliary, of Peterborough, extended a hearty invitation to the branch to meet there next year, which was gladly accepted.

THE NOX TASTELESS LIQUOR, DRUG AND TOBACCO CURE.
We have yet to hear of one failure to cure where a fair trial has been given. Can be given without the person knowing it, is harmless and absolutely without taste. Mother, sister or wife, you would be doing a great work by giving this remedy to some members of your family. We will mail a full month's treatment for five dollars. THE ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

To be or not to be, that is the question, in relation to the construction of the Isolation Hospital. What is the City Council thinking about? Have they no regard to the public interests? Have they no regard for the health, comfort, safety, and lives of the citizens? It is indisputable that segregation—isolation—is the only means of stamping out contagious disease. A hospital devoted to this purpose is the only recognised permanent means. Why is it not built? Months, if not years, ago the city council adopted the idea; the site was ready; plans were prepared and approved, yet not a stone or brick has been laid. One would think that the experience of the recent past, that the prevalence of scarlet fever here all winter; that the danger of an outbreak of contagious disease is always present—that all these and other considerations would have moved the aldermen to take some definite and business action and not allow themselves to be eddied about by the wretched policy of drift? It is known that the Provincial Health authorities are officially disgusted and incensed with the inaction of the city authorities in relation to an Isolation Hospital; and, if it had not been made a matter of something like favour, the prompt assistance recently received by the city in its sanitary emergency would not have been so prompt. Tell us why the delay? Why the indifference to the most vital interests of the public? The city is no gainer in a financial way. The present expenditure will probably amount to far more than many years' interest of rthe cost of an Isolation Hospital, besides the inconvenience and expense to which private citizens will be unavoidably subjected, and the possible loss of life that may ensue on account of an outbreak of contagious disease and the lack of facilities for efficient and prompt segregation, and suppression. Is it not reasonable that the Board of Health has been encouraged in the laxity which is fairly chargeable to it, by the indifferent attitude of the City Council? It is high time to begin to think and act. Action is what is required. Put on enough steam to give the craft steering headway.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY

Keats in his Endymion sings sweetly thus, "a thing of beauty is a joy forever." One can never grow weary of writing of the duty of beautifying the city any more than the really public spirited and high-minded citizen can grow weary of the work, to which by virtue of his citizenship he is called, of doing everything to enhance the comeliness and attractiveness of the goodly place in which his lines have been cast; nor can he grow weary of enjoying and admiring or of having others admire the collective civic beauty which he and others in mutual co-operation have helped to create.

The Examiner has often mentioned, with pride and pleasure, that no urban centre in Canada, perhaps, has been more plentifully provided with street trees. Now, in the height of the riot of foliage in leafy June, the city, from a distance, from the heights that encircle it, is literally embowered in arboreal green, suggesting beauty, coolness, comfort and the joy of living in such environment.

In the aggregate the city in the matter of trees is all that reasonable desire can demand. But, in detail, there are matters to be mended. With the natural desire to have foliage and shade as early as possible, trees have been set too closely together. This is all well enough in forestry, where the object is to grow trunk—timber—rather than foliage for shade or adornment. Trees on street lines too thickly planted represent a fault that is easily remedied. If they are planted twelve or fifteen feet apart they can be treated so as to suffer every alternate tree to be removed without impairing the beauty of the line. If alternate trees in a row are selected and trimmed high so as to train the growth of top above the adjacent trees, the latter will be permitted to expand, something which they cannot do if crowded on either side by density of foliage that excludes direct sunlight and stifles growth of terminal twigs. Then, when the foliage of the trees selected to remain have grown laterally within reasonable distance of each other, the tree which has been trimmed to soar above them can be removed—and if not too large or if conditions are, otherwise, favourable, and profitably planted elsewhere—and as far as spread and continuity of foliage in the tree line are concerned, the gap left will be like the greedy boy's apple core—"there won't be no gap."

Trimming or pruning trees is an art, requiring arboriqultural skill, taste and judgment, which everybody cannot do or supervise. It should be done in time as far as the age of the tree is concerned. Most time trimming is delayed so long that limbs of large size have to be sacrificed to the possible impairment of the vitality of the tree and under conditions that prevent the attainment of proper symmetry. Then there is a right way, even of sawing off the limb of a tree. It should be sawed as closely to the trunk as possible. Then the wound will grow over rapidly and under normal conditions the scar will disappear. But if, as is often seen done, several inches of the limb next the trunk is left, it becomes strangulated by the growth, in time rots, leaving a hole and the decay of the trunk is thus begun, with, as is often seen, disastrous results.

The City Council has a duty in this matter. The statute law vests the ownership of street or highway trees jointly in the Crown and the owner of the abutting property. The City Council is responsible, however, for the proper care of trees, but neither it nor the owner can maliciously or wantonly meddle with or destroy them. The city should pay some attention to our trees, and employ some competent person to look after the pruning—not any body that can push a saw, but somebody with skill, taste and judgment. More or less tree trimming should be done every year, as the trees planted at different times, indicate by advance in growth. A little systematic attention to this matter would result in making Peterborough in the matter of trees a corporation Eden.

And the city should also superintend the planting of street trees on new streets or parts of streets not already planted, and not leave the matter to the caprice of owners of property, with results represented by vacancies, the planting of unsuitable trees or the planting of them in improper places. The first thing the owner of a building lot should do in his own interest, not to speak of the public, is to plant trees. They can be growing while he is building and if he postpones building for some time his property will, in the meantime, be growing in value on account of the trees, many time greater than the cost. If the city as it ought to do should undertake to carry out the duty of tree planting and tree care, the results would be to add greatly to the beauty and attractiveness of the city and, if the citizens and city should effectively co-operate, not only in the matter of trees, but in street and lawn cleanliness and neatness, we should have the peerless city beautiful, and could at once exemplify and appreciate the truth of the singing of Keats—

> A thing of beauty is a joy forever:
> Its loveliness increases; it will never > Pass into nothingness; but it will keep
> A bower quiet for us and a sleep
> Full of sweet dreams and health and quiet breathing.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The influx of prospectors, speculators and capitalists into the northern silver fields of Ontario is at a very high flow.

A monument to the late Sir Oliver Mowat is to be placed in the city park, Kingston. Kingston has erected monuments to Sir John A. Macdonald and to Sir George A. Kirkpatrick.

The "dry spell" won't improve crops, but the worst result finds itself in the form of forest fires. In one case a crop growth of a few months is imperilled, but in the other the growth of a century or scores of years is destroyed.

If Great Britain wishes to enter seriously into the race of maintainance of her existing naval supremacy she is certainly fairly well equipped for keeping the lead. We read that Scottish shipbuilders, during the month of May, turned out 30 vessels, totalling 53,604 tons.

Mr. Arthur Balfour's grounds of condemnation of Hon. Lloyd George's budget won't alarm Canadians very greatly. He asserts that the result of the income tax would be to send capital to Canada where it would find its natural use. We can make use of a great deal of British capital.

While restriction of cut is one way of conserving Canadian forest resources, reforestation should not be neglected. It should be provided that when one mature tree is cut down, another or half a dozen should be planted, thus in the course of a generation in the matter of spruce a new crop would have been grown.

If a census, combined with an inventory, were taken, it would probably disclose that what we call the poor are very thinly represented in our churches of all denominations. Why is this? Can it be that there is a less cordial welcome from both pulpit and pew to the man or woman "in vile raiment?" When the founder of the Christian Church was upon the earth He lived, moved and had his being among the humble and poor He filled the hungry with good things, but the rich He sent empty away. His representatives on earth have, it is to be feared, largly reversed this order.

An express train running 60 miles an hour without stopping for 25 hours could just travel the distance covered by the packets (placed end to end) sold in one year of "Salada" Tea. Annual sale exceeds eighteen million packets. 71

SIMPSON TO START IN BELLEVILLE RACE

Big Marathon Event For $3000 On Dominion Day.

Fred Simpson is preparing for the big Marathon to be held in Belleville on Dominion Day. Simpson told the Examiner this morning that he was sending his entry to the officials of the race to-day, and expected to be among the number who will toe the tape for the long grind. Simpson is keeping in training and says he is in good condition. Canada's best Marathoners are among those slated to start in the Belleville affair. The total prize list amounts to $3,000, one of the best offers outside of the race at Toronto.

THE MICROSCOPE.

Proves That Parasites Cause Hair Loss.

Nine-tenths of the diseases of the scalp and hair are caused by parasitic germs. The importance of this discovery by Professor Unna, of the Charity Hospital, Hamburg, Ger, many, can not be overestimated. It explains why ordinary hair preparations, even of the most expensive character fail to cure dandruff; because they do not, and they cannot kill the dandruff germ. The only hair preparation in the world that positively destroys the dandruff parasites that burrow up the scalp into scales called scurf or dandruff, is Newbro's Herpicide. In addition to its destroying the dandruff germ Herpicide is also a delighful hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterboro a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and that the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin working, simply this, more families will of necessity, move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase, in either case property is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People who are contemplating purchasing a house will do well to see J. T. O'Connell's list and get terms. We have a choice selection of properties at moderate prices and easy terms. If you have not time to call during the day, come any evening and we will show you any property on our list. We're always at your service.

WHITE GUIDE OF TEMAGAMI WEDS AN INDIAN MAIDEN

Daughter of Chief Wapash is Married—Consumating a Romance of the North Land That Has Attracted Much Attention.

PARTIES ARE VERY HAPPY

They sat together in front of the tepee not long after sunset. As the great orb sank behind the tree-clad landscape, the shadows gathered until the moon took form high in the heavens, at first pale and phosphorescent, then distinctive and bold, bathing the north with its soft illumination. The river wormed its way to the skyward, like a great serpent of silver, which glistened with the trend of each curvature as it progressed through the forest. The lakes sat like mirrors in the dark green foliage, and looking down into their depths one could see other moons and other forests with innumerable trees standing at strange and uncertain angles.

The tepee was near the shore, and in front two lovers sat, holding each other's hands and whispering to each other. The young man was Thomas Saville, the white guide of Temagami and the other Lisa Navew, an Ojibway princess and daughter of Chief Wapash of Mattagami.

The chief's home was at Napow Kwaning, 120 miles south of Fort Mattagami. Tommy had gone there to see the father some time before, and there he was dazzled by the beauty of this seventeen-year-old maiden. They came to know each other better, and now they sat together as the great moon smiled down on the northern wilderness.

"Ni wi ni go wig?" he asked forcefully, which makes in English, "Will you be my wife?"

"Saa wi gwch. Pa ni ma ni ping," she replied. "It is too soon. Not till summer. And so she passed her eighteenth birthday, and the summer came.

Three passengers who stepped from the Cobalt special at Toronto on Tuesday attracted considerable attention. One was Mr. Saville, one his fiancee wearing plenty beaded moccasins and the garb of her people, and the other Daniel Swen, a great Ojibway boy runner, who may be Hector some day than Longboat.

The bride-to-be looked in wonderment at the great buildings, the clanging street cars and hurrying traffic of all descriptions, the marvellously gowned women and fashionably dressed men. It startled her and she clung closer to her Tommy. Later in the day the party took a ride around the city in a taxicab, and this Indian girl, from far up the Montreal river, who had never seen a steam locomotive or a city, marvelled, but sat in silence.

Yesterday was the day of the wedding. It was as private as possible. Tommy has lived for years among the Indians; he speaks the language and loves life in the open places. He has mining interests that should make him wealthy, but he and his princess will find his greatest happiness in the north, somewhere near the new mines at Shining Tree.

PAULINE, HYPNOTIST, IS PACKING COLONIAL THEATRE NEW YORK, WITH AN ACT THAT IS PROVING A STARTLER

Peterborough People Will Remember His Visit Here Some Years Ago—Theatre Filled Twice Every Day—Pauline Creating a Sensation by His Wonderful Exhibitions—Newspaper Men Test His Powers.

HOW HE LEARNED THE ART

Carolyn Lowrey in the New York Telegraph writes the following interesting article on Pauline, the hypnotist, and who is now creating a sensation by his work in New York and who appeared in Peterboro for a week several years ago.

All the town is talking about Pauline the Hypnotist, which is natural enough, seeing that he has been packing the Colonial Theatre for the past week, with every prospect of continuing to do so this week.

Everybody, I say, is talking about this wonder come out of the mysterious nowhere, the "road," but I doubt if many people know much about him beyond the fact that he does an act which fills the audiences of the Colonial with alternating wonder and mirth. A few who are familiar with hypnotic acts recognize in this sauve Frenchman an artist of surpassing technique and ability to please. Still fewer—and these are the physicians and men of science who have gone behind the scenes and watched him work at short range—recognise in him a hypnotist of very great gifts and indubitable authenticity.

But who knows Pauline the Man?

That is what I asked myself the other night as I sat in the Colonial Theatre in the midst of a gasping, wondering, laughing audience, myself no less demonstrative than my neighbors, though I flattered myself that I knew rather more about hypnotists and hypnotism than most of them.

So I made a resolve that, having seen the Artist, I should make the acquaintance of the Man as well. Last night I made good on this resolution and came away from an hour's talk convinced that I had met one of the most wonderful men of the time.

I don't know what is your conception of a hypnotist. Pauline—Dr. J. R. Pauline is his full name — is a goodly man to look at, and would attract notice through a pair of wonderful eyes that glow under his overhanging brows and at times flash with a fire which electrifies you. It came at last, in response to many pointed and leading questions. Here it is:

Learned as a Boy.

Pauline, as I said, is a Frenchman, because he was born in France, of a French mother and a Canadian father. But he was carried to America when he was a babe in his arms, and his early education was had in Pittsfield, Mass. He speaks both French and English without accent. He was still a boy, when he became interested in hypnotism, partly because both his parents had made a study of the science, or art, or whatever it may be called. While still in school he gave manifestations of an inherited power which both amused and terrified his schoolmates. At the age of 19 he was able to manage his 'subjects' thoroughly and no longer had any doubt of his powers.

At the age of twenty-five he was wisely advised and went to France to study with Charcot — the great Charcot, physician and hypnotist, the admiration and wonder of both professions. Charcot who substituted his hypnotic power for anesthetics in minor operations and who used to walk through the wards of his hospital at Nancy putting his patients to sleep with his hypnotic "Dormez! Dormez!"

A Course of study with Charcot gave to Pauline a breadth of view which enabled him to return to America and deliver illuminating lectures in hospitals, churches, lyceums and Y.M.C.A. lecture rooms and to make the acquaintance of many men of science throughout the country, upon all of whom he made a profund impression.

Begins on Stage.

From the rostrum to the stage is not a far cry, especially for a man who is made by many evidences to realise that he is possessed with the power to please and mystify. Pauline went to the stage, moreover, with the realization that he was able to please and mystify, not only the general public, but the scientific world as well. Everywhere he has given exhibitions he has invited the closest scrutiny by the medical profession, and everywhere the doctors has been his warmest indorsers.

I asked Dr. Pauline what part he thought hypnotism was destined to play in science—to what extent, for example, it would be recognized as a legitimate adjunct to medical practice.

"A large part, I am sure," he answered at once. "Already among the physicians of Europe, and especially of Germany, it is employed in minor surgical operations. Dentists find it a blessing, and some day, I am confident, the whole medical profession will accord to it the place to which it is entitled."

In reference to his act at the Colonial Dr. Pauline said that the first part was an exhibition of physical force pure and simple. He insisted that if the "subject" would roll his eyeball upward as directed it would be a physical impossibility for him to open his eye until the eyeball dropped down again. It is assumed, of course, that the subject places himself wholly in the hypnotist's hands and follows his directions implicitly.

"No man," he says, "can be controlled absolutely against his will by any other man."

I saw Dr. Pauline perform this eyeball experiment on no less than forty-three boys at one time last week, and am prepared to testify to its complete success.

A well-poised man, confident of his own powers, and a thinker, Pauline welcomes and invites investigation by the leading men of science, and, as I have already said, the men of science are his heartiest endorsers. Last Wednesday, for example, Dr. Ira Van Gesen, of the Willard Parker Hospital, at Sixteenth street and the East River, went upon the stage at the Colonial and closely watched Pauline's act from beginning to end. He stood close at hand while the hypnotist was taking the blood from his subject's hands. He did not leave the stage until the entire act was over, and in the end he warmly complimented the operator upon his pre-eminent gifts and accomplishments.

The comedy part of the act did not appeal so strongly, of course, to Dr. Van Gesen, the scientist, but as a man he joined heartily in the roars of laughter that greeted the fun.

In a Store Window.

It was while playing at the Colonial Theatre, Norfolk, Va., that Pauline was invited by the physicians of the town to give a test of his power to put a subject to sleep, and have him awake at a stated hour. Pauline readily consented. A short window in a store in a prominent street as engaged, and the doctors were invited inside the store, while the general public watched from the street outside. Dr. Stanley H. Graves, Edward Hanks, C. J. Andrews and W. J. Adams were the committee.

Dr. Adams challenged Pauline to raise and lower the subject's pulse at will. With Dr. Graves holding the pulse in one hand and his watch in the other, Dr. Pauline began. He did not touch the subject, but under his ministrations the pulse went down from 72 (normal) to 45, and then up to 99. The doctors were more than satisfied.

Pauline then put the subject to sleep. This was early in the afternoon. At 8 o'clock in the evening the man, still sleeping, was carried out of the store and to the Colonial Theatre, down the aisle and upon the stage. There, at 9 o'clock, in the presence of a packed house, the physicians named standing on the stage, Dr. Pauline waked his subject out of the sleep. The doctors were unanimous in their authentication of the experiment.

Finds Lost Articles.

Does Pauline find lost articles? Well, he was once challenged by a committee of newspaper men to prove his powers in this direction. The answer as instant and striking. Dr. Pauline summoned the representatives of all the papers—one from each—kept them near and would not admit another soul.

The newspaper men had planted their article. Blindfolded, Pauline took one of them by the hand and started down the street, on a run, hundreds of citizens following. The course led to a plot of grass. Pauline went swiftly and with certain step to the spot where a key had been concealed, took the key to the postoffice, unlocked the door and opened a box, took out a letter and, still blindfolded, called out the address on the envelope, sought out the person to whom the letter was addressed and placed it in his hand.

Then the bandage was taken from his eyes and the physicians who examined him said they were not surprised to find that Pauline was nearly "all in." His pulse was greatly accelerated and he showed other signs of collapse.

In the unassuming man with whom I spent an hour it was not always easy to conceive the hero of these and other exploits, but now and again when some turn in the conversation brought his lips to a straight line and the flash to his eye, one realised that there were great powers smoldering beneath the surface.

I went away after thanking him for a delightful and instructive hour, congratulating also the manager whose luck or foresight caused him to discover and bring before the New York public an attraction that was able to pack the Colonial twice a day with delighted audiences, and who is, in my estimation, the best in his line. Go and see Pauline and I am sure you will agree with me.

"WOMEN!" "Are You Nervous?"

The results of modern civilization are evidenced in an increase of nervous disorders. It could not be otherwise with the way we eat, drink, lose sleep, and keep up a continual round of excitement. The work, the worry, the excitement, all tell upon the nerves till they cry out in revolt, and will not be pleased till a remedy such as come along with their nerve-strengthening and energizing properties, and restore them to their normal condition.

Mrs. Wm. Levi, Markdale, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been troubled with nervousness, and, like many others, spent lots of money on medicine that did me no good. I was so bad that the least noise would make me jump and my heart would thump so you could hear it plainly and I could not lie on my left side at night. I saw a few testimonials of others and decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and to my great joy and surprise they completely cured me and it only took six boxes to do it. I have a neighbor, Mrs. Rickett, and I induced her to try them and they effected a cure. I can endorse their use for anyone afflicted as I was."

A CASE OF NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Relieved In a Remarkable Manner By Pe-ru-na.

Pe-ru-na is a Systemic Catarrh Remedy.
Especially Adapted to Cases of Nervous Prostration Caused By Overwork, Mental Strain or Extreme Summer Heat.

In latitudes where warm weather is of long continuance, the inhabitants become more or less acclimated to it.

In Temperate Zones, however, where the change from winter to summer is great, the system is sometimes poorly prepared to meet the conditions of hot weather. This is the cause of much sickness.

Stomach catarrh, indigestion and dyspepsia are not among the least of summer ailments.

When the digestion is disturbed, the assimilation is also affected, and as a result the body does not receive the nourishment it should. Lassitude, weakness, brain fag, loss of flesh and nervous prostration are the natural results.

INDIGESTION CAUSES WEAKNESS.

What is needed is a remedy that will restore the digestive organs to their normal condition.

Such a remedy has been found in Peruna. It has proven itself of great value in thousands of cases of this kind.

Its action has been remarkable at times in restoring some patients who had given up all hope of recovery.

But there is nothing strange about Peruna's action. It simply tones up the mucous membranes of the organs involved, restoring them to their normal condition and leaving Nature to perform her duties unhindered.

PE-RU-NA'S BENEFICIAL EFFECT.

That person who has sound, healthy mucous membranes lining the entire digestive tract is well-guarded against the usual summer ailments.

Peruna is the means whereby to attain this most desirable condition.

If you suffer from any of the above mentioned symptoms, try a bottle of Peruna.

One bottle of this remedy is often sufficient to convince any one of its merit as a safe and reliable remedy for all catarrhal conditions.

We have many letters of gratitude received from persons who have experienced its benefits.

These testimonials are proof to us that Peruna has not failed in the mission for which it was intended, that of relieving suffering and restoring health.

MR. P. BRIEN, 20 Third Street, Limoilou, Quebec.

"The fatigues entailed by my duties as accountant began to weaken my system about a year ago. I felt that I would soon no longer be able to withstand the severe strain upon my nerves, as a thing unknown to me before, I would long for office hours to be over in order to rest.

"I gradually grew weaker and a few months later my appetite was impaired. I then broke down completely and was obliged to take to my bed. I was also suffering from palpitation of the heart.

"After a few weeks' treatment by a local physician, I was in the same critical condition and as the doctor held out no great prospects for me, I decided to experiment on myself.

"I took several remedies advertised as tonics, but did not derive any benefit.

"Peruna was then given a trial, and before I had taken it a week my palpitation lessening. After a few weeks more had elapsed, during which time I followed the directions carefully, my shattered nervous system became firmer, my night strength and I hoped to be out soon again.

"My expectations were realised, for in three weeks I assumed my duties as accountant at the office.

"Peruna certainly worked wonders on my system, and for persons run-down from overwork, I believe it is the most efficacious tonic."

Kidneys and Liver.

Mr. George E. Hess, 1611 Broadway, Supervisor of the 2nd District Watervliet, N. Y., writes:

"It is but just to you to acknowledge with thanks the great help I have received from the use of Peruna. Two years ago I was a sick man. My kidneys and liver were out of order, and the pain in my back and head was at times so severe that I was obliged to give up my work.

"At this time a club friend of mine spoke to me of Peruna, and induced me to try it. The effect it had on me from the first was most remarkable. I knew at once that I had secured the right medicine, and was entirely cured in ten weeks."

Distress After Eating.

Mr. J. W. Pritchard, Columbia City, Ind., writes:

"I am pleased to say that I have been cured of catarrh of the stomach by Peruna.

"I could hardly eat anything that agreed with me. Before I would get half through my meal my stomach would fill with gas, causing me much distress and unpleasant feelings for an hour or two after each meal.

"But, thanks to your Peruna, I am now completely cured, and can eat anything I want to without any of the distressing symptoms. I can now enjoy my meals, and it is all due to Dr. Hartman and his wonderful medicine."

THE ABORIGINES OF THE MACKENZIE RIVER LAND

Interesting Information is Given in the Report of Mr. V. S. Steffanson of the Geological Survey—Number Has Decreased From Two Thousand to Four Hundred—Scarlet Fever is Nearly Always Fatal.

Some interesting information concerning the natives who inhabit the region known as the Mackenzie River Delta, is contained in a report by Mr. V. S. Steffanson, which forms part of the report of the geological survey. That river reaches the Arctic Ocean through several mouths, and it is this considerable area inclosed between them which is peopled by Eskimos and Indians. During the past ten years the number of Eskimos along the coast has decreased from over two thousand to less than four hundred, due to the introduction of white men's diseases, the most fatal of which is measles. Instances have occurred where ten out of thirteen individuals in a single house have died from that disease within a week. Consumption seems especially fatal to the Indians, while the Eskimos are not very subject to that malady. Six years ago there were two hundred hunters among the Indians at Fort Wrigby, on the Mackenzie; now there are but twenty, nearly every death being due to tuberculosis. Scarlet fever is almost always fatal.

Mr. Steffanson says the birth rate is very low, and that he has never heard of a family of more than four Eskimos, and many of the married couples have no children. Even if there were no epidemic diseases the race would soon die out.

The Indians are afraid of the Eskimos, and although, through the influence of the Hudson Bay Company's officers, peace has been maintained between the two peoples during the past forty years, the red men have not wholly lost their suspicious dread of their former foes. The Eskimos are superior to the Indians in many respects. They are better workers and are less given to complaint. The Indians treat their women as inferiors, while with the Eskimos there is always most perfect equality between the sexes. The Indians are poor hunters, whereas the Eskimos are experts. The latter are also very honest, personal property being left without any protection; and they are much more hospitable to strangers than are the Indians. The Eskimos have no marriage ceremony, an agreement to live together being all that is needed. Divorce is equally easy and a woman's social standing does not suffer in consequence of her having been divorced. Indeed, the divorced wives of white whalers are preferred as wives by the native men because they are generally familiar with some things of value in the domestic economy. Mr. Steffanson is of the opinion that any attempt at social reform among these people should be undertaken very cautiously.

Along the coast east of the Mackenzie River and on the shores of some of the lakes not very far inland, are the remains of numerous populous towns, and Mr. Steffanson thinks the rivers would prove rich in archaeological material. Apparently there was at one time a large Eskimo population and it seems difficult to explain their progress towards extinction by attributing it to intercourse with white men.

Navigation Laws Which Every Motor Boat Owner Should Know

Reprinted at the Request of Many Peterborough People—Regulations as to the Use of Lights, Whistles and Signals, and the Significance of Buoys.

CUT THIS OUT—SAVE IT.

The Examiner has been asked to reprint the following article:

For the benefit of owners of motor boats and other small craft the following from the Canadian navigation laws, with which every navigator of a motor boat should familiarize himself, are given.

Any boat propelled by machinery comes under the designation of a steam vessel. Boats driven by gasoline, kerosene, naptha, and electric launches rank as steam vessels under the laws of navigation.

The starboard side of a vessel is the right-hand side looking forward.

The port-side is the left-hand side looking forward.

The weather side of a vessel is the side on which the wind blows.

The lee side is the side furthest from the wind.

Right of Way

Right of way is the custom of allowing one class of vessel the privilege of holding a course while another class has to give way.

Steam vessels (which include motor boats) must give way to sailing craft and row boats.

Two steam vessels (or motor boats) meeting head on shall steer to the right and pass to the left.

If two steam vessels are approaching each other in an oblique direction the vessel which has the other on her starboard (right) side shall keep out of the way.

If two vessels are pursuing the same course the one overtaking the other must keep clear.

When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve the risk of a collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

When, by any of these rules, one of two vessels shall keep out of the way the other shall keep her course and speed.

Every boat which is directed by these rules to keep out of the way of another boat, shall on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed, or stop, or reverse.

Lights

Every boat must be equipped with lights at night. This applies as much to a row boat and canoes as to larger craft, and must never be neglected. Failure to carry the required lights make the boats, even down to the canoe and row boat, liable to seizure and confiscation. The Canadian Customs authorities have received orders to enforce the law rigidly.

Power boats must show a green light on the starboard (right) side, a red light on the port (left) side, and a white light at the bow. These may be in the form of a combined lantern showing a red, a green and a white light.

Row boats and canoes must carry and show a white light.

Whistles and Signals

All power boats must be equipped with a whistle, or at least with a horn that can be heard at a distance.

Whistle signals consist of one, two and three short blasts.

One blast indicates the vessel is steering to starboard. Two blasts that she is steering to port. Three blasts that the vessel is going astern.

A danger signal, or signal of distress, is given by four short quick blasts of the whistle.

Buoys and Their Significance

In passing buoys marking shoals if going up the river keep a red buoy on starboard (right-hand) side and a black buoy on the port (left) side. A buoy painted red and black indicates that it may be safely passed on either side. When entering a buoyed harbour keep red buoys to starboard, black buoys to port side.

A white buoy merely indicates a shoal, and if the navigator is in strange water he should proceed cautiously until he has ascertained the channel.

It is the duty of every navigator of a power boat to familiarise himself with the rules of navigation, and to observe them at all times. By doing so he not only gets a greater pleasure from this exhilarating sport, but also reduces to a minimum the possibility of accidents.

GLIMPSES OF LIFE AND CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND

"An Englishman's Home," As Seen by Canadian Eyes—The Peterborough Canoe as it is Used in England on the Avon River—Gossip of the Mother Country

(Written for The Examiner by Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse.)

BATH, ENGLAND.—Having regard to the great agitation that has been going on in Canada in connection with the butter trade, I made enquiry of a gentleman formerly well known in the provision business in Liverpool as to what was the reason for the decline in the importation of butter from Canada. His reply was emphatic—rendered in plain unvarnished English it would not look nice. He gave me to understand, however, that so far as he could see, the reason for the decline was there was not sufficient care taken about the cleansing of dairy utensils or in the making of the butter itself. When exposed to the sun after an ocean voyage, he had known it often to turn rancid in 24 hours. He thought also there was too much colour used; all Swedish and Danish butter was free of colouring. The comparisons he drew between Canadian, New Zealand, Swedish, Danish, Irish and Argentine butter were not favourable to the Canadian brand. The Irish creamery butter, he said, was very good; but the Irish dairy butter was indifferent. New Zealand butter was all of first class quality, and little or no colouring was used in its making. Argentine butter was, if anything, better than the New Zealand or Irish creamery butter at certain seasons; no colouring was used in its production. He had known Canadian butter purchased by the retailers at 90 to 99 shillings per cwt., which on being turned out of the box was unable to fetch more than tenpence per lb. on account of its strong rancid smell. In a week's time, after being exposed, it had to be sold for fresh three pence to four pence per lb. to bakers to do what they could with it.

As to the bacon trade, he said that the quality of the Canadian article had at one time been splendid but curing with borax had ruined the sale.

I give these notes without further comment to allow what a really representative man in his line has to say about the butter and bacon trade with Canada.

There is nothing very exciting going on in England at the present time. Cricket seems to take precedence over all things. Suffragettes are quiescent; politics languishing, and an attempt to create a scare through the medium of a mysterious airship that has been seen hovering over various towns in the south-east of England has failed. It turns out now that the air-ship is nothing more than the advertising scheme of an English firm.

Empire Day was celebrated with imposing ceremonies in all parts of England. Here, in Bath, the presiding genius was Lady de Blaquiere, who as most Canadians know is a French-Canadian, the daughter of the late Mr. George Duchesnay of Montreal. Lady de Blaquiere has been a resident of Bath for some years.

At the risk of giving my readers a surfeit of Bath, I am going to tell them something about the coming pageant which will be held from July 19th to 24th inclusive. There is possibly no city in England so rich in historical associations as Bath. In some form or other this city has flourished on the banks of the Avon since the days of the Romans. Its municipal and ecclesiastical life cover more than 1000 years, and the Roman remains have no rival in the British Empire.

Beyond this, it has been the home of so many illustrious men of past days, that this fact alone renders the city one of the most interesting in England. Marshal Wade, Sir Thomas Lawrence, Gibbon, Pitt, Clive, Horace Walpole, Beau Nash, Burke, Goldsmith, Diskens, Lauder, Ralph Allen, William Wilberforce, the unfortunate Major Andre, Pope, Quin, Sheridan, Scott, Wordsworth, Fielding, Gainsborough, General Wolfe, William Beckford, Herschel, Lord Nelson and a host of others, at some time or other of their lives, lived and moved amid the splendour and gaiety of this fashionable watering place.

When to the charm of its historical associations is added the charm of its glorious beauty, which many a writer has celebrated in verse and prose, it is easy to see that a pageant recalling episodes of its great past must be replete with interest.

The cricket match between Somerset and Lancashire was an exciting one. Lancashire winning by nine runs. The Somerset team did splendidly the second day but their fielding the first day was the worst I remember to have seen. Macleod, the famous Scotch three-quarter man, who made 128, was missed four times on easy catches, and the way the wicket keeper let byes past him to the boundary was enough to make the angels weep. I think these slips of his added nearly 50 to the Lancashire score. Daniels, the Somerset captain, is a splendid all round man and ought to figure later in the season on the English team in the test matches.

I have just seen a performance of "An Englishman's Home," the play that has been causing such a tremendous sensation in England. From everything that is much advertised, one naturally expects much, and in many cases there is a corresponding amount of disappointment. From a colonial standpoint the play seems to be nothing more nor less than a device for rousing public animus against the Government. If such is the case, it is certainly cunningly and cleverly dont. A good deal of the impressiveness of the play is spoiled, however, by the the amount of comedy that is introduced for the gods, who, always the warmest admirers of virtue and condemners of vice, were wonderfully alive to the humour, but failed to distinguish the underlying seriousness of the play. If the company that performed the piece in Germany, gave such a presentation of the German soldiery as was seen here, it is not hard to understand the reception they experienced.

Journalism and antiquarianism are not exactly kindred pursuits, but at the risk of being accused of inflicting "chestnuts," on Examiner readers, I am going to give one or two epitaphs that I have come across in the course of my drives through the country.

Here is one from a tablet, on the wall of the church at Colerne, a small hamlet in Wiltshire, near the borders of Gloucester and Somerset:

"By these inscriptions be it understood,
My occupation was in shedding blood;
And many a beast by me was weekly slain,
Hunger to ease and mortals to maintain.
Now, here I rest, from sin and sorrow free.
By means of Him who shed His blood for me."

Needless to say the occupation of defunct man was butchering.

In the Malmesbury Abbey grounds, there is a tombstone with the following inscription:

"Hannah Troynnoy, killed by a tiger 1903, at 35.
"In bloom of life she's snatched from hence,
She had not time to make defence
For Tyger fierce took life away,
And here she lies in bed of clay,
Until the Resurrection day."

The sad event occurred on the visit of a menagerie.

A very interesting place, lately visited is Lacock Abbey, rendered famous as the abode of Mr. Fox-Talbot, one of the inventors of photography. It is now owned by his son, Mr. C. H. Talbot. The Abbey was founded in 1232, as an Augustan nunnery, but at the time of the Dissolution was granted to Sir Wm. Sherrington, who converted it into a residence. The grounds are very prettily laid out.

In paddling down the Avon the other day, I came across several Peterborough canoes, which were being sent along more or less artistically, (principally less), by stalwart canoeists. You may be sure that I was not backward in extolling the merits of the canoes built in Peterborough. Unfortunately the English boat-builders are copying the models and building similar craft for themselves which, of course, must have a detrimental effect on the trade.

It seems that, after all, notwithstanding the outcry raised by the Unionists against the Territorial scheme, that much reviled system is capable of turning out a very excellent article in the shape of a soldier. Sir Ian. Hamilton has been giving great praise to those who took part in the late manoeuvres on Salisbury Plain. The Territorial cavalry did splendid work. Sir Iam Hamilton has now finished his tenure of the southern command and is installed at the War Office as adjutant-general in the War Council.

Mr. Geo. Lambert, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, has been correcting one or two misapprehensions regarding the number of Dreadnoughts Germany is capable of turning out.

He has shown that it is an impossibility for that country to turn out ships nearly as quickly as has been stated in Parliament to be the case.

Instead of the seventeen Dreadnoughts that it has been said Germany will have ready by July, 1911, we have Admiral Tiepits's own statement that Germany cannot possibly be in possession of more than thirteen by the autumn of 1912. Blathering in public, said Mr. Lambert, did not constitute a naval expert.

It is strange to note the extent to which the fear of invasion has taken possession of the English public.

INDIGESTION CURED EVIDENCE IN PLENTY

Your Neighbours Can Tell You of Cures By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Every case of indigestion, no matter how bad, can be cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Not relieved, but cured for good. That's a sweeping statement and you are quite right in demanding evidence to back it. And it is backed by evidence in plenty—living evidence among your own neighbours, no matter in what part of Canada you live. Ask your neighbours and they will tell you of people in your own district who have bee cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or dizziness, palpitation, sour, stomach, sick headaches, and the internal pains of indigestion. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure because they strike straight at the root of all stomach troubles. They make new, rich blood, and new blood is just what the stomach needs to set it right and give it strength for its work. Mrs. Geo. E. Whitenect, Hatfield Point, N. B., says: "I am glad to have an opportunity to speak in favour of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for they deserve all the praise that can be given them. I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which was often accompanied by nausea, sick headache and backache. As a result my complexion was very bad and I had black rings under the eyes. I took a great deal of doctor's medicine, but it never did more than give me the most temporary relief. About a year ago I was advised to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Before I had taken a couple of boxes I found relief, and by the time I had used a half dozen boxes I found myself feeling like a new woman, with a good appetite, good digestion, and a clear complexion. I can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for this trouble and advise similar sufferers to lose no time in taking them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the troubles which have their origin in bad blood. That is why they cure anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, eczema, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis, and the many ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or two boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine oC., Brockville, Ont.

OLD WOMAN CUTS THIRD SET OF TEETH AT 101

"Auntie" Boyer Delighted—Has Been Toothless for Years—Can "Chew the Rag Once More."

Wilmington, Del., Jun 12.—Louisa Boyer, one hundred and one years old, residing at No. 1126 East Fourteen street, is growing a set of teeth. Several of them are showing through her gums. "Auntie" Boyer takes a long walk every day, goes to church every Sunday, does heavy housework, and in other ways bewilders her friends.

"Auntie" Boyer says the new molars cause her no pain and she is jubilant over the fact of acquiring them, for her second set of grinders had long since disappeared. "Auntie" was born Feb 25, 1808, in Caroline County, Md., and came here when Wilmington was a town of about 15,000 inhabitants.

WORLD'S RAILWAYS

Statistics published by the Prussian minister of public works place the total mileage of the railways of the whole world in 1907 at 594,867 miles, the old world's share being 274,198, and the new world's 320,669 miles. Of the latter 268,058 miles belong to North America (the United States, Canada and Newfoundland), which combined have 34 per cent. more than Europe, and nearly as much as the whole of the old world. Europe's increase over the previous year was 1¼ per cent.; Asia's, 3 per cent.; Africa, 5.7 per cent.; North America's 3 per cent.; South America's, 4 per cent.; and Australasia's ¼ of 1 per cent.

Russia led European countries in railway building during the year, in spite of its special difficulties, with 1,635 miles. France was a poor second, with 431 miles, closely followed by Germany with 411 miles. British India led in Asia with 909 miles, China being next with 464. Nearly all the progress in Africa was in British South Africa (where the addition was 35 2miles, or 6¼ per cent), the French possessions (6 per cent), and Egypt (5¼ per cent.).

The increases from 1903 to 1907 were: Europe, 6.8 per cent.; Asia, 21.5 per cent.; Africa, 24.4 per cent.; the two Americas, 12.4 per cent.; and Australasia, 7 per cent. The growth in Asia and Africa is most notable, and the indications are tha tit will continue in Asia, especially, and in China particularly, where the natives now insist on building their own railways.

During the decade 1897-07, the world's railway mileage increased 140,137 miles, or 23½ per cent. Asia nearly doubled its mileage and Africa gained 65 per cent. North America however, shows much the largest gain.

The capital invested in the world's railways is estimated at $41,774,000,000, which would cover about 85 per cent. of the mileage.

FIRE STARTED 50 YEARS AGO IS STILL BURNING

More Than $1,000,000 Has Been Vainly Expended in Efforts to Extinguish It.

Examiner Special.

Wilke-sbarre, June 12.—Over a million dollars has been vainly spent in efforts to extinguish a fire that has been burning for fifty years in the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company's mine at Summitt Hill, and it is now spreading toward the Spring Tunnel workings. To-day thirty of the Reading Company's carpenters and masons were sent from the Ashland district to aid in erecting concrete walls to check its spread. Great quantities of sulphur are placed in the shafts, and work is so dangerous that every day workmen are brought to the surface unconscious. It may be necessary to fill all the shafts with sulphur in order to continue the battle against the fire.

THIS WELL KNOWN ADVOCATE STATES

His Doctor Advised Him To Take Dodd's Kidney Pills.

And He Found Them to be all They Were Advertised — How and Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure.

Montreal, Que., June 11.—(Special)—"Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by our family physician, and I must say they have proved to be what they were advertised."

This statement made by L. J. R. Hubert, the well-known advocate, of 214 James Street, is a double tribute to Dodd's Kidney Pills. It shows that they are recognized by reputable medical men as a peerless remedy for diseases of the Kidneys and also that they are now looked upon as a standard medicine by the best people in Canada.

And the reason of this is that they do just what they are advertised to do. They cure diseased Kidneys and put them in condition to clear all impurities out of the blood. They cure Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Backache, because these are Kidney Diseases. They cure Rheumatism, Lumbago and Heart Disease because these are caused by impurities in the blood that the Kidneys would strain out of the blood if they were in good working order. If you haven't used them yourself, ask your neighbours about Dodd's Kidney Pills.

WEDDING BELLS

LAING—GILBERT.

One of the prettiest of June weddings took place this morning at 10.30 a.m., in All Saints' Anglican Church, when Miss Mabel Louise Gilbert, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gilbert, Sherbrooke street, was united in marriage to Mr. Archie R. Laing, of Montreal. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. R. H. Trumpour, in the presence of about sixty invited guests and a large number of friends. The front part of the church was reserved for guests, the ends of the pews were tied with garlands of purple and white lilacs, the same flowers being used to bank the chancel and pulpit. The church presented a very attractive appearance.

The bride who was given away by her father looked charming in an Empire gown of cream Oriental satin, beautifully braided. She wore a silk mohair braid poke bonnet with plumes and lilies of the valley, and carried a white Prayer Book with markers of streamers of ribbon and lilies of the valley. The prayer book was the gift of the bride's Sunday School class. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Greta Gilbert, of Toronto, who looked very pretty in a Directoire gown of pink liberty satin, with pink and gold trimmings and heavy fringe. She wore a large brimmed hat, daintily trimmed, with flowers and chiffon and carried pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Bert Laing, of Toronto.

As the bridal party entered the church the organist, Miss Sisson played Lohengrin's wedding march, and on leaving the church played Mendelssohn's march.

During the signing of the register, Miss Mae Laing, cousin of the groom, sang "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy." Mr. and Mrs. Laing left on the 11.26 train for Montreal. The bride travelled in a cream serge suit with trimmings of gold braid and a drooping black hat, with large bunches of tiny pink roses with knotted velvet streamers.

The bride and groom were very popular among the young people of the city, and they are followed by the best wishes of a host of friends. The large array of beautiful and costly presents was fitting testimony to the poularity of the young couple. The bride during the week was given a variety shower by Miss Mollie Blois, and a kitchen shower by Miss Mae Laing. The bride was also given a cutlery shower by a young ladies' club of which she was a valued member.

The guests from out of town attending the wedding were Mrs. (Rev.) Arthur Whallie and daughter, Arnprior, Miss Japp, Orillia, Miss Greta Gilbert and Mrs. Titus, Toronto, Miss Gray, Oshawa, and Mrs. George, Port Hope.

OBITUARY.

WALTER JAMES ROBERTS

The death occurred this morning at his late residence, 502 Stewart street, of Walter James Roberts, son of Mr. W. H. Roberts of this city. The deceased had been in failing health for some time and his demise was not unexpected. He was thirty-three years of age and had been a resident of Peterborough all his life. He was a man widely known and highly esteemed by all who knew him, and his many friends will learn with deep regret of his death. He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, under whose auspices the funeral will be held.

A wife and two children are left to mourn his loss. His parents, three brothers and two sisters also survive him. The brothers are Messrs. Will, of this city, Harry, of Penetang, and Bert, of Windsor. The sisters are Misses Ethel and Maud, residing at home.

The funeral will take place Monday at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

JOHN J. COTTINGHAM.

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital at 2.30 p.m., Friday, after a short illness of Mr. John James Cottingham, who, for the past twenty years, has been a resident of Peterborough, and who was very well known in this city and district. The deceased was about forty-two years of age. He is survived by three brothers, Messrs. Samuel, of Peterborough, George, of Kinmount, and Thomas, of British Columbia, and two sisters, Mrs. Thos. Richardson, and Mrs. Jos. Crowe, Peterborough.

THE BIRDS LIBERATED HERE ARRIVED IN GOOD SHAPE

Mr. W. F. Skitch Has Received Word From New Bedford to That Effect—Encountered a Very Heavy Side Wind on the Atlantic Coast, But Made Good Time, Nevertheless.

Mr. W. F. Skitch, of the Canadian Express Company, received a letter to-day from Mr. Chas. H. Therrien, Secretary of the New Bedford, Mass., Racing Pigeon Club, stating that the birds liberated here last Sunday morning by Mr. Skitch, had arrived in good condition, and that they made splendid time in spite of the fact that they encountered a terrific side wind all along the Atlantic coast.

The following clipping from the New Bedford Evening Standard was enclosed:

H. E. King's birds won the 400 mile test Sunday from Peterborough, Ont. Sixty-seven birds from the New Bedford Racing Pigeon Club were released from that place and the first two in were cocks owned by Mr. King. They were released Sunday afternoon. The first one in was Mr. King's, making the distance in 15 hours, 53 minutes and 33 seconds. The second home was also a King bird, a minute later, and then came one of Therrien and Sargent's, less than two hours behind. The fourth is owned by Alias Desroches, which reached its loft three hours later. Mr. King thus wins the first and second diplomas in the pool.

The birds owned by the New Bedford Homing Pigeon Club, which were to have made the flight from Lockport, N. Y., were not released, as the weather conditions were not suitable.

On the 19th, there will be the great Atlantic combine race from Midland, Ont., and in this contest, 560 miles, there will be equally as many birds as miles. Both local clubs will send birds for the flight and the Peterborough test made Sunday by the Racing Club was for the purpose of giving the birds an experience in crossing the lakes.

In the 200 mile test Sunday for the Suburban Club of Fall River, Wm. Hughes' birds, which won the race the week previous, gave fanciers a surprise, by not getting a bird home up to noon to-day. The record made by his pigeons in the 200 mile test, May 30, was 1890 yards per minute.

The Band Gives Splendid Programme At Its Weekly Concert In Victoria Park

There was an enormous crowd at Victoria Park for the second in the series of Friday night concerts by the 57th Regimental band and the programme given was much enjoyed. The weather was perfect and the evening was one of thorough enjoyment.

The band was in splendid form and their programme was comprised of a variety of numbers that made their efforts most delightful. The new overture, "Stradella," by Flowtow, was one of the features and was admirably played, while Godfrey's "Reminiscences of England" made a big hit with the crowd, the band having to respond with the tuneful "Wee McGregor Patrol," which in turn was encored. Sergeant Hughes' cornet solo, "Columbia" polka, was charmingly played and merited the hearty applause it received. Other numbers that were well played and enthusiastically received were the selection from "The Time, The Place, and The Girl," and the intermezzo "Rainbow."

The band was never in better shape than just now, and their weekly programme are treats which are eagerly looked forward to by the citizens.

Farmers' Institutes' Trip To Ottawa Was A Success

The annual excursion under the auspices of the East and West Peterborough Farmers' Institutes held yesterday to the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, was a most successful event, 425 people patronizing the affair. A special C.P.R. train had been chartered for the occasion, leaving Cavanville at an early hour and starting out from Peterborough at 6:55. A large number boarded the train here and all along the route as far as Tweed more passengers were picked up.

Ottawa was reached at one o'clock and after partaking of dinner, the greater part of the excursionists boarded street cars and went out to the Experimental Farm where they were received by Superintendent Grisdale, who did everything in his power to make the excursionists feel at home and showed them all that was to be seen on the splendid farm chosen by the Government for experimental purposes. The party examined the buildings carefully and were greatly interested by what they saw, especially the poultry department which was in charge of Mr. A. D. Gilbert, a former resident of Peterborough, and well-known here, being an uncle of Mr. F. J. A. Hall, secretary of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibtion. The buildings at Ottawa, while not as pretentious as those at Guelph are admirably fitted out and contain much that is of practical benefit to the agricultural visitor.

On returning from the Farm, which is some distance from Ottawa, and reached by radial railway lines, the party were free to do as they pleased, and the visitors spent the time very pleasantly in seeing the many things of interest at the Capital.

A number of the excursionists returned yesterday morning and the remainder have been getting back on very regular train since, as the tickets are good until to-night.

The officers of the Institute speak in terms of highest praise of the splendid train and service provided by the C.P.R., Secretary Collins stating that it was one of the best the Society has ever had.

Mr. W. McIlroy, the local city agent accompanied the excursionists for the greater part of the journey and did everything possible to make their trip pleasant and enjoyable.

It was the second excursion that the Institutes have held to Ottawa, and was one of the most pleasant and successful outings in the history of the society.

To the officers and committees who had the affair in charge, great credit is due for the success of the excursion, which it is a pleasure to state, is expected to prove a success financially as well.

WITH THE RUNNERS.

SVANBERG DEFEATS HAYES.

Minneapolis, June 11.—John Svanberg defeated Johnny Hayes in a 15-mile race here last night by a little over one-fourth of a mile. The time was 1.36.11. Svanberg took the lead at the start and gained one lap in the first five miles, another in the next five, and one-half a lap in the last mile.

CANADIANS FOR ATHENS.

With Cook as a possibility for Athens, Cotter a sure competitor, Dinny Bennett already promised the trip by the Army Medical Corps A. A., and Claude Pearce, of Toronto, third in the Spectator Marathon, already planning to cross the briny for Athens, Canada will be represented in the big race and there is no reason why Sherring's feat should not be repeated.

Eddie Cotter is holidaying at his home in Burlington, and says that he will not compete in anything but five or ten races until next Spring. "I will develop speed and take things easy, running no chances of putting myself out of the running for the big race next Spring. My experience in England last fall will prove a great help to me, and I fail to see why I should not make a good showing."

• • •

Great interest is being taken in the Shrubb-Sellen twelve-mile race in Toronto to-night, and there is much speculation as to the result. In many quarters it is predicted that Shrubb will find that he has met his match in the former Irish Canadian galloper. However, to the general public it will be a big surprise if Sellen brings home the bacon. The conditions suit Shrubb down to the ground; he is in the best of condition, fit to break a record, if necessary, to win, but he should hardly need to do any record breaking stunt to hold off Sellen, who although a good boy, is not expected to hold Shrubb, although he will give the champion a hard argument.

HAD NEEDLE IN BODY FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Mrs. John O'Connel, wife of an employee of the Department of Street Cleaning, living at No. 210 West One Hundred and Forty-sixth street, became alarmed yesterday afternoon when she noticed that her right hand was swollen.

She hurried to the home of Dr. Ira Ulman, No. 219 West One Hundred and Forty-seventh street. He found that a large vein on the back of the member was badly distended. He asked Mrs. O'Connel if she could account for it. She told the doctor that while drying her hands about twenty-five years ago a needle in the towel pierced her right palm. The point broke off and remained in her hand. Dr. Ulman cut the vein and found the piece of needle.

KEEPING CHILDREN WELL.

Every mother should be able to recognise and cure the minor ills that attack her little ones. Prompt action may prevent serious illness—perhaps save a little life. A simple, safe remedy in the home is therefore a necessity, and for this purpose there is nothing else so good as Baby's-Own Tablets. They promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, destroy worms, break up colds, make teething easy and keep children healthy and cheerful. Mrs. Jos. Levesque, Casselman, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have always found them satisfactory. My child has grown splendidly and is always good natured since I began using this medicine." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW BRUNSWICK IS SWEPT BY BIG FIRE

Big Destruction in New Brunswick and Algoma.

SETTLEMENT IS WIPED OUT

Efforts to Fight Conflagrations in Maritime Province Prove Futile and Rain is Badly Needed—Vivid Story is Told by Refugees Flocking Into Campbellton—Destruction in the North.

St. John, N.B., June 12.—New Brunswick bids fair to be fire-swept from end to end unless rain comes quickly. Forest fires are raging in every section, and the continued drouth and high winds make fighting the flames futile, although thousands of men have been doing nothing else for the past ten days. Many dwellings have already been destroyed and many thousand acres of the best timber land in the province have been burned over.

The most graphic story of the dangers passed through comes in a despatch last night from Campbellton. Refugees from along the Intercolonial Railway, who arrived there last evening, tell a tale of hardship and suffering seldom heard in a settled country. After a week of fighting fires, and when the danger was considered past, the roar of flames was yesterday heard about two miles away from Messrs. Couillard & Guemont's mill, and fanned by a brisk wind, they advanced rapidly on the mill property. A great fight was made to check the flames, but they advanced through the old workings with a roar which sent terror to the hearts of the ninety inhabitants of the place. Without stopping to pack their belongings, some without coast or hats, the men carrying the children and helping the women, ran in advance of the flames two miles, until picked up by a relief train, sent out by the manager of the Intercolonial Railway, and all were brought safely to town, where they are being cared for by friends. The property destroyed consists of the mill, which was equipped with three shingle machines, six million shingles which were purchased by Mr. S. S. Harrison; two million feet of spruce and hardwood, purchased by Messrs. V. and K. Nordin & Co.; four camps, a store, and three hovels, in which were three horses. All the goods in the store and the houses, together with the equipment, were destroyed, and last night nothing but a blackened waste remains of what yesterday morning was a scene of commercial activity.

Forest Fires Along Algoma Central.

Sault Ste. Marie, June 12.—Reports from along the line of the Algoma Central Railway say that bush fires are running all along the line of railway between posts 63 and 69. The fire extends about three miles on each side of the railway. Smith's camp, at mile 68, has been completely destroyed, also the camp of the Mayflower Mining Co. in Pennyfather Township. The fire threatens camps along the Goulais River. From this it is estimated that the fire is covering a large district and unless rain comes may extend right down to the Soo. The Algoma Central Railway has 50 men fighting the flames. The fires are regarded as the most serious that have visited the district for many years. Everything in the bush is very dry.

Commercial Travelers' Wants.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., June 12.—The ninth annual convention of the New York Grand Council of United Commercial Travelers yesterday in a resolution requested all members to urge landlords to install conveniences by which travelers may obtain water without going into the barroom for it. Objection was otherwise made to the roller towel, which was held to be unsanitary, and a protest was lodged against the collection of charges for excess baggage and fees for storage.

South America Needs Missionaries.

Clifton Springs, N.Y., June 12.—South America as a field for missionary work was the burden of the addresses before the International Missionary Union here yesterday.

"No country needs missionaries to a greater extent than South America," said Bishop Neely.

Insane From Reading Papers.

Kingston, June 12.—It is claimed that reading newspaper stories of murder, suicide and crime caused W. T. Carr, Petworth, to go insane. Several dailies came to his home and he was a great reader.

Shoots Man. Kills Self.

Des Moines, Ia., June 12.—After quarreling over an account with Herbert Todd fruiterer, Moses Rice, a peddler, shot Todd. An hour later Rice was found dead, having taken carbolic acid.

Artillery Inspection.

Ottawa, June 12.—The following dates of inspection of artillery are announced: First brigade, Guelph, June 22; second brigade, Niagara, June 18.

PILES CURED at HOME by New Absorption Method.

RUMOUR OF LARGE OFFER TO BE MADE

Canada About to Give Money to Defence, Says Rumor

ADMIRALTY IS GIVING WAY

According to a Report Current in London Canada Is Going to Give Money For Improvement of Defence — Idea of Local Navies Finds More Favor With the Lords of the British Fleet.

London, June 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—It is stated here that the Canadian Government is contemplating a "very generous financial offer to the Imperial Government," to be expended on naval defence in such a way as may be decided by the Imperial Defence Conference.

Balfour's speech has encouraged Canada to believe it possible to come to an agreement with the Imperial Government on lines of an autonomous local navy, working in harmony with the Admiralty. It is added that the Admiralty is now less inclined to oppose the formation of local navies than was the case.

"Omens are favorable, therefore, for an agreement between the Dominion Government and the Admiralty on the lines of their present proposals," is the statement made.

The week's brilliant functions in connection with the Imperial Press Conference reached a climax last night with the Government's dinner. Earl Crewe presided. Premier Asquith, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Col. Seeley, Lord Cromer, Lord Northcote and other distinguished men were present. The Premier proposed the toasts to the guests. He claimed there ought to be in a sense a partnership between Governments and the press. It was the duty of an Imperial press to promote in highest forms, for its worthiest purposes, the spirit of Imperial unity. He referred to the one voice and settled conviction wherewith the statesmen of both parties had dealt with the question of Imperial defence.

Mr. Langlois of Montreal first responded. Speaking for two and a quarter millions of French-Canadians he declared that in all crises Quebec would stand by the Empire. There would be no discordant voice. Should the occasion arise, Canada would be united as a mighty whole to defend the common cause.

French-Canadians were proud of the British flag, which floated over a peaceful and contented people in Quebec.

Speaking in French he expressed pleasure at the entente cordiale. French-Canadians were grateful to Britain for safeguarding their religion, customs and liberties. He recalled with pride that in the dark days of 1812 French-Canadians had saved Canada. What they did then they could be relied on to do in the future.

Cunningham Peswick responded for Australasia.

Lord Crewe said the Home Government would meet the overseas representatives as equals and allies. Nothing could be further from the Minister's thoughts than to dictate to them any policy or act. He thought the International Press Conference would have effects as far-reaching and beneficial as any conference that had been, or would be, held.

The St. Petersburg Novoe Vremya, exalting British Imperial policy as demonstrated in the Imperial Press Conferences, exclaims, "How great will be the might of the Empire if the policy initiated by Chamberlain has already yielded such astonishing fruit." Other newspapers join in the apotheosis to British Imperialism.

G.T.P. Passenger Train.

Winnipeg, Man., June 12.—The first regular passenger train service on the Grand Trunk Pacific will be inaugurated June 16 between Winnipeg and Scott, Sask., 580 miles, to be extended as the roadbed is completed. It is expected that the service will be extended to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains this autumn, and to Fort William and Port Arthur, giving a continuous completed line of about 1,500 miles west from Lake Superior, besides the section built eastwardly from Prince Rupert. Settlers are rapidly taking up land along the line.

Prompter Trade Reports.

Ottawa, June 12.—F. C. T. O'Hara, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, has decided upon a radical move in respect to the manner of issuing the annual report of the Department. Commencing with the report of 1908, it will be issued in seven parts. In this way the most important features of the trade statistics of Canada will not have to be held back until the completion of the other statistics. By adopting this system the Department hopes to present the principal details of the trade of Canada in much shorter time.

Western Counties Want Asylum.

Chatham, June 12.—Yesterday afternoon the County Council unanimously passed a resolution asking the counties of Essex, Middlesex, Elgin and Lambton to co-operate with Kent in building an insane asylum, centrally located in the western peninsula, to take care of the many lunatics which at present have to be taken care of in the local jails because the Government asylums have no room.

$12,500 For Dislocated Spine.

Welland, June 12.—Lafayette Upthegrove, of Port Colborne, has been awarded $12,500 damages against the Great Western Railroad by an Iowa court for injuries received in an accident on Sept. 5, 1907, when he was brakeman on the road. He suffered a rotary dislocation of the spine, permanently disabling him.

A Million Dollar Scheme.

Winnipeg, June 12.—It is rumored that the Dominion Government have plans for opening navigation at a cost of less than a million dollars between North Dakota and Europe, via the Red River, Lake Winnipeg and Hudson Bay.

Farmer Hit by Train.

Brampton, June 12.—Joshua Moddison, a farmer living about two miles from this town, was struck by the C.P.R. express train yesterday morning and badly injured. He is deaf and was walking on the track.

Medical Inspection Before Marriage.

Seattle, June 12.—The new state law providing that applicants for marriage licenses must undergo medical inspection before the woman is 45 years old went into effect Thursday.

MISSIONARY SERVED FIJI STYLE

SAID TO BE HEALTHFUL DISH

London, Jun. 12.—Cannibalism, it turns out, is exceedingly healthful—for the gentleman who orders the dinner—not for him who provides it, of course.

Dr. Gowland Hopkins, a distinguished authority on food and food values, addressed the savants of the Royal Institution a day or two ago on the "Hygienic Advantages of Cannibalism." In the course of his lecture Dr. Hopkins said:

"In consuming his own kind a man is eating eating exactly the right stuff. This fact was proved at Heidelburg very recently by what may seem to be a rather gruesome series of experiments.

"The experimenter testing the point found that a dog fed on dog meat could get along on a much smaller quantity than when supplied with any other food. The explanation is simple; there is a chemistry of species. The blood and tissues of one animal are not of the same character as those of another. The nearer are two species of animals, the nearer the chemistry of their vital organisms. For instance, it is easy to distinguish, under the spectroscope, the difference between the blood of man and the blood of a sheep, but infinitely more difficult to tell which is a man's blood and which a gorilla's or an ourang's or a chimpansee's."

Dr. Hopkins's remarks have provoked some retorts from the wits. Says one:

"It is plain that the last man will be him who was the strongest and the hungriest. Then unable, because of his dietetic habit, to assimilate beef or mutton he will die of starvation."

The lecture was discussed at a very jolly supper last night.

"I'd hate to be the surviving lobster that devoured the only other one," said an American show girl, sadly. "Who'd broil me?"

Intends To Make A Trip To Minnesota In His Ford Auto

Mr. Sherin, who recently purchased a Ford auto from Ald. Jos. J. Duffus, has become an enthusiast motorist. He has had the car about a month and has covered a distance of nearly 1,100 miles, according to the showing of the speedometer on his machine. He has been to Orillia and back, and also to Toronto, in each case taking his family. He has made good time and thoroughly enjoys the sport. In the autumn he intends to make a trip to Minnesota. He will not endeavour to make a speed trial, but by easy stages will try to cover the distance.

"I do not find much pleasure in simply motoring about town or from Lakefield to Peterborough, the real sport is found in a long trip, where everywhere along the road you find variation and something new."

WERE BADLY STUNG

Party of Trout Fishermen Spend a Trying Afternoon—Were Routed by Black Flies.

"You can tell the public that I made one of the biggest catches on record yesterday at a trout creek down near Havelock. I caught so many that, well, we could not stop to count them. Trout? No, I hadn't time to take a try at them. It was black flies and mosquitoes. Look at my ear and neck. I was provided with a fine netting over my head, but that was of no use." Mr. Sportsman badly needed an application of Zam-Buk or some of those other advertised cure for cases of this kind.

According to his story the black flies and mosquitoes are awful. There are hordes and droves of them, and they attack with the pertinacity of the dauntless. The calender or tourist advertisements of the fisherman's paradise does not exsit at present, apparently, and the flies are not expected to disappear for the next week or two. They have excellent stinging powers as has been proved by the bites that the fisherman and others bring back from the primeval brooks and haunts, where man is only an occasional visitor.

WIDE-AWAKE WELLAND'S ADVERTISING BOOKLET

The Advertising Committee of the Board of Trade began work this week on the finest publication that has yet been issued by the town.

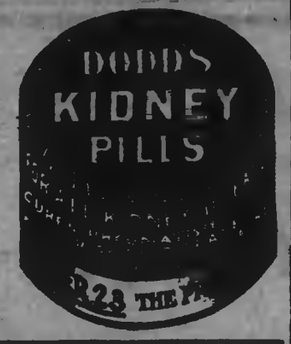
Wm. Fitzsimmons, Industrial Commissioner of the Grand Trunk Railway, and R. W. Long, District Freight Agent, were in town on Tuesday to call on B. J. McCormick. Both gentlemen expressed themselves as being well pleased with the publicity campaign that had been carried on by Welland and agreed to place the services of their department at the disposal of the Board of Trade. They will be back again shortly to spend a day in town. In the meantime they have directed that the photographer of their department be sent to Welland to take views of industrial interest.

A Chicago steel manufacturer who was in town a few days ago, spoke very highly of the advertisement carried by the Board of Trade in Canadian Machinery. It was at the big convention in Cincinnati that the two-page yellow insert caught his eye. —Welland Telegraph.

BEWDLEY BEAT SPRINGVILLE

In a Game of Football at Bewdley Yesterday

A very enjoyable picnic was held at Bewdley yesterday, when a number of interesting sporting events were run off. In a keenly-contested foot-ball match Bewdley defeated Springville by a score of 1-0. Harold Baptie of Springville, was referee. A baseball match between Rosemount and Canton was played, resulting in a winner for the former.



IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of any face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, Friday, June 18.

MR. KENNEDY'S SALES AT TORONTO MARKET

Toronto, June 12.—There was again a fairly heavy run of cattle at the Western Cattle Market, Toronto, this week. Prices for choice butchers was 15 cents per cwt., higher than a week ago. Prospects are for firm prices for the next two to three weeks.

Receipts of live hogs were much lighter and prices 10 cents per cwt higher than the first of the week. I am prepared to pay for next week's delivery, $7.60 f.o.b., $7.85 fed and watered, or $8.10 weighed off cars, Toronto.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, June 12.—The market opened with a fair degree of strength with some pressure on Union Pac. and Amal. Copper. On the other hand there was some decidedly sharp rises in the early trading, particularly in some of the specialties. Among the rails, Wabash issues were the features, the preferred advancing over a point with the rumour more insistent that the big deal is about to be announced. The market toward the end of the hour maintained a firm tone with Steel common a particular feature of strength.

During the second hour there was some profit-taking among the important stocks but the declines were confined to moderate fractions. The market still has a decidedly firm undertone and we look for further bullish operations next week. On any slight recessions Monday we would buy any of the standard issues for good profits.

London was inclined to be irregular, but the general list was quiet. Foreign houses had only moderate number of orders in this market.

MISSIONARY SERVED FIJI STYLE

SAID TO BE HEALTHFUL DISH

London, Jun. 12.—Cannibalism, it turns out, is exceedingly healthful—for the gentleman who orders the dinner—not for him who provides it, of course.

Dr. Gowland Hopkins, a distinguished authority on food and food values, addressed the savants of the Royal Institution a day or two ago on the "Hygienic Advantages of Cannibalism." In the course of his lecture Dr. Hopkins said:

"In consuming his own kind a man is eating eating exactly the right stuff. This fact was proved at Heidelburg very recently by what may seem to be a rather gruesome series of experiments.

"The experimenter testing the point found that a dog fed on dog meat could get along on a much smaller quantity than when supplied with any other food. The explanation is simple; there is a chemistry of species. The blood and tissues of one animal are not of the same character as those of another. The nearer are two species of animals, the nearer the chemistry of their vital organisms. For instance, it is easy to distinguish, under the microscope, the difference between the blood of man and the blood of a sheep, but infinitely more difficult to tell which is a man's blood and which a gorilla's or an ourang's or a chimpansee's."

Dr. Hopkins's remarks have provoked some retorts from the wits. Says one:

"It is plain that the last man will be him who was the strongest and the hungriest. Then unable, because of his dietetic habit, to assimilate beef or mutton he will die of starvation."

The lecture was discussed at a very jolly supper last night.

"I'd hate to be the surviving lobster that devoured the only other one," said an American show girl, sadly. "Who'd broil me?"

Intends To Make A Trip To Minnesota In His Ford Auto

Mr. Sherin, who recently purchased a Ford auto from Ald. Jos. J. Duffus, has become an enthusiast motorist. He has had the car about a month and has covered a distance of nearly 1,100 miles, according to the showing of the speedometer on his machine. He has been to Orillia and back, and also to Toronto, in each case taking his family. He has made good time and thoroughly enjoys the sport. In the autumn he intends to make a trip to Minnesota. He will not endeavour to make a speed trial, but by easy stages will try to cover the distance.

"I do not find much pleasure in simply motoring about town or from Lakefield to Peterborough, the real sport is found in a long trip, where everywhere along the road you find variation and something new."

WERE BADLY STUNG

Party of Trout Fishermen Spend a Trying Afternoon—Were Routed by Black Flies.

"You can tell the public that I made one of the biggest catches on record yesterday at a trout creek down near Havelock. I caught so many that, well, we could not stop to count them. Trout? No, I hadn't time to take a try at them. It was black flies and mosquitoes. Look at my ear and neck. I was provided with a fine netting over my head, but that was of no use." Mr. Sportsman badly needed an application of Zam-Buk or some of those other advertised cure for cases of this kind.

According to his story the black flies and mosquitoes are awful. There are hordes and droves of them, and they attack with the pertinacity of the dauntless. The calender or tourist advertisements of the fisherman's paradise does not exit at present, apparently, and the flies are not expected to disappear for the next week or two. They have excellent stinging powers as has been proved by the bites that the fisherman and others bring back from the primeval brooks and haunts, where man is only an occasional visitor.

WIDE-AWAKE WELLAND'S ADVERTISING BOOKLET

The Advertising Committee of the Board of Trade began work this week on the finest publication that has yet been issued by the town.

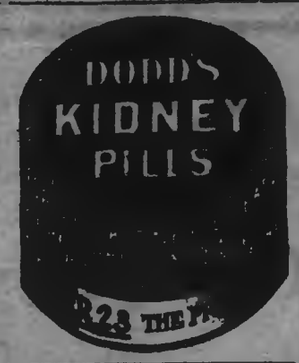
Wm. Fitzsimmons, Industrial Commissioner of the Grand Trunk Railway, and R. W. Long, District Freight Agent, were in town on Tuesday to call on B. J. McCormick. Both gentlemen expressed themselves as being well pleased with the publicity campaign that had been carried on by Welland and agreed to place the services of their department at the disposal of the Board of Trade. They will be back again shortly to spend a day in town. In the meantime they have directed that the photographer of their department be sent to Welland to take views of industrial interest.

A Chicago steel manufacturer who was in town a few days ago, spoke very highly of the advertisement carried by the Board of Trade in Canadian Machinery. It was at the big convention in Cincinnati that the two-page yellow insert caught his eye. —Welland Telegraph.

BEWDLEY BEAT SPRINGVILLE

In a Game of Football at Bewdley Yesterday

A very enjoyable picnic was held at Bewdley yesterday, when a number of interesting sporting events were run off. In a keenly-contested foot-ball match Bewdley defeated Springville by a score of 1-0. Harold Baptie of Springville, was referee. A baseball match between Rosemount and Canton was played, resulting in a winner for the former.



IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of any face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, Friday, June 18.

JIM JEFFRIES TELLS THE STORY OF HIS RING CAREER HE WAS NEVER DEFEATED

"The Title Belongs of Right to Me," Says the Heavyweight, Who Will Endeavour to Snatch Back the Championship of the World From Jack Johnson---The Negro Will Have to Show Him.

(By Jas. J. Jeffries.)

Yes, it's ten years ago to-day that I won the championship of the world, and I've never been defeated since just as I had never been refeated before.

June 9, 1899, was the day I got away with Bob Fitzsimmons at Coney Island in eelven rounds. Fits had previously won the title from Jim Corbett at Carson City in 1897.

Since I won the championship and up to the time I retired from the ring in 1904 I've taken part in nine actual ring battles, and the exhibition affair in which Jack Munroe stayed with me for four rounds out in Butte, Montana.

After I met and defeated Fits I met Tom Sharkey at Coney Island. That was Nov. 3, 1899. Sharkey was the biggest glutton for punishment I ever stack edup against. The fight went, as you remember, for twenty-five rounds before I got the decision.

The next year I fought Jack Finnegan at Detroit, and Finn's championship aspirations faded in the first round.

Just a little more than a month after that I met Jim Corbett at Coney Island and knocked him out in 23 rounds. That was the toughest fight I ever had, except the one with Sharkey, and I consider James J. Corbett to have been the cleverest boxr, without exception, that I ever met in the ring.

Three battles I took part in in 1901. Hank Griffin I won from in Los Angeles one week and knocked one Joe Kennedy at the same place a week later. Then in November of the same year I met Gus Ruhlin, and won from him too.

Lanky Bob came up again in 1903, and we were matched to meet in San Francisco. Bob lasted eight rounds that time.

That was the only match I made that year.

The following year, however, I met and defeated Jim Corbett again in ten rounds at sAn Francisco, and the following year I won from Jack Munroe in two rounds—again at the coast metropolis.

After that I retired, and I think I'm quite right in claiming I am the undefeated champion of the world.

When I retired it was with never a thought of getting back into the ring again.

And if there had been any other man who looked fit to take the measure of Jack Johnson, the negro fighter who trimmed Tommy Burns out at Sydney last December, I don't think that I would have ever thought of getting back again.

Just now I weigh 235 pounds, and with four or five months' hard training I'll probably come down to 226, which I consider my best figure.

My present theatrical engagement terminates in about seven weeks from now. After that I want four months hard training, and then I'm ready for Mr. Johnson.

There may be a trip to Europe for me and Mrs. Jeffries before I actually start work, but it will be a pleasure trip pure and simple.

About Tommy Burns. I consider Tommy Burns was one of the best middle-weights that ever climbed through the ropes—but that's a long way from being at the top of the heavies. Tommy just happened along when there was a dearth of fighters of any class among the big fellows. Burns made his hay while the sun was shining. That's what most of us are out for, and I don't blame him a bit.

As long as the title was in the hands of a white man I wouldn't have said a word. If any of those white men that Burns put away with such ease had reversed the operation, and got away with Tommy I wouldn't have minded a cent, but there's one thing I don't like to see, and that's a man of Mr. Johnson's persuasion pretending to hold the heavyweight championship of the world.

That title belongs of right to me.

I fought for it, won it, and was never defeated. Mr. Johnson has got to show me.

HEREDITY ASSERTS ITSELF IN A RECORD BALL GAME SONS OF AN OLD-TIME STAR

WM. PURTELL PATRICK PURTELL MARK PURTELL

Columbus, O., June 10.—Mark Purtell, whose triple broke up the longest ball game in history—the 26-inning game between Decatur and Bloomington—is the baby of a baseball family.

His brother Billy is the sensational youngster now setting the South-side fans afire in Chicago with his phenomenal fielding, and his father was a diamond hero when baseball was trying to gain a foothold as a recognised sport.

The Purtells reside here, and the boys come by their ability naturally. Ancestry has often playeda stellar role on the diamond, and the oft heard expression, "That fellow's a natural born ball player," carries a lot of truth sometimes.

Patrick W. Purtell broke into baseball at a tender age, reaching the top rung of the ladder when scarcely out of his teens. He was the originator of the slide to second, and battled against stars of the late 60's and early 70's. Spalding, Goldsmith, Anson, Bennett, McBride, Richardson, Williamson and Buck Ewing, all those grand old stars figured in contests with Pere Purtell.

He played first at Binghamton, N.Y., and in the inaugural game there, and scored the first run made on the grounds. During the season o f1869 he was with the Cricket Club, opening the season against the famous Forest City sof Rockford, Ill. The stars of the game included Anson, Fisher, Barker, Pulmar, Bird, Addy and Hastings.

Mark Purtell is but eighteen and Billy scarcely old enough to vote. Both learnde the game on the Columbus lots. Billy first played professional ball at Decatur, and when he was taken into the American league by Comiskey, he sent his kid brother to fill his shoes at Decatur.

SEAGRAM'S PLATER DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Mr. J. E. Seagram's King's Plate disappointment Courtier, a chestnut three-year-old colt by Aladin-Sybil, died this morning at the Woodbine from pneumonia.

On the first day of the Woodbine meeting Courtier ran fifth in the Plate race, and on the following Tuesday with stake weight up, won the Breeder's Stake from Tollendal, Fort Garry and Desert Star, 1⅛ miles, in 1.58 1-5.

Courtier was entered for the Stanley Produce Stakes on Thursday, June 3, but the night before was taken ill with a fever, such as afflicted the other Seagram horses, and which resulted in the fatal attack of pneumonia.

The other Seagram horses are improving in health and may be ready to race at Hamilton.

HAZEL BELLE, FORMER LOCAL MARE, CLEANS UP AT DUFFERIN

Toronto, June 11.—At the Dufferin Park races yesterday in Class B. FIVE CARS ON 4000 MILE DASH FROM NEW YORK TO SEATTL

FORD— DRIVER SCOTT AND MECHANIC SMITH.

New York, June 12.—Starting from the city hall at three o'clock the afternoon of June 1, in response to an electric flash from Washington denoting that President Taft had pressed the key which opened the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, five automobiles started for Seattle.

The race of 4,0[illegible] miles is over city streets, country roads and rough highways, through almost impassable passes of mountain ranges and across the desert. The contestants will cross 12 states and the winner is expected in Seattle in from 21 to 25 days.

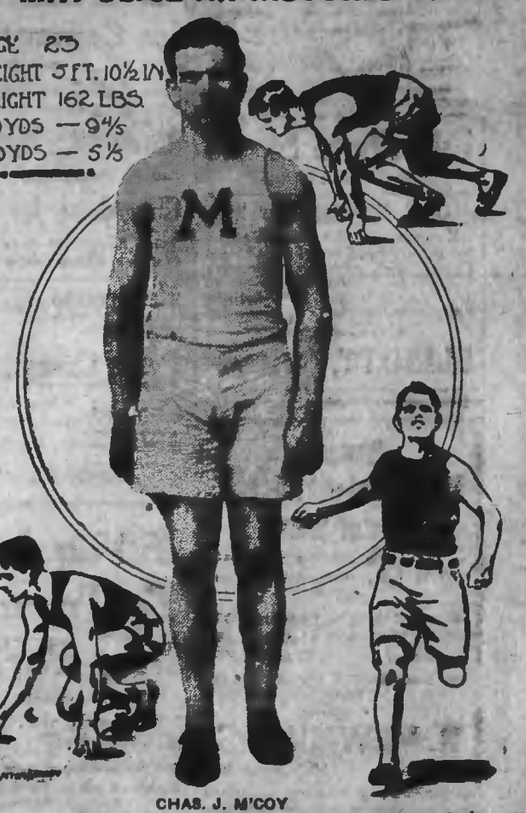
Until St. Louis is reached, the racers will be paced by a car carrying a representative of the Automobile Club of America. No car may pass him. This is to prevent speeding through the thickly populated sections. After leaving St. Louis, the drivers may make a break each day for the finish if they choose.

The winner will receive $3,000 in cash and the Guggenheim trophy.

The second car will draw $1,500, and the third $1,000. All of the competitors drive cars which have been tuned to racing pitch. Each represents the highest skill of its maker, and only the best of material has gone into the construction.

Interest in the race will center in the ability of the lightly constructed low powered cars to hold their own with the heavier, high powered machines.

MIAMI'S MARVELLOUS SPRINTER MAY SLICE AN HISTORIC RECORD



CHAS. J. M'COY

Chicago, June 12.—Has little Miami university developed the greatest sprinter in the world? If Miami watches are true and the clockers know their business, Chas. J. McCoy, has not only equalled 9 4-5 seconds, the world's record for 100 yards, but has cut this several times, negotiating the distance in 9 3-5 and even 9 2-5 seconds.

McCoy is a sturdy youth with the build of a sprinter. He has been sprinting for five years, but not until this spring could he do better than 10 1-5 for the hundred. This year, however, in a dual meet with the University of Cincinnati he was caught in 9 4-5, and he repeated this in the meet with Wittenberg.

Both times McCoy was clocked on a lightning fast track. How he will perform on cinders remains to be seen. He runs high upon his toes, which on a cuppy track would retard his speed.

In addition to the hundred in standard time, McCoy has stepped 50 yards in 5 1-5 seconds, also the world's record. Stories of performances inside the record are numerous at Miami, and the persistence with which it is stated that McCoy has run the hundred in 9 2-5 seems to indicate that he will startle the athletic world this summer.

TECUMSEHS OFF FOR THE WEST ON SATURDAY NIGHT NEXT

Toronto, June 12.—The Tecumsehs will leave Toronto for New Westminster a week from to-day after they play Cornwall a championship N.L.U. game at the Island. Thursday Sir Edward Clouston, acting trustee of the Minto Cup, in the absence of Mr. William Foran, of Ottawa, notified Manager Querrie of the Tecumsehs that Saturday, the 26th, and Tuesday, the 29th of June had been set aside for the cup games between the Indians and New Westminster at the latter city. This will suit the Indians all right, and they are confident of lifting the cup. When the ball game was called off yesterday, the Tecumsehs had an all-afternoon practice, and although the turf was somewhat slippery, the players did the work. Lawson Whitehead was the only absentee. Ions and Kineman have strengthened the Tecumseh defence 25 per cent., and with Charlie Querrie back on the home, the Indians will be much stronger than last year. In the first game with the New Westminsters the Indians will play a fast, light home, and if that does not prove effective a heavy home will be used in the second game.

YALE ATHLETE IN FINE FORM SETS NEW POLE VAULT RECORD

C. S. CAMPBELL VAULTING 12 FEET 3¼ INCHES.

Boston, June 12.—Harvard won the intercollegiate meet, but it was a Yale man who pulled off the most sensational performance. In the pole vault, C. S. Campbell, wearing the blue of the New Haven school, cleared the bar at 12 feet 3¼ inches, breaking the record made by Walter Dray last year. How closely Campbell shaved the bar is shown in the accompanying photograph.

REV. J. J. RAE'S SUCCESS
AT CHICAGO CHURCH

Splendid Year Under His Care—Substantial Increase in His Salary.

The friends of Rev. J. J. Rae will be pleased to hear of the very eminent success his efforts in the ministry are meeting with as pastor of the Eighth Presbyterian church, Chicago of which the trustees have issued a highly satisfactory exhibit of the condition of affairs. The year closes without a deficit and without need of public call to meet indebtedness. The report attributes this gratifying status to the pastor, Rev. Joseph J. Rae, whom it declares to be a pastor indeed, and in support of their words the congregation has voted him the substantial increase in salary of $200.—Oshawa Reformer.

MINISTERIAL AMENITIES
PASTORS EXCHANGE PULPITS

Yesterday Rev. Dr. Marsh, Presbyterian, exchanged pulpits with Rev. J. F. Chapman, B.A., Methodist, of Pontypool, The latter took both services at Springville, and very large congregations were present and heard Rev. Mr. Chapman's sermons with appreciation and edification. He leaves his present circuit at the end of the Conference year, carrying with him general respect and a sense of appreciation by his flock and the public generally of his faithful services.

Yesterday, Rev. Dr. Marsh took the services morning and evening at Manvers station Methodist Church, and the place of worship was not large enough to hold the congregation that flocked to hear his excellent discourses.

THE WEATHER.

During the month of May we had more rain than we desired, and seeding operations were considerably delayed in consequence, but lately conditions have been reversed. The showers of last night will do untold good in many cases. The rain fall totalled .55 of an inch. Sunday was also one of the warmest days of the present summer, the thermometer rising to 80 degrees in the shade. This figure has been reached on several occasions this year, but not exceeded.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of any face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, Friday, June 18.

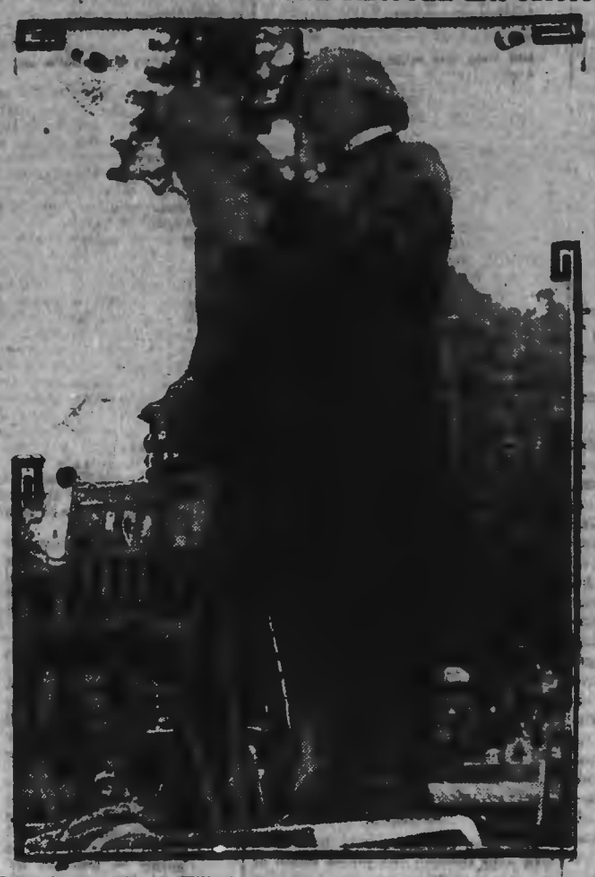
JAMES J. HILL, RAILWAY KING, AT THE SEATTLE EXPOSITION



This picture of Jas. J. Hill, the railroad magnate, was taken as he was delivering the leading speech at the big Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, in Seattle.

Mr. Hill warned the nation that it must "slow down," while praising the people that have made the country great.

Here are some of his epigrams:

"There are four words that should be written on the cornerstones of every public building in this land. These watchwords of the public are equality, simplicity, economy and justice.

"Equality before the law is an embodied promise of the United States.

"The life of those who do the work of the world is generally a simple thing.

"We have complicated our financial system until it encourages the wildest speculation.

POOR WAGES FOR WOMEN HAS DRIVEN THEM TO SHAME

Toronto Methodist Conference Discusses the Problem---Terrible Stories Told at To-day's Session by the Ministers Engaged in Mission Work.

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Toronto, June 14.—At this morning's session of the Toronto Methodist Conference a number of the young men and the older ministers engaged in mission work in Toronto told terrible stories of the manner in which young women, mostly from the country districts, were forced into lives of shame because the wages they received at the places of employment usually open to them were not sufficient to keep them from dying of actual want. One instance was cited of a Methodist minister's daughter, who had ben so forced to leave the straight road, and other equally distressing cases were vouched for. No definite action was taken.

FORMER PETERBORO' MAN IN TELEPHONE GIRL ROMANCE
FOUR OPERATORS MARRY

Special to The Examiner.

Fort William, June 10.—It has been many years since the smiles of the round-faced little urchin with the piercing dart has touched a responding chord in the breast of the management of the municipal telephone line. It will be many years more; in fact not until central girls are no longer required in telephone exchanges will the management look with favour upon the antics of diminutive Dan. Cupid.

And it is not because the officials are women haters, confirmed bachelors or even henpecked husbands.

For from it.

It is because little Daniel is decimating the ranks at telephone headquarters. And he is exercising remarkable skill and persistence.

On the evening of June 22 he will have claimed four young ladies in as many weeks from the central exchange of the municipal system.

"It is certainly remarkable that four young ladies from a single office should be married in the same month," sand one young lady, who told that is was utterly impossible for her to account for the strange coincidence.

"I place no credence in these stories about central girls falling in love with a voice," she said. "Such reports, I believe, invariably have their inception in the workshops of magazine writers."

All four of the young ladies to yield to Cupid's wiles have lived in the city for a considerable time.

Miss Victoria Pritchard, daughter of Mrs. L. Pritchard, 475 Victor street, has lived in the city since childhood. Her wedding will take place in the home of her mother this evening. She has a large circle of friends as has also her fiancee, James Coolidge, of the Empire hotel. Mr. Coolidge came here from Peterborough, Ont., where his parents reside, several years ago.

LIGHTNING STRIKES C. G. E.
SUB-STATION, CAUSING SOME DAMAGE TO THE WIRES

As the result of lightning striking the new sub-station at the Canadian General Electric Company's plant during the storm last night, a number of wires were burned out and damage done to the extent of about $150. The night watchman, in making his rounds, discovered the blaze and gave the alarm on the whistle of the plant. At the same time a telephone message was received at the fire hall, and an alarm was sent in from Box 17, and the fire brigade made a quick run to the fire. Mr. E. G. Patterson and a number of his assistants were quickly on the scene and assisted the brigade in extinguishing the blaze, which was accomplished in a short time.

The whistle was heard all over the city and there was considerable excitement as it was thought that the fire might be more serious than it proved to be. A large number of citizens turned out in the pouring rain to see the blaze.

Y.W.C.A. LAWN PARTY

The Grand Orchestra Will Play Throughout the Evening.

The Grand Orchestra will play throughout the evening at the Y. W. C. A. to-morrow evening at the lawn social.

The Y. W. C. A. girls are anticipating a large attendance at their lawn party to-morrow evening. Do not fail to call on them and enjoy a dish of ice cream. They will also serve home-made cake and candy. The orchestra, Mr. R. J. Devey, Conductor, will play throughout the evening. Admission free.

Mr. George Adam, who has been on the local staff of the Bank of Commerce for the past two years, left on Saturday evening for Port Perry, where he has been transferred to the branch in that town. Mr. Adam received word duly on Saturday afternoon of his removal, and left on the nine o'clock. His numerous friends, while regretting to hear of his departure, will be pleased to hear of his promotion.

THIS BOY WILL BE A RAILROAD KING

ROLAND HARRIMAN

New York, June 14.—Roland Harriman, only son of the railroad wizard, one day will be in control of more miles of railroad than any other boy on earth. It makes little difference to him now, for he is devoted to the outdoors and doesn't care about such things as railroads. This picture was taken at the Harrimans' country home at Tuxedo Park.

THE GOLDEN SHOWERS.

We read in myth and fable of the golden shower, but we had it yesterday in a literal form. The showers that bring the promise of the golden grain have a better claim to be called "golden, than Jove's love-making expedient of that ilk. If the value of last night's bountiful rain could be capitalized, the figures would mount into the millions. According to farmers it came just in time to bring crops of all kinds to their bearings. In the city, lawns and gardens have responded to its genial fertilising influence with the result of almost visible growth. City water is good in its way, but it does not touch the spot like rain. There seems to be suspended fatility — nitrogeneous elements— in the air. The rain, in its descent, catches the minute particles and deposits them at the roots of grass and grain, and plants. The rain was worth millions. We can now count on a continuous milk supply and a good crop.

THE OUTLOOK FOR WHEAT.

The Canadian West feels that a continuance of the weather conditions of the past three weeks for three months longer, will insure the success of the wheat crop. Rapidity of growth has pretty well compensated late seeding. In the newer districts, especially there has been a considerable increase in acreage, though there is a slight falling off in this regard in Manitoba. While this occurs the shortage is made up by increased planting of coarse grains. This indicates, that whether or not they are influenced by the force of weather conditions, western farmers are doing the proper thing in paying attention to crop rotation. The entire devotion to wheat and corn has exhausted the soil of the United States West, and largely accounts for the migration of the farmers of these districts to the virgin regions of the Canadian West. As to the crops in the United States a good authority asserts, that the latest Washington report is none too favourable, at least in the opinion of the market, for its publication was followed by an advance in price. Winter wheat conditions throughout the United States at June 1st are reported at 80.7, as against 83.5, a month earlier, and 86.0 a year ago. This, combined with decreased acreage, points to a yield of forty million bushels less than 1908. Spring wheat shows a large acreage and better conditions than a year ago. This year's estimate of the total wheat crop is slightly over six hundred and fifty million bushels, while the estimate on June 1st, 1908, was six hundred and sixty millions, though the actual wheat yield was 665 million bushels.

LONDON'S CONFIDENCE.

Canada's credit in Great Britain has been subjected to the strain of the exaggerated reports of interested corporations and partizan politicians, in respect to Canadian conditions, resources and prospects. But there is still a strong confidence in Canada's financial position, and what is better, perhaps, is that the British have really discovered Canada and will find a journal, like the London Times, chipping the shell of its conservatism and patronizing toleration of Canada. The Chronicle (Insurance and Finance) speaks as follows in regard to London's confidence in Canadian banking institutions:

> London's strong confidence in Canadian banks and bankers is just now standing the Dominion in good stead. One of the most in good stead. One of the most interesting developments of Empire Day celebrations in Great Britain was the increased importance attached to the event by the London newspapers. The Times issued an immense 56-page supplement, packed full of information on every conceivable aspect of the problem of Empire, Canada and Canadian affairs were fully dealt with. Among the articles was one on "The Investment of Capital within the Empire", which contained the following passage:
>
> "At this moment the Canadian banks are said to be much too conservative to please some of the energetic people of the Northwest, and it is added that their ideas of what is or is not good security are too much influenced by London. We do not believe this. The able men who manage the banking of Canada are fully impressed with the wonderful resources of the newer portions of the country and are ready enough to aid in its development. But they have the interests of the whole of the Dominion to think of and though enterprising to a degree which would rather startle the boards of the banks of the United Kingdom, whose work is of a different kind, they are prudent as well as farseeing in dealing with the enterprises they finance. If they had not been careful of their resources the crisis in the United States of November, 1907, would have extended to Canada."

Such an appreciation of Canadian banking methods in the Times cannot fail to have a good effect in stimulating an interest in investments here.

The recent market demand from individual British investors for local securities, the reception accorded in London to Canadian flotations, the syndiate purhasing of ontrolling interests in established undertakings— all point to continued participation in Canada's development. And the more pronounced this trend becomes, Canadians to see that full value is rendered for value received.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A jubilant farmer this morning asserted that the rain of Sunday night was worth a billion dollars to the farmers of Canada. Though it is good to be grateful and enthusiastic this farmer is a little too much so. The total value of Canada's grain crop was only about 440 million dollars in value last year. This farmer is like Sir James Whitney, who declared that the people of Ontario would save $500,000 a year by the new school book contract—a somewhat optimistic estimate in view of the fact that the people spend less than $100,000 a year in school books.

MILLIONS IN HALF-BURNED STUMPS.

The pine barrens are to be turned into gold through the magic touch of the chemist's hand, and the land that as been so forbidding will be rendered fit for cultivation.

A few years ago the suggestion that these billions of charred pine stumps possessed the slightest value, would have been derided. One dollar an acre has been considered a prohibitive price for the lands thus encumbered, and the man possessed of sufficient hardihood to settle amid the barrens was regarded with mingled pity and suspicion as to his mental soundness. Many of these settlers made good, it is true, but the prospect was terrifying to thousands of others who would have flocked into the country had it not been for the time and labour involved in digging out the old stumps and destroying them.

All this will shortly be changed. With the rapid depletion of the Norway pine forests, and the consequent falling off in the source of supply of by-products, inventive genius began to assert itself. The pine stumps, rich in resinous properties and turpentine, had long been regarded with interest by chemists, who believed that they could be converted into a source of wealth. How to do this was the problem confronting them, which appears to have received a practical solution. And in the working out of this problem wonders have been performed that make Aladdin's lamp appear commonplace by comparison.

Destructive distillation is the process employed in securing turpentine and by-products from these pine stumps that were once regarded as a curse, but are now hailed as a new source of wealth. The shredded and broken wood is piled on cars capable of holding about two cords each and run into huge retorts. The intense heat encoutered here drives out the pitch and tar as well as the moisture, leaving in place of the two cords of wood some thirty bushels of excellent charcoal.

The fluids are subjected to chemical treatment which separates the turpentine from the tar. The former is then carried through pipes to a copper worm not unlike those employed in distilling liquor, where it is condensed and flows into tanks. By a siphon process the water is removed from the turpentine, and the latter is ready to be refined.—From "Turning Pine Barrens into Gold," in July Technical World Magazine.

IMMIGRATION REGULATIONS.

(Ottawa Free Press)

There has been considerable criticism at some of the church conferences this year concerning the class of settlers who are coming into Canada. These strictures apply chiefly, of course, to those who locate in the cities, and towns, for there is, and can be, little objection to those who settle on the land. Such a criticism was made at the Congregational Union yesterday in Toronto, when a clergyman of that city declared that if the class of British immigrants coming into the country were the cream of immigrants he would like to know what the rest would be like.

Of course, this gentleman, like other critics of the Immigration Department, must understand, that neither Toronto nor any other eastern city can ever receive the cream of the immigration, for the very reason that that cream will go West and there seek to take up land. Except in the case of people brought out by the Provincial Government, Eastern Canada cannot hope to offer the same attractiveness to the immigrant as does the West with its fertile plains and fruitful valleys, so that so long as immigration continues, it is inevitable that the eastern cities must secure a percentage of new-comers who are perhaps, not of the highest class, but who are capable of being made good Canadian citizens with a little patience.

But these critics of the Immigration Department fail to understand either the purpose or the policy of the Government in that regard. Money is expended with the object of securing immigrants whose purpose in life is to occupy farm lands either as owners, tenants, or labourers, but money is also voted for the means of excluding those whose presence in Canada would tend to add to the congestion of our towns and cities. Immigration effort is made in these countries which are considered most likely to furnish the people coming within the first of the two classes above specified; no immigration effort is made in those countries which are considered likley to furnish the people coming within the second class.

The act is interpreted and its administration conducted throughout to give effect to the above two distinct lines of policy.

What are the bases of the exclusion provisions of the Immigration Act? Certain of them are mandatory and apply equally to the people of every class of every country. These exclude the physically, mentally, or morally unfit; while other provisions exclude for financial or other reasons, not physical, mental or moral.

These provisions exclude:—

1. Charity-aided immigrants.
2. Europeans who have in their possession less than $25 in cash besides a ticket to their destination, and Asiatics who have less than $200 besides a ticket to destination, excepting citizens of China or Japan, in regard to whom there are special arrangements. (Chinese must pay $500 head tax; Japanese must have in their possession $25 cash and a passport).
3. Immigrants who do not come by continuous passage from, and on ticket purchased in, the country of their birth or citizenship.

The only relaxation of the first of these provisions are made in the cases of persons who have been inspected and approved before sailing by the Canadian officials in England. As to the second, provision is made for relaxation (a) in the case of persons coming to friends permanently resident in Canada and who are capable of supporting them, and (b) in the case of those coming to assured employment. The relaxation in the case of persons coming to friends only applies to persons ordinarily dependent on such friends, that is, wife or children coming to husband or father, brother or sister going to brother; minors going to married or independent sisters; or parents going to children capable of supporting them.

The provision as to the relaxation of the money qualification, because of going to assured employment is this—

(b) In view of the difficulties encountered by non-English speaking immigrants in securing employment, even though coming from the countries in which immigration effort is being made (in cases of their not having the money required and ticket to destination), the agent must be satisfied by evidence which he must record, that such immigrant is coming to assured employment at farm work. (The overseas countries in which immigration effort is made are Great Britain and Ireland, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Iceland, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland.

(c) In case of English-speaking immigrants, while thesteamship companies must be prepared at all times, for a strict enforcement of the money requirement, the agent may, in case the immigrant is otherwise desirable, accept a reasonable assurance that he will find employment, provided such empoyment is at farm work.

Regarding the third cause for ployment, it is dealth with as follows:

(a) Immigrants from countries, other than those in which immigration effort is being made by Canada, cannot be assumed by the immigration officials to be coming to assured employment, and, therefore, each individual will be required to produce the amount of money the regulations call for.

* * * All immigrants who are unable to satisfy the agent either that they have independent means of support or that they are suited to farm work and intend to engage in it, are liable to be excluded under the indirect passage provision.

Thus it will be seen in reply to the clerical criticism that the department is taking all the precautions possible to exclude undesirables, and it must be remembered that while there are complaints on this side of the admission of undesirables, vigorous protests are being made in Great Britain because our exclusion regulations are too strict. So that the policy of the Immigration Department once again goes to show how difficult it is to please everybody.

THE INCREASE OF PROSPERITY.

The upward or downward trend of the volume of trade is indicated as accurately by railroad earnings as any data procurable. According to the returns for May a very substantial increase over the figures for the corresponding month of last year is shown, but there is still a considerable difference between the totals for May of this yar as compared with the totals for May 1907. With the increasing evidence of improvement, of which the crop prospects are the most apparent, the railroad companies will be satisfied if their earnings approximate the record figures for 1907 durthe remaining months of the year.

The earnings of the three Canadian roads for May, of three years, as compiled from the weekly returns are as follows:

	May '09	May '08	May '07
C. P. R.	$6,333,000	$5,393,570	$6,889,000
G. T. R.	3,239,791	3,138,900	3,908,674
C. N. R.	720,100	654,900	870,000

It is evidently taking time for business Whether the stride of 1907 is a desirable one to practice or aspire to is an open question. But when the volume of trade again reaches the standard of that year the country will be prepared to take it comfortably and without throwing its joints out of gear. Canada would not have "wobbled" in that year if her neighbour had kept in step. Mr. E. H. Harriman says the paralysis of trade in the United States in 1907 was due to a withdrawal of public confidence following indiscriminate and unintelligent attacks upon corporate capital. Be that as it may. Many experts on trade conditions agree with him. But if "paralysis" had not seized the trade of the United States that of Canada would not have wobbled on its course to greater volume.

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterboro a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and that the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin working, simply this, more families will of necessity, move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase, in either case property is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People who are contemplating purchasing a house will do well to see J. T. O'Connell's list and get terms. We have a choice selection of properties at moderate prices and easy terms. If you have not time to call during the day, come any evening and we will show you any property on our list. We're always at your service.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

[redacted] writes from [redacted], N.J.—"I was given up by my Physicians to die with Consumption. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."—Mrs. Clarence Lowry, Box 40, Marlton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, abroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case, write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Slavonia's Passengers Owe Safety to the Wireless.

LINER IS A TOTAL WRECK

Message For Help From Cunarder on Shore of Flores Island Reaches Princess Irene 150 Miles Away—She Comes to Assistance and the Passengers Are Transferred Without Accident.

Ponta Delgada, Azores, June 14.—Wireless telegraphy played a prominent part in the saving of the crew and passengers of the Cunard line steamer Slavonia, which is a total wreck two miles southwest of Flores Island.

The steamer Princess Irene was 150 miles away when the thrilling call "C.Q.D." was picked up.

It was shortly before midnight of Wednesday, June 9, that the wireless distress signal was received on board the Princess Irene. The operator answered, and immediately got a message in reply stating the Slavonia was ashore, and where and asking the Princess Irene to come to her assistance.

Her course was at once changed and she went ahead at full speed 18 knots an hour, to the designated location, two miles southwest of Flores Island.

The Princess Irene arrived alongside the Slavonia on Thursday afternoon. It was arranged that she should take on board the cabin passengers of the Cunard liner and work was at once begun. All Thursday night was taken up with the transfer, and the 110 passengers, women and children, were on board by daylight. The transfer was made without a single accident and on Friday morning early the Princess Irene left the Slavonia for Gibraltar.

In the meantime the wireless calls for help sent out by the Slavonia had been heard by the Hamburg-American liner Batavia, which hastened to the scene. The intermediate and steerage passengers of the Slavonia were transferred to the Batavia also without accident.

There remained on board the Slavonia only the members of her crew, but according to the latest intelligence received here the entire ship's company left the wreck and went ashore at Velas, on the Island of Flores, some time on Friday morning.

The Slavonia was full of water and she was a total wreck.

Flores Island, where the Slavonia is grounded, is the most westerly of the Azores group. Many dangerous reefs surround the island, which is of volcanic origin, and a great reef extends seaward to the southwest.

Follows Husband.

Toronto, June 14.—To develop smallpox while in the Isolation Hospital, whither she had gone because she objected to staying alone at home while her husband was confined in the Swiss Cottage with the disease, is the experience of Mrs. McCluskey, of Franklin avenue.

On May 27 her husband, Albert McCluskey, was removed to the smallpox hospital. Mrs. McCluskey prevailed upon the authorities to allow her to occupy a room in the Isolation Hospital. Chief Inspector Wilson of the Medical Health Department, says that Mrs. McCluskey did not show symptoms of the malady at that time, and that she was not allowed to leave her room in the hospital. After two weeks she exhibited unmistakable evidence of the disease, and she has now joined her husband in the Swiss Cottage.

Town Nearly Burned.

Joggins, N.S., June 14.—Twenty-five thousand dollars' damage was caused by a fire which was discovered in the town hall here yesterday afternoon. The flames spread to the residences of John Hennessey and Chas. Melanson. Change in the wind was all that saved the town from destruction, as the fireman were seriously handicapped from the lack of water and apparatus.

Train Blocked by Caterpillars.

St. John, N.B., June 14.—A C.P.R. freight train was stalled near Fredericton Junction Thursday night by caterpillars, which covered the track an inch or more deep for nearly two miles.

The train crew had to shovel the track clear.

Was Troubled With Weak Back For Years.

Could Not Perform Household Duties. Doctors Attended Without Avail.

Mrs. Arch. Stinson, Black Point, N.B., writes: "For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realizing quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure Backache and all forms of Kidney and Bladder Disease.

A medicine that strengthens the kidneys so that they are enabled to extract the poisonous uric acid from the blood and prevent the chief cause of Rheumatism.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's".

Corner In Winnipeg Wheat.

Winnipeg, June 14.—There is every evidence of a corner in Winnipeg July wheat, that option having risen almost nine cents within the past few days.

Some members of grain exchange say it will advance further, while others are of the opinion that it is just a flurry, and it will not hold. A great many shorts have run to cover on the advance, but there is still a large short interest, who will probably have to cover higher up.

It is rumored that J. Ogden Armour of Chicago is a large holder of the July option, while Winnipeg and Minneapolis people are short.

July opened yesterday at 136 3-4, sold up to 139, then reacted and closed 136 3-4.

Fights For Life on Scaffold.

Floresville, Texas, June 14.—Using as a weapon a sharpened spoon, Refugio Juarequez, sentenced to hang for criminal assault, fought desperately on the scaffold to prevent execution. He stabbed Sheriff William Wright over the heart when the officer attempted to adjust the black cap. The wound is not serious. The first time the trap was sprung Juarequez fell across the trap. He protested his innocence to the end.

Attempt to Dynamite Church.

Latonia, Ohio, June 14.—Unknown persons blew up the First Presbyterian Church Saturday night with a dynamite bomb. The pastor has taken an active part in fighting liquor cases now on trial. This is the fifth attempt in the last day or two at dynamiting.

PROTEST IN WATERLOO.

Conservatives Object to Board of Registration in Election.

Berlin, June 14.—Notwithstanding that people generally have been authentic regarding the approaching bye-election, interest may be shown as a result of a protest entered Saturday afternoon against the personnel of the board of registration, on the grounds that insufficient notice of the same was given.

The facts are that E. J. Bressmisel, clerk of the county court, being unable to act, owing to the sitting of court, Crossley Clerk Bowman was appointed to act in his stead. The writ was issued at Ottawa on June 2, and was delivered here in person on June 7, by J. G. Foley, clerk of the crown in chancery at Ottawa, who came here to attend a convention. Registration began on June 9.

The authorities claim to have acted within the requirements of the act, but the protest is entered on the grounds that the procedure was irregular and invalid.

There is no indications, however, that the Conservatives will place a candidate in the field against Hon. Mackenzie King. Liberals claim that the action taken is simply in order to make political capital.

The registration court sat three days, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, and the number who registered was less than 50. The Conservative executive have issued a statement complaining that the short notice given did not give them time to organize for registration.

Steen Mended, Says Graham.

Ottawa, June 14.—"It will be all right in a short time."

This was the reply of Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, when asked last night as to the result of his inspection of the damaged "Soo" canal.

Hon. Mr. Graham had little to say about his visit to the Soo. He remarked that the matter was one to be investigated on the other side of the boundary, as the Walker, which wrought the havoc, is owned by a U. S. firm. He didn't care to discuss the damage done or the responsibility therefor.

It is understood although Mr. Graham didn't say so definitely, that he will report to the Department of Justice.

NEGLECTED TO PAY THEIR POLL TAX

City Tax Collector Green had three citizens before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning charged with neglecting to pay their poll tax. The first one called claimed that he did not have to pay it on the grounds that he paid taxes in Otonabee. Mr. E. H. D. Hall, the city solicitor, was present. He and the magistrate disagreed as to whether the defendant should have to pay and reserved judgment in order to settle the point of law.

The second young man who had not paid his dollar was fined five dollars and costs amounting to $7.60, for neglecting to do so. The third man charged proved that he was over sixty and His Worship allowed him to go as he was past the age limit.

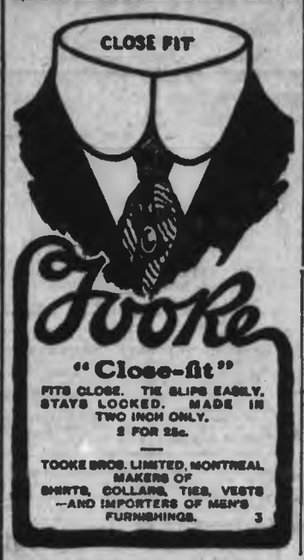
MUSIC AND DRAMA.

THE GINGERBREAD MAN.

The only regrettable feature about the presentation of the Gingerbread Man on Saturday night was that it came too late and did not receive as large a patronage as it deserved. Even at that the attendance was fair and, considering with the lateness of the season the fact that this is the third visit to Peterborough, the box office showing was very favourable. Baldwin Sloane's music was rendered as airly and daintily as ever. The principals sang delightfully, particularly May Bouton, who, as Maxie Bon Bon, the confectioner's daughter, sang the Beautiful Land of Bon Bon with splendid effect, assisted by a chorus that was well balanced and strong in all the ensembles. Adele Archer, as "Jack Horner" had a large share of the numbers, singing "Maxie" and "Moon, Moon, Moon". Fred Nice, in the title role, had the same comedy lines as in the original, but his specialties in offering "John Dough," were mostly new and clever. The Gingerbread Man loses none of its pristine popularity in the hands of the present company. The Venetian Male Quartette introduced a specialty that was much enjoyed. Their voices blend richly and their singing is a distinct feature.

CARRICK MAJOR

When the "Gingerbread Man" completes its engagement at the Grand Opera House, Toronto, next Saturday night the company will go to New York, their season ending with the Toronto engagement. Carrick Major, who has been playing the part of Machavelius Fudge and particularly has pleased many an audience by his singing of "The Awful Bogie Man," "The Evil Eye," and "Queen of My Dreams," will join the Roger Bros. musical show. It is at least learned that next week he intends to sign a contract for the season of 1910, with the company at a salary of $150.00 a week. His sterling baritone voice has a resonant and clear tone, making one of the most valued of the Gingerbread's vocalists. Mr. Major by profession is a dentist.



NATIONAL CASH REGISTERS

Representative of above company will be at the Oriental Hotel with the latest improved models of National Cash Registers for week of June 19th. J. T. GREENE, Sales Agent.

ANNUAL SERMON TO MEMBERS OF COURT CHEMONG FORESTERS

Delivered by Rev. J. R. Webb at Murray Street Baptist Church Last Evening—A Large Turnout

AN EXCELLENT DISCOURSE

The annual church parade of the members of Court Chemong, Canadian Order of Foresters, was held last evening to Murray Street Baptist Church, where the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, preached an eloquent and most appropriate sermon. He gave his hearers much food for thought and they must have gone away deeply impressed with the remarks that they had heard.

The members turned out in large numbers and occupied the pews in the centre aisle. The music rendered by the choir was excellent; an anthem, with solo by Miss Clara Kidd, being splendidly given. A quartette, consisting of Miss Clara Kidd, Mrs. Miller, and Messrs. Baddan and Ferguson, sang at the conclusion of the sermon.

The Sermon.

Rev. Mr. Webb chose his text from the eighth verse of the 5th chapter of the first book of Timothy: "But if any provide for his own and especially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith and is worse than an infidel." Previous to announcing his text, the pastor extended a hearty welcome to the visiting brethren. He was glad to have them and would thank God if any word he might speak would be of profit to them.

The words of the text were those of the Apostle Paul to a young minister, Timothy. The roots of religion, the speaker said, went down deep with St. Paul. He gave up everything that he might win Christ. He did not say one thing and do another. One could not put any faith in such a man. The preacher stated that there was something mystical and preeminently practical about the words of the text. The text taught that there was a worse symptom han unbelief. It is an awful thing to be an unbeliever, but Paul stated that there is a worse state than that. The speaker believed that when an individual ceased to respect himself and to love his wife and family he was a hopeless case.

Liberty, benevolence and concord, he understood, were the standards of the Foresters. These should not only be exercised in the Society, but in the home as well. He must be ready to make sacrifices for his wife and family. He must, as the Apostle says, provide for his own. But in providing for their bodies he must be not allow the mind and soul to degenerate. The son took his father for a pattern, and it was for the parent to see that he held up to his boy the highest ideals. The Society was a protection for the family, but he urged the members to provide all things for their families, to carry out their high ideals, both at home and in the society, and he concluded by saying that they could never do a nobler thing than to say "I will not deny Christ."

The society marched back to their hall and passed the usual votes of thanks to the pastor and choir.

On returning to the hall a short meeting was held, at which a vote of thanks was passed to Rev.. J. R. Webb, for his earnest and inspiring sermon, to the officials of the Murray Street Baptist Church for the use of the edifice and the accommodation provided, and to the choir for its excellent music. Votes of thanks were also passed to the committee which had the affair in charge: Bro. A. H. Webb, P. C. R.; Bro. G. W. Powell, F. S.; Bro. N. C. McKinnon, C. P., and Bro. J. W. Buyers, R. S., and to the marshals, Bro. A Allison, S P. C. R., and Bro. J. R. Bromnlee, J.W. Bro. B. V. Peters rendered a sacred solo in excellent voice during the meeting.

Despite the threatening weather th erewas a turnout of one hundred members of the Order.

Mr. Pentland Gives Reasons Why Sidewalk On Benson Street Should Be Outside Trees

Editor Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I noticed in Friday night's paper a letter re the Benson street sidewalk. I think that it is nothing but proper that, in so far as it is possible to place such a man as Ratepayer right, it should be done. In the first place he starts out with the statement that the tree line is eight feet from the street line, when as a matter of fact it is ten feet seven inches; but to a man who is anxious to make out a case, and in considering such a tremendous distance, a matter of only two feet seven inches is a mere trifle. His next point: He says the street passes over a hill. Well, I'm very glad he has noticed that; to my mind that is about the only thing in all his letter that he has noticed. He says there is a deep cut. We deny that, especially as far as the east side is concerned. We wish to have the hill still lowered twenty-two inches. That being done, after levelling the bank, we will at the highest point only have a grade of one foot in twelve. He is now troubled with snow blindness. I have lived in the house I now occupy for 22 years, and have never seen any trouble on that hill with snow that does not exist in any other part of the city when the snow is abnormally deep. Again, he has been entirely misinformed as to the reason for purchasing the portion of land on the west side of the street. It has been purchased after considerable agitation on the part of the citizens of Benson 'street and surrounding neighbourhood to have the street the regulation width, so that they may be the better able to make the street more beautiful. Now, sir, he speaks of the snow melting and freezing on the sidewalk if placed outside the tree line. Now any person with ordinary common sense knows that wherever the snow plow runs that is where water both runs and freezes, whether it is outside or inside the tree line. With this difference, it is soon over with on the hill. With regard to the percentage we pay, Ratepayer is not quite fair. We pay absolutely 60 per cent., and also our share of the 40 per cent., while the property owners on the west side of the street only pay their share of the 40 per cent. The same state of affairs holds good on dozens of our streets. Now, sir, Ratepayer does not mention the fact of trying to make the street beautiful, and in spite of what anyone says, that is the sole reason why we want the walk outside the tree line. We believe that in no other way can we make the street look pretty, and why shouldn't we have it beautiful? The people living on that street and in that locality are the most peaceful, the most cheerful and altogther the best looking lot to be found in our fair city therefore, the best is none too good for them. But all jokes aside, we believe that if the Aldermen will let us have our way in this matter they will never have any cause to regret it, if not, they may.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I am, yours truly,

J. B. PENTLAND.

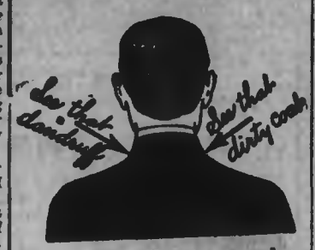
ORGANIZER GRIEVE ADDING TO SONS OF SCOTLAND

New Members Joining the Order and Good Work Accomplished—Grand Camp to Meet.

Mr. Robert Grieve, the energetic organiser for the Sons of Scotland, has been in the city and vicinity during the past week, and reports good progress and increased interest taken in the order. The near approach of the Grand Camp Conference is helping to make the canvass for new members more lively. In Campbellford, Mr. Grieve has been busy. He has added twenty-four new members to Gordon Camp, which brings up the membership in this camp to over 130. Havelock and Warkworth Camps have also received the benefit of more new members, and other points have been stirred up. Mr. Grieve returns to Warkworth this week to close up additional good prospects there, after which he will attend the bi-annual meeting of Grand Camp in Toronto on June 22 and 23. Chief MacKay of Camp Clan Alpine, is the delegate from this city.

A FILTHY CONDITION



Many a man, otherwise conspicuously clean, is dandruff dirty. The small, persistent germs of dandruff working all day as well as night are constantly throwing off the small white dandruff scales which, falling on the shoulders of a coat, give it a filthy appearance which is repulsive to the friends of the victim.

Many men allow this condition to exist because they believe there is no cure for dandruff; they have tried various so-called cures with unsatisfactory results, and naturally condemn all.

The famous prescription called Parisian Sage is put up in America, but only by the Giroux Mfg. Co., of Buffalo, N.Y., and Fort Erie, Ont. It is for sale in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, who guarantees it to cure dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to do more; it will make short, thin hair grow long, lustrous and luxuriant; it will stop hair from falling out; it will cure all diseases of the scalp. Wm. Madill guarantees it — every bottle of it. The price is only 50 cents, and if you want to stop the filthy dandruff flakes from lodging on your coat and disgusting your friends, get a bottle at once.

WEDDING BELLS

MALLORY—BISSELL

The Brockville Recorder, of June 3, has the following:

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Clifford, Mill street, was the scene of unusual interest last evening when their only daughter, Miss Irene Mallory was united in marriage to Mr. Olin C. Bissell, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bissell, of this town.

The bride, gowned in embroidered chiffon over duchess satin with trimmings of hand embroidered chiffon and wearing the customary veil, caught up with lilies of the valley, and carrying a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses, was escorted to the altar on the arm of her father, the bridesmaids being Miss Helen E. Taylor, of Knowlton, Quebec and Miss Alberta Lane, of Brockville, each gowned in white silk and carrying bouquets of lilies of the valley and carnations, while Mr. Clifford Bissell, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman.

Rev. Dr. J. B. Saunders, of Montreal, relative of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The decorations of the room corresponded with the flowers worn by the bridal party, the marriage taking place under an arch of smilax and suspended from the centre was a horseshoe of lilies of the valley. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. Harold Mallory, Brockville's favourite soloist rendered in his usual perfect style, "Beloved It Is Morn."

The bridal party and guests then entered the dining room, where a wedding supper was served and at the conclusion the young couple were escorted to the station, where they departed on an extended trip, being sent off in an enthusiastic manner by the large number present.

The bride is one of Brockville's charming and clever young ladies, and as an elocutionist has appeared many times in public, both in Brockville and various other places and will be greatly missed from the Island City.

The groom is one of Brockville's young men who has been successful in his sphere of life and at the present time is representative in Western Ontario for the Ogilvie Flour Mills Company with his headquarters at Peterborough.

The young people will reside at Peterborough and will be at home to their friends after September 15.

Going away Mrs. Bissell wore a costume of pearl gray English broadcloth, her hat being tuscan straw, with old rose trimmings.

Mr. and Mrs. Bissell were each the recipients of many valuable presents from friends in all quarters as far off as Japan, and each is expressive of the esteem in which the young couple are held.

To Mr. and Mrs. Bissell, the Recorder extends its congratulations and well wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bissell have taken up their residence in the Grand Central apartments, George street.

OBITUARY

MRS. H. J. MOUNTJOY.

The death occurred very suddenly on Saturday evening at her late residence, 209 Stewart street, of Mrs. H. J Mountjoy. The deceased although she had not been in the best of health of late, passed away very unexpectedly. She had attended to her household duties as usual on Saturday, but between five and six o'clock she took an hemorrhage and died soon after. The news of her death was received with the profoundest regret by a wide circle of friends with whom the late Mrs. Mountjoy was held in the highest esteem.

She was 36 years of age, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byers, of Port Perry. She came to Peterborough with her husband a year ago. Besides her husband, father, and mother, one brother, Mr. O. L. Byers, of Toronto, survives her.

A funeral service will be held at the home this evening at 8 o'clock, conducted by Rev. G. W. Henderson. The remains will be conveyed to the C. P. R. station to-morrow morning to the 8 o'clock train for Hampton, where interment will take place.

HORACE FOSTER

The death occurred on Saturday evening of Horace Foster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Foster, 225 Carlisle Ave., East City. He was three years and eleven months old. The little fellow was scalded on the thirty-first of May and later scarlet fever developed, resulting in his death. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents.

The funeral took place this morning at nine o'clock to the Little Lake Cemeter. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt conducted the services.

WEIGHT OF YESTERDAY'S BOUNTIFUL FALL OF RAIN

We can only appreciate the volume of rainfall by a knowledge of its depth. For instance, the rainfall of yesterday an dlast night was a trifle over half an inch. Now, an inch of rainfall means a weight of 113 tons on an acre. Yesterday's rainfall would therefore amount to 56½ tons of water on every acre of soil.

PROF. KILPATRICK SPEAKS ON REVIVAL IN THE KOOTENAY

The Noted Preacher and Lecturer of Knox College, Toronto, Occupied Knox Church Pulpit Yesterday—An Interesting Word Picture.

An interesting word picture of the great revival in the Kootenay district was given at Knox Church last night by Prof. Kilpatrick, D.D., of Knox College, Toronto. The revival, which was richly blessed, was concluded a short time ago and as Prof. Kilpatrick was one of the workers he was in a position to give a graphic description of how the revival was conducted and of what was accomplished.

Prof. Kilpatrick, who is a noted preacher and lecturer, preached at both services at Knox Church yesterday and was heard by large congregations. "New Life in the Kootenay" was his subject at the evening service. It was the story of a series of simultaneous evangelistic meetings held in the Kootenay district in British Columbia. The revival was planned and carried out by the Evangelistic committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly, but outside of its inception the revival was undenominational in character.

The ministers of churches of other denominations at the places where meetings were held, took an active part in the work and lent valuable assistance. The Salvation Army also co-operated with heartiness. Splendid preparations had been made for the revival and prayer was prominent in the preliminary work. Long before the revival commenced the Christian people of Kootenay and in other parts of Canada and across the ocean in the old lands prayers had been offered up for the success of the revival. Valuable assistance was given by the Chapman evangelistic band of the United States, a body of trained workers who were loaned the Canadian Assembly for the campaign in the Kootenay country. Meetings were held throughout the district simultaneously and many were converted. Conditions in the West were widely different from the east and the methods used were somewhat different at times from those employed at evangelistic meetings in the east. Sensational features were not used however. The simple gospel was preached and the simple hymns were sung. When the men could not attend the meetings thy brought the message to them where they worked—in the shops, at the mines, and in the construction camps. It was not a high and mighty gospel that was preached, only the old story of the power of Christ to save from sin. And it had its effect.

Prof. Kilpatrick referred to the great religious social and educational problems that existed in the west and the necessity of the Christian men and women of Canada paying attention to that part of the Dominion.

"HALT!" SAID CUPID; AND HE HALTED

GERTY M'CLOSKY. GEO. KUEPPER.

Gibsonburg, O., June 14. — Pretty Gerty McClosky smiled as she handed George Kuepper, long distance walker, a second cup of coffee at breakfast.

"Well, I've got to go now," said Kuepper.

And Gerty smiled.

"But I must go! I've walked 500 miles. I have to walk 15,500 more and win $2,000."

Gerty smiled.

"I'd like to stop right here," said Kuepper. "I like this old farm house and you people have been very hospitable, letting me stop over night, and giving me such a good supper and breakfast—but I have to go now."

And Gerty still smiled.

"Oh, well, darn it. I'll stop over another day, if you'll let me. The rest will do me good."

This time the smile was so beaming and sunshiny, that right away the young walker's heart gave funny little jumps, kind of ticklish-like.

"You know," he said, and it was the man who smiled this time, "one condition of my wager was that I should meet some girl on my walk, one I'd never seen before, and marry her."

This time Gerty blushed a little and retreated to the kitchen.

The result—what has always been the result when the right girl smiled, then blushed? Geo. Kuepper stayed two days, then three, during which he forgot all about long walks and rich prizes, and he decided and Gerty decided that happiness—at once—was dearer than all the two thousand dollarses in the world.

So, of course, they were married. And the Shamrock Athletic Club of Chicago got a wire saying all bets were off.

HEIRS IN FENELON FALLS MAY GET BIG FORTUNE

An interesting legal case was announced in the law court column of the Toronto papers recently. It was as follows:

"The Master in Chambers reserved judgment on a motion by Mr. J. Creighton for an order directing the former solicitor of Mrs. Jennie Noland to return papers relating to her estate in Cuba, which valued at $4,000,000. The property in question consists of 10,000 acres of sugar plantations with the mills situated near Cardenses, Matanzas County, Cuba, formerly owned by the late James Stevens and left by him to his nephew, Jeremiah Stevens, carpenter, Waubaushene. The latter inherited in 1903 and was on the point of leaving for Cuba, when he was taken ill and died of cancer on Oct. 6th, 1903. He willed the property to his wife and from her it passed to her daughter, Mrs. Nalond, formerly of 58 Mackenzie Crescent, Toronto, but now living with her husband, a lumberman, at French River. It is stated that $2,000,000 was offered by New York capitalists and refused, as information to hand indicated that the value was about double that amount. Mr. Creighton has been instructed to proceed to Cuba as soon as he obtains the desired papers and to sell the property for $4,000,000 or over, receiving a minimum commission of $100,000 and expenses."

The above item of news when it became known in the village of Fenelon Falls, aroused considerable curiosity and created much discussion, owing to the fact that the Jeremiah Stevens referred to in the article, once resided in the cataract village, and was widely known. The Noland mentioned is a daughter of the second wife of Mr. Stevens. The sons of the first wife of Mr. Stevens residing at Fenelon Falls are James, William and Thomas, and they have employed Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., Lindsay, to look after their interests in the case.

It is understood that Mr. McLaughlin has made many enquiries concerning the will said to have been made, leaving the property to Mrs. Stevens, but so far has not been able to find any record of it, and many are of the opinion that no such will was made. In such an event the greater part of the proceeds of the estate in questnon, which includes property in New York City, will go to the sons living in Fenelon Falls. Developments in the case are awaited eagerly.

SMITH COURT OF REVISON

The Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met as a Court of Revision at the Council Chamber, Peterborough, on the 27th of May, all members present. Clerk reported four appeals.

Moved by Mr. Garbutt, seconded by Mr. McKee, that Geo. A. Reid's assessment be reduced $50.00 on his land and $200 on his buildings. (Carried).

Moved by Mr. Graham, seconded by Mr. Davis, that Harry Beavis' assessment be struck off except as to a dog. (Carried).

Moved by Mr. Garbutt, seconded by Mr. McKee, that the assessment of Martin Coughlin be confirmed. (Carried).

Moved by Mr. Graham, seconded by Mr. Davis, that the Assessment Roll as amended be now passed by this Court and certified by the Clerk.

LAST MEETING OF THE MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association and the last meeting for the season was held this morning. Only a fairly good representation of the clergy were present.

The President, Rev. H. J. Keith, was in the chair.

A paper on "The Bible," was read by Rev. G. W. Henderson. It proved very interesting and instructive and was followed by a discussion.

THAT AWFUL PAIN IN THE BACK

Is a Sure Sign of Congestion of the Kidneys. Take "Fruit-a-tives."

Lots of men, and women too, are limping about the house—groaning in each chair—or tossing about the bed—because of that nagging pain in the back. The old plasters—hot vinegar, mustard plasters, linaments, etc.—don't do any good any more. You see, you have a bit older now. The kidneys are not as strong as they used to be. And even those "kidney" liniments and plasters won't stimulate the kidneys.

Your trouble is kidney trouble. The kidneys are not clogged, they are overworked and irritated. The bowels and stomach must help the kidneys to rid the [illegible] of poisonous matter—have not been doing their share of the work. The kidneys have had to do too much.

What you need is a medicine to save the kidneys, liver and skin. This medicine must cure the Constipation by acting on the liver and thus make the bowels move regularly and naturally. This medicine must heal and strengthen the kidneys, and thus relieve the congestion. "Fruit-a-tives" is this medicine. It is the most effective Kidney Remedy known, and keeps these vital organs in a vigorous, healthy condition. For aged people, for those who work hard, for tired-out women, "Fruit-a-tives" never fail to stop that severe pain in the back and build up the whole system. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. OBTAIN IDEA OF THE EMPIRE'S NAVY

Press Delegates Witness Huge Naval Spectacle.

GREATER ONE IS COMING

Largest Fleet Ever Collected Is Passed in Review at Spithead—Manoeuvres In Which Mediterranean Squadron Will Join Are to Take Place Off Coast of Scotland Beginning on June 17th.

London, June 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Imperial Conference delegates were profoundly impressed by their inspection Saturday of the home fleet at Spithead.

The 18 miles of warships, included four Dreadnoughts and seven Invincibles, and constituted the most powerful fleet ever assembled for review.

Sir John Fisher, First Lord of the Admiralty, accompanied the delegates. On the arrival of the Victoria they gave him a great ovation and escorted him to his car, singing "For he's a jolly good fellow."

All the delegates admit the fleet was a wonderful object lesson to them of the Empire's naval might.

Among the 24 battleships were seven Dreadnoughts, while supporting these lines of capital ships lay 24 cruisers, thirteen scouts and auxiliaries, 41 torpedo-boat destroyers and 20 submarines. Had they been placed end to end they would have formed a double line 18 miles long.

All the vessels were dressed with thousands of flags, and with the crews on deck manning ship and the bands playing, the scene was full of animation and color.

A salute from Nelson's old flagship, the Victory, announced the arrival of the Admiralty yachts, bearing the lords of the Admiralty and the newspaper guests. After traversing the line of the fleet, the visitors went on board the Dreadnought and witnessed a sham attack of submarines and destroyers on the battleship. The sea front of Portsmouth was black with masses of spectators and the Roadstead was filled with steamers thronged with sightseers from all parts of the kingdom.

Plans for Manoeuvres.

London, June 14.—On June 17 a great mobilization of the British fleet for the grand manoeuvres will take place, all the nucleus crew ships being brought up to their complement and placed on a war footing.

In order to give them an opportunity of participating in the training the three great bodies of naval reserves have been invited to volunteer for service on this occasion. But for good and sufficient reasons it is not anticipated that there will be any large response, and it has been officially announced that all the ships can be officered and manned from the active service without the reservists. The Royal Naval Reserve men, mostly merchant seamen, can only be expected to find time between the trips of their vessels, and few of them can spare a month.

The Mediterranean fleet has been specially summoned home for these great manoeuvres, in which altogether not fewer than three hundred and fifty ships will take part. The scene of the operations will, it is believed, be somewhere off the northwest coast of Scotland, but no official pronouncement has been made on this subject. It is not known either, what strategic scheme of operations has been decided upon, but it is presumed that Sir William May, the commander-in-chief of the home fleet, will command on one side, and that Sir Assheton Curson-Howe, commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean fleet, will command on the other.

At the conclusion of the navy manoeuvres the main fleet will proceed to the Nore, and the ships will take up their anchorage in the river on Monday, July 19. The exact distribution of the ships has not yet been decided upon between the port of London authorities and the Admiralty, but provisionally the arrangement is as follows:

From the Houses of Parliament at Westminster to London Bridge, there will be two lines of torpedo boats and submarines; from London Bridge the lines will be continued by destroyers and gunboats, scouts and smaller cruisers as far as Greenwich and Blackwall. In the reaches to Northfleet will lie the heavier cruisers, including those of the Dreadnought class, the Indomitable, the Inflexible and the Invincible, near Greenhithe.

Between Tilbury and Gravesend the line of battle ships begins, extending down through the Lower Hope reach, past Thames Haven and Canvey Island, to Southend, where, off the pier, the Dreadnought battleships will be stationed, and continuing to the anchorage at the Nore. Altogether, near upon one hundred and fifty vessels, in columns covering between forty and fifty miles of river and water space.

Only on two or three previous occasions have there been naval reviews at the water gate of the capital of the British Empire, but never before has there been seen such a unique display of naval might in such circumstances as the citizens of London and the dwellers of the Thames will have at their doors on Tuesday, July 20.

Sir George Wyatt Truscott is responsible for the suggestion that the Admiralty should bring the fleet into the Thames. In his position as lord mayor he called upon Sir John Fisher and proposed the idea, which the First Sea Lord accepted with alacrity. With his officers of state, the sheriffs and common councilmen, the lord mayor, with the board of admiralty, will make a civic progress down the river on July 20, and it will be strange indeed if the populace does not turn out in thousands to welcome and express enthusiastic appreciation of the bluejackets.

It is a curious circumstance that the lord mayor of London has no flag which it will be possible for the fleet to salute, but the salutes can be given to the Admiralty flag in accordance with historic custom, the salute being taken by the chief magistrate of London. When the lord mayor arrives at Southend, which is only a little more than thirty miles from the metropolis, and therefore easily accessible by rail and river, he will go on board the Dreadnought and there witness a naval exhibition by the destroyers and submarines.

On Wednesday, July 21, the city will entertain upward of a thousand bluejackets and marines, the naval brigade with their guns marching through the streets of London. This will be not the least interesting part of the program, for, although thousands of people will doubtless travel to Southend and Sheerness to see the Dreadnoughts, many thousands more will turn out in the gaily decorated thoroughfares to watch the march of the seamen to the Guildhall. Then on the following day there is to be an entertainment for the officers, and it has been further suggested that if the fleet remains in the Thames over Sunday the seamen may attend the services at the principal places of worship in the city.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Trades and Labor Council at Guelph want the fire brigade reorganized.

It is reported in London that another babe is expected soon in the Spanish royal family.

Lucien Reed, a farmer near Crosbyville, died suddenly after assisting in the evening milking, aged 60.

The body of Samuel Moran, who disappeared from Bancroft in April, was found on Saturday in Dutch Creek.

The annual convention of the Provincial Retail Merchants' Association will be held in Brockville Wednesday and Thursday.

James H. Williams, of Virden, Man., whose little girl died under Christian Science treatment, has been arrested for alleged neglect.

Mrs. Wm. Jacobs, an elderly woman who lived alone in her residence on the front road, one mile east of Brockville, was found dead seated in a chair.

When the Royal Colonial Institute expressed a wish to entertain the imperial press delegates they were told that the program was already complete.

On Friday afternoon the lifeless body of Mrs. Henry La Roche was found in an outbuilding on the 10th concession of Carden, near Lindsay. The coroner decided it was a case of suicide while temporarily deranged.

Berlin Boy Drowns.

Berlin, June 14.—On Saturday afternoon Harry Huehnergard, the 14-year-old son of J. W. Huehnergard, instructor of an orchestra, was drowned in the Grand River at Riverside Park in Bridgeport. About 3 o'clock the lad, who was in a boat with three other boys, dived into the river. He was not missed until about two hours after, when his clothes were found still lying on the bank. His companions then became alarmed and some employes of the Berlin Piano Co., who were picnicking at the park, commenced to search for him and the body was found at the bottom of the river at a depth of 12 feet, almost below where he had jumped in. The water was extremely cold five or six feet below the surface, and it is believed young Huehnergard took cramps and was unable to rise.

Editor Fournier Jailed.

Montreal, June 14.—Jules Fournier, editor of Le Nationaliste, has been sent to prison for three months for what the Quebec authorities call contempt of court, and of course The Nationaliste refers at length to-day to what it calls a most unjust sentence.

Following Fournier's advocate, N. K. Laflamme, The Nationaliste reminds its readers of the speeches delivered by Sir Louis Davie and Sir Wilfrid Laurier during the debate on the motion censuring the Supreme Court of New Brunswick for having sent the present Senator Ellis to the Fredericton jail for commenting severely upon a case pending, whereas Fournier's fault was commenting a case that had already been adjudged. The Nationaliste also reminds its readers that among those who voted for the Davis resolution was Sir Francis Langlier, who was the presiding judge Saturday afternoon.

FRANCE DISTURBED BY EARTHQUAKES

Southern [illegible] Shaken Violently From Shocks.

HUNDRED REPORTED DEAD

Violent Disturbance in Herault and the Lower Rhone Country Devastate Towns and Villages — Residents Are Fleeing From Their Homes to Places of Safety—Tremors Felt in Madrid.

Marseilles, June 14.—From 75 to 100 dead and 100 injured is the estimated total casualties as the result of the earthquake which devastated several towns and villages in the southernmost part of France, particularly in the departments of Herault and Bouches du Rhone, Friday night.

The villages of Saint Cannat and Rognes were completely demolished by the earthquake and Lambesc, 12 miles from Aix, suffered heavily. A number of the wounded were imprisoned in the ruins and soldier worked desperately to rescue them.

Survivors are sleeping in tents and the streets are impassable. In many places they have been torn up and are encumbered with rocks. House, public buildings and churches were crumbled to pieces.

The victims at Saint Cannot and Rognes were horribly mutilated. There were evidences that several of the victims had lived for hours imprisoned by the debris before they died. At Rognes a family of four were buried. Their cries could be heard throughout the night, but all were dead in the morning when a rescuing party reached them. At Saint Cannat an old man and his son were watching a billiard game. They were killed. The players escaped.

The historic village of Varneques was wrecked, but no one was killed. The monetary loss is heavy.

At Toulon—Fearing new shocks last night a large number of residents left the city and camped out in the country. The mayor opened the schoolhouse for those walking the streets. The earthquake damaged the arsenal and several ships were almost driven ashore.

At Madrid—Light earth shocks occurred Saturday morning at Barcelona and Badalon, six miles northeast of Barcelona.

Jap Conspiracy In Hawaii.

Honolulu, June 14.—Seventeen Japanese leaders in the strike of Japanese labor plantations, of whom about 8,000 are out, were indicted by the grand jury on charges of having conspired to incite disorders in the Hawaiian Islands.

This action followed disclosures yesterday, when an official search of the offices of the "Higher Wage Association" and the Japanese newspaper Jiji, revealed incendiary letters, reports and other correspondence tending to show that a conspiracy was in prospective formation among certain Japanese to wrest control of the island affairs from the whites.

Among the correspondence between strikers and some of their leaders seized is the following:

"The Japanese strikers are facing the planters with enough powder, lead and food to make victory sure in the end. Now is the time to exalt the name of young nation, and line with blood the flag of the rising sun. Against those who oppose our action we must be ready, with, hatmer of iron and rain of blood to make the obstinate and blind planters reflect."

Sold Boy an Airgun.

St. Catharines, June 14.—Mrs. Barbara Doty, wife of the proprietor of a store here, was fined $25 by Magistrate Campbell, on being convicted of selling an airgun to a nine-year-old boy. The criminal code makes it an offence for anyone to sell one of these dangerous weapons to a boy under 16 years.

Fatal Building Collapse.

Detroit, June 14.—Traffic Manager William C. Hollar of the Peninsular Stove Co., was killed and four other men were injured, one of them fatally, when a section of the fifth floor of the storage warehouse of the plant suddenly collapsed and crashed down through to the ground floor.

Fourteen-Year-Old Aeronaut.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 14.—A large number of spectators were greatly impressed by a successful ascension to a height of 25 feet, achieved by 14-year-old Irving Barnes in an aeroplane of his own invention and construction.

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to great errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and overtaxing the stomach with indigestible food eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weak dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Shafer, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters and I think it is the best medicine there is for just complaints."

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

THE STORY OF SATURDAY'S CITY LEAGUE GAMES

From Saturday's Sporting Extra:

Riverside Park, June 12.—A fair crowd was present for the double-header in the Senior City Baseball League series this afternoon and the weather conditions were perfect, while the diamond was in excellent shape.

In the first game the Park Street Athletic Club defeated the Strathconas by 10 runs to 8, after a loosely played contest, in which there were more errors than hits, although enough good ball was thrown in at times to make the game interesting. Both sides were guilty of misplays but the Straths' came with men on bases and were therefore more costly. The High Commissioners got off to a good start by getting four runs in the first time up, but threw the game away later on by wild throws and costly muffs.

Dusty pitched for the winners and after the first innings held the Straths in good shape. He fanned eleven batters and allowed but seven hits, three of them being bunched in the first innings. He was improving all the time. Patterson pitched the first four innings for the Straths and, barring wildness did good work. Hickey, who succeeded him, was in fine form, and held the winners to one hit for the balance of the game. With good support he would have shut them out as h isslow ball had them guessing. The fielding features were a one-handed catch by Davidson, and a fast double play, Hickey to Heaslip to Parnell. Shaw contributed the batting feature, getting two singles and a louble. The Straths scored four in the first on a dead ball to Curtis, singles by Shaw, Weatherstone and Craig, and Kendry's sacrifice fly.

Park Street came back with two in their half, Pilling was safe, when Parnell missed the third strike on him and Shaw dropped Davidson's fly, letting two down. A stolen base and wild pitch allowed Pilling to score, but Davidson was nabbed at second when Coughlin hit to centre. Coughlin scored on Patterson's wide throw to first on Guerin's grounder.

In the second the Straths failed to score, a double play killing their chances, after Patterson had been walked.

Park Street got one in their half on Crowe's two-bagger, a stolen base and a wild pitch.

Shaw's single and Kendry's two-bagger to left centre, with an error by Coughlin, gave the Straths one in the third.

Park Street, however, got two in their half, and tied up the game again.

Davidson walked and stole second, Pilling hit safely, scoring Davidson, and scoring himself afterwards on O'Brien's bunt along the third baseline.

The Straths went ahead again in the fourth, Patterson was walked Guerin threw wide on Curtis' grounder and Shaw's two-bagger brought both runners across.

In their half, however, Park St. took the lead for keeps. With one gone McDonald singled, Pilling was safe on Kendry's error, Davidson was hit by the pitcher, and then a couple of wild throws sent the three across Hickey succeeded Patterson in the fifth, and there was no further scoring until the seventh, when the Straths got one; Craig was walked, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and scored on Heaslip's single.

Park Street scored twice in their half. J. Pilling was walked; Guerin grounded out to Craig, but O'Brien hit safely to Shaw, the latter throwing wildly to third and Pilling scored, O'Brien reaching third and scoring on a wild pitch; the last tally of the game as Hickey held the Park St. team safe and the Straths could do nothing with Dusty.

T.A.S. Won Second

The second game was by far the best exhibition to the two, the T.A.S. snatching a 5-3 victory from the West Ends. It was a pitcher's battle between Quinlan for the T.A.S. and Kirn for the West Ends, and both did brilliant work. Quinlan held the Oldham bunch to 5 hits and struck out thirteen, while Kirn caused 11 of the Abstainers to whiff and allowed but seven hits. With better support especially on the part of Fallon in centre field, the West End twirler would have made things still more interesting. Fallon had a very bad day and his muffs were costly. It was a snappy, well-played game of ball that kept the fans on their feet all the way. Both teams fielded well and the contest was replete with good catches and stops.

The West Ends failed to score in the first innings. Minorgan grounded to Flaherty, Gibson was walked, but Halpin fanned and Dobson flew out to Callaghan.

For T.A.S.—Doherty fanned, Callaghan singled to left. Derocher was safe on an error, sending Callaghan home. O'Brien grounded to short and Quinlan fanned.

Second Innings.—Carton struck out, Fallon did likewise, Kirn and Rose were safe on errors by McFadden, but Craig bunted to the pitcher and was out at first.

For T.A.S.—Flaherty whiffed, M. O'Brien grounded to Halpin, Cahill singled, stole second and scored when Carton threw to third to prevent him purloining that base. McFadden grounded to Halpin.

Third Innings.—Minorgan struck out, Gibson was safe on O'Brien's error and scored on an error by McFadden after stealing second. For T.A.S. Doherty struck out for the second time, Callaghan flew out to Halpin and Derocher met nothing but the air.

Fourth Innings.—Fallon got a base on balls, went to third on O'Brien's error and scored when McFadden dropped the third strike on Kirn and had to throw to first. Rose grounded to pitcher, Craig hit to left for two bases but the hit was wasted as Minorgan flew out to Quinlan.

For T.A.S.—W. O'Brien fanned, Quinlan flew out to Fallon, Flaherty hit to Fallon who dropped the ball and then threw wild to first, the runner going to third. M. O'Brien struck out.

Fifth Innings: Gibson fanned, Halpin was walked Dobson struck out and Carton flew out to Flaherty.

For T.A.S.—Cahill flew to Halpin, McFadden fanned, Doherty singled but Callaghan failed to connect.

Sixth Innings: West Ends.—Fallon flied to Callaghan, Kirn fanned, Rose out, Flaherty to O'Brien.

T.A.S., Derocher fanned, W. O'Brien hit to pitcher and made first and second by wild throws. Quinlan hit for two sacks scoring O'Brien and Flaherty flied out to Rose. M. O'Brien was hit and Quinlan scored. O'Brien out.

T.A.S., Cahill singled and stole second and third. McFadden bunted to Minorgan and made second. Doherty flew out to Dobson, Callaghan hit to Minorgan and Cahill was out trying to score. Derocher fanned.

Craig out for bunting strike, Minorgan struck out, Gibson hit to centre for one bag and stole second and third. Halpin walked but Dobson flied out to Flaherty.

Eighth Innings: West Ends, Carton fanned, Fallon singled but was out getting to second. Kirn struck out.

T.A.S., W. O'Brien out on high foul. Quinlan hit two bags. Flaherty was hit. M. O'Brien was out at first. Quinlan scored from third on a wild pitch. Cahill fouled out to Carton.

Ninth Innings: West Ends, Rose out, Cahill to M. O'Brien, Craig made first on a liner to Doherty. Minorgan sacrificed and Craig scored. Gibson fanned. Final Score T.A.S. 5, West Ends 3.

BASEBALL

Ed Ashenbach, the Altoona manager, tells this story on Howard Earle, the pirate scout: "Earle was an old fellow, with gray hair on his skin diamond"—meaning his head. "He played first base on the A. J. G. team in the New York State league. Earle was a good man, but he couldn't hit a spitter and every time he saw the ball coming up to him, backed into the water cooler.

"Flater, now with Newark, was pitching. He put his hand up to his face and bluffed a spitball. Earle pulled away, but instead of the souse ball Flater shot a straight one over the pan. It was a strike, and Earle was out. Turning to the pitcher with most intense indignation, Earle said: "John, you lied to me.'"

Along about March 21 each year Hans Wagner of Pittsburg, gets a letter that reads something like this:

"Dear Hans: Inclosed is a contract for the coming base ball season. It is all blank, as you will see Fill it out to suit yourself, Hans, but in fixing your salary please remember that times are very bad. Still, we must have you and will pay whatever you say."

Hans gets this letter while he is at the office of the independent steel plant that he and his brother own. He studies the statistics and finds that 306,427 persons paid to see the games at Pittsburg last year. Then back goes this letter to Barney Dreyfuss:

"Mein Lieber Barney: Yours chust received. Times was pretty hard here, too. I hardly ever saw der rail markets so bad. But maybe I get away this summer for a little while if you pay me $12,000. I hate to say this, but what can I do?"

This is fact—Hans fixes his salary and expert opinion is that it is $2,000 a month for six months.

Heinie Zimmerman, understady for Johnny Evers, as a youngster, played ball in all the small cities around New York—and thereby hangs a tale.

There was an up-state manager in a small town who always had a good club, and who prospered mainly because he discarded pay days and got a new team instead of paying the old one. He heard of Zimmerman, who was playing with an independent team, and offered him the fabulous sum of $25 per week to play. "Big City" borrowed railroad fare and joined the club. Two weeks passed—also pay day—with nothing doing in the cashier's department, and Zimmerman went to the manager and demanded his pay.

"I am sorry," said the manager, "but to tell the truth I haven't got money enough to pay you. You see, I made up the pay roll alphabetically, and the money ran out before we got to the Z's."

Zimmerman went home. A few weeks later the manager appealed to him to join the club again—and he did.

"Let's see," said the manager, when Zimmy reported. "You played for me once before, didn't you. Your name is Zimmerman, isn't it?"

'Not much,' said Zimmy. "My name is Abels this trip."

SHRUBB BEATS SELLEN EASILY AND BREAKS CANADIAN RECORD

Great Little Englishman Gives a Classy Performance in Toronto on Saturday Night—Had No Trouble in Stalling Off the Former Irish-Canadian Runner.

Toronto, June 14.—The perennial Shrubb hedge it up. Saturday night he beat Percy Sellen in their 12 mile engagement at Hanlan's Point, giving the former Irish-Canadian a thorough beating, and running teh distance in 1.05.11 2-5. The track was said to be 10 feet short of a mile, but even if this be true, the performance was a remarkable one. The fleet Englishman ran away from Sellen right from the crack of the pistol and increased his lead to a lap and a half at the end of the journey. The attendance was about 7,000.

Before the race was started both runners said that they were in as good condition as they could attain and would have no excuse if beaten. Shrubb bounded to the front on the start as usual, with Sellen in close attendance. Percy saw that Shrubb was running too fast for him to stick and have anything left for the last of the route so he slackened and let Alf run, evidently expecting that Shrubb would come back to him. Shrubb did come back but not until he had gained a lap of the track. The champion ran about four miles at Sellen's elbow and then shot out in front again, and was rapidly accumulating another lap's lead when the 12 miles had been covered. Few thought that Sellen would win from Shrubb but it was not expected that the latter would administer so decisive a defeat to his opponent.

The first mile was run in 4.58, and two miles in 9.44. When Shrubb had run three miles in 14.51 and gained almost two hundred yards it appeared as though Deerfoot's long standing 12 mile record might go, for Shrubb bores running in striking form and seemed to be in a fair way to keep up the clip. Four miles in 19.51 and five in 24.15 1-5 broke all Canadian records. In the first lap of the sixth mile Shrubb caught Sellen and ramstride for stride for two miles. He ran out in front in the a look of confidence.

Sellen kept plugging along with a strong stride in the hope that the fast early pace set by Shrubb would have its effect on the champion and stop him at the end, but it did not and in the third lap of the tenth mile Alf sprinted right away from Sellen and received a great round of applause from his admirers.

DORANDO HAPPY OVER HAVING BEATEN HAYES CAN DO IT ANY TIME

Since I have been in America, says Dorando Pietri to London Answers, I have shown the world that I am the master of John J. Hayes, and that I won a practical, if not a technical, victory when I crossed the line first at Shepherd's Bush in the famous London Olympic Marathon. I can beat Hayes any day. Twice have I defeated him in America, and I will outrun him again if we ever meet.

In the Olympic Marathon in London I had the misfortune to be struck down with the heat. However, I could have finished first if left alone. I did not require any assistance, and if the officials had not rendered me assistance, I would have got up and crossed myself. My failure to finish the London Marathon in good shape was due to the fact that I lost my attendant, and did not know I was so far ahead. I kept going at a fast pace when it was not necessary, and the heat finally overcame me.

For a long time before my departure for America I dreamed of a second meeting with Hayes. I could not forget the day the Queen of England handed him the prize I knew was rightly mine. Day and night I thought of it. After my return to Italy I thought of it, and planned to seek another race. And so, when a representative of the American promoters called on me in Italy, and proposed that I should go to America and meet Hayes my heart was filled with joy at the opportunity. Now I would show the world that I could beat Hayes, and beat him decisively.

I was surprised at the reception I received in New York. My countrymen met me at the pier, and gave me a great ovation. The warmth of their reception convinced me that I was among friends, and I had no fear of failure.

I will never forget the first time I met Hayes. It was in a big hotel on the day we came together to select the officials for the race. He was very pleasant. He smiled when he saw me, and I ran to him and shook his hand.

"May the best man win!" I said; and he laughed aloud.

The race was held in Madison Square Garden, a big amphitheatre in the centre of the city. Thousands of my countrymen were there to cheer me on to victory.

Richard Croker fired the pistol. At the sound I ran out ahead of Hayes, and took the lead. I was determined to keep the lead to the end, and win easily. Hayes took a position behind me, and ran so close that the wind of his feet brushed my ankles. At times I feared he would step on me, and cause me to fall; but finally I realized that he was simply doing it to annoy me, and I paid no attention to him, but trusted to luck.

After we had gone several laps in fast time, Hayes tried to take the lead.

"Never!" I cried in Italian; and I sprinted until I passed him again. My Italian friends cheered loudly as I held the lead. Several times in the early part of the race I tested Hayes. I would pace him hard for a lap or two, and I could feel that I had him, and that I would win. He tried to get by me. I let him go for a few yards, and then, as his friends were cheering, and my followers were beginning to think that it looked bad for me, I sprinted, and ran what you call rings around him.

I felt fine, and kept up the hard pace. I could feel Hayes weakening. He was falling back. He tried hard to keep on my heels. I finally slowed up, just to keep with him, and so we ran round the ten-lap track.

At the fifteen-mile mark I was sure of victory. At twenty miles the race was won. The pace had killed Hayes. He was coming along behind me, but there was no life in his stride. He had no sprint. I tested him several times, just to see what he could do. He was a machine. He could run just so fast and no faster. It would have been easy for me to lap him, but I contented myself with staying in the lead, and awaited for the last lap.

The great crowd rose up and cheered as I started on the last lap. I looked round at Hayes, and I saw he was in bad shape. I meant to challenge him for a final sprint, but I saw he was not in condition to accept the challenge, I was really sorry for him.

Half-way round I started to leave him. I left him behind in a few strides and trotted over the finish line thirty yards ahead of him. He staggered home, and had to be carried from the track. I admired him for his gameness.

Well, the crowd lifted me up, and carried me from the track. I was too happy to speak, although I was still in good condition, and could have continued, despite the fact that I had finished in 2 hours 44 minutes and 20 3-5 seconds, the record for an indoor Marathon.

That is how I won my first victory over Hayes. I demonstrated that my victory at London had been real, and that a technicality had caused me to lose the prize. I had realised my dream.

Hayes demanded another race. He said he had defeated me at London, and, as we had a victory, a third race would demonstrate conclusively who was the better man.

"I am the better man," I answered; "and you know it."

I finally determined to give Hayes another race, just to show him and the American people beyond the shadow of a doubt that I could beat him with ease.

The second race was also held at Madison Square Garden, over a ten-lap track, and a great crowd assembled to see the contest. Hayes had declared repeatedly that his first defeat had been due to lack of condition. He ridiculed my ability as a runner, and declared that he would make me look like a novice. I did not answer him; but I knew I would beat him, and I determined to give him a defeat he would always remember..

It was because he had been unkind to me that I lapped him, and taunted him as I passed him. I could have beaten him by two miles, but I contented myself by winning by nearly a mile.

In this race I showed the world that I was master at Shepherd's Bush as well as at any place or on any day, or under any condition.

PIGEONS TRAVELLED SOME NEARLY 800 YARDS A MINUTE

Mr. W. F. Skitch has received another letter from the secretary of the New Bedford Racing Pigeon Association in regard to the birds liberated here a week ago yesterday. The winning birds covered 413,774 miles, arriving at 4.44 a.m. Monday, and travelling at the rate of 763,716 yards per minute. Only twenty of the 776 birds had arrived home at the time the letter was written.

The secretary adds: "We were greatly pleased with the race. Lake Ontario no doubt confused the birds somewhat, as they do not like to cross water. We will send you the birds again next year and we hope to be able to accomplish the distance the day of toss. We expect more birds home in a few days, but it has been raining since yesterday."

Long Distance Tramp Walker Spends Sunday In Peterborough

Peter E. Dodson is in his own words a wayfarer.

From the story of his travels one would not question the truth of his statement. His home is not a well defined quantity. His berth on first urday night was the ditch by the C. P. R. tracks near the Sand Limestone Brick establishment. It was a little chilly and there was a sprinkling of rain, but outside of that the conditions were fair enough.

Dodson has been enjoying stopover privileges in this city on his way from Ottawa to Hamilton. The latter city he claims as his home and he told the Examiner that when he arrived there he intended to settle down for the rest of his life. Dodson's last Marathon walk was from Winnipeg to Ottawa. Arriving there he transferred to the line for Toronto and is now somewhere between Peterboro and the Union Station. Last night after spending Sunday in the city the wanderer started on his way west to finish his Ottawa-Hamilton trip.

Dodson is an elderly man about sixty, although he claims to be in the seventies. He was not acquainted with Edward Peyson Weston and on hearing of him disclaimed a speed equal to his but was confident that he had the endurance powers. His travels with a cane and his earthly possessions are nearly all confined in a red bandana. He is like the proverbial rolling stone, as he says, and cannot resist the desire to wander. He is wondering whether he will be able to content himself in Hamilton and is already of the opinion that he will be on the tramp when he receives the last call. Dodson says that in fair weather he rests easily at night under the blue dome of heaven and lays down without any thought of being disturbed.

WITH THE RUNNERS.

The defeat of Sellen at the hands of Alfie Shrubb, caused little surprise in Peterborough. It was thought that Sellen would not be able to defeat the agile Alfie, despite the fact that he stated that he would hold him for ten miles and beat him out in the last two. When you hold Shrubb for ten miles you are going some, Clarice.

Fred Simpson's new phenom, Parker, was defeated by Charlie Thorpe Saturday in handy fashion. The Vics. good middle distance man ran a heady race, staying with his field until he was ready to win out and then cutting loose, bringing his Club mate, Slighte, through with him and they both defeated the Redakin.

The Victoria Harriers will hold a meeting to-morrow night at the old Park street School House. All the members of the club are expected to be present and a cordial invitation is extended to any who would like to join the club.

CITY LEAGUE NOTES

Following is the standing of the League:

	Won.	Lost.
T. A. S.	1	0
Park Street A. C.	1	0
West Ends	1	1
Strathconas	0	2

Games this week: Strathconas vs. T. A. S.; West Ends vs. Park Street A. C.

The following are in line for the picture donated by the Bellegheen Furniture Company for the player who first makes three two baggers: Keadry, Strathconas, and Quinlan, T. A. S., two each; Shaw and F. Craig, Strathconas, V. Craig, Kirn and Misorgan, West Ends, and Crowe, Park street, one each.

The West Ends are the only City League team who have no Midland League men on their line-up. Park Street have five ex-Midland Leaguers, the T. A. S., three; and the Strathconas, two.

The games in the Senior City League series this week should be unusually interesting as the race just now is decidedly close and both games will be bitterly fought. The first contest will bring together the T. A. S. and Strathconas, and it should be a fine contest. The Commercials are scheduled to play the West Ends.

dressers say that they worked all the mischief out of the system and that from now on the other teams will have to look out for the Straths. The team will be strengthened for Saturday and they promise to give Messrs. Quinlan and Company a busy afternoon. The Abstainers need the game to keep on top of the heap, and knowing that they cannot afford to take any chances, will have their strongest line up on.

The West Ends and Park street Athletic Club will try conclusions in the second game, and it will be a ding dong battle. The West Ends are determined to wipe out Saturday's defeat by trimming Park Street while the latter count on a victory. Both teams will be strong and the game will be well worth seeing.

The Smooth Way.

In the last generation Tyler Cobb, Esq., was a well known citizen of North Bridgewater, now Brockton, Mass. He was famous throughout Plymouth county for his witty retorts and dry humor.

Never having taken a sea trip, Mr. Cobb one day conceived the idea of making a voyage to New York. Accordingly he sailed from Boston in a small schooner. The first day out a storm was encountered and Mr. Cobb became violently sick, but after several hours he mustered up courage and strength to look out upon the troubled waters.

As he looked from the side of the little ship up the trough of the sea it seemed very smooth to him. The captain's cutting of the waves was senseless, he told himself. But as this mad steering continued the unhappy passenger finally crawled out on hands and knees to where the captain stood at the wheel and, raising his voice above the din of waves and wind, shouted:

"Man, man, keep in the ruts, keep in the ruts!"

Worked It Off.

Just what may happen to a man who isn't strictly honest was illustrated on a street car a few days ago. A man handed the conductor a dollar and asked for a strip of tickets. He received his five tickets, and then the conductor fumbled around for change and managed to make a "mistake." He handed the man two half dollars instead of 75 cents. The man put away the money without saying a word and in a couple of minutes worked his way to the front of the car and got off. "Say, conductor," said an interested observer, "did you know you didn't give that man the right change?" The conductor smiled complacently. "That's all right," he said. "If he'd been honest and returned that bad half dollar I'd have given him a good quarter for it. I've been trying to get rid of that piece of money for a week. I guess he deserved to get stung."—Philadelphia Record.

Deceitful Appearances.

A remarkable experience once befell Mark Twain in Australia, which, he said, determined him never again to judge by appearances. He had just landed at an Australian port, and, to his chagrin, there was no porter in sight to carry his luggage. Seeing a rough looking, badly dressed old fellow leaning idly against a post with his hands in his pockets, the author beckoned to him and said:

"See here, if you'll carry these bags up to the hotel I'll give you half a dollar."

The man scowled darkly, and, taking three or four golden sovereigns from his pocket, he deliberately threw them into the sea, scowled at Mark Twain again and walked away without a word.

Both Tainted.

"You are in the employ of that millionaire up on the hill, aren't you?" snapped the sharp faced woman who ran the butter and egg shop.

"Yes, ma'am," responded the man in the white apron, "and I want two pounds of butter for my master's table. He said he'd send to town after it, only the roads are so bad."

"He did, eh? Well, we are not particular about his trade. Did you tell him I said his money was tainted?"

"Indeed, I did."

"And what did he say?"

"Said so was your blamed old butter."—Chicago News.

A Fixed Law.

"You are positive this happened on Tuesday?" demanded counsel.

"I am," said the witness.

"Sure it was Tuesday?"

"Yes."

"Why not Thursday or Friday?"

"Because we had chicken that day. Chicken day is Tuesday where I board."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Cook's Declension.

The cook picked up an egg. She looked at it doubtfully.

"It's bad," she said.

She dropped it.

"It's worse!" she hastily added.—Exchange.

Kingston, June 14.—An excursion of the Young Men's Fellowship arrived Saturday night with 500 people from Toronto. Members of the City Council and clergy met the visitors at the depot. At Market Square, Ald. McCann read an address of welcome. W. Robinson, Toronto, an old Kingston boy, and president of the Fellowship, replied. Afterwards the Victoria-Alexander choir sang the Glory song. Services in the churches yesterday were conducted by the members of the Fellowship, as also three large mass meetings, two in the city hall and one in Sydenham street church. A trip among the Thousand Islands is arranged for Monday.

Alberta's University.

Edmonton, Alta., June 14.—W. A. Kerr, M.A., Ph.C., of Toronto, and Harvard, has been named to succeed Prof. Alexander in the chair of modern languages in the University of Alberta.

Mr. J. A. Mellachren, M.A., of Queen's, has been named for the chair of philosophy and Prof. Edwards will take charge of the department of engineering.

A large building programme is outlined including residence for the students of both sexes, library and buildings for arts and science and laboratories.

U.S. Guarantee of Peace.

Atlantic City, N.J., June 14.—United States Supreme Court Justice David B. Brewer, speaking before the New Jersey Bar Association here, said: "The presence of 7,000,000 Germans in the United States is a virtual guarantee that the country will seek no offensive action against that country and similar residents here of natives of other countries will have the same effect in keeping down the spirit of war."

Car of Naphtha Burns.

Port Arthur, June 14.—A spectacular fire occurred yesterday morning in the Canadian Pacific yards, destroying a car of naphtha consigned to the Imperial Oil Co., and a car of maple flooring from Muskoka for the Pioneer Lumber Co., Lethbridge. The naphtha was leaking and a brakeman stumbled, breaking a lantern and starting the fire.

Surveying Camp Burned Out.

Brantford, June 14.—Word has been received here of a prairie fire which destroyed the entire surveying camp of Roy Montgomery, son of Ald. Montgomery of this city, including ten tents, wagons and horses. With a party of 28 men Mr. Montgomery was engaged in Government survey work 125 miles from Prince Albert, Sask.

Pays $20,000 for Gold Coins.

New York, June 14.—Two $50 gold pieces struck from the United States mint in Philadelphia in 1777 were sold by the Numismatic Club to William H. Wooding, a wealthy collector of this city, for $10,000 each, the highest price ever paid for an American coin. Both were perfect specimens.

Natal Joins Union.

Durban, Natal, June 14.—A referendum held to decide whether or not Natal should join the South African Union, has resulted in favor of the juncture by a vote of 11,121 to 3,761. This assures the complete federation of the South African colonies, the Transvaal, Cape Colony, the Orange River State and Natal.

Five Attempts to Burn Hotel.

Saskatoon, Sask., June 14.—Five different fires broke out at different times in the Western Hotel on Saturday. Without question these were the deliberate work of a firebug. Not much damage was done. An employe now under dismissal, is suspected. The plan adopted by the incendiary was to place lighted paper beneath the bed or the window curtain.

To Have Dances In Church.

Atlanta, Ga., June 14.—Dancing to the sound of piano music in the First Universalist Church is to be a weekly diversion of a number of young people of the church. The church is planning to arrange a stage, where amateur theatrical performances may be given frequently by the Players' Club of the church, which is already organized.

Cage Empty, Birdie Gone.

St. Catharines, June 14.—W. J. Campbell of Decew Falls, who was arrested suspected of having stolen a large quantity of iron used as ballast on the old Welland Canal bridge in that place, escaped during the night. It is thought that someone entered the police office by a rear window and got possession of a key of the cells.

OPEN CHALLENGE TO TUG O'WAR TEAMS

St. Peter's T. A. S. Will Meet Opposing Teams on July 1st.

All the committees in charge of St. Peter's T.A.S. excursion are asked to meet to-morrow evening at the rooms to keep the affairs in close touch and to rush along the arrangements. It is one of the policies of the committee to have everything completed several days before Dominion Day, and this year will not be an exception. One of the features of the afternoon programme will be a tug-o'-war in which the T.A.S. will meet all comers from the county. There are many men who are interested in this sport and the challenge will meet with more than one acceptance.

MR. PETER J. ROONEY WAS WIDELY KNOWN

Traveller for Robert Darling & Co. Died at His Home in Toronto.

Examiner Special.

Toronto, June 15.—Mr. Peter J. Rooney, a traveller for Robert Darling & Co., died yesterday at his home, 60 Spadina avenue. Deceased, who was in his 54th year, had been in poor health for two years, but had only been confined to his home seven weeks. He was a native of Scotland, coming to Canada when seventeen years of age. Prior to accepting employment with Darling & Co. he was with Fitzgibbon & Co., Montreal, and Nicholas Rooney, Toronto. The late Mr. Rooney leaves his widow and six children. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, the C.M.B.A., the A.O.U.W., and the Commercial Travellers' Association. The funeral on Thursday morning at 8:30 takes place to St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, and thence to Mount Hope cemetery.

REFRESHMENT BOOTH AT CRAWFORD'S GROVE

Report That It Will be Opened in Near Future.

It is learned that in a short time a refreshment booth will be opened at Crawford's Grove. The exact details have not been received, but it is understood that an arrangement of this kind of more or less pretentions will be conducted and will doubtless be welcomed by the many who appreciate the summer and the Otonabee. This will meet a great want and will be of assistance to not only those who bring their tea with them on the outings, but also those who like to enjoy the variation of eating off the ground and of making tea in the open air. Many have spoken of the desirability of having some kind of supply booth on the river during the summer months and it should prove successful and draw a large patronage.

For ten days longer the sale of Plants Flower Pots, Jardinieres, &c., will continue at 446½ George Street and at Greenhouses on Water Street. Bargains are the order of the day.

CLAUS SPRECKLES, JR., AND ADELE CASE

Special Correspondence.

New York, June 15.—Why did young Claus Spreckles, jr., join his father in New York, and leave Miss Mary Adele Case, a pretty opera singer, after Miss Case had admitted that they were engaged?

Though he was attentive to her on the ship which both took from France to New York, he left her at her hotel and joined his father after getting a wireless message from the latter, who owns part of San Francisco.

Just after Cupid seemed to be very happy over what he had done with the young Californian and the pretty singer, Papa Spreckels started posthaste for New York, while his son was crossing the ocean with the young woman, after they had met at a Paris voice studio.

Whatever it was his father had to tell him, Claus soon was happy again, for he took long rides in New York with Miss Case, and only smiled when asked if they were to be married.

Papa Spreckels didn't smile, but seemed to be doing a lot of thinking.

FIRM OF J. R. HEINTZ HAS CHANGED ITS NAME

Announcement has been made of a change in the firm name of Messrs. J. R. Heintz and Company. The business of this old-established New York Consolidated Stock Exchange firm will be conducted hereafter under the name of Messrs. R. B. Lyman and Company. Mr. Lyman has been a full partner in the firm of Messrs. J. R. Heintz and Company for twenty years, and is as fully conversant with the business as Mr. Heintz himself. The firm was established in 1879.

The president has been in poor health for some time, and it is thought that he is about to retire from the field of finance entirely. Mr. Lyman is well-known in Buffalo, where the head office of the Company is located, and in New York and other financial centres. Mr. Lyman brings into the new firm additional capital, the addition of which will make Messrs. R. B. Lyman and Company one of the strongest firms on the Consolidated Exchange.—Monetary Times.

Mr. J. N. Barber is the local correspondent of the Company.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH WILL BE RE-BLESSED BY THE BISHOP

Sunday next will be a memorable occasion in the history of St. Mary's Church. On that date, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, of Peterborough, will re-bless the edifice, the interior of which has been beautifully decorated by skilled artists.

A sermon appropriate to the occasion will be delivered by that eloquent scholar, Rev. Dr. Teefey, a former superior of St. Michael's College, Toronto. The general public is invited to the services.

On Sunday afternoon His Lordship Bishop O'Connor will administer the sacrament of Confirmation to a large number of candidates.—Lindsay Post.

Peterborough Man Says Canadians Are Making Good In Chicago

Mr. A. D. Browne, Assistant General Manager of the Chicago papers, the Western, British-American, and the Canadian American is staying at the Walker House.

Mr. Browne is an old Peterborough boy who has been in the newspaper business in Chicago for 22 years. He got his first experience on the Peterborough Review.

"We have over 100,000 Canadians in Chicago," said Mr. Browne to The Star this morning, "and over 250,000 English, Scotch, and Canadians.

"We have over 80 British and Canadian societies, including the British Empire Association.

"Canadians and Britishers man the important positions in the Chicago telephone companies, the Edison companies, and the Banks," continued Mr. Browne. "Canadians are at a premium in Chicago, even if they are still intensely loyal to the old flag."

Mr. Browne cannot help speaking of the wonderful strides in Chicago's development.

"It is possible to ride in an automobile all day on Chicago's boulevards," he said, "and not go over the same ground twice. Building space is worth its surface in gold. Chicago would not leave Toronto's burnt area lying idle. It would have been covered with tall buildings the year after the fire.—Toronto Star.

Mr. Browne is a brother of Mr. Jas. Browne of this city.

Death In Toronto Of A. L. Davis Former Resident Of Peterborough

At his residence, Toronto, 439 Sherbourne street, the death occurred on Monday, June 14th, of Mr. A. L. Davis, a former well known and much respected resident of Peterborough. Mr. Davis had been for some time in ill health, having contracted a severe cold during the winter. In the early spring, in hopes of improvement by change, Mr. Davis spent some time at his summer home, Glen Oak, Stony Lake. But unfortunately his condition did not show the desired amendment and a short time ago he returned to the city, and death ensued, as stated, yesterday. Alfred Lawrence Davis was a son of the late Rev. G. H. Davis, and was born in Quebec in 1855. When a young man he entered into the wholesale stationery business with David Maurice, of Montreal, and after acquiring a knowledge of the business came to Peterborough where, in partnership with Andrew Wilson, and under the firm name of Wilson & Davis, a flourishing stationery business was carried on—in the premises now occupied by the Peterborough Bookstore. About 25 years ago Mr. Davis disposed of the business to Mr. J. R. Stratton, and entered into the insurance business with his brother-in-law, Mr. G. A. Cox, under the firm name of Cox & Davis, later becoming the Davis-Thompson Company, on the removal of Hon. Senator Cox to Toronto.

Five or six years ago Mr. Davis removed to Toronto where he was instrumental in organizing the Imperial Guarantee and Accident Company, of which he was president at the time of his death, besides holding positions of responsibility in connection with other financial or fiduciary institutions. At the time of his death, as he had been for years previously, he was a director of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, and the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company.

While a resident of Peterborough, Mr. Davis was held in high esteem, both socially and for his business qualifications. This was practically evidenced by the fact that, after serving one year in the City Council, he was selected to fill the highest civic office in the gift of the people, that of mayor, which he held for two terms—1868 and 1869, and in which his administration was public-spirited and successful. In private life Mr. Davis was popular and well esteemed. He was a member of [illegible] Street Methodist Church, [illegible] of the trustee board, [illegible] calist of unusual [illegible] er of the choir for [illegible] he frequently contributed [illegible] success at musical [illegible] projected in the interests of [illegible] or other good cause. In all ways Mr. Davis was a good citizen, and took a warm interest both publicly and in a private capacity in promoting the general interests of Peterborough. He was hospitable and his handsome summer home, Glen Oak, Stony Lake, was conspicuous for its [illegible] hospitality in the season.

In 1868 Mr. Davis was [illegible] marriage to Miss Emma C[illegible], daughter of Senator Cox, who survives him and will receive the sympathy of the very wide circle of friends both in Peterborough and Toronto, which her reserved but genuine qualities of character, attracted. Besides Mrs. Davis, Mr. Davis leaves behind him two brothers, Rev. Geo. Davis, Quebec, and Mr. Arthur Davis, Milwaukee; and two sisters, Mrs. J. McPherson, Milwaukee and Miss Eva Davis.

The funeral, which will be private, takes place on Wednesday, June 16th, at two o'clock from the family residence, 439 Sherbourne street, to Mount Pleasant cemetery, Toronto.

FORD CAR CONTINUES TO HOLD ITS PLACE

In Trials of New York to Seattle Test Race.

Mr. Jos. Duffus has received bulletins of the New York to Seattle motor race giving the daily standing of the cars. Mr. Duffus, as representative of the Ford Co. receives these bulletins which show that the Ford car in the race is doing particularly well. The bulletins are as follows:

Kansas City, June 9.—Arrived Kansas City one two. Acme, Shawmut two hours behind. Itala whereabouts unknown. No trouble.

Ellsworth, Kansas, June 9.—Arrived first Manhattan and here. Shawmut second, two hours. Ford two, Aeott driver, in 20 feet ditch last night. Is out and coming fast.

Oakley, Kansas, June 10.—Three inch rainfall made roads worst yet. Ten miles per hour average to noon. Scott made up six hours' lost time. Race close. Four cars together all day. Shawmut ahead here two minutes. Our cars doing splendidly. Crews feel fine.

Burlington, Colo., June 11.—Ninety miles mud and high water yesterday. Roads west reported worse. Shawmut here. Acme broke down. Cars doing fine. Have original wind in tires.

AMERICANS HERE FOR THE FISHING

Messrs. R. G., H. W. and J. L. Phillips of Rochester, N. Y., arrived in the city last evening and were guests at the Hotel National, until this morning, when they left for Buckleigh Falls. They came over to enjoy a week or ten days' fishing at the Falls, and certainly are going to be on hand for an early start. They will be sent out the first thing to-morrow morning and expect to land a few good ones.

WOMEN IN COUNCIL.

A notable happening in the conventions to which June is so largely devoted is the quinquennial congress of the International Council of Women which convenes in the University Buildings, Toronto, on June 16th and continues till June 30th. There is, it must be admitted, some prejudice excited by the name of this organization; but it is to be understood that the International Council of Women, has no relation in character or objects with the shrieking sisterhood represented by the rabid intensity of the extravagant suffragettes. A copy of the agenda of the coming convention reveals a wide catholicity of aim, involving activities which come well within the sphere of woman's capabilities and influence. There are some things that women do better than men, owing to their finer intellectual and sentimental equipment, their intenser intuition, their warmer heart and wider sympathy. From Calvary till to-day woman has been foremost in good works and fidelity of heart and principle. At one of the June church gatherings it was brought out that but for the work of women, the missionaries of the Christian Church would starve in the field, if indeed without the help of woman they got there. The women at the coming council will be gathered from twenty-three civilized countries of Europe and America, and "the isles of the sea"; and this national blending, and unity of action on common grounds must exercise an inestimable international influence for betterment of social conditions, improvement of political relations and all the good that comes from our knowing each other better, from a broader outlook and expanded sympathies. The programme of action of the council in its comprehensiveness—in the complete scope of its deliberations resembles a speech from the throne. A brief indication of the subjects to be considered, will show how inclusive they are. Beginning with Art in all its aspects, Education naturally follows and naturally woman's capacity for comprehending childhood, its needs and how best to meet them become conspicuous under Education. Health and Physical Training, also naturally lead up the Industrial occupations of women and a cognate subject of consideration is Legislation. Literature follows and Philanthropy under which comes social and moral reform. Then comes Professions and Careers for Women. These subjects and their related subdivisions offer a wide scope for the expression of opinion and of fact which they permit, especially as among those contributing to the descussion, are names such as Lady Aberdeen, and others of cosmopolitan reputation for practical philanthropy and activity in promoting the welfare of women. The coming council will be well worthy of the attention it will draw; and the fact that it is held under the auspices of the National Council of Women of Canada, is a practical recognition of the admission of Canada to the sisterhood of nations. We are fortunate to have our turn, the third in the international series of meetings. Few are living who will see the council meet in Canada again, for there are already twenty-three National Councils federated.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION.

Buffalo is to vote next fall on the question of adopting government by commission. The plan was adopted in Galveston, Texas, after the great disaster which overtook that city some years ago, and has since been copied by many other cities, including Des Moines, which affords the model for Buffalo. A very important feature of the Des Moines plan, which distinguishes it from the original Galveston plan, is the recall. This has received a more practical test in Los Angeles than anywhere else. It should be noted that in nearly six years Los Angeles has had occasion to apply the recall only once—once in the case of a councilman and one to get rid of an offending Mayor. It succeeded in both cases and few dispute the justice of the people's judgment. On one other occasion the mere threat of the recall operated to prevent an act by the city council which was much against the public interest, though it was of a nature common in cities governed under the ordinary political methods. Des Moines also has had occasion to threaten some officials with the recall, but the threat was enough and it had to be made only once.—Brantford Expositor.

LIBERALS AND LABOUR.

The Toronto Mail and Empire has busied itself in tendering the Liberal Government advice as to whom should be selected as the first Minister of Labour, and since the selection was made has been denouncing the Government for choosing Mr. Mackenzie King, who is appealing to the electors of North Waterloo for a renewal of confidence, the constitutional formality required in a member of Parliament accepting office. This puerile carping is all the organ of the Conservative party or that party itself, has done in the interests of labour. All the Conservative government of the Dominion has done in the interests of labour in the whole history of Canada was to appoint a Royal Commission—in 1886—on the subject of Labour. This Commission, at a cost of $80,000, brought in a report recommending the establishment of a Bureau of Labour. Though the Conservatives were in power ten years after, 1886, nothing was done. Early in their term of office the Liberals carried their policy into practice. The Department of Labour—not a simple Bureau—a side line—but a Department of Labour was established and manned, and the Government has now gone the length of appointing a responsible minister, and dignifying the most imuortant interest of the Dominion with a Department and a Minister of its own Nor is this all. The Liberal Government has ever since it came into power, it has been procuring the enactment of legislation in the interests of the industrial classes, both organised and unorganised, or conducting investigations into grievances and injustices, and providing remedies and redress. As an indication of what has been done in the twelve years of Liberal rule the following summary is submitted as standing to the credit of the Liberal Government:

The establishment of a department of labour.

The publication of a monthly journal known as "The Labour Gazette."

Abolition of the sweating system in connection with government contracts.

Enactment of the Conciliation Act, 1900.

Enactment of the Railway Labour Disputes Act, 1903.

Enactment of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907.

Enactment of the Alien Labour Act, 1897, and amendments of 1898 and 1901.

Appointment of Royal Commissions in 1903 to examine into the alleged employment of aliens on the Pere Marquette Railway, and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company.

An act to prevent false representation to induce immigrants to come to Canada, 1903.

Sending Mr. King to England to urge the British Government to enact legislation upon similar lines to the above, which legislation was enacted in 1905.

Royal Commission in 1900 to enquire into the effect of Chinese and Japanese immigration.

Imposition of $500 head tax on Chinese coming into Canada as a result of recommendation by this commission.

Royal Comission to investigate methods by which Oriental labourers were induced to come to Canada.

Special mission of Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Minister of Labour, to Japan in the interests of restrictive legislation, and the satisfactory results of this mission.

Mission of Mr. King, Deputy Minister of Labour, to England, resulting in complete prohibition of Hindu contract labour.

Legislation to protect the health of workingmen and women.

Investigation in 1898, by Royal Commission into the death by diphtheria of workmen employed upon the construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway.

Enactmnt in 1899, as rsult of inquiry by commission, of an act for the protection of the health of employees engaged in public works, followed in 1900 and 1902 by orders-in-council providing machinery for the proper carrying out of the measure.

Legislation for the prevention of accidents on railways and the appointment of an officer to investigate causes of all railway accidents.

Investigation in 1907 into conditions of employment of the operations of the Bell Telephone Co., resulting in material improvement in the conditions of labour of hundreds of women and young girls.

Investigation by commission into conditions of employment of operators in the cotton factories in the Province of Quebec.

Other important measures such as protecting railway crossings, the Lord's Day Act, suppression of opium traffic in Canada, increase of salaries to the civil servants, increase of pay to postmen, letter carriers and others in the public service can well be added.

CONTRIBUTION BOX WAS ROBBED

At the Roman Catholic Church, Hastings —An Old Resident Passed Away.

Examiner Special.

Hastings, June 14.—Another aged and respected resident of Asphodel has gone to her reward in the person of Mrs. John Fife, who passed away at her home on Monday, the 7th inst. at the ripened age of 76 years. About six years ago, Mrs. Fife fell and fractured her hip, and had been confined to bed, this fracture bringing on complications which resulted in her death. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons and five daughters. The sons are: Duncan, of Asphodel, and James, of Strathcona, Alta., and the daughters, Nellie, at hame; Mrs. H. Stabler, Peterborough; Mrs. Carter, Otonabee; Mrs. Hore, of Percy, and Mrs. S. Wildman, of Hastings. Her husband pre-deceased her eight years ago. Interment took place on Wednesday in Westwood cemetery.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Roman Catholic Church on Wednesday morning, the contracting parties being M. T. O'Grady, of Asphodel, and Miss T. Coveney, of Percy. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bretherton, the wedding march being played by Miss Murphy. After the ceremony and congratulation the wedding party drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dejeuner was served in first-class style. The bride was handsomely gowned in a Princess dress of cream French armure, and was assisted by her sister, Miss M. Coveney, who wore a pretty costume of pale blue silk mulle with hat to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls, to the bridesmaid a gold crescent, and to the groomsman, Mr. James Lamey, a pair of gold cuff links. Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady left on the evening train for a short honeymoon trip and on their return will reside in Asphodel. Their many friends join in wishing them bon voyage through life.

A number of citizens are complaining that although the floating islands have added somewhat to the scenery in the river they brought with them some very undesirable company in the shape of black snakes, which are so numerous that you are liable to come in contact with them at any time, should you feel inclined to take a stroll on the river bank.

We are sorry to say that Mr. Robt. Johnson is seriously ill, suffering from a stroke of apoplexy, which makes his recovery doubtful as he is well advanced in years.

One evening, quite recently, some person or persons, as yet unknown, entered the Roman Catholic Church and helped themselves to the contents of one of the contribution boxes. If found out, they will, no doubt, be dealt with, according to law.

The community sympathizes with Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson on their loss by death, of their infant daughter, Jean Aillene.

Messrs. J. Jones, G. Hormel and S. Hatherly were in Cobourg last week, attending on the jury.

Reeve Howard is attending the sitting of County Council in Cobourg this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fleming have been visiting at the home of Mr. Thos. Shearer, Seymour.

The pulpit of the Methodist Church was occupied on Sunday evening by Mr. Mills, of Campbellford, while Mr. McDonald, of Keene, performed the same duty in the Presbyterian Church.

Miss L. Collins is visiting with friends in Toronto.

The town committee on sports is making arrangements for a monstrous celebration on July first, and desire the co-operation of the citizens in general.

The baseball match last week between the Methodist and Mt. Carmel teams resulted in favour of the former.

Mr. J. Walsh has purchased the bakery business of Mr. R. A. O'Connor, and will commence operations right away.

Mr. G. Barrie has sold the blacksmithing business to Mr. A. Smith, who is prepared to do all kinds of work in connection therewith.

Mrs. Archie Stewart and little son, of Toronto, are visiting at the home of Mr. Stewart's father, Mr. Jas. Stewart.

The appearance of our streets is being materially improved by the new pavements which are in course of construction.

Mr. Knight, of Cobourg, has been a guest at the home of Mr. Arthur Stephen.

MISSION AT ST. JOSEPH'S, DOURO

Conducted by Rev. Father Derling Has Been Concluded.

Douro, June 9.—The weather of the past few weeks has been extremely favourable to good growth, and as a result, the country presents a most beautiful appearance, decked, as it is, in the varying tints of green.

Rev. Father Derling, of Toronto, has just brought to a close a mission, which was held in St. Joseph's church and which was a grand success, the edifice being thronged with people morning and evening to hear from so eloquent a speaker words of inspiration and advice.

The nuptials of Mr. Thos. Ryan and Miss Doherty took place recently, the ceremony being performed in the village church.

Messrs. Sheahen and Condon opened up their new dry goods store on Church Street last Thursday and are doing a thriving business.

Miss Mary Sullivan visited friends in North Douro on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCauley are the guests of the latter's parents.

Messrs. Jno. Kennedy and Jno. J. Condon were the guests of Mr. Lewis Sullivan last Sunday.

Miss J. Herr and Miss Minnie Hogan, of Peterborough, were visiting in Douro, at the home of Mr. Lewis Sullivan recently.

Mr. Arthur Carveth has procured a new rubber tire. More power to your elbow, Art.

Mr. Fred Walsh was visiting in Peterborough on Saturday.

We are pleased to see that Mr. P. G. Towns has quite recovered from a rather severe injury received some time ago.

Mr. John S. Maloney was visiting friends on the Dummer Road lately.

The village blacksmith is a very busy man those days. He does not think he will forsake the trade for a few years more, as things are booming in his line.

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterboro a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and that the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin working, simply this, more families will of necessity, move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase, in either case property is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People who are contemplating purchasing a house will do well to see J. T. O'Connell's list and get terms. We have a choice selection of properties at moderate prices and easy terms. If you have not time to call during the day, come any evening and we will show you any property on our list. We're always at your service.

Boston and New York Capitalists Reported to Have Reorganized Northern Ontario Line With a View to Running It Into the Forests of the North—Charter to Hudson Bay Renewed Last Session.

Boston, Mass., June 15.—Plans are about consummated whereby a syndicate of New York and Boston capitalists are to take over the Bruce Mines and Algoma Railway, with a charter and Government grants, running from the north shore of Lake Huron to Hudson's Bay.

The projectors are heavy lumber producers and will extend the road from its present terminus on into the great timber tracts of Ontario and the Northwest Territories.

Clinton Cowdy of Springfield, Mass., as attorney and agent for the bondholders protective committee of the road, is credited largely with bringing about the reorganization and sale.

At the last session of the Ontario Legislature the expired charter of this railway was restored and a land grant of 1,000 acres per mile for six miles, to carry the line into the lumber country. This railway was originally projected for 20 miles.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

President Penna of Brazil is dead.

A rich find of gold and silver is reported near Paynton, Sask.

An association has been organized in Berlin to promote better trade relations with Canada.

The first cabin passengers of the wrecked Cunard Liner Slavonia reached Gibraltar yesterday.

Sixty English clergymen were received in audience by the German Emperor at Potsdam yesterday.

The emergency dam at the Soo has been completed, and the repairs to the canal can now be proceeded with.

Lieut. Ernest H. Shackleton, whose expedition recently penetrated to the farthest south, reached London yesterday.

The C.N.R. shops at Montreal are turning out the biggest locomotive ever built in Canada, for use on the mountain sections of the road.

Thomas Flynn, tug fireman, was found dead on the sidewalk at Amherstburg. It is supposed he walked or fell out of his bedroom window.

The Grand Trunk Pacific train service between Winnipeg and Scott, 500 miles, was inaugurated yesterday. The service will be extended to Edmonton soon.

S. F. Washington, K.C., has notified the City Council of Hamilton that he will move to quash the bylaw giving the street lightning contract to the Cataract Power Co. if the Council decide to take any action on it. He is acting for a ratepayer.

Montrealer Murdered.

Montreal, June 15.—Detectives are seeking the murderers of John Lavorensky, a Russian, whose body was found floating in the river opposite Dominion Park on Sunday. The body was identified at the morgue last night by a friend, who told the police that Lavorensky had been killed during a quarrel in a Russian boarding-house on Forsythe street ten days ago, and at night his body was carried to the river front and thrown in. Yesterday the autopsy revealed the fact that the man was dead before he went into the water.

Two Russians from the boarding house have then arrested and last night a hunt is being made for the proprietor of the house, who is supposed to be responsible for the tragedy.

U. S. Battleship Grounded.

Philadelphia, June 15.—The battleship Michigan, which went aground off Cape Cod last Friday, after completing one of the tests in connection with her official trial, arrived at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Co. in Camden, N.J., yesterday. It is said the battleship did not sustain any injury of consequence, but a thorough examination of the big ship will be made before the official trial is finished. The officials of the shipbuilding company express themselves as satisfied with the performance of the Michigan in the tests already made, the ship having exceeded the speed of 18 1-2 knots an hour called for in her contract.

Synod of Huron.

London, June 15.—The synod of Huron will open in St. Paul's Cathedral to-day. The Huron College Alumni held their annual banquet last night and elected as officers: President, Rev. W. J. Doherty, Hensall; first vice-president, Rev. T. B. Howard, Brantford; second vice-president, Rev. A. T. Beneriy, Forest; secretary, Rev. H. A. Wright, Kinesardine; treasurer, Rev. A. Shore, Ridgetown. The junior clergy union elected: President, Rev. W. Snelgrove, Windsor; secretary, Rev. T. B. Howard; executive, Revs. T. G. Wallace, Woodstock; X. E. Appleyard, Clarksburg; W. H. Hartley, Blythe.

Ven. Archdeacon MacKenzie of Brantford will preach the sermon today.

Painter Killed in Toronto.

Toronto, June 15.—George Trepo, a Macedonian painter, who was run over at the corner of Niagara and King streets by an automobile driven by J. T. Parker, of 96 Lowther avenue, Saturday afternoon, died at Grace Hospital yesterday morning from his injuries.

"He was riding a wheel and turned directly in front of the car," said Mr. Parker. Chief Coroner Johnson will order an inquest. Mr. Parker's wife and family were in the car at the time of the accident.

His Money No Object.

Vancouver, B.C., June 15.—A Japanese banker named Harade, worth several hundred thousand dollars, and for 15 years a resident of Seattle, was stopped yesterday when departing from the Empress of India by the U. S. immigration officers. It is alleged that Harade is interested financially in certain establishments objectionable to the view of the officials. He has been on a trip to Japan and officials declare that if the charges are proved against him he will be deported.

Lizard Entombed Thousand Years.

Great Falls, Mont., June 15.—In a coal mine near here a miner discovered a lizard about nine feet from the surface, and embedded in the solid rock. There is no conceivable method by which the lizard could have entered the cavity since nature closed the gap thousands of years ago. When first uncovered the reptile was torpid, but when brought to the light it showed more signs of life.

Gets a Threatening Letter.

St. Catharines, June 15.—Capt. Patrick Dacey, tender at lock 7 on the Welland canal, has received a threatening "blackhand" letter, postmarked Buffalo. Three years ago he helped to convict a man for rape and thinks that may be the inspiration of the missive.

Schoolboy Loses Sight of One Eye.

London, Ont., June 15.—Roy Bough, aged 11, was struck in the left eye at school by a pen being whirled around by another boy, and he will lose his sight. The pen was filled with ink, and it is feared poisoning may develop, necessitating the removal of the eyeball.

Steeple Wrecked by Lightning.

Brockville, June 15.—During a heavy thunderstorm yesterday morning lightning destroyed a large barn owned by Manley Fields in South Augusta. Lightning also struck the Methodist Church at Mallorytown, and the steeple is a wreck.

Lightning Hits Church.

Green Bay, Wis., June 15.—Lightning struck the steeple of Holy Cross Catholic Church at Bay Settlement during mass, killing one and shocked and injured sixteen others.

Orillia Carries Bylaw.

Orillia, June 15.—Four debenture bylaws carried yesterday by good majorities. The immediate expenditure will be between $75,000 and $85,000, divided as follows: Sewage disposal works $55,000, concrete sidewalks $15,000, park improvements $3,000, town library $12,000.

A SECOND LIFE

"If I only had another chance!"

How often are these despairing words uttered when a man feels his strength ebbing, his vital forces depressed, his health undermined—often as the result of his own errors or follies—and he realizes the infinite possibilities which might lie in his grasp, could he indeed receive in Shakespeare's phrase, "a second life."

Happily for the world, this other chance, this "second life" is to be had for the asking by means of that which has been aptly described by a famous physician as "the last word science has spoken" on the subject of such remedial agents, and to which by virtue of its health-giving properties, the name of Vitol—meaning life "health-producer"—has been given.

So potent is its force that it will not only restore the health and vigour which have been lost, but, if persevered in, will in addition impart the highest measure of nervous and physical vigour of which the individual is capable; for there is a maximum capacity of health for everyone, though he may not hitherto have had the fact impressed upon him. Doctors endorse this and daily prescribe Vitol in increasing quantities. The constituents which give this power are known to every physician, and one has testified to the supreme merits of Vitol as

A Revitalizing Force

after wasting illness and as a restorer of health, not only in nervous diseases (with their innumerable symptoms of discomfort and distress, including loss of memory, insomnia, irresolution, weakness of the will, &c.), but also in anæmia, digestive disturbances and consumption.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 14.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards' West End Market, the receipts of livestock for the week ending June 12, were 1250 cattle, 1200 sheep and lambs, 1650 hogs and 1000 calves, while the offerings for local consumption this morning were 1000 cattle, 150 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 100 calves. A feature this morning was the fact that fully 75 per cent. of the cattle offered were grassers, which is the first fair run of this class of stock this season, and considering average quality and condition prices were high. The market was by no means as strong as it has been of late, owing to the fact that the supply was much larger and this, coupled with hot, muggy weather, tended to check the demand some. Cable advices from Liverpool were stronger and noted an advance of 1/4c to 1/2c per pound, with trade firm, but there was little demand from exporters here on account of quality and high prices. Extra choice steers sold at 6¼c, choice at 6¼c to 6¼c, good at 6¼c to 6c, fair at 5¼c to 5¾c; medium at 4¾c to 5c, and the common at 4c to 4¾c per lb. Hog prices were about steady under a fair demand and supplies were ample. Good trade was done at $8.50 per cwt. for selected lots, weighed off the cars. Cable advices from Liverpool, London and Bristol on Saturday on Canadian bacon noted a decline of 1s to 2s per cwt. Supplies of small meats were fair, for which the demand was not very urgent. Prices sheep ruled lower with sales at 4c to 5c per lb. Spring lambs were steady at from $2 to $6 each, and calves from $1.50 to $6. At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market receipts for the week ending June 12 were 1250 cattle for export account, and 600 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 1333 calves for local consumption. The supply this morning consisted of 300 cattle, 200 sheep and lambs, 225 hogs and 200 calves. Exports for the week were 2277 cattle.

NERVOUS?

Do you know what nervousness is? Are you startled by the least noise? Does the children's merry laughter and noise irritate and worry you? Does the unexpected call of a friend or visitor make your heart "jump"? If so your nerves are in a bad condition. You need PSYCHINE the greatest of Tonics. There is life in every dose. It makes life brighter and happier, gives you a good appetite, makes your work a pleasure and enables you to enjoy life, the merry prattle of the children and the visits of your friends.

Nervous and Run Down

"In regard to your PSYCHINE, I cannot speak too highly of it. I was feeling nervous, trembling and run down, before taking PSYCHINE and had a bad cough. But PSYCHINE helped me more than anything I ever tried and I give it all the praise." Mrs. George Vogan, Cayuga, Ont.

Send to Dr. T. A. Slocum, Limited, Scadding Ave, Toronto for a sample of this wonderful tonic today. This will convince you that there is nothing like PSYCHINE in the world for "run-down and nervous" folk. It is quick in its action, and is absolutely reliable, having a record of nearly 20 years. The whole family can take it—the children like it. Sold by all druggists and stores, 50c and $1.00.

A POWERFUL AND EFFECTIVE CURE

For Catarrh, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds, Asthma.

Soothing Balsams Are Carried to the Sore, Congested Membranes — Cure Quickly and Completely.

Diseases of the breathing organs are, as you know, excited by germs so minute that only the microscope can reveal them; they are lodged in the tissues, develop there, and cause all the trouble. That is how consumption starts.

If the cause of the disease can be carried by air, why not the remedy? This conclusion lies at the root of the Catarrhozone treatment. The instrument through which you breathe fragrant, healing Catarrhozone splits up into minute particles this invaluable healing and curative agent, thereby enabling the air to carry it to the remotest ramifications of the breathing organs, and diffuses itself over their entire surfaces.

CATARRHOZONE ALWAYS CURES.

It would be absolutely impossible to breathe through a Catarrhozone inhaler without carrying this liquid to the remotest parts of the breathing apparatus. Upon healthy tissue it has no action, but upon diseased tissue and upon the micro-organisms which infect diseased tissues its action is so wonderfully curative that the disease is completely abolished. Then the tissue heals.

EARLY TREATMENT IS WISE.

Catarrhozone is an ideal remedy for diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. If you have catarrh, or bronchitis, or asthma, all are equally curable by Catarrhozone. These diseases are all modifications of an inflammatory condition of the lining membranes of the throat and nasal passages. Under these conditions we call it catarrh. When it extends to the bronchial tubes, we call it bronchitis. The condition is the same, the causes which produce the diseases are identical, and the remedy, Catarrhozone, acts equally promptly and efficiently upon the different forms of this disease. Your case is curable. Get Catarrhozone to-day; two months' treatment (guaranteed) price $1; small size 50c. Sold by all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

That's What Antoine Cottenoire Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They Cured His Diabetes After the Doctors Had Failed to Give Him Relief—What Dodd's Kidney Pills Do and Why.

St. Pie de Guire, Yamaska Co., Que., June 14.—(Special).—That there is one sure cure for deadly Diabetes, and that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills is proven once more in the case of Mr. Antoine Cottenoire, a well known resident of this place.

"I am thankful I ever heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills," Mr. Cottenoire states. "They cured me of Diabetes. I suffered with Backache. I always felt droway. I had severe headaches and my limbs would cramp. I had a dizzy feeling and felt tired in the region of the kidneys, with a dragging heavy sensation across the loins.

"I was treated by the doctors, but got no benefit from them. Then I heard of cures made by Dodd's Kidney Pills and made up my mind to try them. I took in all three dozen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Today I am free from Kidney trouble of all kinds.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills also cured me of stomach trouble from which I suffered for twenty-five years."

Diabetes is one of the most deadly forms of Kidney Disease. But Dodd's Kidney Pills cure any form of Kidney Disease. They also by curing the Kidneys cure all those diseases that come from disordered Kidneys, such as Rheumatism, Lumbago and Heart Disease.

Ketchecum Lake Party off on Ten Days' Fishing Trip as the Guests of Mr. H. LeBrun.

A number of the members of the Ketchicum Club left this morning, via G. T. R. for "Bellechasse," the summer home of Mr. H. LeBrun, in Stony Lake. Their genial host has prepared for them in his usual hospitable manner, as well as arranged a series of side trips—fishing expeditions and musical soirees—during the next ten days. Other members of the Ketchicum Club will join the members on Saturday evening next. Nature in all her moods and tenses will be studied to the best advantage, and the lordly maskinonge and gamey bass lured into submission.

G. T. R. OFFICIALS PASS THROUGH CITY

The officials' train of the G. T. R. passed through the city about three o'clock yesterday afternoon on its way from Toronto to Montreal. The Superintendent, Mr. W. R. Tiffin, Mr. C. M. Hays, and other prominent officials were on board. They are returning from the trip, taken on the new steamer "Hamonic," which made its initial outing on Saturday.

YOUNG SCOTCHMAN WAS DISORDERLY

A young Scotchman called at the Customs House and made himself a nuisance by his misconduct and refused to leave when told to do so. The man was under the influence of liquor. He came out from Scotland with a shipload of horses and arrived here on Friday last.

P. C. Adams was telephoned for and took the troublesome man to the police station.

MR. J. J. KELSO COMPLIMENTS THOSE WHO WORK FOR THE PROTECTION OF CHILDREN

Buffalo, N.Y., June 14.—At a large many meeting of distinguished philanthropic delegates, held under the auspices of the National Conference of Charities in Central Presbyterian Church last night, Mr. J. J. Kelso, of Toronto, paid a high tribute to the many faithful workers who in Ontario had made the Children's Protection Act a great success. "This banner Province of Canada," he said, "has for the past sixteen years one of the most up-to-date laws in the world for the protection of neglected and dependent children. It is not the law, however, so much as the thoroughness with which it has been put in operation that has brought success and consequent commendation from all who are acquainted with its workings. Briefly described, the system is this: A state children's department is created for the purpose of organising, directing and controlling the work of child protection throughout the Province. Children's Aid Societies are formed by leading citizens in each city and town as auxiliaries of the government office, and are given special recognition and authority by the government. All the printed forms are supplied without charge, but the funds necessary to carry on local operations are furnished by private contributions, supplemented by a municipal grant. When children are committed to the guardianship of the Society the papers are filed in the central office and all children placed in foster homes are reported there for subsequent visitation and supervision. The visiting of children is done without cost to the local society, and regular reports are furnished concerning the progress of each child so that interest in the work may be sustained. This system has been in operation since 1893 and the best evidence of its success is to be found in the fact that all the other Provinces of Canada have since passed a similar law. The main feature is a happy combination of benevolent activity with official direction and supervision, the great aim being kept in view of protecting every child from neglect or cruelty. There are sixty branch Children's Societies in Ontario representing a volunteer working force of over one thousand of the best men and women in the country. In consequence of the frequent meetings held and the great publicity given to the movement, child neglect is soon noticed, warnings are given and in extreme cases guardianship is applied for. The system is constantly being perfected so that greater attention may be given to neglect in its incipiency, recognizing that prompt action may save the ruin of young lives, and possibly prevent the breaking up of the home. In sixteen years, over fifty thousand children have been indirectly benefitted by the kindly intervention of the Society and over five thousand have been received under guardianship and placed in foster homes. These have been regularly visited, and if at any time a change is advisable there are sheltering homes ready to receive them back. Less than one per cent. of the children sent to country homes have since drifted into crime, and the majority of those returned are eligible for replacing after slight medical attention or the selection of a home more suited to their temperament or ability. In addition to its regular work of looking after the neglected the Society does much educational work, such as the advocacy of play grounds, medical inspection in schools, fresh air funds, abolition of slum conditions, etc.

Mr. Kelso, who has had the direction of this department from its inception, is an old member of the National Conference of Charities, having occupied the offices as assistant secretary, vice-president and member of the executive committee. He was formerly engaged in journalism and advocated juvenile courts, home-finding, etc, in the early days, when these modern movements were practically unknown.

PETERBORO' PEOPLE GUESTS AT COBOCONK SUMMER RESORT

Special to The Examiner.

Coboconk, June 12.—Prospects for a large and increased tourist trade for the season are very bright. Coboconk stands out prominently as one of the best fishing grounds on the Kawartha Lakes, and this fact combined with the beautiful scenery and pure air, makes this place one of the most popular of the Kawartha Lakes resorts.

The Pattie house and the Queen's hotel are preparing for a large summer's trade.

The dock on Water street, built this spring by the Dominion officials, will be much appreciated by the travelling public. The old dock has been enlarged considerably, and will now afford much better accommodation.

The steamer Kawartha commences her regular daily trips from Fenelon Falls on Tuesday.

The new G.T.R. depot erected late last fall will appeal to the visitors, as a great improvement over the old one. The old station was burned last August, together with a number of pieces of baggage belonging to tourists.

Messrs. Watson Bros., boat manufacturers, are preparing their fleet of smaller craft for the summer's business. They have added a number of new skiffs and canoes.

J. H. Jackson, of Toronto, has been visiting at the Pattie house for the past week.

A. D. Clark and son, Harold Clark, of Toronto, were in their cottage on Gull Lake recently, and enjoyed the excellent trout fishing for a few days.

Sergt. Robert Hall Remembered By Officers And Men Of No. 6 Co.

Sergt. Robt. Hall, of No. 6 Company of the 57th Regiment was pleasantly surprised last night at the conclusion of the regular drill when the officers and men of his company turned on him, presented him with an address and a token of remembrance, and formally bade him good-bye. Sergt. Hall leaves on June 17th for Milwaukee, and this was his last drill with the 57th, and his company did not forget that fact.

When the company had assembled in its room at the armouries, Captain McLean called them together and referred to Sergeant Hall's intending departure. He then called upon Lieut. R. N. Merrit to read the following address:

To Our Fellow Soldier,
Sergeant R. Hall:

There are occasions when the removal of a member of a company calls forth sincere regret because of the sterling qualities of the man withdrawing. On other occasions the member leaving is evidently well-informed and capable and it is feared the efficiency of the company will suffer. Sometimes it is only the companionable qualities that will be missed. But on this ocasion, when you are with us for the last time, we feel that we are losing a conspicuously capable officer, a man of sterling and strong qualities, and a first-class comrade.

For some years you have been one of the company and always deeply interested and we believe loyal and self-sacrificing. Were the company out in full strength Bob Hall was there, and were there but a handful Bob Hall was certain to be one of the few.

It was with sincere gratification that we learned that you were to be one of our non-commissioned officers, and now that you have filled the position so efficiently we have the more regret that you have decided to remove to other lands.

But before you go we ask you to accept a little tangible expression of our good will. We all heartily wish you the best of success and the most pleasant of associations, and all join in hoping that should you return to our city we may be intimately associated again in regimental life.

Signed on behalf of No. 6 Company,
A. P. McLEAN, Capt.
R. N. MERRITT, Lieut.
K. G. LECH, Jr., Lieut.

Lieutenant Lech presented Sergeant Hall with an ebony hat brush mounted with the letter R in silver.

Sergeant Hall expressed his appreciation in a few brief remarks in which he referred to the pleasant times he had shared with the company He regretted in a sense to have to sever his connections with the company and with the regiment, but such things had to happen. He thanked his comrades in arms once more and bade farewell to the company.

ORDERS FOR ROUTE MARCH OF 24th FIELD BATTERY

Artillerymen Will Leave Peterborough at 6 O'clock on Monday Morning Next and Will March to Cobourg---Last Drill Before Camp Will be Held at the Armouries To-night.

Peterborough, 15th June, 1909.
Order No. 111.

Issued by Major T. W. H. Young, O.C., 24th F.B.C.A.

Luggage 1.—As it is impossible for the transport waggons to carry more than the allowed kit, those wishing to bring trunks had better double or treble up with their companions, thus saving space in tents. This kind of baggage should be shipped by express, but at the expense of the shippers. As soon as possible on arrival of same at Cobourg a transport waggon will be detailed to go to the station and convey same to the camp.

Halting 2.—Before arriving at Cobourg a halt will be made in order that every man shall brush up and look smart, so as to make as neat an appearance as possible whilst entering there.

Discipline 3. — Strict discipline, when leaving and returning Peterborough, en route and otherwise, must be strictly adhered to.

Appointments 4.—All appointments not made before proceeding to camp will be made soon after arrival at Cobourg.

Advance Party 5.—The following are appointed: Prov'l L't. J. Elliott, Corp'l Thos. Guerin, G'r H. Donovan, Cook, G'r Doris, and two others not yet appointed. They will proceed to camp early on Saturday morning, June 19th, 1909, per G.T.R. Tents must be fully pitched, as the battery may arrive late and the men will have no time to put down picket stakes or tent pegs. Everything to be in readiness, and a hot meal will be provided for men on arrival.

Forage 6.—A feed of oats will be placed in each nose bag, the man will be responsible for this feed for dinner.

Route March 7.—The battery will move off at 6 a.m. sharp on 21st inst. Any member delaying this order will be considered inefficient and his efficiency pay forfeited in consequence.

Harnessing 8.—The first horses ready will be the first chosen for harnessing and hooking up.

Care of Harness 9.—The Nos. I. will be responsible for their harness in every shape and form and will report to the Sergeant-Major any deficiency or defect, he in turn reporting to the proper officer.

Care of Horses 10.—The Far'r-Sergeant must keep an observing eye on the horses at each halt and report to the Vet.-Surgeon, who will then hand in his report to the Commanding Officer.

Adornments 11.—For the benefit of recruits and those being unaware of such adornments as flowers, watch chains, etc.; they must not be worn.

Nominal Roll 12.—This is the last night for placing on Nominal Roll, as same has to be sent to C.S.O. immediately.

By order,
T. W. H. YOUNG, Major,
O.C. 24th F.B.C.A.

Excellent materials, careful construction

Sunshine Furnace is designed for extremely low setting, thus giving good elevation to the warm air pipes, which facilitates the egress of heated air through the correct pipes.

Sunshine Furnace has maximum heating capacity so that every unit of strength is extracted from the coal, wood or coke and fully utilised.

Sunshine Furnace has maximum weight, so that as the furnace is set in cement this weight makes it absolutely secure in position.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE BEING MADE FOR THE Y.M.C.A. BOYS ANNUAL CAMP AT CLEAR LAKE

The annual outing of the Y. M. C. A. Boys Department will be held this year at the favourite camp grounds, Sandy Point, Clear Lake, from July 18 to 31, and arrangements are now being made for the event which is one of the features of the Y. M. C. A. work. Every summer for a goodly number of years now, the boys of the "Y" have gathered at Clear Lake, and have enjoyed two joyful weeks crammed full of exciting events, fishing trips, exploring expeditions, bathing, boating, baseball, athletics, and all the joys of an outing in the woods.

Their camp at Clear Lake is admirably situated. There is a splendid sandy beach for bathing purposes, a level field upon which the games of the camp may be played, and a spring of cold, clear, sparkling water nearby. Clear Lake is a splendid sheet of water for boating purposes, and Stony Lake, with all its delights, is close at hand, affording opportunities for enjoyable trips.

It is desired to have at least fifteen boys take in the trip and applications must be made before July 3. The outing is open to all members of the boys' department over the age of 12. The usual careful supervision will be in vogue, so that parents need not hesitate to commit their boys to the care of the Y. M. C. A., as they will have the best of care. There are three rules that must be carrid out in camp; first, that no boy must go in bathing outside of the hours prescribed by those in charge; second, that the use of tobacco in any form will be strictly prohibited; and, third, their destination by steamer through the canal this year, and will return in the same manner.

Arrangements are being made for the culinary department, which will be better than ever this season, and the boys who have been at the camp in other years will know just how strong that statement is.

A feature of the camp in other years has been the baseball League and it will be continued this season, as well as all the other delightful pastimes that make the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp, the jolliest and most healthful two weeks of the year.

WILL ENDEAVOUR TO CONVERSE WITH MARS

Prof. David Todd, of Amherst College, Believes This is Practicable by the Use of Balloons---Leo Stevens, the Famous Aeronaut, Will Assist in the Experiment.

Special Correspondence.

Amherst, Mass., June 15.—A cushion of air, 10 miles thick, surrounds the earth.

Out there, beyond this air cushion, there may be a veritable clamour of messages from Mars. For centuries these messages have been beating against this cushion; they have been beating in vain; they are hurled back into ethereal echoes that are wasted on space.

In vein the Martians may have strengthened their wireless message machines. With each stronger apparatus they have thrown out to us, in space, with new hope, messages that might thrill us immeasurably. Each time their messages have been unanswered because the earth's cushion of air has kept them from us.

This is the theory of Prof. David Todd of Amherst College.

He believes that the blue air above us is a veritable mine of knowledge. The Martians, he thinks, are thousands of years ahead of us in all wisdom. If we can talk with them, he believes, we shall open new books of wisdom, and shall find, ready solved for us, the problems we now face and also many new problems we have not yet even reached.

The first thing to do is to penetrate the cushion of air and to get our wireless apparatus up above it.

Of course no pole 10 miles high could be erected. But Prof. Todd, with Leo Stevens, of New York, believes that, with a balloon, the cushion can be penetrated.

And Prof. Todd is willing to risk his life to attempt to prove his theory. With Stevens, the famous New York aeronaut, he intends in September, when Mars, sometimes 60,000,000 miles away, is only 35,000,000 miles from the earth, to ascend as high into the air cushion as the balloon will go.

The balloon is to be fitted with wireless apparatus. The receiver will be placed above the bag. Three fine steel wires will be connected with the earth and down these wires the supposed messages will travel. The balloonists will not know what is passing through the apparatus. They will merely be playing the part of the ball that is on top of a pole 10 miles high.

When they descend they will discover whether or not they have been successful.

The balloon will be the largest that can be secured. Prof. Todd and Stevens will sit on chairs within airtight aluminum tanks. Within these tanks, when the altitude becomes so high that natural breathing is impossible, the aeronauts, by merely turning the cranks of special apparatus, can manufacture oxygen to breathe.

"I think we will have to begin to use the tanks at a height of about five miles," says Stevens, who has held long conferences with Prof. Todd, at Amherst. "I don't know much about astronomy, but I have agreed to take Prof. Todd where he wants to go, in my car.

"I think we can reach the height we seek in about six hours. The whole wireless apparatus, including the wire, will weigh only 25 pounds.

"Of course the trip will be dangerous. The greatest known height ever attained by a balloon is eight miles, and then the aeronauts die from cold and the rarety of the air. Our tanks will be of aluminum.

"We are preparing for the oxygen breathing by practicing now. Every day, from tanks at our homes, we breathe oxygen in order to become accustomed to it.

"In addition to this preparation I will take Prof. Todd on several balloon trips to get him used to travelling in the air."

Prof. Todd Tells About His Theory

"If there are any human beings on Mars I have no doubt they have been sending us messages for years, and are still wondering at our stupidity in not replying.

"I hope to intercept these messages and in this way solve many of the mysteries of human life.

"I am convinced that the Martians, if there are any such still alive, have solved long ago all the problems that we are facing.

"The Martians have found out things that the people of this planet are still groping for. Upon Mars, they have progressed thousands of years beyond us. All the things that are mysterious here are an open book there. Once give us a connecting link, and in that moment we shall have unsealed a book which only tens of thousands of years of work and study could reveal."—Prof. David Todd.

Havelock To Hold Monster Celebration On July First

Examiner Special.

Havelock, June 14.—A meeting of the citizens was held last week to decide on plans for holding a celebration on July 1st. A large number was present and a lively interest taken in all the proposed undertakings. The following committees were appointed:

Executive Committee: Reeve Knox, chairman; Geo. Young, Treasurer; A. Armiston, Secretary.

Advertising Committee: T. P. Lancaster, J. V. A. Coon and A. E. Barrett.

Special Attraction Committee: T. E. Dineen, J. Coon, J. Mark, A. C. Denike, H. Williams, Alex. Ross, Dr. Holdcroft and J. Camprey.

Small Sports Committee: Wm. Matheson, H. Andrews, J. Knox, K. MacKay, Geo. Young, F. Haig, T. Wood and W. Patterson.

Ground Committee: Geo. Phillips, J. M. Watson, T. Wood and J. Camprey.

Horse Race Committee: J. Mark, J. Camprey and C. Armstrong.

Prize Committee: W. A. McMaster, R. J. Graham, J. Scott, S. S. Joyce and Dr. Holdcroft.

Concert Committee: F. Haig, Dr. Kindred, Edward Finnell, G. Chiles and M. H. Swan.

Gatekeepers: J. Scott, H. Williams and Geo. Young.

Mrs. J. Camprey has returned from Belleville where she has spent the last week with friends.

The Christie family of Toronto arrived in town Wednesday and will take up residence in their pretty summer cottage at Trent Bridge.

Mr. Wilmot Harrington has moved moved his family back to Havelock from West Toronto and are residing in their residence on Ottawa St., East.

Mr. C. A. Ghent attended the funeral of the late Judge Weller on Tuesday, at Peterborough.

The Masonic Lodge are anticipating another excursion up to Fenelon Falls this summer, probably the middle of July.

Mr. John Black of Tennessee, a former resident of Havelock is spending a few days in town the guest of his brother, Mr. Jas. Black.

The Band will play in the park tonight, Friday.

Rev. J. J. Hellon, who had charge of the Belmont Methodist Circuit has been transferred to South Dummer.

A meeting of ratepayers has been called by the School Board for Friday night, June 11th, at eight o'clock, to discuss the advisability of placing the continuation class under the new School Act. Mr. Richard Lees, P.S.I., will be present and deliver an address on educational matters. It is earnestly requested that a large number will be present.

Mr. Edward Foley, who is employed at Matheson's Saw Mill, at the East end of the village, met with an accident on Monday night, by a wheel bursting and hitting him and breaking a bone in his left leg.

Mr. C. Donnelly, C.P.R. section foreman of town met with an accident at Toronto, on Wednesday, when he was knocked down by a street car at the corner of Yonge and Queen Sts., receiving several cuts and bruises about the face and shoulders.

Mr. Donnelly went to Toronto on Wednesday morning to visit his daughter, Mrs. Lenahan, who is confined to the hospital in that city, and it was on his return from the hospital that he met with the misfortune just as he was alighting from a South-bound car at the corner of King and Queen streets. He was assisted by a policeman to St. Michael's hospital where his injuries received Medical aid.

Mrs. Lenahan was brought home from Toronto hospital on Wednesday night and taken to her parents home, Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly of town, where she is now under the care of Dr. Holdcroft of town. We are glad to report her somewhat improved, although still confined to her bed.

Mr. Davidson of Marmora met with an accident which may yet prove fatal at Mr. Little's Saw Mill, Blairton, on Wednesday. He was engaged at taking the slabs away from the saw when one flew out, coming with great force against the side of his chest, injuring him internally for a short time after the accident he began to spit up blood. Medical aid was at once summoned and he was removed to his home in Marmora.

Miss Emma Narrie and Mr. Samuel Kirkey of Rawdon Township were married at the Presbyterian manse, Havelock, by Rev. Stirling, on the 27th ult. The young couple leaving on the afternoon train on their bridal tour.

Now is the Time to Advertise in The Examiner.

HAVE FOUND THE FORGED CHECKS

Parcel Found Containing Swindler's Stock in Trade.

PREPARATIONS ELABORATE

Begin Paper to Amount of $135,000 Discovered by Accident — Convict Had Rubber Stamps for Marking Acceptance and Complete Paraphernalia for Gigantic Frauds — Of Royal House, Toronto.

Toronto, June 15.—A parcel containing $135,000 in checks, including six marked for a face value of $5,000 each, was found last night.

For a few minutes the man that discovered them had visions of a reward that would put him in clover.

A closer inspection, however, only went to indicate just how completely and elaborately Chris Holland, now serving a five-year term in Kingston for forgery, had prepared to swindle the Toronto bankers.

Among a number of unclaimed packages in the parcel room of the former Rossin House was discovered the bundle of bank books, check books, forged introductions and phoney marked checks affecting nearly every bank in the city.

Also, there was a rubber stamp manufactured by Sternberg, Philadelphia, reading "Imperial Bank of Canada, Yonge and Queen streets branch, Accepted," and a smaller one, "Accepted Feb. 9, 1909." The ink pad was with them.

The documents would have been of great assistance to the detective department in clinching their case against Holland.

There are bank books on the Bank of British North America, Bank of Hamilton, Dominion Bank, Bank of Commerce, Bank of Nova Scotia, and Standard Bank, each opening an account for David Newhall, the name under which Holland operated, and each opening an account on Feb. 11, 1909, for sums of between $9,990 and $10,000.

Holland was arrested in Philadelphia early in the year after he had failed in his attempts to cash in on every one of his bogus creations. He strenuously resisted extradition, and in court pleaded not guilty until the evidence became so conclusive that he threw up his hands and admitted the charges against him.

The one thing which has remained a mystery is Holland's motive in the operation of his swindle, which this find proves to have been even more gigantic than at first supposed. The most astute minds have failed to see where this clever criminal hoped to turn all these foundations for fraud into actual cash. Even when Holland held in his hand a genuinely marked check for $5,000 he did not cash it, but walked out of the bank, and that night left the city. Perhaps he lost his nerve.

Holland throughout his trial and even after his conviction has steadfastly refused to disclose the hiding place of these bank books, although the police knew of and proved the deposits.

Dr. Ami Retires.

Ottawa, June 15.—Dr. Henry M. Ami of the technical staff of the Geological Survey of Canada, after a continuous service of 24 years, retires at the end of the month into private life on his physicians' advice.

Research work has been carried on by him in England, France and Switzerland. He has published many papers and reports on the palaeontology and stratigraphy of Eastern Canada, besides contributing numerous articles to contemporary papers.

Endridge Loses Liberty.

Chicago, June 15.—Former Judge Abner Smith, who probably will be taken to the Joliet Penitentiary today to begin his sentence for bank wrecking, spent many hours Sunday riding through the parks of the city and, in visiting scenes he may never see again.

Soldiers Die From Thirst.

Paris, June 15.—The Minister of the Colonies has received advices from Morocco saying that twelve soldiers of a native column have perished from thirst and the terrific heat. Twenty others are missing and it is thought they also died of thirst.

Killed In Seattle.

St. Thomas, June 15.—Edward Smith, formerly of Glanworth, Ont., was killed at Seattle, Wash., when his automobile was blown to pieces. Smith became a millionaire in the west by inventing an iron chink used in salmon factories.

RHEUMATISM

Is caused by the evil influence of poisoned blood. Uric Acid, and other impurities. Nothing so completely dispels these poisons as Ferrozone. It makes new blood, imparts vitality and vigor, enabling the system to throw off every trace of Rheumatism. For a Sure Cure try

FERROZONE

A case showing how Ferrozone acts is illustrated by the following from Mrs. H. Wright, of Enfield, N.S.:

"Six months ago I experienced a serious illness. It commenced with splitting headaches, dull pains through my chest and shoulders. I found it hard to get satisfying sleep—would roll and toss and in the morning felt tired all over. Then I grew nervous, lost flesh, got pale, and had heavy dark circles under my eyes. My strength got so low I couldn't do housework. I was worried and unable to eat, and feared I would not get well. Ferrozone braced me up in a few weeks. It seemed to supply wonderful strength. I gained in flesh, looked better, and was able to sleep. In all I took twelve boxes of Ferrozone, and my cure was complete."

If Ferrozone doesn't help you, and cure you—then nothing ever will; your druggist sells it in 50c boxes. Better try Ferrozone.

MUM ABOUT IT FOR EARL GREY

Governor-General Criticized For Going to Race Tracks.

Methodist Conference at Toronto Adopts Report Which Censures the Earl, With One Dissentient Vote—Would Close Bars Earlier—Want Greater Power for Municipalities—To Control Shows.

Toronto, June 15.—Earl Grey had one defender at the Toronto Methodist Conference yesterday afternoon, when the question of race-track bookmaking was before us.

The report of the committee on temperance, prohibition and moral reforms declared that the time had come for the enactment of a law abolishing barrooms, the treating system and drinking in clubs.

It urged Methodists to support local option bylaws and regretted the continuance of the three-fifths clause. The clause was decidedly objectionable.

The membership was called upon to petition the Ontario Government to limit the hours of sale of liquor to 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The report also urged legislation to empower municipalities to prohibit pool-rooms, five-cent shows and moving picture exhibitions of prize fights.

The report condemned the quasi legalized race-track gambling and regretted that the Dominion Government had so far neglected to grant effective legislation. The report declared race-tracks to be a university of gambling and crime. It profoundly regretted that the Governor-General and others high in positions of honor had by their presence given countenance and support to a debasing evil, which permeated all classes of society in one form or another, and was a menace to the moral welfare of the nation.

The committee condemned military training in public schools declaring it to be the greatest mistake Canada could make to place the burden of militarism on the shoulders of the people.

The report was adopted with one dissentient vote, Rev. T. H. Nurgan protested against the conference censuring the personal conduct of the Governor-General.

Strange Dynamiting Outrage.

Ottawa, June 15.—A large frame building on the Montreal road, one mile from the city, was wrecked on Sunday night at 11.30 by a dynamite charge placed under one corner. The building was used as an hotel till the license was cancelled, four years ago. The kitchen and all unoccupied room over it were demolished. Joseph Laporte, his wife and child, were in a room immediately adjacent, but were uninjured, as were Joseph Guiseamme and his three sons in another part of the building. Every window, however, was broken, and windows in houses within a radius of 300 yards were also wrecked.

It is thought the dynamite was secured from a nearby quarry.

Forged Money Order.

Stratford, June 15.—Albert Butterfield, a carpenter, pleaded guilty yesterday to the theft of a money order for $10, payable to the superintendent of the Fegan Boys' Home, Toronto, on May 9.

The order was made out in Tottenham, and was cashed at the branch postoffice on Elm street, Toronto, by forging the signature of Superintendent Rettan. Butterfield's writing compared with the endorsement on the order.

The conviction was secured by Postoffice Inspector Henderson.

Press Delegates Use Royal Train.

London, June 15.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Press Conference delegates left Euston station yesterday on a special London Northwestern train composed of royal saloon carriages, the finest train that ever left the station. Messrs. Wright and Skipworth, London Northwestern officials, received the delegates at the depot.

Kenora Is Threatened.

Kenora, June 15.—Terrible bush fires are raging within a mile of this town, and unless rain soon comes serious consequences will ensue. Already several farms on the outskirts of the town have been burnt. There does not seem to be any immediate prospect of the situation being relieved, no rain being in sight.

How It Happened.

Ottawa, June 15.—Later details as to the error on board the Perry C. Walker, which caused the Soo disaster say that the engineer is a go-going officer, and when he received the signal "two bells" he interpreted it as "Go ahead," whereas on the lakes, "two bells" is the signal to "stop."

Americans For the West.

Ottawa, June 15.—W. J. White of the Immigration Department, who has returned from a tour of immigration agencies in the United States, estimates that approximately 75,000 Americans and ex-Canadians will settle in the west this year. This is an increase of 30 per cent. over last year.

MRS. GOULD OBJECTS.

Calls It Unjust to Demand Pledge of Her.

New York, June 15.—Abandonment will be the main issue upon which the suit for separation brought by Katherine Clemmens Gould against her husband, Howard Gould, third son of the late Jay Gould, will be decided. This ruling was made late yesterday in the Supreme Court by Justice Dowling. This sweeps away the cruelty allegations.

"Howard Gould's attempt to have his wife pledge herself not to drink, in itself, constitutes cruelty," declared Clarence Shearn, Mrs. Gould's attorney, in resisting the limitation.

It was this clause in the agreement that had been asked the wife to sign before he would consent to live with her again, that Mrs. Gould most strongly objected to. "What," she had exclaimed earlier in the day, during cross-examination, "have me sign myself a drunkard? Never!"

Mrs. Gould testified that it was "very bad taste" to wear a gown twice.

"One of them," she said to counsel for Mr. Gould, "was given to your own sister, who is on the stage. I have aided many poor girls to get stage engagements by equipping them with my discarded gowns."

Mr. Gould said his income was $770,000.

Longshoremen to Get Increase.

Owen Sound, June 15.—The board of conciliation, consisting of Donald Ross, Barrie, chairman; Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., Toronto, representing the C.P.R.; and J. G. O'Donoghue, Toronto representing the longshoremen, have forwarded their report to Ottawa, after hearing the evidence in connection with the application of the longshoremen for higher wages.

Recommendations for increases are, it is reported, made, in some cases the advance meaning from forty cents to sixty cents on a day's work. For some lines of work, it is said the men will receive twenty-three cents an hour for overtime and Sundays, and sixteen, seventeen and eighteen cents for other work, for which they are now receiving fifteen cents.

Steam Hoists for Senatorship.

Vancouver, B.C., June 15.—William Sloan, M.P., says he is not a candidate for the governorship in succession to Dunsmuir. It is understood he will be one of the three new Senators to be appointed next session from British Columbia.

G.T.P. Bridge Contracts.

Vancouver, B.C., June 15.—The Canadian Bridge Co. has been given a four hundred thousand dollar contract for the steel for six bridges on the G.T.P. H. Ferguson of Toronto gets the contract for the concrete work.

THE STANDARD OF PURITY

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's Extra STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 650 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

SWEEP, SCOVILLE UP

Special Correspondence.

New York, June 15. — When Sweep, a handsome brown colt carrying the "white and blue dots" of Jas. R. Keene, galloped home ahead of his field in the national stallion stables at Belmont park, turf followers expressed satisfaction that they had witnessed a youngster in action able to defend the reputations handed down by the immortal Sysonby and the undefeated Colin.

On form Sweep has the futurity at his mercy. The gallant son of Ben Brush-Pink Domino has shown he possesses the speed and stamina to outrun any of the crack 2-year-olds of the year. He gets over ground with that easy, springy stride noticeable in both Colin and Sysonby, running as if racing were only a sort of an exercise gallop.

BOWMANVILLE TEAM DEFEATED BETHANY 1-0 IN HARD FOUGHT MIDLAND LEAGUE FIXTURE

Examiner Special:

Bethany, June 14.—As the local football team cleaned up everything in District II. of the Midland League and Bowmanville came out on top of the heap in District I., this was the day and this the place for the first semi-final game west of Peterborough.

The boys from down on the lake made the 28 mile trip across the country in carriages and of course their supporters were not very numerous. The home team was cheered on by a large and enthusiastic crowd, who know and appreciate good football when they see it, and are liberal with their applause when a good play is made by either side.

Judging by appearances, both these teams are "True Irish Hearts," for they have adopted green and white as the most charming and appropriate colours for good teams. In this game, however, the locals laid aside their regular jerseys so that the players could easily be distinguished.

At 5:45 the game began with the visitors having the wind in their favour, but travelling a little up grade. Both teams evidently meant business and there was no loafing around, but roughness was entirely eliminated and some good combination was let loose on many occasions. The first session ended without any score, although Bowmanville made a very close shot which struck a goal post, and dropped in front of the nets.

The play during the second half was clean, fast and gentlemanly, and is the kind which is enjoyed by both spectators and players. With long shots, fine team work and pretty rushes, it was a game not soon to be forgotten by those present and will still maintain the reputation of the local club for providing good sport.

After ten minutes of this period had elapsed, the visitors got a corner kick which was taken by Smith and he dropped the ball right on Adams' woolly pate and from there it went whizzing past Price into the goal. This kind of shot is a very difficult one for the goalkeeper to handle on account of the speed of the ball and the close range. This was the only score of the game and shows that the teams were evenly matched and that the forwards on each side were closely checked.

The homesters put up a good fight to even the score, but their shots were neither accurate nor strong enough to past James. Bowmanville would have liked another goal or two but Price and Morton always had the habit of getting in the way and heaving the ball out to centre field.

Dr. Hamilton was in fine form and with Charlie Brereton, the real whirlwind, and Jack Staples on the left, it was a hard line ti get over. Sherin is the pick of the home forwards and Delong helped him right along but they were opposed by E. Sisson and C. Adams, the fastest pair on the other side. It was a battle royal between these two wings and the honours were even. Hannah, at centre, played his position well, while K. Sisson and Coulter, on the right wing, kept Clemens and Gimblett busy all the time.

Of the boys from Durham County, Bradley at centre, puts up a rattling good game, and has the weight to stand hard usage. On the half back line, Werry is a source of worry to his checks, and Horn and Smith fill out the trio in good fashion. Carter and "Scotty" Brown, the full backs, differ very much in size, but are quite consistent in lifting the ball a goodly distance.

Both Herb. Price and Geo. James, the opposing goalkeepers are veterans in the business and their work was without a flaw.

In the return game our boys will go down to Bowmanville with the determination to win on their speed and will attempt to reverse to-day's decision. The contest is sure to be a good one and will not be a runaway affair by either side. The local management will make arrangements early in the week for the long trip and the players will arrive in Bowmanville in time to have a little rest before the game starts.

The line-up was as follows:

Bethany (0)

Bowmanville (1)

STRATHCONAS WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM FOR GAME WITH T. A. S. ON SATURDAY

There will be something doing all along the line on Saturday in the Senior City Baseball League series, and the question that is stirring the fans is as to whether or not the Strathconas will be able to defeat the T. A. S. in the first game. A win for the High Commissioners and a defeat for Park Street at the hands of the West Ends, in the second game, would result in all four teams being pretty well bunched.

The first game will be a battle royal with Quinlan pitching. The Abstainers are an awkward proposition, and they will be in the game from the drop of the hat. On the other hand the Strathconas say they will endeavour to check their slump effectively by putting the Indian sign on the leaders. With the changes in the team that are being contemplated by the management and a week's hard practice the Straths will be in much better shape than at any other time this season and may turn the trick, although the dope calls for a T. A. S. win. It should be a splendid game all the way.

Park Street started off well on Saturday with a win over the Strathconas and they will go at the West Ends on Saturday in the second game with a determination to cinch another victory and thereby keep themselves at the top. Manager Oldham's classy youngsters will not be downed without a keen fight and with Kirn pitching at his best it will keep the South Enders pretty well on the jump to hold off the Westerners. Both games will be well worth seeing and there will, no doubt, be a big bunch of fans on hand for the contests.

LOCAL BASEBALL

The Young Victorias played a ball game last night against the Young Shamrocks and the score was 17-11 in favour of Young Victorias. The line-up:

Shamrocks—M. Long, c.; P. Young, p.; A. Kingscote, 1.b.; Joe Flood, 2b.; F. White, 3rd b.; F. Sharpe, s.s.; W. Hedge, l.f.

VictoriasG. Helson, c.; C. Sharpe, p.; K. Laing, 1 b.; W. Richardson, 2b.; A. Sharpe, [illegible] M. Richard, r.f.

The game was very exciting all through and G. Helson and C. Sharpe did some excellent playing; M. Long was the pick of the losers by his brilliant catching.

CITY LEAGUE NOTES

The Strathconas will play a practise game with the Y. M. C. A. Intermediate City League team tonight at Nicholls Oval at 6.30 o'clock. The members of both teams are asked to be on hand at that hour.

No one has been any closer than second base on that box of cigars for the first home run. Some players, however, will find that left field fence one of these days, and there will be nothing to it, but the smokes for him.

There should be a big crowd at Saturday's games as the teams are playing good ball and giving the fans a fine afternoon's sport each afternoon.

So far the teams have played gentlemanly ball and there has been no disagreeable kicking at the umpire's decisions. This is as it should be, and it is hoped that good conduct on the part of the players will continue.

A number of ladies were present at Saturday's game. There is no charge for the fair sex.

THE SCHEDULE DRAWN UP FOR ST. JOHN'S TENNIS CLUB MATCHES

A meeting of the St. John's Tennis Club was held last night, when the draw for the men's singles was made with the following results:

Cossey vs. Evans, Downes vs. Ducette, Drysdale vs. Eckworth, Greenhalgh vs. Common, Cluxton vs. Devey, Rev. Canon Davidson vs. W. Coleman, Chandler vs. C. Coleman, Richardson vs. C. Devey.

The winners of the above sets will play the second round and so on until the finals are reached.

The games in the first round of the ladies' singles must be played off on or before Saturday, 19th inst.

First round of gentlemen's singles to be played this week and second round by 26th inst.

PREACHED TO THE BRIDGENORTH FORESTERS

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, June 14.—The Methodist Sunday School of Bridgenorth held their annual excursion June 10th from Bridgenorth to Lindsay per Steamer Empress.

Quite a number of the young people of the village attended the band concert on Friday evening.

Rev. Cruickshanks preached to the Bridgenorth Foresters on Sunday evening, a large number being present.

The Young Men's Bible Class of Gilmour Baptist Sunday School are having a Strawberry Festival on the evening of July 2nd. The Salvation Army Band will be in attendance to furnish music and a short programme will also be rendered.

No efforts are being spared by the young men to make it a success. Everybody welcome.

BASEBALL

The Torontos seem to be on the toboggan slide for fair. They have lost nine games in a row, and some one seems to have greased the slide for them. Kelley should do something with that Mahling kid, who seems to be too much of a Santa Claus for the Leafs.

The Grays went after Bull Durham the other day, just as if they were the council of the W. C. T. U. conducting an anti-tobacco campaign.

CRICKET

There will be a practice of the Peterborough Cricket Club this evening at Nicholls' Oval. A full attendance of the members is expected.

Pupils Of Miss E. B. Tully Were Heard In A Piano Recital

Their Relatives and Friends Pleased With the Splendid Work—Have Made Good Progress and Conducted Themselves With Confidence and Ease.

AN ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME

A very successful piano recital was held last night at the hoe of Miss E. B. Tully, 268 McDonel street, when her pupils gave a varied and select programme of instrumental music to a large number of their relatives and friends. Miss Tulley's pupils acquitted themselves in a musicianly manner to the pleasure and delight of their friends and parents, and winning golden opinions for their teacher's ability. The pupils are of all grades, from mere beginners, to the more advanced, and their work was a credit to the conscientious attention it received.

Miss Tully's pupils were assisted by Miss King, vocalist, and Miss K. McCarthy, violiniste, both of whose numbers were greatly appreciated.

B. A. C.S PRESENTED SIGNET RINGS

To Two of Their Members at Banquet Last Night.

The B.A.C. members held a very enjoyable evening last night when they assembled at Coleman's after a business meeting. The spread was all that could be desired and after the good things had received due attention, a presentation was made to two of the members. Mr. Charlie Harmer, who is leaving in a short time for Vancouver, was presented with a signet ring, Mr. W. Cochrane making the presentation in a few suitable words. Mr. Charlie Sisson was the other member who received a remembrance from the club. He was presented with a signet ring which is understood to be symbolical of approaching social conditions.

Mr. Ray Best was chairman of the evening, and among the twenty present was Mr. E. M. Best. Speeches were the order of the hour, congratulations being extended to the one member and regrets for the other. Mr. Harmer in going West takes with him not only the best regards of the members of the B.A.C., but of his many friends throughout the city.

WEDDING BELLS

GRAHAM—CLARKE

A quiet wedding was solemnized this morning at half past seven, at the residence of Mr. Wm. Clarke, 633 Rogers street, East City, when his eldest daughter, Miss Mary, was united in marriage to Mr. Percy S. Graham, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Coon, of Mark St. Church. The bride and groom were unattended.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham left on the 8:20 train for Bracebridge and on their return will reside on Maria St.

O'GRADY—COVENEY

Hastings, June 14.—A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, Hastings, on Wednesday morning, June 9th, when Miss Teresa Coveney, of Percy, became the bride of Mr. Timothy O'Grady, of Asphodel.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bretherton. At the appointed hour the bridal party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Murphy.

The bride, who was escorted by her brother, Mr. D. Coveney, was beautifully attired in a Princess gown of cream French armure with hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss M. Coveney, sister of the bride, wore a becoming costume of pale blue silk mulle with hat to match. Mr. James Lamey acted as best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coveney, where a sumptuous dinner was served. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome sunburst of pearls, to the bridesmaid a gold crescent with Fleur-de-lis of pearls, and to the groomsman a pair of gold links.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Grady left on the evening train going west, the bride travelling in a suit of taupe with hat to match, on their return will reside in Asphodel. The young couple are well and favourably known by a large circle of friends, who wish them a long and happy wedded life.

FAKE HAIR PREPARATIONS.

Do Hair No Good, But Often Cause It to Fall Out.

Many hair preparations are "fake" because they are merely scalp irritants. They often cause a dryness, making the hair brittle, and, finally lifeless. Dandruff is the cause of all trouble with hair. It is a germ disease. The germ makes cuticle scales as it digs to the root of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing it to fall out. To cure dandruff, the germ must be killed. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair prepartion that kills the dandruff germ, thereby leaving the hair to grow luxuriantly. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One Dollar bottles guaranteed.

NEWS OF INTEREST FROM LASSWADE

Examiner Special.

Lasswade, June 4.—Quite a number of the young people took advantage of the first fair Sunday we've had for some time, by taking long drives.

Mr. Wm. Bullied has sold his farm, stock, household goods, etc., to Mr. Archie Whitmore, of Apsley, who intends taking possession as soon as possible. Mr. Bullied and family intend leaving here sometime about the 15th of the month for Rainy River district, where a son and daughter are now residing, and where they, (Mr. B. and family) will make their home till some future date.

Quiltings seem to be quite the rage just now. The married ladies attended one on Monday afternoon and it is reported that there will be two or three more before long. Perhaps the ladies are looking forward to having a hard winter, next winter, and think it wise to prepare ahead. "It's a good idea."

A night school has started in the village, and we hope it will prove a success. Few pupils attend yet, but we hope to see more present in the near future. "Everybody welcome."

Mrs. Bird, of Chandos, is now visiting friends in the village. She is a hale old lady of 85 and is quite smart.

The "gymnastic club" is quite a success. On Tuesday evening a number were disappointed by walking a distance to Grace church, only to find the door locked and the pastor absent, Rev. Mr. Garbutt, pastor, being away at Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McColl, of Apsley, spent Saturday and a part of Sunday with the former's mother, of Lake. On their way home Mr. and Mrs. McColl gave a number of their friends a call on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Nesbitt spent Sunday with the latter's brother, Mr. Lesley Carl.

We congratulate the young ladies of the village on their success in the cleaning of Grace church on Saturday afternoon.

A fire started in the roof of Mr. Wm. Bullied's house near the chimney on Saturday evening, but was checked before it did any particular damage.

Several parties from in and around the village visited the dentist's office at Coe Hill on Saturday.

Miss Lucy Steen returned home on Sunday evening, after spending the past week on "The Ridge" visiting her many friends.

Little Donald Pattison's hand has almost recovered from the dog bite but it is thought a scar will always mark the spot.

Several of the villagers are contemplating going to the basket social on the 11th, providing the night is fine.

Some are anticipating a good time at the big opening ball to-night at the "Lakeview House," a summer residence for tourists, situated at the foot of Loon Lake. Mr. Fred Bullied, proprietor.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown, P. S. I., gave the school his annual call on Wednesday, 2nd.

Mr. Wm. Peters has gone in partnership with his brother-in-law, Mr. Than. McGinn, of Methuen, in trapping. They captured a large black bruin on Tuesday, and hope to capture a great many more in the future.

The English church got its annual cleaning on Thursday. Everything looks clean and fresh. "Thanks to the ladies who did it."

MISS FAUST

This beautifully coloured picture is a very amusing satire on the story of Faust. The story is burlesqued by most competent artists in such a clever manner that the absurdity of many of the situations is vastly amusing. It is one of Pathe's best and latest films

HIS LUCKY DAY

This extremely droll picture shows a fellow who is always broke, but who tries to keep in the swim and ward off his creditors, who never give him a moment's peace, and how he succeeds

AN EMPTY SLEEVE

Another thrilling war story, different and better than those yet seen, showing the love of the maiden for the man, both before and after the sleeve was made empty in battle, and showing excellent scenes of the battlefield.

HE COULDN'T DANCE

A very funny picture, showing how "He Couldn't Dance," but he learned. A picture chucked full of fun from start to finish, and one which makes everyone laugh.

NEW ILLUSTRATED SONG

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE ANNUAL MEETING

Officers Elected at Warsaw—Capolo of Barn of Mr. Wm. Davis Struck by Lightning.

Warsaw, June 16.—The combined monthly and annual meetings of the Warsaw Women's Institute, held at the residence of Mrs. (Rev.) P. W. Currie on Thursday last was largely attended by members and friends. An important item of business was the election of officers for the year and the result was as follows:

President, Mrs. David Miller; 1st Vice Pres., Mrs. P. W. Currie; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. Jas. Selkirk; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Geo. Clements; Board of Directors—Mrs. E. R. Hamblin, Mrs. N. Payne, Mrs. R. Matthews, Mrs. John Newnham; Auditors, Mrs. A. F. Choate, Miss M. Morgan. Preparations are being made by those officers in charge, for the summer visit of the lady delegates from the Provincial Government which takes place on Monday, June 28th. There will be afternoon and evening meetings held in the Town Hall at the former, of which the subject for demonstration will be "Art Needlework." The programme for the evening meeting will be enlivened by songs, readings and instrumental music.

Major Johnson of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons was in town on Monday, making arrangements with Lieut. Anderson regarding the recruits from this district. It is understood that the list from here has been greatly curtailed this year.

The Intermediate Football team has received invitations from Lakefield and Havelock to play exhibition games in those towns in the near future. The team will compete in a tournament for a silver cup to be held in Lakefield on Dominion Day.

A match will take place on the grounds here on Saturday evening, June 19th, between a team from Hall's Glen and the Locals.

A large shipment of railroad ties sold by the Messrs. Selkirk to the G. T. R. is this week being transported to Peterborough.

The rain of Sunday evening was a great blessing and of inestimable value to the country at large. Though the electricity flew about very freely, little damage is reported in this vicinity, with the exception of the cupola of Mr. Wm. Davis' barn being shattered and a valuable hog being electrocuted.

On account of the anniversary services being held on the evening of June 20th at Cottesloe, the services in the Presbyterian Church here has been withdrawn on that evening.

Mrs. Doughty of Peterborough, is spending a few days in town, the guest of her mother, Mrs. McIntosh.

Mrs. Hugh Kidd is spending a fortnight visiting her parents at "Glen Buell," in Smith Township.

Mr. Richard Tedford and sisters, Bella and Annie, were visitors for the past week with relatives in Chandos.

Mr. Wm. Hamilton has the contract for a fine new large bank barn let to Mr. W. F. Little, Lakefield. Our local mason, Mr. Aitken put up the splendid foundation last week, and we understand the barn is to be ready for the crop of this year.

Miss Helen Coleman, who has been matron of the General Hospital at Frank, Alberta, is spending a few weeks as the guest of her sister, Mrs. D. Miller.

Local fishermen are locating the runways of the bass so that they can get them on the 16th.

Miss Maud Clifford, Peterborough, was the guest of the Misses Clifford on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Tedford visited with Mr. and Mrs. MsNealty, Trent Bridge, on Sunday.

Mr. E. J. Glinney, manager of the Bank of Montreal, spent Sunday in Peterborough.

Mrs. W. J. Doughty who has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Wm. McIntosh, returned to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mrs. S. R. Payne conducted the morning service at Bethel Methodist Church on Sunday last.

Miss Minnie Hogan, Peterborough, spent a few days of last week a guest of Miss Sullivan.

Miss Dorothy Dobson spent Wednesday and Thursday in the city.

Miss Alice Hughes, Peterborough, visited relatives here on Sunday.

Miss Jessie Kidd, of Young's Point, is spending a couple of weeks the guest of her brother, Mr. Hugh Kidd.

Among those who went to Ottawa last week were: Mrs. C. M. Smith, and Messrs. John Clements, George Clements, R. G. Henderson, M. McKeivor, Geo. McKeivor, Arthur Payne and Wm. Payne.

Mr. Fred Tully of the staff of the Hamilton Bridge Co., who has been in New Brunswick for some two years, was in town on Sunday renewing acquaintances, prior to leaving Monday for British Columbia.

The Misses M. Morgan, E. M. Swarm and Mr. E. Nesbitt, were in the city on Saturday.

Rev. H. Frost, of South Dummer, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church on Sunday.

Messrs. Michael and Frank McManus left on Tuesday morning on a couple of months tour of Western Canada.

Mr. John Lumsden was in town on Sunday.

Letters received from Messrs. G. W. Reid and E. Hawthorne, who left last week for the West, indicate that they arrived at their destinations safely, and are having an enjoyable trip.

LASSWADE ITEMS OF INTEREST

Lasswade, June 11.—Old residents of this vicinity say that they cannot remember seeing the mosquitoes and black flies worse than they are at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Woodbeck and family spent Sunday as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Cassan of "The Ridge."

Miss M. N. Watson spent Sunday afternoon with her friend, Mrs. Wm. Peters.

Mr. T. J. Wilson visited with his uncle, Mr. John Bullied on Sunday.

Rev. C. Lord was present on Sunday and organized a Sunday School to be held every Sunday afternoon in St. Paul's church at 2 o'clock, sharp.

Misses Proctor from Michigan, are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Edward Youmans.

Mr. Edward Bullied, who is working on "The Ridge," spent Sunday at home.

Mr. Wm. Bullied and Mr. Robert Pattison left for Peterborough on Tuesday morning, where they intend spending a few days with the former's brother.

Mrs. Thos. Bullied, Sr., returned home on Monday evening after spending the past few days with her son, William.

Mr. and Mrs. Will McColl were the guests of the latter's mother on Sunday.

tended the basket social at Apsley on few days last week with her friend, Mrs. Thos. Bullied, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie McColl visited at the home of their friend, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cassan, East Road.

A couple of our young ladies enjoyed a short drive on Sunday afternoon.

Jack Frost visited the vicinity on Monday night, but did little or no damage to the crops.

It is quite a novelty to see the McColl Bros. drawing logs on the rollway with the traction engine. It is a saving on horseflesh, too.

The factory shipped their first load of cheese to Coe Hill on Thursday.

A number of the young people attended the basket social at Apsley on Friday evening, and report a good time, "wireless telegraphy" being used very frequently by those present.

Mr. Archie Whitmore and family intend taking possession of their new home the first of the week.

Mrs. Bird returned to Apsley on Wednesday afternoon after spending a couple of weeks visiting old friends in the village.

Mrs. R. Pattison spent a couple of days this week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Pattison of Apsley.

Master Floyd Bullied spent Tuesday night with his chum, Master Fred McColl.

Mr. Samuel Bullied and Miss Mattie gave Apsley a call on Saturday.

The talk of the village now is the erection of the telephone line from Apsley to the store here, where it is to get connections with Dr. Harding's line running through to Coe Hill. A meeting will be held in Hales' School House on Saturday evening to decide when and where the commencement of erection will begin. There is some talk of several of the farmers getting it into their houses. It makes us feel as though we are coming into civilisation at last.

The crops will soon be suffering for the want of rain if this hot weather continues very much longer.

Several of the farmers attended the "logging-bee" at Mr. Edward Youman's on Friday.

This must be a hard settlement to board in, when some people try three different places inside of six months.

OUTDOOR SPORT & ZAM-BUK.

Every athlete, every ball-player, every swimmer, every canoeist, every man or woman who loves outdoor life and exercise, should keep a box of Zam-Buk handy.

Zam-Buk is a purely herbal preparation which, as soon as applied to cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, blisters, etc., sets up highly beneficial operations. First, its antiseptic properties render the wound free from all danger from blood-poisoning. Next, its soothing properties relieve and ease the pain. Then its rich herbal balms penetrate the tissue, and set up the wonderful process of healing. Barbed wire scratches, insect stings, skin diseases, such as eczema, heat rashes, ringworm, babies' heat sores, chafed places, sore feet—all come within Zam-Buk's power. It also eases and cures piles. All druggists and stores.

Mr. Chas. Fallon, of Peterborough, was in the village on Thursday last.

Joint services were again held in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches on Sunday last, owing to the Rev. J. Bedford being absent, attending the Toronto conference. The services, which were conducted by Rev. S. S. Burns, were held in the Presbyterian Church in the morning and in the Methodist Church in the evening.

HAPPENINGS AT COTTESLOE

Cottesloe, June 15. — Anniversary services will be held in the church here on Sunday next, June 20th, commencing at the hours of 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. instead of the usual tea meeting, with its work and worry. The board of managers have decided to ask for a free-will offering and a large and liberal response on the part of the people for the general funds of the church is expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Saunders leave this week on a visit to their eldest son, who is in business in Seattle, and incidentally they will visit the great Alaska - Yukon - Pacific Exposition which is in progress there. We understand they are to be accompanied by relatives from Norwood and Peterborough, so as to form quite a patry. Their many friends here will join in wishing them a safe journey and a speedy return.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Robert Clark, of Toronto, the clever ventriloquist is to give one of his unique entertainments at South Dummer, on the evening of the 25th inst. No doubt there will be a large attendance from this part of those who were fortunate enough to hear him at Warsaw on New Years night last.

A PLEA FOR LIBERTY

PASTOR RUSSELL PREACHES ON COMING OF THE KINGDOM.

Text, "Stand Fast Therefore in the Liberty Wherewith Christ Has Made Us Free, and Be Not Entangled Again With the Yoke of Bondage" (Galatians v, 1. — Scripture Gives View of the Silver Lining.

Brooklyn, June 13.—Although the Christian recognizes his special allegiance to the Heavenly King and sets his affections chiefly upon the heavenly home and feels a broad kinship with the entire groaning creation of every nation, people, kindred and tongue, he, nevertheless, returning from a visit abroad and passing the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor, is bound to feel grateful to God for America, and the torch of enlightenment which it has lifted before the masses of humanity.

Text, "Stand fast, therefore, in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage" (Galatians v, 1).

Let us not go to the unwarranted extreme of some; let us not call this land of the free the Kingdom of God established on earth; but let us on the contrary realize that with all of America's blessings and enlightenment and advantages everyway for both the poor and the rich, she is far from perfect! Let us, while appreciating our glorious land, and our wonderful blessings therein, rejoice that a still better Government and still more favorable conditions are part of the heavenly promise to the world of mankind! Let us rejoicingly continue to pray to the Lord, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven."

St. Paul urged believers, "Let us think soberly," according as God has granted to each a measure of his grace. Hence the Christian's rejoicing is not boastful, but tempered with moderation. He sympathizes with the groaning creation in other parts of the world and does not ignore the faults of his native land, even while he does not unduly magnify and parade them. In all soberness, however, Bartholdi's statue of Liberty Enlightening the World is true to the facts of the case. He would be blind indeed who failed to recognise the great influences which the principle of liberty established here exercises all over the world. When Liberty was born on these shores, rocked in the cradle of the Revolution, it had not kith nor kin in any part of the world. Europe alone had civilization, but not even it had Liberty. Everywhere the barons ruled and the masses, comparatively ignorant, rejoiced to submit. Liberty and equality and manhood were almost unrecognized.

As Liberty emerged from its cradle a stalwart youth, its influence and example shook Europe and threatened to overthrow it with Revolution as accomplished in France. And when finally better counsels prevailed, aristocracy realised that its days were numbered, unless concessions were made to the liberties of the people. It yielded with good grace, with the result that the monarchies of Europe are no longer despotic, but limited, parliamentary; the people have a vote and voice in their own Government.

The blessings of liberty came to Europeans so slowly that few of them probably to-day recognize how very different were the conditions a century age, and how gradually the change has come about. The most advanced nations of Europe have only quite recently granted suffrage to the people, and even yet it is under limitations. Nowhere is the standard of manhood recognized as in this land. All the reforms of Europe of the past century, directly or indirectly, owe their impulse to the example of America. As the sons and daughters of Europe by the thousands and the millions have come to these shores they have learned the blessings of liberty and the meaning of manhood. And their letters to their brethren at home, filled with their new conception of human rights, have had a leavening influence upon the bureaucratic and monarchical theories and institutions of the old world. Yes, Bartholdi had it right! Liberty has been enlightening the world during the past century!

It is not for us to boast, but to think soberly. Whence came the light of liberty's torch? We answer that the spark was divine. In a certain sense and degree this spark and torch were given to Abraham's natural seed, the Hebrew nation, in the Divine Law, at the hand of Moses. Later the antitype of Moses, "Christ, brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel" message. Of our Lord it is written, "He is the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." Our assertion, therefore, is that whatever blessing there is in the light which shines from Liberty's torch is the light of the Gospel.

Notice the language of our text, "The liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free." Of course man, originally made in the Divine likeness, must have had the love of liberty in his very constitution; but thousands of years of experience in slavery to sin and death have considerably crushed out the proper conception of liberty—godlike liberty. It is to these sinners or perverts from the Divine likeness that the Lord Jesus offers the true liberty. Note the effect that this Gospel message had upon the early Church. It made them a "peculiar people." It broke from them the shackles of superstition which firmly held their fellow men. It gave them higher, broader, deeper views of human rights and human responsibilities. It taught them that all men are sinners and that the King and the peasant, the learned and the ignorant, are all responsible to the one God and that he is no respecter of persons.

As a consequence, Christians came to be generally recognized because of the influence of Christ's message of liberty, which effected their every interest with its enlightening influences. We read that the people took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus and had learned of him. They learned of Jesus no lessons of anarchy or strife, but those which taught the proper relationship between man and man. They were also taught to live peaceably, to endure, to suffer, to wait for justice until God's time would come; when at the Second Advent of Christ, his Kingdom would be established and "justice would be laid to the line and righteousness to the plummet." Of the Apostles we remember that it is written that the rulers were astonished at their courage in standing up for principle in faithfulness to the Divine Word. They marveled at such courage in men whom they perceived to be "Ignorant and unlearned." The fact is that having learned in the School of Christ the real principles of righteousness and the relationship of the things of the present time to the things eternal—these were transformed men, whose balance of mind, of judgment, was in accord with their knowledge—lessons in the School of Christ.

St. Paul, and indeed all of the apostles, prophetically declared that before the Second Coming of Christ a great falling away would occur in the Church, which would affect the whole world. These declarations came true in the period known as the "dark ages," when the Word of God was inaccessible to the people and when the teachers of the Church turned aside from waiting for the Son of God to establish the Millennial Kingdom, and co-labored with earthly princes to use the name of Christ interwoven with ignorance and superstition and a chain of slavery, whereby the people would be restrained of their religious liberties, in order that they might not appreciate their political liberties. The School of Christ and its enlightening power belong by right merely to the fully consecrated, "The sanctified in Christ Jesus." But others, their relatives, neighbors and friends in large numbers partook of the spirit of liberty without accepting the spirit of consecration. The result of this spirit under present conditions, it may easily be seen, would be anarchy. Hence the princes, kings and emperors were glad to have the ministers of Christ come to their aid in binding and restraining the people. Nevertheless, nothing has occurred that God did not foresee, and that he is not able to overrule eventually for the advantage, the blessing of such as are truly his.

Evolutionists tell us that the liberty and attendant blessings of our day, are because of Evolution; but they do not explain why or how Evolution should so suddenly lift the veil of ignorance and superstition from the race; why it should so suddenly bring to use the blessings of invention, skill through machinery ministering to our comforts in ten thousand ways undreamed of a generation ago.

The Bible answer to the question is that God's due time has come, and therefore these blessings, which are a part of and leading up to the Millennial Age conditions, are ours. The great clock of the Universe, under Divine regulation, has been keeping accurate time. At the proper stroke or the hour the Jewish Age began, at the death of Jacob, in the close of the Patriarchal Age. Again, at the proper stroke of the hour the Gospel Age began, at the close of the Jewish Age, at the death and resurrection of Jesus. And now likewise at the dawning of the Millennial Age and the close of the Gospel Age—coming exactly on time, all the events properly connected and rightly understood show that our great Creator is working all things according to the counsel of his own will and that the world's present experiences are wholly of Divine prearrangement.

Looking from this standpoint, we notice that in Divine providence America was hidden from the world until God's due time for its discovery. It was opened for settlement at a time when religious persecution was rife in Europe, when a man had no liberty even to think for himself—no liberty to worship his God according to the dictates of his own conscience. It was under Divine providence, doubtless, that the Pilgrim fathers reached these shores and cast their influence with that of others in bringing forth the child of Liberty. In God's providence various religious sentiments were at that time so evenly balanced that all of the colonies gladly arranged for religious freedom, which really meant a higher standard, a more Christlike standard than had been known in the world since the days of the apostles. It is this spirit of Liberty in which there has mingled a considerable measure of the light of the cross, the light of the world, that has brought the blessing and enlightening effect upon this land and upon the world; and with it, in God's providence, has come a mental enlightenment born partly of that liberty and partly of avarice.

God has not granted us prophetic vision whereby to declare the future of this goodly land, which has had so much of his blessing thus far; yet he does in the Scriptures portray in a general way what we may expect. And, alas, it is a sad picture from one standpoint. The Scriptures show a very dark cloud overhanging liberty and the world. But, thank God, they show a silver lining to that cloud to those who have the eyes to see it—the spiritual perception. The Bible teaches us that the inventions of our day and its enlightenment will, under the operation of avarice, prove to be the upper and the nether millstones which will crush humanity terribly.

How can these things come about, do you ask? We reply that the inventions of our day, which are bringing so many blessings to the whole people at so little cost, are gradually drifting into "strong hands," the hands of trusts and capital. Some of these, indeed, have been and are yet blessings, helpful in many ways. Yet the concentration of power into the hands of a few is too strong a temptation to be long resisted. The day is not distant when the leverage will be used gradually to draw the coveted wealth more and more to the coffers of the trusts.

Meantime liberty and enlightenment have been doing more than merely giving us mechanical inventions and helpful contrivances and comforts. They have given us thought, intelligence, compulsory education, breadth of mind and general information. They have lifted the poor man out of the dunghill and have given him thought, and have recognized his liberties and rights theoretically, even more than he has yet realized them actually. The masses cannot be said to be asleep and needing to be awakened. They are awake, as evidenced by their thorough organization, extending to every avenue of business. But although awake the giant has not learned his power. He knows not how to co-ordinate his forces and to use them at the polls.

We cannot doubt that men will learn this lesson very soon. Then will come the time of trouble, when the giant, Labor, will strike against his master, Capital, and when the wonderful resources of both will be used with frenzy. The result will be what the Scriptures graphically portray as a "Time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation" (Daniel xii, 1).

Yes, we answer, God will interfere, but not in the time and manner, nor for the purpose generally expected. The same great Creator who through the past has supervised, and who latterly has caused the development of Liberty and the preparation of the mechanical arrangements for the Millennial Age—this same God has purposed the time of trouble which he declares, and which we understand is nigh, even at the door. He purposes it because through it better than in any other manner the world can be taught great lessons and be prepared for the Millennial Kingdom of Christ. In that time of trouble, according to the Scriptures, the rich, the proud, the great, the mighty, shall weep bitterly and have sore distress. Likewise the poor.

Yes, the Word of God declares that there shall be no peace to anyone—the trouble will be general. There will be no way of escape from it. The Scriptures imply that in that time of trouble the rich and the great will receive a lesson; likewise the masses a different lesson—but both evidently to their mutual advantage.

Thank God, the Scriptures give us a view of the silver lining behind the seams of trouble; assuring us that at its conclusion the whole world will have learned a most valuable lesson in the furnace of its affliction. Both parties to the strife, humbled by their utter failure, will be ready to acknowledge Messiah King of kings and Lord of lords. Many nations shall go and say, "Come, let us go up to the mountain of the Lord, to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for out of Zion shall go forth the Law, and the Word of the Lord from Jerusalem" (Isaiah ii. 3). Of the glories and blessings of that Millennial day the prophecies of old are replete with testimony. But the chief blessing them to be brought to mankind under the reign of Messiah's Kingdom will be the knowledge of the glory of the Lord. All men shall come to appreciate the Divine character and its principles of Righteousness—Justice, Love, Wisdom and Power—that all men might, after experiencing the bitter and the sweet, the evil and the good, know how thereafter to choose the good, in harmony with the Divine Law, and, by obedience, come to everlasting life and joy and blessing. It is of that happy time, we remember, that St. Peter assures us, saying, "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord; and he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you; whom the heaven must receive until the times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began." The Apostle additionally informs us that whoever will not accept the righteous regulations of that government shall perish in the Second Death; "And it shall come to pass that every soul which will not hear that prophet shall be destroyed from among the people" (Acts iii, 19-23).

Unemployed Problem.

Mr. G. Barnes, M.P., speaking on the Unemployed Problem in the British Parliament recently, said that "the trouble was world-wide, and blighted the temperate man equally with the drunkard. He dismissed tariffs and drink as irrelevancies. The root-causes of unemployment included land monopoly and the increased introduction of labor-saving machinery. He declared that they must somehow or other take over the land and use it for the common good. Labor exchanges in themselves were not calculated to put a single man into work. His own Engineers' Society had already got exchanges in their 700 branches better than anything the Government could ever hope to set up; and yet, for all the work they found for their members, they might as well not exist."

Was Hanged Over Again.

A man who traveled extensively in India told the following interesting story: A Pathan was being hanged when the rope broke. The warder bade him go up on to the scaffold again, but he objected. "No," he said; "I was sentenced to be hanged, and hanged I've been."

"Not so, friend," argued the warder; "you were sentenced to be hanged until you were dead, and you're not dead."

It was a new view to the Pathan, and he turned to the superintendent. "Is that right, sahib?"

"Yes, that's right."

"Very well. I didn't understand." And he went composedly up the steps and was hanged again like a man.

Unenterprising.

A woman who visited the British museum at London recently inquired of an attendant: "Have you no skull of Cromwell? I have been looking all around for a skull of Oliver Cromwell."

"No, madam," replied the attendant, "we've never had one."

"How very odd!" she exclaimed. "They have a fine one in the museum at Oxford."

THE HIPPOPOTAMUS.

How the Animal is Captured Alive in the Sudan.

There is a vast difference between the hunter who kills for pleasure and the hunter whose business it is to capture his quarry alive. How live hippopotamuses are secured is particularly interesting. Two methods are resorted to.

The so called hawati, or water hunters, of the Sudan, all of whom are excellent and daring swimmers, harpoon their victims at the noon hour, when they are sunk in deep slumber. Then they pull them to the bank by means of a cord attached to the harpoon and there make them fast. The hunters use for this a special kind of harpoon, made in such a way that it does not make a deep wound. Fully three-quarters of the hippopotamuses exhibited in Europe have been captured in this way.

Hippopotamus hunts are also conducted on land. There advantage is taken of the fact that the female hippopotamus makes her young walk in front of her. The reason for this is that the beast, being well protected in the rear by its abnormally thick skin, prefers to have its offspring in front, where it can guard them better against danger. But in spite of its affection for its children the mother hippo has no particular desire to meet danger when it comes. So the hunters dig large pits in the forest, cover them over until they are fully concealed and then lie in wait near by. Presently a female hippopotamus comes along with her child trotting before her. Suddenly, without warning, the young one disappears before its mother's eyes. This is too much for the old animal. She dashes away, leaving the little one at the mercy of its enemies. —Wide World Magazine.

CIRCUS PERFORMERS.

The Real Dangers With Which They Are Concerned.

The individual point of view of the circus performer toward his work is full of surprises. Rarely if ever is he worried over the things that the audience imagines make him uneasy and never about his own equipment of nerve, muscle and judgment.

The bareback rider worries about his horse, for the slightest deviation from the animal's customary course and gait ruins a harmony between horse and rider, upon which depends the success and even the life of the performer. The man on the trapeze is not at all disturbed at being so high up in the air. The higher up he is the more security he feels that in case of accident he will have time enough instinctively to twist his body into the right position for falling into the net. What worries him most is the fear of some unsuspected weakness in his apparatus.

The animal trainer is more afraid of an accidental scratch from a good natured but blood poisoning claw than of any actual conflict with an angry animal. More than that, he has a real affection for his animals and dislikes the stern necessity of punishing them. The very clown is not so much pleased by the laughter of his audience as disturbed by the thought that it quite fails to appreciate the time and care he has expended in working out the details of his humorous contribution.—Ralph Bergengren in Atlantic.

Pickled Tea.

Natives of Burma and parts of India prepare tea in a peculiar way called "pickling." The leaves are boiled and pressed into bamboo tubes, which are buried in the ground until the material has matured.

The Turkey.

The turkey was first discovered in America and was transplanted to England in the early part of the sixteenth century. Since then it has been acclimated in nearly all parts of the world.

Cabbages.

In the middle ages cabbages were so rare they had to be salted. A cabbage from Holland remained an expensive present into the sixteenth century, 20 English shillings being paid for six of these and a few carrots in 1595.

Alpine Glaciers.

There are 250 glaciers in the Alps said to be over five miles in length.

NO WOMAN

CAN BE STRONG AND HEALTHY UNLESS THE KIDNEYS ARE WELL.

When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble know not the misery and suffering which those afflicted undergo.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by healing the delicate membranes of the kidneys and thus make their action regular and natural.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by young and old.

Let Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what they have done for thousands of others, that is, cure you.

Mrs. M. Bryanton, Spring Valley, P.E.I., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. They were so bad at times I could not cross the floor for the pain. I tried a doctor but he did me no good at all. I sent to my nearest druggist and got 6 boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to say that after taking them I have had no more trouble for nearly three years now."

Goaded and Comforted.

At a lunch given in his honor Sven Hedin read an amusing letter written to him by Alfred Nobel at a time when Hedin was still a student, but already filled with a longing to explore unknown Asia. He applied to the government for funds, but the answer was so slow in coming that he wrote to Nobel, who promptly replied: "I take no interest in these geographical exploration trips. In fact, I regard them as an anachronism. Men communicate with each other today from one end of the earth to the other by means of telegraph and post. There are in Asia, too, explorers and savants who are surely better qualified than you, sir, to study and describe their native country. I therefore believe that you could make better use of your ambitions impulses than by undertaking trips to Asia. But in order that you may see that I do not always act as I think I send you a sum which may serve as the best confutation of my own convictions."

Squandering Ability.

Doing the lower when the higher is possible constitutes one of the greatest tragedies of human life. The squandering of money seems a wicked thing when we think of the good that might be done with it. But what about the wicked waste of ability, the deliberate throwing away of 50, 75, perhaps 90 per cent of one's success possibly just because he never trained himself to use it, to grasp it with such vigor and power that he can fling his life into his career with its maximum effectiveness? Most people take hold of life with the tips of their fingers. They never get hold of the life proposition with that grip and tenacity of purpose and vigor of determination which do things worth while. They just hang on the outskirts of things, playing upon the surface of their possibilities without ever getting down into the marrow of their being, where efficiency and power dwell.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

Exclusive Perfumes.

The late Dr. Andrew Wynter in a charming article on perfumes suggested the desirability of every lady having her own special and self prepared perfume. The custom, however, would have its disadvantages. More than one sensational story might be mentioned wherein the heroine or villain was saved or unmasked, as the case might be, by the recognition of a distinctive scent. In "Diplomacy" the denouement is effected by the telltale perfume of the adventuress being detected in the dispatch box she had rifled. As a matter of history, the assassins of the oriental sovereign Yezdijird were discovered by one of them smelling of the perfume with which the robes of the murdered king had been redolent.—London Globe.

Hope.

"Have you seen the account in this morning's papers about Dr. Cutting having brought a dead man back to life?"

"No. Did he do that?"

"Yes. It was a wonderful demonstration of his skill."

"Well, I shall be more hopeful now than I have been for some time. If he can bring the dead back to life he may be able to bring back the book he borrowed from me about two years ago." —Chicago Record-Herald.

Old Wheel of Fortune.

In the village church of Comfort, near Pont-Croix, in western Brittany, is a very good specimen of the now rare "wheel of fortune." It is made of wood, with a row of bells on its outer rim and pivoted between a couple of rough beams, altogether very primitive workmanship. By means of a cord attached to a crank the wheels can be made to revolve and set all the bells a-jangling. I have often heard that the peasants believe that it has miraculous power of healing when rung over the head of a sufferer who has placed a son in the box to which the rope is padlocked. I received remarkable confirmation of this belief, for while making a photograph a well to do sailor's wife and her husband came into the church and looked round. The woman asked me if I thought there could be any truth in this belief, as her child was very backward in learning to talk. Her nurse, who came from those parts, had advised her to bring the baby and ring the bells of Comfort over his head, when he would be sure to talk. As she was passing she had looked in to see if it was worth trying! —London Chronicle.

Earthquakes and Weather.

A writer in Nature calls attention to the peculiar weather which accompanied and followed the great Sicilian earthquake. The sudden fog which settled upon the strait of Mesina was paralleled by a heavy mist accompanying the Mexican earthquake of January, 1908, and the writer adds that rainfall is so frequently reported as the immediate successor of an earthquake that "we can no longer reject the hypothesis of a real connection between the two." Professor Milne has suggested that the disturbance of the ground when transmitted to the overlying air may determine precipitation, thus explaining the apparent association of severe earthquakes with mist and rain.

Not Acting.

Actor—All the newspapers say my impersonation of Caesar last night was absolutely real. Rival—Perhaps that's so. Everybody I've met says it certainly wasn't acting.

Preserve your just relations to other men. Their misconduct does not affect your duties.—Epictetus.

Pearls.

The perfectly round pearls are the most valuable. Next come the pear shaped and, lastly, the egg shaped.

Healthful Warmth for the Modern Home

If you would have healthful warmth in your home—warmth that permits of thorough ventilation—warmth in your bathroom and halls—warmth that makes the floors a safe and comfortable place for the kiddies to roll around on—warmth that is under your complete control and varies not a jot, no matter how the outside temperature changes—if you would have this healthful, evenly-distributed warmth in your home, you can secure it only by the hot water method of heating which is best exemplified in the combination of the

Daisy Hot Water Boiler & King Radiators

You buy a heating system only once in a lifetime—you buy coal every year. Then you must realize the importance of buying the right heating apparatus.

The saving in fuel with a Daisy Hot Water Boiler will more than offset the original cost of the system in a very few years—a system which insures evenly distributed, healthful warmth throughout your home.

The Daisy Hot Water Boiler is designed to heat a greater surface of water and keep it in more perfect circulation than any other boiler on the market.

The construction of the Daisy fire chamber is such that perfect combustion is secured and all the heat generated is absorbed by the water.

The vertical corrugations on the inside of the fire chamber permit air to rise up around the edges of the fire, keeping a hot burning line of flame close to the water section, instead of the jacket of dead ashes found in most boilers.

The first section above the fire is deeper than the other sections and provided with raised rings on the bottom to retard the passage of the direct rays of heat, and increase the heating surface, so that the greatest quantity of heat is absorbed.

For this reason the Daisy Hot Water Boiler is most sensitive to the slightest heat, and a very little fire will give sufficient warmth throughout the house on mild days.

The flues are so constructed that the heat must travel through and around all the sections, so that all the heat is used in the boiler, and none is lost up the chimney.

There are many reasons of economy, efficiency, ease of operation and durability that make the Daisy the boiler you should install.

King Radiators are artistic in design and clean and smooth in casting and finishing. They are built in a plant that was specially designed and equipped to produce the highest quality of work.

The King Radiator, though compact and neater than any other, gives the greatest possible radiating surface, so that, on mild days very little fire is needed in your boiler to give perfectly distributed even warmth. The system is flexible, and responds quickly to any desired temperature.

Each section of the King Radiator is tested to one hundred pounds pressure before it is sent to the assembling room. The sections are connected by right-and-left screw nipples—the most perfect, non-leakable joint possible. Then, the completed radiator is again tested to a pressure of one hundred pounds. No flaw or weakness can be found in a King Radiator after it passes these rigid tests.

Remember, a heating system should give you perfect and economical service for a lifetime. Don't you think its selection should be given careful thought? Write us for our booklet "Comfortable Homes." It tells the whole story.

His Apology.

The vicar was invited to share in the festivities held in honor of the coming of age of the son and heir. At the dinner table he sat in front of a goose, and the lady of the house occupied the chair on his left. "Shall I sit so close to the goose?" he asked thoughtlessly. Then, finding that his words might be misconstrued, he added hastily: "Excuse me, Mrs. H——; I meant the roast one."

A Living Tomb.

Some of the lamas of Thibet have a custom of allowing themselves to be inclosed in grottoes, so that they would live in darkness for the rest of their lives. Sven Hedin heard of a man who was inclosed at the age of sixteen or seventeen years and lived there sixty-nine years without any communication with the outside world whatever, his food and water being passed underground by a long pole.

Variety.

"I can't see why you don't like hotel life," said Mrs. Gramercy. "It relieves a woman of all her cares and gives her so much spare time. Now, honestly, don't you find that home cooking becomes rather monotonous?"

"Not at all," replied Mrs. Park. "Why, my dear, we have a new cook every few weeks."

Fair Offer.

"Can you tell me how to live 100 years?"

The philosopher stroked his beard thoughtfully. "I will try," he said, "if you can give any good reason for wanting to live 100 years."—Philadelphia Record.

A PAGE for MISSES

NOVEL EXERCISES for the CLOSING of SCHOOL

A SPANISH DANCE ON THE CAMPUS

THERE is no time in the school and college career of a young girl thought with a greater degree of interest and enthusiasm than these gala days which mark the closing of the year. To some it means the ending of school days altogether, and their enthusiasm is not unmixed with regret at the thought of giving up associations, as well as leaving all the fun of taking part in the year's festivities. But to the others it is only a time of merrymaking, the fun ranging from a quiet little farewell spread for a small clique of girls to the formal and impressive outdoor ceremonies which are a part of college tradition and always attract a huge gathering of spectators.

Weather permitting, nearly all the closing exercises are held in the open air, a part of the college campus being set aside for exhibitions in physical skill and grace, for oddly enough college classes prefer to entertain their friends after the school year of hard mental work with athletic games and amusements rather than with mental gymnastics. There is a special day set aside for the profound and formal closing event, but this is usually the only quiet and impressive ceremony, the remainder of the week being given up to fun pure and simple.

While college fields are all more or less alike in their general plan they differ in size and equipment according to the importance of the college. Rarely are the open fields situated far from the halls and buildings, while the gymnasium, which supplies the stage setting in case of stormy weather, is usually in close touch with the outdoor set for these gay performances. Girls' schools have followed the lead of boys' colleges in arranging for the comfort of their guests on these important days when girls and their alma mater put on their best attire and wear their friendliest smile. No matter how small the student attendance of the school may be visitors who are interested enough to watch the sports are provided with good seats along the side lines or in the bleachers, where they can look on at the latest college novelty and enjoy the day comfortably.

They Love Novelty.

The audience is by no means the least interested and least interesting feature of the day. Whether the programme be dull or stupid cheers and applause are never stinted. It is the great time and event of the year, and therefore wins praise. But any one who knows the least bit about college girls and their entertainments can vouch for their love of novelty and fun. There is no gathering of young persons so full of ideas and plans for new and original amusements as school girls.

Their ingenuity is equalled only by their cleverness and inventiveness in carrying out their ideas. Each year brings something novel in their entertainments, and it is noticed that there is an evident tendency toward giving more picturesque and less strenuous forms of closing day exercises than in former years. The athletic wave has not disappeared entirely; it has only receded a little, and a newer form of amusement, more feminine, and therefore more attractive, has swept over the athletic wave. Sports have their admirers, but the general opinion of visitors is that the new exercises are more attractive to spectators.

Outdoor Fancy Dancing.

This year dancing is the keynote of the outdoor college exercises. Schoolgirls have fallen under the terpsichorean spell just as society women have, and running broad jumps, hurdle racing and fifty yard dashes have given way to charming fancy dances. As city fêtes have shown, there is no setting quite so delightful for the swing and poetry of motion as embodied in the various national dances as the cool greensward, with no roof but that of the blue sky and with slender feet clicking the time on the velvety turf instead of on a polished floor. College girls have been learning the gentle art of ballroom dancing as well as the more vigorous form of exercise which the folk dancing offers, but this formal dancing has no part in the outdoor festivities. The season has been one devoted to this particular muse, and every one who has participated in the present dances grows more and more interested in the idea and its beneficial physical effects.

At one of the colleges a hundred girls gave an exhibition and drill in folk dancing on the athletic field. They wore peasant costumes and pirouetted with a grace and abandon that showed their months of training. It was a sight to win enthusiasm and praise from all who witnessed it, and the chances are in favor of including this feature in the regular outdoor exercises whether the athletic sports are cut down or not. First, the group of girls appeared dressed in Russian costume and went through a pleasing Russian dance with music. Then they were given time to change, while a different number was offered on the afternoon's programme, and the same class appeared once more in bright Spanish attire. The Spanish dance is a great favorite with those dancing teachers who endeavor to bring out the natural grace of the pupil and to cultivate grace of movement where there is none. One foreign instructor who goes from college to college during the winter term dwelt particularly on this dance. All her girls learned its rhythmic movements, and during the winter they performed its graceful evolutions in the gymnasium. As soon as the weather permitted they held their dances out doors. The real test of grace, so this teacher affirms, is not in being able to glide and circle gracefully in a drawing room, where the floor is perfectly smooth and level and the dancer is sure of her footing, but it lies in being able to dance in true peasant fashion on the village green or on the grass, which is sure to be uneven.

A PATRIOTIC EXERCISE AND DRILL

PLAYING FOR HOCKEY HONORS

There is far more real exercise in this kind of dancing than in any other, so it is beneficial as well as attractive. Dancing is as old as the hills and it has been featured in schools for some time, but only recently has it gained such a hold on teachers and students that it has been given a prominent place among the regular annual college exercises.

The college march is a part of the closing day traditions and the most fascinating dance could not oust it from its place on the week's programme. It is one of the prettiest features of the whole entertainment. The girls are drilled from season to season, their evolutions varying slightly year by year, if at all. The only difference is in the costuming, and this seldom changes after a certain fashion of dress has once been established in a school. Perhaps one college will choose white dresses and no hats, while another will have its columns of marchers gowned in white covered with long black robes—not necessarily college gowns, and still another may array its files in fancy costume—anything to make a good effect still encouraged and practised. After the splendid records established by some of the college girls it would be a pity to let this development and cleverness count for nothing now. Indeed, the Vassar girl who won glory from her wonderful agility in jumping has many followers who strive to beat her record, and there are other athletic feats that have entered later classes to do their best on this great day for them. An athletic field day has its charms, there is no denying the fact, and there are some who say that it is not a more pleasing sight to watch the modern Atalantas than the quaintly costumed dancers. There is an attractiveness about the figure of a young girl who is pitting her strength and cleverness against others, and we feel a thrill of genuine admiration at her suppleness, her grace and her quickness. The sports mean more to many of us than the other exercises do, and that is why field day is never a great success unless it has a series of contests. Sometimes these take the form of games, a hockey or tennis match, one of basketball, or any other game chosen by the girls.

Picturesque Costumes.

Of course, field day contestants in athletic sports wear bloomers or regulation gymnasium suits. In these trim costumes the girls may not look quite so picturesque as they do in bright colored peasant dress, but they do look lithe of limb and full of life and energy. Even a homely girl, if she be well built, makes an attractive picture when clad in a plain gymnasium suit. She looks jaunty, fresh and graceful and she seems to be herself. There are no affectations to mar her charms, for affectations do not go well with a sailor blouse and bloomers.

The senior is sure to have a host of friends as well as her family and relatives to watch the various exercises as the week of festivities progresses. And the underclass girl, too, can count on a goodly number of representatives from her family and close circle of friends who are interested in seeing her and her college associates taking part in their games and entertainments. In fact, invitations to a class celebration at the close of the year are highly prized and much sought after. They give you an insight into college life and college play that cannot possibly be gained in any other way than by being either a participant or a spectator on this eventful occasion.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"BE kind to your eyes," advised the April Grandmother, "and they will reward you by being the comfort and pride of your old age. Give them regular morning and evening eye cup baths of warm sea water or a salt solution to freshen and stimulate them for the day and to remove dust and grime before seeking rest. Always rinse them thoroughly with cold water. This will help to keep the muscles firm and the cuticle white—evidences of youth which, once destroyed, are difficult to regain.

"Too many ambitious schoolgirls make the serious mistake of studying before breakfast, when the strength has been reduced by eight or ten hours of fasting. This habit is about as fatal to the eyes as that of reading during the twilight or by the aid of a flickering artificial light.

"The schoolgirl who habitually reads after she goes to bed is making rapid strides down Sight Destruction lane, chiefly because the eyes of persons under twenty are not fully developed and partly because it is difficult to so hold the book that the benefit of the light is obtainable for both eyes. Incidentally, it is almost impossible to arrange the body so that the shoulders are not somewhat drawn forward and the chest contracted in a manner calculated to form the stooping habit which so greatly detracts from grace of bearing.

"Girls who studiously refrain from reading and embroidering after dark do innumerable reckless things during the day that are liable to destroy the beauty and usefulness of their eyes. They directly face the light while working, they allow the sunbeams to dance upon the pages of their book and they play golf, squash or tennis at high noon without giving the eyes the slightest protection from the sun's rays. I wish that some pretty princess of royal blood would use blue glasses as a sporting costume accessory because innumerable young American princesses would promptly adopt the fad.

"Involuntarily drooping eyelids, usually traceable to excessive fatigue of the eyes, lend a girl a dull, heavy appearance. This condition of the lids may often be relieved by regular eye cup baths of water to which an infinitesimal quantity of boracic acid has been diluted. Tired eyes frequently indicate biliousness and indigestion, which usually are accompanied by headache, irritability and a dark blue frame of mind. A little lemon juice taken in a glass of water at morning and night will help clear out the system, but if this remedy fails to effect the desired results a girl would best promptly consult a physician, as eye strain not infrequently presages melancholia, nervous exhaustion or spinal disease.

"While it is as impossible for a girl to alter the color of her eyes as it is for a leopard to change its spots, she may do much toward adding to their beauty and expression. Eyes that lack color, depth and brilliancy may be improved by plenty of fresh air exercise, which will induce an appetite for the simplest sort of diet and an ability to sleep nine hours out of every twenty-four.

"Girls who imagine that their eyes are too small in comparison with the size of their features would better think several times before they seek to expand the pupils with belladonna," concluded the April Grandmother gravely. "Such experiments are quite likely to result in total blindness instead of additional beauty."

COMBINATION BELT AND HAT PINS

BELT pins which may be transformed into hat pins by merely screwing a long pin into a small eye under the centre of the ornament sometimes have heads of nearly three inch diameter and of umbrella shape. They are of composition enamelled in Oriental effect, of metal rimmed with tiny rhinestones simulating a lace border, of rhinestones colored with small amethyst, turquoise and amber stones, or composed of semi-grapes or beads having etched leaves applied and a large stone as a centre ornament set in antique gold finished metal.

A novel hat and belt pin combination consists of a variegated feldspar stone in an antique setting attached to a pierced mushroom shaped metal head in a combination colored finish. A second pin has a large oval stone set in Roman metal, finished in imitation of hand hammering and chasing; a third has a cabochon top of quartz matrix in an antique setting mounted on a pierced verde green head, and a fourth is set with an oval shaped amethyst sunken in satin silver.

Verde green metal in hand wrought effect is set with four jade ovals about an Egyptian head in dull finished feldspar, while green glass is moulded into the shape of a large beetle, which is socketed in an antique metal setting.

Butterflies are reproduced in cut crystals of different colors, rimmed with rows of rhinestones or with filigree gilt and silver.

Pear shaped combination pins have heads of cut sterling silver set with "jewels" of straw in natural and flower tints, of an unbreakable Japanned composition enamelled on German silver and of a most successful imitation of pearl made of cork, worked under high pressure, with a gelatine coating.

Flower, rosette, dragon fly, bettle and bird pin heads are made of pink and white coral, of celluloid, transiucent and beautifully tinted in a range of green, gray and brown tones or striped in imitation of agate, and of hand wrought metal or metal finished composition.

Travelling Conveniences.

A YOUNG girl who frequently takes long journeys by railway keeps her tailored suit from wrinkles by securely pinning its skirt band to a wide strip of stout braid, which she attaches to the linen side of one curtain of her berth. The coat is attached to the other curtain by means of a substantially looped band which supports a folding steel hanger, and the hat is placed in a dark colored linen bag having draw strings by which it may be suspended from a hook at the lower end of the compartment.

To facilitate dressing as well as to occupy the minimum amount of space while in the toilet stateroom this practical tourist has provided herself with a denim apron turned up at the bottom and divided into large and small pockets for holding brushes, pins, soap, slippers and negligee. She has also a white oilcloth bag to accommodate soiled clothing and keep it from contact with the other things in her suitcase.

Sleeveless Princess Aprons.

EVERY girl who likes to experiment with chafing dish and confectionery recipes should protect her frocks with a sleeveless princess apron. A pretty model which may be put together in two hours' time is made of pale pink, blue or green checked gingham, of delicately tinted madras, of light colored denim, percale or galatea. This garment covers the entire front of the bodice, the whole of the skirt, is finished around the bottom with a narrow ruffle and has two hip pockets.

The girl who prefers to dust her own bric-à-brac should have a fine lawn knee length apron, with a six inch hemstitched bib and shoulder straps of hemstitched tucks, or with a Gibson bretelle trimmed with embroidery insertion.

Tea aprons are of India linon, cotton, voile, batiste or dotted Swiss. They are small oval or diamond shaped affairs, bordered with wide ruffles, finished with a one inch hemstitched hem and provided with pockets and strings to match. Of similar shapes, but rather more dainty, are the aprons of all over muslin embroidery trimmed with sheer plain muslin ruffling and provided with ribbon strings, or of sheer plain muslin edged with lace frillings and decorated with satin ribbon ties and pocket bows.

New Shirt Waists.

IN order to have the smart touch required in dress this season all must be of one color, and sometimes even all of a piece, in regard to shirt waist and its accessories. If the shirt is of the popular crêpe, tie and belt must be crêpe also. If the shirt is blue, tie, belt, handkerchief and stockings must be blue, the accessories in a slightly contrasting shade of the color of the shirt. If the shirt is a stripe or plaid you must precisely match the predominating color in it for the accessories, and with a white shirt everything must be white.

Dressing Sacques and Hosiery for Summer Wear

GIRLS who always have on hand an assortment of dainty sacques for morning and negligee use during the summer months are scanning the bargain counters in search of five to seven yard lengths of suitable materials. A practical plain and pretty morning jacket, with loose fronts, semi-fitting back, turned over collar, finished neck, long sleeves and a hip handkerchief pocket, may be made from five yards of white or colored albatross, or of French challie in flower design, of cotton crêpe, of white half linen suiting or flowered lawn. The same model is excellent for a matinee of China, pongee or foulard silk; of color-striped batiste, dotted, or satin striped mull or pineapple cloth lined with colored silk.

Summer dressing sacques are made on exceedingly simple lines. Even a beginner in the dressmaker's art may safely undertake a model having straight back and front, six plaits crossing the shoulders and kimono sleeves, which calls for about six yards of striped dimity, sprigged Swiss, all over muslin embroidery, cross barred batiste, nainsook or lawn, and may be trimmed with whatever Valenciennes, Cluny, embroidery or narrow ribbon happens to be in the "scrap trunk."

Camilles, or combing jackets, are made of three yards of lawn, madras or dimity, or of four large handkerchiefs. They may be put together after the short sleeved kimono sacque design, joined at the throat and waist with narrow ribbons, or made without any opening at the front but wide enough at the top to be drawn over the head and then adjusted to the shoulders.

IN order to get the best value for her money when buying summer hosiery a girl should know that the term "lisle thread" means a long, staple cotton, combed and hand twisted, and that while "double sole, heel and toe" indicates an extra thread added at those points "double" applies only to single thread goods.

"Guaranteed pure silk" is the term employed to distinguish a high class of hosiery from a low grade of silk stockings made from injured cocoons, hanks and reeling waste.

"French foot" stockings differ from those having the "English foot" because their only seam is in the centre of the sole.

"Seamless" applies to stockings knitted in one piece on a circular machine, leaving an opening at the toe to be looped together and "full fashioned" to hosiery finished with flat seams having selvage edges throughout and knit upon machines which automatically drop the requisite number of stitches at various points to make the garment conform to the natural shape of the leg and foot.

"Richelieu rib" means that a single stitch is dropped at three-quarter inch intervals running the full length of the stocking, and "Rembrandt rib" that groups of five drop stitches are separated by one inch of plain knitting running the full length.

"Extracted" applies to hosiery on which wax is applied before dyeing, to form the fancy pattern, and afterward removed.

LATEST FASHIONS IN PARASOLS.

FOR everyday use in the country chints parasols are excellent—a perfect protection from the freckle and tan bringing rays of the sun. Cretonne is more durable than silk, and can be washed off whenever desired. In bright flowered designs many of the cretonne sun shades are extremely pretty, and are especially smart with a somewhat severe style of dress in lawn or linen, suitable for morning wear.

For afternoon embroidered linen or batiste covers are still smart with the silk and satin parasols, and while there are many to be seen of extremely elaborate design the simpler patterns, easily embroidered if a girl knows anything of this sort of work, are also decidedly smart.

To make the embroidered white parasols stamped pieces of linen and batiste can be bought, or if no attractive design can be found it is a simple task to make a piece. One girl who had accumulated an cotillon favors several parasols of not very heavy or good silk embroidered for herself one extremely pretty cover, which can be slipped at will over whatever shade of parasol she desires. A net or lace cover is a good solution for a flowered silk parasol that has become slightly soiled or faded.

Hand painted parasols are always much to be desired, and the girl who has any talent in this direction can make herself any number of really beautiful sunshades at the cost of the simplest plain silk parasols.

Long sticks are fashionable again for all parasols, so that it is necessary to have at least one parasol with a folding handle to take away on short visits when only a small trunk is required.

Folding umbrellas are once more to be had, and for travelling this style of umbrella is almost obligatory. It is most inconvenient to always carry an umbrella, yet in this zone it is surely never safe to go away even for over night without an umbrella, and as exaggeratedly long handles are in vogue at the moment it is necessary that the umbrella, or rather the stick, should be able to be doubled over.

Colored umbrellas are fashionable again, matching the shade of the rain coat or ulster. Red, dark green, navy blue and brown are all seen among the most recently imported umbrellas.

The smartest handle for an umbrella is the long stick ornamented only with a flat or round silver, gold or colored stone knob. On the silver and gold knobs the monogram and address are marked on the flat top, while if there is only a jade matrix or stone at the top the marking is placed on the silver or gold band at the base of the stone. The initials or monogram of the owner should without fail be placed on an umbrella. Without this means of identification there is no possible hope of its being returned if taken by mistake, while one actually hears occasionally of a marked umbrella finding its way back to its original owner, difficult to believe as this statement may be.

Incense Fad Increasing.

THERE is a craze for incense, and the Japanese have sent it over to us in a bewildering number of forms, all of which are diminutive, as is to be expected from that land of little men and little things. Animals are the popular incense bearers, and you may have a stork to breathe forth the fumes for you, or a fierce looking dragon, or a wise old owl, or even a curious, hideous reptile if your taste runs that way. There is as much variety in the kind of incense as there is in the animal holderr of it, and as it is most fascinating to try the various kinds summer homes and verandas are likely to take on a decidedly Oriental atmosphere.

The "Hecla" Furnace

And The Wonderful Fused Joints

Do you know what Fused Joints are, and what they mean to every buyer of a Warm Air Furnace?

"Hecla" Fused Joints are made by bringing steel and cast-iron together at white heat. The two metals become practically one. The joints they form are permanently tight.

In 20 years use, "Hecla" Fused Joints have never once worked loose. They form the one and only furnace joint that won't leak gas or dust.

If you want plenty of warm, dry, PURE air—at the minimum cost for fuel, and at the same time want your home absolutely free of gas, dust and smoke—put in a "Hecla" Furnace.

There are dozens of other special features about the "Hecla" that every intending furnace buyer should know. Write for illustrated catalogue. 78

BUSINESS METHODS.

The Value of Imagination as an Industrial Asset.

Let us assume that tomorrow you decide to embark in the business of manufacturing a toilet soap to compete with some of the well known makers. It is important that it should have a significant or attractive name. But, right at the outset, you discover that it is almost impossible to secure any satisfactory name for a new soap. Its color, transparency and clearness suggest the title of "amber soap." Yes, surely, "amber soap" does have an attractive sound. But you cannot use the word "amber," for you find that this is one of a list of twenty-four possible names for a toilet soap preempted by registration as a protectionary measure years ago by one of the leading American soap makers. They have covered over a hundred names in the past quarter of a century, willingly paying the registration charges of $25 for every title. Of course they do not intend to use them. They register them to fight off competition, believing (and here is the important point) that no clever business man would embark in the enterprise of manufacturing a new soap when from the start he was prevented from employing the powerful weapon of imagination in giving it a suitable name. If an establishment like this, directed by some of the ablest heads in the business world, believes that it can discourage competition by simply depriving the would be competitor of the appeal to the imagination in the naming of his soap, how great a value must we attach to imagination in business?—Lorin F. Deland in Atlantic.

TRAPPING RABBITS.

The Australian Method of Dealing With the Pests.

Rabbits are the greatest pest the Australian pastoralist has to contend against. If these rodents are at all numerous on a station property, they do enormous damage to the grass, but the pest is kept down to the lowest possible limit in every district of the commonwealth at great cost.

The most effective method of dealing with them is hereunder explained.

In summer when any water that might have been lying about has been dried up by evaporation and the grass has become dry rabbits swarm toward the tanks, dams or other water holes that have been sunk for stock drinking purposes.

Pastoralists take advantage of this, and every evening after the cattle have partaken of their last drink a strip of wire netting is run around the tank or dam.

Outside this netting fence holes are dug in the ground and filled with poisoned water, and these in turn are inclosed by another strand of netting, pegged down to within a few inches of the ground, being sheep proof, but allowing plenty of room for rabbits to get under.

The rabbits make for the dam; but, as their way is barred, they drink at the poisoned holes, with to them disastrous results.

In the morning are to be seen hundreds and thousands of dead rabbits scattered about the country.—Melbourne News.

An African and a Boa Constrictor.

At M'Geta, German East Africa, a native who, like all those belonging to the tribe of the Waluguru, regarded snake flesh as an especial delicacy found a huge boa constrictor lying in the middle of a field. He confided the discovery to one or two others and arranged with them to kill it during the hours of darkness, so that they might enjoy the delicacy together. Toward nightfall the man, armed with a stick, attacked the huge serpent. The boa constrictor, aroused from its apparent torpor, suddenly seized the unhappy negro and slowly crushed him to pulp and then gradually swallowed him.

Tactless.

"When Clubber gets arguing he loses all tact."

"As for instance?"

"Why, last night he told an opponent who is lame that he hadn't a leg to stand on, another who squints that he was sorry he couldn't see things as he did, and a man who stammered he urged not to hesitate in expressing an opinion."—Stray Stories.

Avalanches.

There are avalanches of different kinds, but when the term "avalanche" is used it is generally supposed to apply to falls of great bodies of snow or ice, says Mr. Edward Whymper in the London Strand Magazine. One of the first occasions of this kind which attracted attention took place in 1820, upon Mont Blanc, and it is commonly called the Hamel accident. Dr. Hamel, a Russian, set out on Aug. 18 to go up Mont Blanc, accompanied by two Englishmen and eight guides. They had ascended to a height of more than 14,000 feet, with five guides in front, who were cutting or making steps, when all at once the snow above them gave way, and the members of the party were carried down a thousand feet or more over the slopes up which they had toiled. Snow again broke away above and more or less covered them. Some of them struggled out, but three of the leading guides were buried into a crevasse and buried under an immense mass of snow. The bodies of these men reappeared at the foot of the glacier thirty years afterward.

BEAVERS' HOMES.

How the Ingenious Little Builders Construct Their Houses.

When the beavers' dams are completed, the animals separate into small companies to build cabins or houses for themselves. These are constructed upon piles along the borders of the pond. They are of an oval shape, resembling a beehive, and they vary from five feet to ten feet in diameter, according to the number of families they are to accommodate.

These dwellings are never less than two stories high, generally three, and sometimes they contain four apartments. The walls of these are from two feet to three feet thick, formed of the same materials as the dams. On the inside they are made smooth, but left rough without, being rendered impenetrable to rain.

The lower story is about two feet high, the second is formed by a floor of sticks covered with mud, and the upper part terminates with an arched roof. Through each floor there is a passage, and the uppermost floor is always above the level of the water. Each of these huts has two doors, one on the land side to admit of their going out and seeking provisions that way, another under the water and below where it freezes to preserve their communication with the pond.—English Magazine.

FLOATING A WHALE.

Inflating the Monster Carcass to Keep it on the Surface.

"Then began the work of bringing the whale to the surface and blowing it up so that it would float," says a writer on whaling in Popular Mechanics. "Taking a hitch about a convenient post, the rope was slacked and run through a pulley block at the masthead to relieve the strain of raising the great body. The winch was set in motion, and for fifteen minutes nothing was heard save the monotonous grind as fathom after fathom of line was wound in. When the body was brought alongside the lobes of the flukes were cut off and lifted to the deck. Then a long coil of small rubber hose, one end of which was attached to a pump and the other to a hollow, spear pointed tube of steel with perforations along its entire length, was brought into play. The spear was jabbed well down into the whale's side, the air pump was started, and the body slowly filled with air. When inflated sufficiently to keep it afloat, the tube was withdrawn, the incision plugged with oakum and the chains cast off. A buoy with a flag was then attached to the carcass and the whole set adrift to be picked up at the end of the day's hunting."

What He Wanted.

Young Mr. Charles was plainly embarrassed, and Miss Smith knew what was coming, or thought she did.

"Er—Miss Smith," he said feverishly, "could I—er—see your father for a moment or two?"

"Certainly, Mr. Charles!" And, excusing herself, she swept from the parlor.

Presently the old man came in, and, after a short conversation with Mr. Charles, he stepped to the door and summoned his daughter.

Mr. Charles, whose face was radiant, said, "As I have a long ride before me, I think I will say good night."

"Oh, papa," pleaded the girl immediately her lover disappeared, "did he—did you"—

"I did," broke in the old man.

His daughter fell on his neck and kissed him. He held her at arm's length.

"I did," he repeated. "I lent him fourpence to get home with—that was what he wanted me for."—London Mail.

Origin of Surnames.

Surnames were introduced into England by the Normans and were adopted by the nobility about 1100. The old Normans used Fitz, which signifies son, as Fitzherbert. The Irish used O for grandson—O'Neal, O'Donnell. The Scottish highlander used Mac, as Macdonald, son of Donald. The Welsh used Ap, as Ap Rhys, the son of Rhys, Ap Richard. The prefix Ap eventually was combined with the name of the father; hence Prys, Pritchard, etc. The northern nations added the word son to the father's name, as Williamson. Many of the most common surnames, such as Johnson, Wilson, Dyson, Nicholson, etc., were taken by Brabanters and others, Flemings, who were naturalized in the reign of Henry VI., 1435.

After Hours.

Some years ago on a day set apart for humiliation and prayer a manufacturer offered to pay his workmen their wages on condition that they attended church. To this they readily agreed.

Shortly before evening service one of the employees called at his employer's residence and told the servant he wished "to see the maister"

"Now, Jack, what do you want?"

"Well, sor, me and ma myets hev been tanking the thing over, and we'd like to knae if we gan to church the nect do we get owertime for't?"—London Spare Moments.

Her Mind Easy.

"I hear you are going to Australia with your husband, Kitty," said the mistress. "Aren't you nervous about the long voyage?"

"Well, ma'am," said Kitty calmly, "that's his lookout. I belong to him now, and if anything happens to me it'll be his loss, not mine."—London Mail.

Why Bass' Barley Wine

Should be Taken by Invalids and Delicate Persons.

The claim is often made that stout and porter are recommended by doctors to persons in delicate health.

Do you think that any doctor would advise a delicate woman to eat heavy indigestible food?

Yet it's just as absurd to ask her to take stout or porter when she is in delicate health.

The person who can digest stout or porter, even in small quantities, isn't in need of a tonic.

Because either of these, owing to the constant fermentation that's going on in them, can only be assimilated by persons with healthy digestions.

It's true that stout and porter contain nourishing and tonic properties due to the barley malt and hops.

It's also true that they contain a certain percentage of alcohol which aids digestion.

But, if the stomach is taxed to offset the effect of the fermentation, how can it assimilate the nutritive and tonic principles of stout or porter?

Bass' Barley Wine contains, in a condensed form, more nutritive and tonic properties than can be found in the finest stout or porter.

But it differs from either of these in being absolutely free from fermentation.

Bass' Barley Wine is matured for three years in casks until all fermentation is removed.

In it you have all the nutritive principles of the barley malt and hops, fully preserved, but in a palatable form that the most delicate stomach can readily digest.

Bass' Barley Wine can be digested when the stomach cannot assimilate any other tonic.

Bass' Barley Wine is sold at one price—30c—

A small boy was fishing on Sunday morning. He had a basket of fish alongside of him. A clergyman happened to see him and, going over to where he was busily watching the bob, said:

"You naughty, cruel boy! Don't you know that it is a sin to fish on the Sabbath? Besides the sin, think of the cruelty of it—taking the poor little worm out of the ground and sticking that nasty sharp hook through its body."

"That ain't no worm. That's an artificial fly!" answered the boy.

"Ah, I was mistaken," said the preacher."

"So were these fish," said the boy, picking up the basket and showing them to the clergyman.—New York Sun.

The Sycamore.

The sycamore has been called the Egyptian fig tree. The date of its being planted in England is not known, but it was very early. Mary, queen of Scots, brought over from France a young sycamore, which she planted in the gardens of Holyrood, and from this have sprung all the beautiful groves of sycamores now to be seen in Scotland.—St. James' Gazette.

His Dilemma.

"I'm in a difficulty over my girl."

"What's wrong?"

"I've been saying such nice things to her that she's getting conceited. If I stop she'll think I don't care for her any longer, and if I go on she'll think she's too good for me."—London Mail.

"Give me ten gallons of "English" Liquid White Paint.

"No, Sir! I won't take any other kind.

"Yes, that other paint may possibly be good paint, but if it is all right in every way, why don't the makers tell you, and tell me, frankly, what they are trying to sell us—namely, what is in the paint.

"I always use "English" Liquid Paint because the guarantee formula is on the can telling me that it is made of 70% white lead, 30% zinc white, pure linseed oil, pure turpentine and dryer. I know this formula is the standard in paint making and I know that I am taking no chance when I use that kind of paint."

"English" Liquid Paint made by Brandam-Henderson Limited, is very economical to use. Come in for a color card, 4

Missner Will Upheld.

Hamilton, June 16.—Judge Snyder in the County Court decided that Lemuel Missner, who died at Ancaster on Dec. 1, 1908, was of sound mind and that no undue influence was used in connection with the making of his will. His honor's decision was given in connection with an action instituted by Charles Bangley of Ancaster, to establish Missner's will. The deceased left his estate of about $15,000 to Mrs. Bangley, his adopted daughter. This did not meet with the approval of William Missner of Toronto, a brother of the testator.

Widow Cuts Off Daughter.

Newark, N.J., June 16.—A dining-room table, valued at $15, is the sole bequest made to an only daughter in the will of Mrs. Frances Hartley, widow of a millionaire gun manufacturer, which was probated here yesterday. More than $1,000,000 in cash is distributed among other relatives and friends and several bequests of from $1,000 to $5,000 are made to servants. No reason is given for the cutting off of the daughter, Mrs. Helen K. Jennings of Madison avenue, New York City.

Painting at Laval Stolen.

Quebec, June 16.—"The Gamblers," by Salvator Rosa, a painting valued at about $3,000, was cut from its frame and stolen at Laval University Monday night. The robbery was perpetrated while a lecture was being delivered by Mr. Purves Carter, an English artist, who has been engaged for some time past repairing and retouching the collection at Laval, which is considered one of the most valuable in the British possessions.

Suggested Duty on Pulp.

Washington, June 16.—The Senate finance committee yesterday practically decided to place a duty of one-twelfth of a cent per pound on pulp coming from countries which impose a countervailing duty on like articles imported into those countries from the United States, or hamper the free exportation of their wood products to the United States.

Crime to Sell Skim Milk.

Albany, N.Y., June 16.—The court of appeals yesterday handed down a decision in which it holds that the sale of skimmed milk in New York City is a crime. The court sustains the lower courts in overruling a demurrer of the Liberman Dairy Co. to an action brought by the state to recover $5,000 penalty for the sale of skimmed milk.

WALTER BLYTHE MAY YET BE SAVED FROM HANGING

Agincourt's Murderer's Lawyer Hopes for Another Reprieve T. C. Robinette Says That is a Matter of Law Now—A Formal Appeal Will be Sent To-day to Ottawa.

Toronto, June 16.—"I do not see how they can possibly hang Blythe on Thursday," said T. C. Robinette, K.C., last night. "It is a pure matter of law now," he added.

Last night Mr. Robinette applied to Mr. Justice Riddell who tried Blythe for the murder of his wife at Agincourt some months ago, for leave to take a stated case to the Court of Appeal. This was refused.

This morning Mr. Robinette will serve the Attorney-General for the province and Sheriff Mowat with notice of appeal. This will be done under section 1015 of the new criminal code which says that where a stated case has been refused by the trial judge, the prisoner shall appeal to the Court of Appeal under section 1023 of the new code, which declares that where an appeal is entered the penalties must be stayed in all cases of whipping or death until the appeal is heard by the Court of Appeal.

This, Mr. Robinette believes, is an absolute bar to Blythe's execution until September, until which date the Court of Appeal is precluded from sitting under the statute.

George Tate Blackstock, K.C., who prosecuted Blythe at the Assizes agrees with Mr. Robinette that Blythe's execution must be stayed. He said last night, "If the provisions of the code are as quoted by Mr. Robinette, then it seems clear that the execution must be stayed."

To-day Mr. Robinette will notify the acting Minister of Justice at Ottawa and all Cabinet Ministers whom he can reach of the position of affairs and believes that there will be no choice but to withdraw Blythe from the shadow of the gallows until after September 14.

Meanwhile Blythe is still despondent and ill in his prison cell, but the hope that he may be saved from the gallows which has crept into many hearts, but of which the condemned wretch knows nothing, is stronger than it has been. A large petition is being circulated and the names buried to Ottawa.

THE CONGRESS OF WOMEN COMMENCES TO-NIGHT

Quinquennial International Assembly Begins in Toronto---Three Hundred Delegates, Comprising Notable Women Workers From Twenty-three Countries---Will be Largely Attended.

Toronto, June 16.—About 500 notable women from twenty-three different countries began to assemble today in Toronto, on the occasion of the fourth Quinquennial International Congress of Women.

The previous meetings were held in Chicago, London (Eng.), and Berlin (Germany), so that Toronto is one of a big four.

The proceedings begin so far as the public are concerned, with the reception at University convocation hall tonight, which will be open, as all the meetings are, to ticket-holders.

The proceedings to-night will consist of the presentation of the address of welcome and other matters of general interest. During the day the executive officers will meet, and various committee meetings will be the chief business activity until next Wednesday, 23rd inst., when the regular sessions of the nine sections begin.

A number of more or less social functions have been arranged for during the next two weeks. The first of these is the mayor's reception tomorrow evening at the City Hall. On Saturday, 19th, Mrs. Sanford will entertain those taking part in a trip to Hamilton. On Tuesday, 22nd, Lady Edgar has arranged a trip to Lake Simcoe, and one to Niagara follows next day. A garden party at Government House on the afternoon of the 25th is the Ontario tribute. On Saturday, 26th, an excursion to Guelph and the model farm is the engagement. On Monday, 28th, Mrs. Kemp will have a garden party at Castle Frank, and the Toronto Council of Jewish Women will entertain the Jewish members of the congress. Mrs. T. M. Harris will entertain at the Lambton Golf Club on Tuesday, 29th, and the local council of women will hold a reception at the Parliament Buildings on the last day of the congress, Wednesday, 30th inst.

The congress proper opens next Wednesday, 23rd inst., when the nine sections proceed to their deliberations. Three evening sessions, to be held in Convocation Hall, will focus the interest of the whole congress of those who are unable to attend during the day. Each evening is in charge of three of the nine sections, so that the whole field of the congress will be covered in the three meetings.

On Thursday, 24th inst., art, literature and the sections on liberal professions for women will provide the program. On Monday, 28th, education, health, and physical training and philanthropy are the controlling sections. On Tuesday, 29th, laws concerning women and children, the industrial section, and social work and moral reform will be taken up.

Lieut.-Governor Gibson, Sir James Whitney and the Countess of Aberdeen respectively will preside at these three meetings. Among the speakers will be Hon. Mrs. Wilkinson, England; Mrs. Agnes Knox Black, Miss Jane Addams, Chicago; Prof. Ramsey Wright, Lady Dockrell, Dublin; Sir Wm. T. Thompson, F.R.C.P., Ireland; Fraulein Ide Kirch, Germany; Miss Sybella Gurney, Miss James, Great Britain, and Mrs. O. C. Edwards.

THEY MUST GIVE COMPENSATION

Bishop Williams Discusses the Liquor Problem.

CONDEMNS BETTING EVIL

His Lordship at Huron Synod Declares That Three-Fifths Clause is a Good Thing and That the Hotelmen Whose Licenses Are Cut Off Should Be Compensated or It Becomes Confiscation.

London, Ont., June 16.—Endorsation of the three-fifths clause and of compensation for hotelmen put out of business, with a strong condemnation of the betting evil, were features of the charge delivered by Bishop Williams yesterday afternoon to the Synod of Huron, in session here. The bishop made himself particularly clear in his references to gambling. "Betting and gambling, however widely practiced and however called, are morally wrong and degrading to character," he said. "We need a public opinion sufficiently strong to brand with infamy the betting man or the betting woman as a parasite who thrives upon other people's labor. There is injustice in it; there is robbery, no matter by what name we call it, and, therefore, it is morally wrong.

Regarding the three-fifths clause his lordship said: "The principle is altogether right. The proper function of the civil law is to record and enforce the judgments of the popular conscience. There are some things which the popular conscience overwhelmingly condemns, i.e., fraud, bigamy, white slavery, etc. There is no difficulty in enforcing laws against such offences. But there are other things which the popular conscience does not so overwhelmingly condemn, and when laws are passed by a bare majority against such offences they are either not enforced or enforced very feebly for the simple reason that there is a large body of public opinion which does not believe that the things prohibited are morally wrong.

On compensation he said: "But granting that the community has a perfect right to limit or suppress any business or trade which it deems to be injurious to its best interests, there are nevertheless certain moral obligations which the community is bound to observe when limiting or suppressing what is by its own laws a legitimate business.

George Rowntree bought for the Harris Abattoir Co. 400 butchers cattle; steers and heifers, $5 to $6.65; cows and bulls, at $3.10 to $5.25 per cwt.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reported very little trading in stockers and feeders, but expects a good trade before long. Mr. Murby bought about 100 stockers and feeders at prices as follows: Feeders, 1025 lbs. each, at $4.75; stockers, 600 lbs. each, at $3.60 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a heavy delivery of milkers and springers, the bulk of which were of common to medium quality, which sold at much lower quotations, but good to choice cows were steady at the same prices. Common to medium cows sold at $35 to $45; good to choice, $48 to $55 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts were large, prices about steady, at $3 to $5.50, but there were a few extra quality new milk fed calves that reached $6 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn bought 240 sheep at $4.50 per cwt.; 250 spring lambs at $5.10; and 400 calves at $5.00 each; all of which are average quotations of his buyings. Mr. Dunn quotes export ewes at $4.25 to $4.60 per cwt.; rams at $3 to $3.50; spring lambs, $7 to $8 each, or 9½c to 9¾c per lb.

Hogs.

H. P. Kennedy reports the market steady to strong. Selects at $7.35 to $7.40, fed and watered at the market, and $7.00 to $7.05 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Girl Sees Father's Suicide.

Berlin, June 16.—Two suicides have occurred here within a week, the second being that of Chas. Becking, yesterday afternoon. He was a native of this town. A widow and three children survive. Becking swallowed the contents of a two-ounce bottle of carbolic acid and averting an attempt of a young daughter to take it away from him, the girl having her hands severely burned by the acid.

Child Fatally Burned.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 16.—Kathleen Cook, aged 8, died yesterday afternoon from burns received yesterday morning while playing in her father's yard. With companions the child was running round a fire which had been started to burn some rubbish, a wind blew the flames in the direction of the child, igniting her clothing.

ELEVEN YEAR OLD BOY PLEADS GUILTY TO THE THEFT OF $39.00

Edwin McKay of Lakefield Lived Like a Millionaire on The Money —Trips To Peterborough And Around The Lakes Were Features of The Episode.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Special to The Examiner,

Lakefield, June 15.—Edwin McKay, an eleven-year-old Lakefield boy plea an eleven -year-old Lakefield boy, pleaded guilty in county police court here to-day, before County Magistrate Edmison of stealing $39 from his uncle.

It appears that the latter kept the money in a desk at his home, where the boy resided. Young McKay had learned where the money was kept, and admitted that he had taken his uncle's keys and opened the desk for the purpose of getting the money.

McKay, with a young chum, has been having the time of his life with the stolen cash. He and his friend went to Pyterborough twice, and indulged in ice cream and other dainties and also had several trips around Stony Lake on the steamers leaving Lakefield. He admitted in court that he had taken the money and spent it.

The Magistrate registered a conviction against the youngster, but in view of his extreme youth and the fact that he has never been in trouble before allowed him to go on suspended sentence, after giving him a severe warning that if he was ever brought before the magistrate again he would be punished.

ROBBING BIRDS' NESTS

Lakefield Boy Was Fined $1 by Magistrate Edmison For That Offence.

Special to The Examiner.

Lakefield, June 15.—A peculiar case came before County Magistrate Edmison in police court here to-day, when a young boy was charged with robbing birds' nests and having in his possession birds' eggs.

The charge was laid under an Ontario Act, and was the first of its kind that Magistrate Edmison has been called upon to settle. He fined the defendant $1, and advised him to let the birds alone in the future.

WANT AN INCREASE

Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., Waited Upon the Council.

Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., one of the Water Commissioners, asked the council on behalf of the commissioners for the permission to charge $500 more for their services during the construction of the dam which will occupy all of this year and part of next. Their duties during that time will be doubled, and he thought they would be justified in charging this sum.

Mr. Moore was asked to place his request on paper and it would come up before the whole council.

FIREMEN'S HOLIDAYS

Three of the Original Members of the Brigade May Get Two Weeks.

Chief Howard at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night asked for two weeks' holidays for three of his men. They were Messrs. McBride, Grange and Rankin. They had been promised these holidays when they joined the force. They are the only original members now with the brigade and the Chief stated they had been looking forward to the two weeks. They were practically tied down all the year and he considered they had well earned a holiday. Their pay would run on just the same. Alderman Morgan thought that one week with pay would be enough and they could have the other week if they chose. Nothing was done last night, but the question will be considered at another meeting.

HASSAN CIGARETTES

Attractive Moving Picture Advertises a New Brand That Is Being Placed on the Market.

A motion picture that has been attracting considerable attention is one that has been shown at the Crystal Theatre this week, advertising the new brand of Turkish cigarettes, "Hassans," which are being placed on the Peterborough market by Mr. W. J. O'Brien. The picture is a clever one, and is a capital "ad." for the new cigarette, which promises to become speedily famous, as it has been pronounced one of the best at its price that has ever been offered for sale here.

FOURTEEN POUND 'LUNGE LANDED THIS MORNING

Little Lake and the river was swarmed with canoes this morning the fishermen being out in large numbers, taking advantage of the first day of the fishing season. Some of the anglers were out as early as three o'clock, but at four o'clock there must have been nearly one hunderd canoes on the Lake. Probably the biggest catch was made by Mr. Lou Dobbin, who captured a fourteen-pounder. Mr. Harry Adams was also one of the lucky anglers. He caught five 'lunge, averaging about eight pounds each. Mr. Frank Adams succeeded in landing a lunge that tipped th escale at ten pounds.

Peterboro's Theatoriums are Deservedly Popular With the Citizens.

Peterborough's moving picture theatres are deservedly popular with the citizens, and just now are enjoying a wide measure of patronage, being the principal source of amusement for a large proportion of the city's population. Their popularity is not hard to understand. The theatres are conveniently situated, well looked after, and so conducted that they are places of thorough enjoyment to all who patronize them. The pictures shown by the local houses are clean, entertaining and instructive. Nothing that could offend the most fastidious mind is displayed and the quality of the entertainment given is so high that the theatres are patronized very largely by the ladies of the city. The moving picture theatre has solved a great problem in providing cheap and beneficial entertainment for the great mass of citizens and as long as the theatoriums are as excellently conducted as they are at present, will be popular with everyone.

FISH STORIES RIPE

The One That Got Away As Usual, Was the Biggest One Hooked.

"He must have weighed at least twenty pounds and I had him right up to the side of the canoe when he gave a flip, went under the boat and got away with my best bait."

How many times have you heard the above or a similar statement today from some one of the many dozen anglers who were out trawling on Little Lake this morning? It shows that the fishing season has arrived and while all the fishermen who were out this morning did not land a 'lunge everyone brought back a story of the one that had got away.

Y.W.C.A. LAWN SOCIAL

Successful One Held Last Evening—Many Attended.

The ladies of the Young Women's Christian Association held a very successful lawn social on the lawn to the east of the building last evening. A large number was in attendance and a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent. Ice cream, strawberries, and candies were disposed of and the pleasure of the evening was greatly enhanced by music supplied by an orchestra under the capable direction of Mr. R. J. Devey.

Quite a good sum was realized, which will be devoted to the Library fund.

WAS ALLOWED TO CO

Young Scotchman Was In Court for Being Drunk and Disorderly.

The young Scotchman who was arrested for being drunk and creating a disturbance at the police court this morning was allowed to go. It being his first offence the magistrate did not impose a fine, but let him go with a warning.

TO-MORROW'S ECLIPSE IS PARTIAL IN PETERBORO

There will be a total eclipse of the sun to-morrow. The totality, however, will only be visible in the extreme north of Canada. It will appear as a partial eclipse to the people of Peterborough, who can confidently expect its appearance at 6.40 p.m., and will continue till sunset, the orb of day figuratively going to bed under a cloud. The eclipse will consist solely of an umbra. There will be no penumbra. An eclipse of the sun is caused by the intervention of the moon between the earth and the sun. The moon, the modest old maiden that she is, does not put on any airs—has no atmosphere—consequently her shadow is unaccompanied by a penumbra.

OVER THE HILLS AND FAR AWAY THEIR DESTINATION---FRISCO BAY

MRS. J. N. RAMSEY AT THE WHEEL.

Special Correspondence.

New York, June 19.—Accompanied by three women friends, Mrs. J. N. Ramsey left New York, June 9, in a 30-horse power Maxwell car to drive to San Francisco.

The overland route as now planned will take the tourists through Albany, Buffalo, Toledo, Chicago, Cedar Rapids, Omaha, Cheyenne, Granger, Ogden and Reno. They expect to reach their destination about July 24.

"This is not a race against time," said Mrs. Ramsey just before she started. "I am in no hurry, although I shall endeavor to keep up to the schedule I have prepared. I want to prove conclusively that the automobile is capable of making long journeys under all sorts of conditions in the hands of women."

Fire, Water and Light Committee Decide To Send The Chief And Ald. Buller To Convention

A meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was held last night with Alderman Buller in the chair Aldermen Morgan, Hicks and Turner present.

Dr. Greer asked what the committee intended to do regarding a bill for his services in attending the late assistant fire chief Taylor, whose hand was severely injured by the exploding of a chemical tank in August. It was not a large bill but he had been informed that the city would pay it as the injury had been sustained while the man was in the city's employ. The Finance Committee had not ordered it to be paid. On motion it was referred to the Finance Committee and ordered to be paid.

Placing New Hydrants

Messrs. Matthews, Moore and Hill, Water Commissioners, wanted some definite statement as to what hydrants were to be installed. Requests from citizens had not been dealt with and the commissioners wanted to know what was the committee's opinion in the matter. Alderman Buller stated that the Fire, Water and Light Department was hard up. Their appropriation had not been large enough and they were not going to exceed it if possible. They had authorized the placing of several new hydrants but they had not the money to permit them to proceed further. The committee realized the desirability of providing good fire protection, but at present they needed the money.

Mr. T. F. Matthews suggested that the hydrants be placed but that the money be not charged until next year. This met the committee's approval if it were legal and Alderman Hicks remarked that a proviso referring to it be placed in the motion. Some time was spent in picking out the hydrants necessary and it was finally moved by Alderman Turner and Morgan that the following be located: Two on Aylmer street, north of Smith street; one on Weir street; one on James, at Mark street; one on Rink street, east of Aylmer street, and one on Bethune, south of Smith street.

Alderman Turner stated that a citizen had told him he was being charged for watering his boulevard, but Mr. Matthews informed him that for the past three years there was no charge for this in order that the citizens would be induced to beautify the fronts of their residences. He also remarked that he did not think any charge would be made for water used to flush the sidewalks. This is a new scheme of Alderman Turner's to relieve the dust nuisance, and he will likely broach it at a meeting of the Board of Works. Mr. Henderson, of the Water Works, intimated that it might result in flooding the cellars. The work would be done during the night on George street, between Charlotte and Brock streets.

To The Convention

On motion of Aldermen Turner and Hicks Chief Howard's request to be allowed attend the convention of Fire Chiefs in Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th, was granted and the motion provides that Alderman Buller, or if he is unable, one of the members of the committee will go with the chief and that their expenses be paid. Chief Howard was not permitted to go last year as the brigade was but newly organized. The committee feels that new ideas will be secured and that it is desirous to have the chief and chairman attend.

On motion of Aldermen Hicks and Morgan it was decided to give Deputy Chief Grange his wages for the time he was off duty between March 1st and 15th. He was incapacitated for fifteen days and asked Chief Howard regarding his pay but the chief considered the committee should decide the question.

Twelve Tenders Were Received For The Construction Of The New Water Works Dam

Twelve tenders for the construction of the new water works dam and five for the installing of the pumping station were opened by the Water Commissioners at their meeting this morning to consider the awarding of the contract. Work will start as soon as the contract is awarded which will probably be this evening, as the tenders are being worked out this afternoon. Nothing was done this morning except to open the tenders, but to-night the Commissioners expect to be in a position to award the contract.

Tenders were received for the construction of the dam from the following:

Bishop Construction Company.
E. Conroy.
J. E. Hayes.
Brown and Aylmer.
Clarke and Monde.
Bishop and Buchanan.
Jas. Bogue.
Morrow and Beatty.
John O'Toole.
R. Sheehy.
McCoy and Wilford.
W. H. McGillivray.

The tenders received for the pumping plant were as follows:

Canadian Fairbanks Company.
John McDougall Caledonia Iron Works Company.
John Inglis and Company.
J. F. V. Vandeleur.
Wm. Hamilton and Company.

Committee Reports On The Warden's Address To Pay Ministers For Services At House Of Refuge

The County Council resumed its session this morning when the report on the Warden's address was received and adopted.

The report was as follows:

Report of the Committee Appointed to Deal With the Warden's Address.

Your Committee beg to report as follows:

1. That we endorse the reference to the great loss sustained by the County in the death of Judge Weller, and coincide in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

2. In referring to the prospects of harvest returns, it is but another of the many on record in Ontario which we heartily join in recognizing.

3. We will be pleased to have County Roads established, thereby taking advantage of Government assistance.

4, 5, 6. We concur with the Warden in his references to the finances of the County and trust that his anticipations will all be realized.

7. That in the matter of providing for the suppression of the White Plague, your Committee will readily endorse any assistance towards the successful carrying into effect any endeavour.

8. We, with yourself, must congratulate the County upon the result of the several deputations to the Governments during 1909.

9. Your Committee will be pleased to consult and assist the Board of Management of House of Refuge at all times.

10. The honour conferred upon you by placing you Head of the Municipality for 1909, is an honour well deserved, and we beg to state that we appreciate the dignity with which you fulfill the obligations of the office, and also our efforts will be at your service for the balance of the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

(Signed) A. BREAULT,
Chairman.

A communication from Dr. Graham, surgeon at the House of Refuge, asking that a young woman there, be removed to an Insane Asylum was referred to the Board of Management of the House of Refuge and Mr. Brown, reeve of North Monaghan.

It was moved by Mr. Stewart, seconded by Mr. Fife, that $100 be divided equally among the five clergymen who provide services at the House of Refuge.

The council adjourned until half past one.

REPRIEVE FOR BLYTHE UNTIL SEPTEMBER

Stay of Proceedings Granted in the Case of the Toronto Wife Murderer---It is Hoped That the Sentence May be Reduced to Manslaughter

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Toronto, June 16. — A stay of proceedings has been granted in the Blythe case, and the wife murderer who twice within five weeks has stood within the very shadows of the gallows, is granted respite until September, when his case will come before the Court of Appeal, and an attempt made to have the charge reduced to manslaughter.

COUNTY COUNCIL MEETS IN THE REGULAR JUNE SESSION

It Was Opened Yesterday Afternoon In The Court House By An Address From Warden R. N. Scott—All The Councillors Are Here.

THE BUSINESS DONE

The June session of the County Council of Peterborough was opened yesterday afternoon in the Court House.

A special meeting was held first when the tenders for the $4,000 debentures were opened. Several were received, but they were sold to Messrs. Simpson & Co., of Toronto, for $4,0[illegible]. The meeting was then adjourned and the council went into regular session.

The session was opened by Warden R. N. Scott, Reeve of Smith, with the councillors present except Mr. Hales of Chandos, who did not arrive until the evening.

Warden Scott presented his address to the Council as follows. To the members of the County Council for 1909:

I am sure you will join me in recognizing the necessity to refer to the death of Judge Weller. The [illegible] which he was held, [illegible] different councils which represented the county, the officials and citizens of the county, is an evidence that I voice the sentiments of all in extending our felt sympathy to the bereaved family in the great loss they have sustained.

Again I would ask [illegible] predecessors) to join with me in recognizing the hand of Providence for the prosperous [illegible] ful harvest. I would [illegible] your attention to the [illegible] county roads in order [illegible] to note the benefit they [illegible] ing advantage of this [illegible] grant in that way, thereby [illegible] permanent roads, a thing [illegible] sired and absolutely necessary.

The finances of the county from a general standpoint appear [illegible] satisfactory and much credit [illegible] to the council from the [illegible] chairman of the Finance Committee has been able to prepare [illegible] setting forth the facts in [illegible] mendation that the old rate of 2 4-5 mills will cover current expenditures. All the particulars of the general expenditures, but [illegible] the House of Refuge and for roads are set out by him.

I will not deal with the question of bridges as no doubt the chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee will bring in his general report which will also be supplemented with reports from the different commissioners.

It is very gratifying to observe the co-operation of the chairman of the Finance Committee, and his colleagues in not increasing the current liability, although we are offering $4,000 for sale, yet debenture No. 607 being matured in 1908 the amount will not be increased.

There was a deficit of $1,020.53 at the end of 1908, but the greater part of that was due to permanent improvements at the House of Refuge not provided for in current levy or by debenture, yet I think your finance report will show reasons satisfactory to all.

My attention has been drawn to providing for the extinction of the white plague, and I respectfully ask you to look into the reports and correspondence that are in the hands of the Clerk.

The efforts of the County Council acting in conjunction with the county ratepayers has been rewarded by a response from the Dominion Government and the Provincial Government in the extending of a wharf at Lakefield, the moving of the swing bridge at Buckhorn from the locks to the channel, thereby averting an hour's delay in some cases, to the travelling public; the widening of the approaches to the new Buckhorn bridge and the establishment of an agricultural class in the high school at Norwood with a grant of $1,200 yearly from the Provincial Government.

In al matters concerning the House of Refuge the chairman of the Board will discuss with you.

In conclusion, allow me to again thank you for the confidence you have placed in me and to thank you for the assistance you have given me in my official capacity, and to assure you that the success of this council is altogether due to you. Wishing you and the county prosperity, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
R. N. SCOTT, Warden.

A committee was appointed to consider the Warden's address and to report back to the Council.

A number of communications were read and referred to their respective comittees and the Council then adjourned until this morning.

COUNTY COUNCIL WAITED ON BY DEPUTATION

Mr. R. H. Leary, President of the Peterborough Industrial Society, stated that they were present on an errand of mercy. During the past years they had received one hundred dollars for which they were very thankful, but that sum was not sufficient. The Society would like two hundred dollars. The buildings at the Exhibition grounds were badly in need of repair and in order to raise the standard of the fall show to that of other places of similar size in Ontario money must be had to keep things going. The directors had done a lot of hard work, giving much of their time in order to make it a success.

Mr. George Elliott also spoke, asking that the grant be increased to two hundred dollars. He hoped the Council would see their way clear to give the desired amount.

Upon motion the matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

MAYOR RUSH ATTENDS FUNERAL IN TORONTO

Representing the City This Afternoon at Funeral of Late Mr. A. L. Davis.

Mayor Rush was authorized to represent the city at the funeral of the late A. L. Davis in Toronto this afternoon. The Council last night considered that this respect should be shown his memory in view of the fact that the deceased had been Mayor of Peterborough for two years. The motion was made by Aldermen Buller and Gillespie.

EXCURSION FROM KEENE

Came to the City To-day on Steamer Rainbow.

An excursion from Keene arrived in the city this morning on the Steamer Rainbow. It was run under the auspices of the Keene Improvement Society and about seventy took in the event. They are spending the day around the city and will return again this evening.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mayor Rush and Ald. W. G. Morrow are attending Mr. A. L. Davis' funeral in Tornto to-day.

Mr. Lindsay S. Parrott of Chatham, is the guest of his brother, Sherman, of the Peterborough Bookstore.

Mrs. G. G. Pope and Master Allan left yesterday on a two months' visit to Tamworth, Belleville, and Picton.

Miss Beatrice Blewett, of Grace Hospital, Toronto, spent yesterday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Blewett, 618 Rubidge street.

Mr. Robert Neill and Dr. Morrison are representing Charlotte Street Methodist Church at the funeral of the late Mr. A. L. Davis in Toronto to-day.

Miss Belle Thompson, Secretary Treasurer of R. Fair & Co., has left to spend a two months' vacation with friends in Winnipeg and other places in the Northwest.

Mr. George and Roxie Edmondson, Weller street, left to-day for the Northwest; Miss Roxie to visit friends in Winnipeg, and Mr. George Edmondson has gone to reside in Edmonton.

Alderman Geo. A. Gillespie and Mr. Robt. Fair left to-day for Brockville to attend the Dominion Retail Merchants' Association Convention, which will be held in that city to-day and to-morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Howson and family left yesterday on the C.P.R. 4:38 train, for High River, Alta., where they will reside in future. A number of friends gathered at the station to see them off and wish them God speed.

Hon. J. R. Stratton and Mrs. Stratton left this afternoon for Orillia, to be present at the laying of the corner stone of the new Methodist Church in the Township of Rama. This church is in charge of Rev. Thomas Mason, at one time a well-known and greatly respected resident of Peterborough.

MR. DUFF WILL SPEAK AT INSTITUTE MEETING

At the annual meeting of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, to be held in the Council Chamber here on Saturday, Mr. H. C. Duff, the newly-appointed principal of the Agricultural Department of the Norwood High School, will be present and deliver an address.

MISPLACED SYMPATHY

Human life is a sacred thing. The convicted murderer clings to it, as his victim would have done if an opportunity of facing it had been presented. An effort is being made to secure commutation to imprisonment of the death sentence of Walter Blythe, the wife murderer. The hysterical sympathy of pseudo-philanthropist does not furnish an adequate reason. For the protection of the community the death sentence is imposed upon murderers, not as a punishment but as a deterrent and perhaps for the reason that Othello did to death Desdemona—that they may not kill more men and women. Canada is noted for the generally strict administration of justice. This has doubtless bred in the minds of the criminally inclined an idea, that, crime must pay the penalty, and the public have a respect for the law and the machinery of justice, a feeling of safety and an assurance that they will be protected, to the extent that human of the means available to this end are honestly applied. In the case of Blythe a misplaced sympathy demands the leniency implied by commutation of his sentence. This is not surprising, for unaccountable as it may appear, there rises in the minds of certain persons of the public mandlin sympathy with a murderer. No matter how atrocious has been his crime, a certain class of women with unbalanced emotions, make sickening demonstrations of sympathy, sending flowers to the condemned cell and generally showing a perverted interest, which would be an exaggeration if bestowed upon a noble-souled martyr under the most palpable and cruel injustice. We have certain persons raising heaven and earth to secure a mitigation of the death sentence passed upon Blythe for the murder of his wife. It is urged that Blythe suffers great mental agony and shrinks with abhorrence from the prospect of death, and that, therefore, the sentence should not be executed. This is humanity gone insane. These persons forget that the murdered wife would have felt the same, if her brutalized murderer had given her the chance. But she was savagely battered to death, after having been for years the victim of similar beatings, which, however, fell short of fatal issue. No doubt the wife's life was made a martyrdom by the periodical brutalities of the husband, who closed a long career of cruelty by beating the life out of his wife with fiendish atrocity. Yet the perpetrator, justly condemned after fair trial, is to be spared in defiance of the law, the course of justice and the protection of society. Mercy is a noble quality; but, is it not possible, under certain circumstances, to make it a weakness if not something worse?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

London retail grocers passed a resolution strongly condemning the action of the Ontario Government in awarding the contract for school books to the T. Eaton Co., on the grounds that they are not publishers, and also because they claim it was an "ad." for the firm. They have sent in individual protests to the Government and will shortly send in the official document to Parliament. Some persons are hard to please. What's the difference who gets the contract so long as the people of the province save half a million dollars on a hundred thousand dollars' purchase of school books?

THE GOSPEL OF THRIFT.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

One of the most practical gospel sermons in Hamilton for many a day, and it was not by a regularly ordained preacher either, was heard in Wesley Church last night.

"The preachers tell us every Sunday how to live so that when we lie down to die we have a safe passport into the glories of the world beyond, but Dr. Samson, the lecturer of last night, preached a gospel of thrift that will make men and women better citizens, and provide for the days when old age comes upon us and we are not able to earn even the necessaries of life. The pulpit and the press should unite their forces in teaching the doctrine of a thriftier citizenship, and for the time, at least, let the question of politics and the judgment to come have a rest. Once get men and women educated up to the standard of saving and economy, and the moral tone of society will become higher and purer. It is the extravagance and recklessness of our daily lives that is responsible for the low state of morals the world over. Educate the rising generation to be thrifty, industrious and economical, and the boys and young men will have no time to squander their weekly earnings in the bar-room or in studying the dope cards of the race track. There is more money wasted every day in Hamilton in the saloons, gambling rooms, betting on horses, and the smoking habit than would provide an annuity for every one of the victims if it were properly invested, payable after he reached the age of fifty-five years.

"With all its sins of wrong-doing the Laurier administration has done one act that will redound to its credit for all time in the future. While the British Government is providing for Old Age of its thriftless citizens and placing a perpetual tax on the industrious with which to pay pensions, the Canadian government comes in with a new gospel of self-help and presents a plan whereby every man and woman can provide an annuity for the days when they are not able to earn a living. The British plan educates pauperism by providing pensions for the improvident who live from hand to mouth 365 days in the year, spending their earnings without one thought of the morrow. The Canadian plan begins with the youth and educates the boys and girls to lay by even as small a sum as 25 cents weekly so that when they reach the age of 55 or 60 years they will have an assured income that will at least make them independent of the charity of the world. It begets a spirit of pride instead of dependency. And the larger the weekly sum saved the larger will be the annuity. The plan of the Government provides that no annuity less than $50 a year can be paid, and the highest sum that any one can receive is $600 a year. It depends upon the persons themselves how much to provide between the higher and the lower amounts. Once a person begins to save money by opening an account in a savings bank the habit becomes so fixed that every pay-day finds him or her at the bank making the weekly deposit. Once begin saving for an annuity at the time of life when we need a fixed income and everything will be made to bend to that purpose.

"The plan is simple and easily understood, and the name of Sir Richard Cartwright will be a blessing in every home where advantage is taken of the annuity. It is to explain it that Dr. Samson, of Windsor, has been commissioned by the Dominion Government to spend part of his time in the field to educate the people up to the new Gospel of thrift as a provision for old age. Evidently the churches are not yet converted to it, for Dr. Tovell, Pastor of Wesley Church, is one of the first ministers to open his pulpit to Dr. Samson, and the people who attended Wesley Church last night were profited and well reapid for the hour or more spent. Dr. Samson is an earnest speaker, and he tells his story so eloquently that the hearer cannot but be convinced that the Canadian Government has hit upon the right plan to educate the people that an independent annuity, earned by one's own thrift, is preferable to a pauperising pension roll.

Rev. Dr. Eby, of Toronto, says Darwinism fosters the military spirit. Possibly, but only when we "monkey" with it.

TAKE CARE OF THE APPLE CROP

Weekly (Farmers) Sun.

A heavy crop of fruit has formed on the apple orchards of Ontario this spring. In all other lines—pears, peaches, plums, and small fruits—indications point to a good yield. This promise of abundance comes, too, in a year which is not without its disturbing features. The commercial situation is uncertain. The continent has not yet fully recovered from the pinch which followed the small grain crop of 1907. A big grain yield this year is necessary to set things fairly going again, and with the season so backward as it is, a big crop of this kind is not assured. Because of the general agricultural situation there is, in manufacturing and commercial establishments, a disposition to slow down until the probable out-turn of the fields can be more accurately appraised. Under such circumstances the buying power of city consumers is hardly likely to reach its maximum next winter; it may be very much below its maximum. Fruit is a luxury—one of the first luxuries to be curtailed when buying power is limited. All this being so poor apples are likely to be a drug on the market next fall and winter. At the same time there will, as always, be a demand for really choice apples.

The moral of it all is that the man who takes care of his orchard this year is likely to obtain a profitable return for his labour, while the man who neglects his trees will have an unsalable commodity on his hands.

GENTLEMEN WHO ARE BALD.

Investigate and see for yourself the Art covering in Wigs and Toupees. Prof. Dorenwend Patent Toupes are now worn on over 90,000 heads by all classes in all stations of life.

In this particular structure the ventilation is perfect; as light as a feather; is securely adjusted to the head; can be combed just as your own hair; they make any man look ten years younger, besides the protection you get from Catarrh, Colds, Neuralgia, etc. Call and see them at Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, Friday, June 18th.

GOT HIS MEASURE.

The Witness Had No Further Fear of the Cross Examiner.

The great lawyer was just starting home after a hard day's work in court. A sedate-looking man approached him and said:

"I don't know whether you remember me or not. I am one of the witnesses whom you cross-examined yesterday."

"Ah!"

"There are one or two small matters I wanted to ask you about. You seem to be a person of superior intelligence. I'll walk along with you to your station so as not to waste any time. What I wanted to ask you was this: If I were to say to you that 'the three faces which include a triedal angle of a prism are equal in all their parts to the three faces which include a triedal angle of a second prism, each to each, and are like placed, the two prisms being in all their parts,' what would you understand by it?"

"Why, sir—really"—

"You don't mean to tell me you are stumped by a little one like that?"

"You see, the question is a little sudden, and in order to grasp its full significance"—

"Never mind. Here's an easier one, nearer the beginning of the book. If I were to suggest to you that a certain object is a polyhedron, in which two of the faces are polygons, equal in all their parts, and having their homologous sides parallel, what would be the impression conveyed to your mind?"

"To be candid, I never looked into the subject very deeply."

"You don't mean to own up that you wouldn't know it was a plain, everyday prism?"

"I hadn't thought of it in that light."

"That's all. My boy, who has just left school, could have answered those questions without stopping to think. I feel better. You were putting on a lot of airs yesterday, but you ain't any cyclopedia. I don't believe you are even a handy compendium of useful knowledge. After this display of lamentable ignorance on your part I want to make just one suggestion. If you should ever get me into court again don't you swing at me with any more of your big words and try to act haughty. I've got your measure, and I'm liable to be just as supercilious as you are."
—Pearson's Weekly.

Beri-Beri and Hari-Kari.

The busy man, who only has time to read the headlines of a newspaper, hustled up to a bunch of his friends the other day with the remark: "Remarkable case that. Very seldom you ever hear of a Chinaman committing suicide." "I should say it is," said one of the friends. "Did a Chinaman commit suicide?" "Yes, indeed; fellow committed beri-beri down at Point Breeze. He was a sailor." "Indeed? I was always under the impression that beri-beri was a disease, and not a method of self-destruction." "Not on your life," said the busy man; "beri-beri is one of the most horrible forms of suicide known." At this juncture another in the group remarked: "Don't get beri-beri confused with hari-kari. Hari-kari is a way to commit suicide, but beri-beri is a tropical disease." "Now, there's just where you're wrong," said the wise one. "Hari-kari is the Japanese word for suicide, but beri-beri is the Chinese name." It was several hours before they finally convinced him of his mistake.

Both Wanted Bites.

A sportsman went out fishing on a highland loch, his companion being the estate keeper, Sandy McKay. The gentleman proved rather unsuccessful with his rod, and after persevering for a couple of hours he said:

"I think we may as well go home now, Sandy. The trout won't bite to-day."

When they went ashore the sportsman offered the keeper some sherry, which that functionary declined.

"I've got no whisky," said the gentleman. "What is your objection to a drop of sherry?"

"Weel," replied Sandy, "if ye maun ken, it's the same objection as ye hae tae the troot the day—it winna bite."

Eating Oysters.

Surely the queerest way of cooking an oyster is that mentioned in the year 1672, when Richardson, the fire eater, took a live coal on his tongue; on this he put a raw oyster in its shell, while an attendant blew upon the coal with bellows until it flamed and sparkled in his mouth. This continued until the oyster opened and was perfectly cooked.

The European Magazine for 1806 contains an account of a young lady at Brighton who undertook to eat for supper the amazing quantity of 300 oysters, with a certain amount of bread and butter. This feat she performed, greatly to the astonishment of all present.

Diamond Cut Diamond.

A Quaker was negotiating with an insurance agent as to effecting a policy on a vessel overdue. At this juncture he heard of the vessel's loss and and wrote at once to the agent of the company:

"Friend, if thee hasn't filled up the policy thee needn't, for I've heard of the ship."

"Eh," said the officers, "canning fellow. He wants to do us out of the premium." So they wrote to the Quaker:

"Thou art too late by half an hour. Thy policy is filled up."

Why Barrie Does Not Smile.

The melancholy expression on Mr. J. M. Barrie's face at times is said to owe its origin to the following incident. "When I was a boy," he is reported to have said, "I got a prize at school, which had very disastrous results. It was awarded by the girls of the school in plebiscite to the boy who had the sweetest smile, and I won it! That evening my smile disappeared, and has never been seen since."

A Heroine.

Ella—Bella never passes a mirror without looking in it. Stella—Brave girl!—Harper's Weekly.

The Quippy Ink Thief.

"Women prisoners is quippy," said the jailer. "One had a quip toward writin', and she was always swipin' ink out of the schoolroom.

"She swiped ink in her thimble. She'd fill the thimble up to the brim and then stand it carefully in her hair. Mighty good balancin' was required on the way back to her cell. Still, what if she did spill a drop or two on her scalp? A female convict ain't on view like a society woman, is she?

"Of course as soon as we got on to the thimble game we put a stop to it. That didn't put a stop to the ink stealin', though. I says to her one day on the way back from the schoolroom:

"'Well, Russell, no more poetry writin' with ink what don't belong to ye, hey?'

"She just smiled and mumbled somethin'.

"'Speak up,' says I. 'Do ye miss yer ink—yes or no?'

"'Bub-ub-uh,' says she, tryin' to brush past me. But I grabbed her arm. I noticed a thin black thread of sump'n trickin' from her lips. Yes, sir! Would ye believe it? She was stealin' the people's ink now in her mouth!"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Poor Billiards.

"One summer in the country," said a well known amateur billiardist, "another man and I were overtaken by a storm and had to go into a tavern for shelter. The rain fell steadily. We had three or four long hours before us. Time began to hang heavily on our hands.

"'Landlord,' said I, 'do you happen to have a billiard table?'

"'Sure,' said the landlord. 'Sure. Just step this way, gents.'

"He proudly threw open the door of a dark, stuffy room. We saw an antiquated table with a patched cloth, and in the corner was a rack of crooked cues.

"'Any balls?' said I.

"'Sure,' said the landlord, and he unlocked a closet and laid on the table three white balls, all alike—there was no spot, you know.

"'But, see here,' I remonstrated, 'how do you tell these balls apart?'

"'Oh, that's all right,' said he. 'You soon get to know 'em by their shape.'"
—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Partners in Crime.

The hard looking customer had been arrested for stealing an umbrella.

"What have you to say for yourself?" asked the police justice. "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I'm one o' the guilty ones, y'r honor, I reckon," answered the prisoner. "The umbrella had the name of J. Thompson on the handle, G. H. Brickley stamped on the inside o' the cover, an' I stole it from a man named Quimby."

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterboro a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and that the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin working, simply this, more families will of necessity, move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase, in either case property is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. People who are contemplating purchasing a house will do well to see J. T. O'Connell's list and get terms. We have a choice selection of properties at moderate prices and easy terms. If you have not time to call during the day, come any evening and we will show you any property on our list. We're always at your service.

Another Triumph in Canada

"A Relief to Breathe Freely Once More."

MR. G. W. MARTIN, Hartford, Ont., choir leader at St. Paul's Episcopal church, writes:

"Peruna is a wonderful remedy for catarrhal troubles.

"I have been troubled with catarrh for a great many years, and always trying something for it, but was able only to secure temporary relief until I used Peruna.

"Only five bottles rid my system of all traces of catarrh, and I have not noticed the slightest trouble for several months.

"My head was stopped up, my breath offensive, and it is a relief to be able to breathe freely once more."

DYING IN PRISON.

Ray Lamphere's End Is Imminent, Says His Sister.

Laporte, Ind., June 16.—In response to a letter from her brother, Ray Lamphere, Mrs. James Finley on Monday hurried to the Michigan City Prison, to see the prisoner, notorious through his association with Mrs. Guinness, the arch-murderess, for the burning of whose home Lamphere was sent to the penitentiary. Lamphere in his letter stated that he recently had suffered four hemorrhages and believed death was imminent. This belief was confirmed in the mind of Mrs. Finley by the refusal of the prison authorities to allow her to visit her brother in the hospital ward.

Despite her pleadings, the deputy warden was obdurate, replying: "Lamphere is extremely low and cannot see anyone."

It is understood that an effort to secure his immediate parole will be made, but his demise is expected before this step can be taken.

Detective Sent to Jail.

Albany, N.Y., June 16.—August Kuhne, acting police captain of the detective bureau in the Borough of Brooklyn on Nov. 23, 1909, must go to jail for thirty days and pay a fine of $250 for contempt of court. He disregarded an order of habeas corpus in arresting Frank Jenkins, banker, charged with forgery, and insisting on photographing him and taking his pedigree.

Bar Ammunition to Law.

Bordeaux, June 16.—Cardinal Andrieu, who has been summoned to court, charged with having incited a breach of the laws by the allocution he pronounced at the cathedral on the occasion of his enthronement, has sent a letter to the judge in which he formally refuses to appear in court to answer any charge in connection with the Separation Law. The cardinal writes, "that law became non-existent for Catholics the minute their supreme chief, the incorruptible guardian of the morals of individuals and nations, condemned it as inimical to the property, authority and liberty of the Church.

Tried to Kill Mayor.

Bellfontaine, Ohio, June 16.—What is believed to have been an attempt to assassinate Mayor William A. Niven and burn his residence in this city was made early yesterday, when a bottle filled with kerosene, which had been set ablaze, was thrown through a window of his house.

Mayor Niven issued warrants in the blackhand cases last week. Bloodhounds have been secured to follow the trail of the man seen running from the scene at the time of the explosion.

Montreal to Buy Waterworks.

Montreal, June 16.—The city will lose no time in complying with a recent enactment of the Legislature empowering it to expropriate the Montreal Water & Power Co. in its entirety. At a meeting of the special committee it was decided to notify the company of the city's intention to proceed with the expropriation. The cost of the expropriation will be about $5,000,000. Of this amount $1,500,000 goes to the shareholders of the company.

Suicide Follows Spree.

Cobalt, June 16.—Laughlin Cameron, aged 36 years, committed suicide at New Liskeard about 1.30 yesterday morning by jumping from a second-storey window in his boarding-house and then running and jumping into the Wabi river, about 100 yards away. He had been drinking for some time. He had worked on the T. and N. O. construction through the country for the past four years. His home was in Cumberland, near Ottawa.

Killed In Auto Upset.

Binghamton, N.Y., June 16.—Chas. J. Britnell, a prominent contractor of the city, was instantly killed when his automobile turned turtle last evening. Three other occupants of the car escaped with slight injuries.

Died as She Feared.

Bracebridge, June 16.—Mrs. Robert Howard, aged 78, dropped dead in her garden working. She had one of the best gardens in Bracebridge and had a premonition that she would die in the garden.

New Station for Cobourg.

Cobourg, June 16.—It is stated that some $50,000 has been voted by the G.T.R. for improvements here, to include a new station, freight sheds and additional accommodation in the yards.

For Robbing the Mails.

Montreal, June 16.—Charged with robbing the mails, Louis R. Campeau, son of Michel Campeau, caretaker of Mile-End postoffice, is under arrest.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The attempt to list U. S. Steel on the Paris Bourse has failed.

The Y.M.C.A. has raised $179,635 in Montreal in its building fund campaign.

Sir A. Conan Doyle's morality play "The Fires of Fate," was presented in London last night.

Cambridge's last senior wrangler is P. J. Daniel of Trinity College. The examination passes out this year.

The five-year-old daughter of Mr. Cook of Niagara Falls was fatally burned by her clothing catching fire.

Rev. Dr. M. R. Fishburn, a Congregational minister, said to have been a native of Toronto, is dead in Washington.

W. J. Thorne, a Socialist member, caused great excitement in the British House of Commons by denouncing the Czar as an inhuman brute.

A band of gipsies camped near Belleville complained to the police that one of the young girls had absconded after stealing $560 from her parents.

Widow Gets $1,000.

Ottawa, June 16.—The widow of Angus MacCuaig of Ottawa wins her case against the Independent Order of Foresters and gets $1,000 and the right to take action for a second $1,000 for insurance on her husband's life. MacCuaig was a member in good standing with $2,000 insurance, when he became insane. Then his dues became unpaid and he was suspended. Application was made for disability benefits and they were refused on the grounds that such application could only be considered when the member was in good standing.

Judge Clute yesterday held that since these benefits were due MacCuaig, when he became insane, he should then have received $1,000 without paying any further dues and it did not matter whether the benefits were claimed at once or later.

McGill Will Be Examined Again.

Toronto, June 16.—Charles McGill, the president of the Ontario Bank, who is serving a sentence in Kingston Penitentiary, will be brought to Toronto as a witness in connection with the settling up of the defunct bank's affairs. Mr. Justice Latchford, in chambers at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning made an order for McGill's production as a witness on the return of appointments before Referee George Kappele on June 23. The order was asked for by Mr. Robt. McKay and was unopposed. McGill is objecting to being placed on the list of contributors to the Ontario Bank for 1,713 shares and being made a contributor for $171,300.

Slept on Edge of Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 16.—The dead body of John W. O'Neil, aged 35, was found below the river bank at the American end of the upper steel arch bridge early yesterday morning in a mutilated condition, the result of the fall of more than 125 feet down the precipice. The appearance of the bank above indicates that O'Neil slept there Monday night. The soft earth bears the imprints of his feet and it is thought the man, confused from sleep, fell over the bank. The back was broken, all of the ribs on one side fractured, and both legs and one arm were broken.

Book Horse Was Second.

London, June 16.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Three Canadians qualified in the hunters' class at the Horse Show yesterday. Hon. Adam Beck's entry was second in the class for horses carrying up to fifteen stone, with Leonard, of London, in reserve.

The only event yesterday morning was for the Toronto Cup, given for the best qualified hunters that had competed at the show, but there were not many of these, for the owners of genuine hunters fight shy of jumping their horses over the somewhat artificial jumps to be found at shows.

Railway Board Life-Savers.

Ottawa, June 16.—An order has been issued by the Railway Commission approving the specifications prepared by its electrical expert for the crossing of railways with power transmission, telegraph and telephone wires. The commission has also sent out to the railways suggestions for the resuscitation of those apparently dead from electric shocks.

Cannot Save Baggage.

Liverpool, June 16.—The captain of the Cunard Line steamer Slavonia, which was wrecked last week on Flores Island, in the Azores, telegraphs that it is impossible to save the vessel, and that she will be a total loss, together with all the baggage of the saloon passengers that was in the hold.

Confesses Murder, But—

Winnipeg, June 16.—Charles S. Hornfeck, a laborer and Barnardo boy, employed near Oak Bluff, Manitoba, has confessed to having murdered Mrs. Louis James at her home here, on April 22 last. He is thought to be demented and is not believed.

New Sheriff of Brant.

Brantford, June 16.—F. Douglas Reville, editor of The Brantford Courier, and for some years a prominent Conservative worker, will be appointed sheriff of Brant County, in succession to the late Sheriff Watt, who died last week.

Quebec Forest Fires.

Quebec, June 16.—Forest fires are still raging, especially in the Bonaventure district. The losses are estimated at $100,000.

Given Poison by Mistake.

Toronto, June 16.—Accident was responsible for a terrible tragedy at Humber Bay on Monday afternoon, when Freda Margaret, the six months old daughter of James Whitehead was poisoned by her aunt.

In administering medicine to the child who had been ailing for some time, the aunt inadvertently gave her deadly poison from a bottle closely resembling that which contained the drug which was to have helped the little one to health.

The mother and father are overcome with grief. Coroner Forbes Godfrey investigated the case and decided that an inquest was necessary.

Bank Manager Arrested.

Quebec, June 16.—Wm. P. Lindsay was yesterday morning placed under arrest upon a warrant issued at the instance of the crown, charging him with false pretenses. The charge arises out of the recent trial of Geo. Atkinson in connection with the alleged forgery of Geo. W. Davis' name for $1,000. Mr. Lindsay was manager of the Levis branch of the Bank of British North America, when the alleged forgery was committed.

Not Disobeying Orders.

Ottawa, June 16.—The attitude of the Militia Department with regard to the Eastern Ontario corps which are going into camp is that there has been no refusal to obey orders. In several cases corps which have made representations and have supported them by reasons which show that it would be difficult or inconvenient to go to camp have been permitted to drop their annual training.

Delegates at Oxford.

London, June 16.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Press Conference delegates visited Oxford yesterday. Lord Curzon, chancellor, received them. After an inspection of the more famous college, luncheon was served, whereat Lord Curzon reminded them of the part the ancient university had played in empire building.

New Feature For the Fair.

London, June 16.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Mail editorially hopes that manufacturers will respond without delay to Earl Grey's invitation in connection with the exhibition at Toronto, and anticipates an excellent exhibit, justifying the setting apart of a whole building for British manufacturers in 1910.

Butchers Enter Protest.

Ottawa, June 16.—Protest was made by a deputation of Montreal butchers to the Premier and Minister of Agriculture yesterday against the meat inspection methods of Government officials at Montreal. They want compensation for animals confiscated and the right to appeal to other inspectors.

To Be Sharp.

The Aryan root "ak" meant "to be sharp," and the idea of sharpness has followed it at least through 10,000 years into all of the family of languages of that tongue. It is quite likely that the property of sharpness was conceived of by these ancestors from handling shells, the first knives that man knew. That cutting edge was referred to by "ak" long before the most primitive people had learned to put an edge on flint. When these Aryans wanted to express the idea of sharpness of mind they used the same word. This root went into the Greek, where it became "akros," meaning pointed. In Sanskrit it is "acra," meaning the same thing. In the Latin we find "acrimonia," signifying sharpness, from which our "acrid" comes. The Latin also has "acer," meaning sharp, and "acus," a needle. In the Anglo-Saxon it became "ecg," an edge. So the idea of sharpness runs all the way through, and we have it in our "acid," "acute," "edge" and "ax" as well as in "acrid" and "acumen."—Argonaut.

The Alexandrian Library.

Omar, a fanatical caliph who overran Egypt about the middle of the seventh century, proclaimed that, since the Koran contained everything that human beings ought to read, no other books had any right to exist, so he condemned to destruction the immense library at Alexandria founded by the Ptolemies and constantly enlarged by their successors until the advent of the Saracens. How enormous it was can be imagined from the fact that for six months the manuscripts supplied the fuel of 4,000 public baths. It was the most terrible blow ever inflicted upon literature.

Genius Rewarded.

A schoolmaster not famous for his personal beauty swooped down on the inattentive boy and found him drawing caricatures. He picked up one and asked the boy in a voice of thunder, "Is this meant for me?"

"Please, sir," said the victim, in a state of terror—"please, sir, I did not mean to make it so like."

The master destroyed the picture and let the matter drop.—London Globe.

Thought It Was a Proposal.

Scene—Cab stand near London. Lady distributing tracts, hands one to cabby, who glances at it, hands it back and says politely, "Thank you, lady, but I'm a married man." Lady nervously looks at the title and, reading "Abide with me," hurriedly departs, to the great amusement of cabby.—London Spare Moments.

But He Did.

"What do you mean by kissing my daughter, sir?"

"I'm sorry, but I couldn't help myself."

"Couldn't help yourself! That's just what you did do!"

Heard in the Barber Shop.

"Our charges are the lowest in town," observed the barber.

"Cut rates, eh?" said the customer as he looked at his lacerated chin in the glass.—Judge.

Undecided.

"If he has proposed, why don't you give him an answer?"

"I can't make up my mind whether I would like him when I get him home."—Brooklyn Life.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headaches. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHES.

Mrs. Allison E. Brown, Summerfield, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches for a long time. After trying different doctors to no effect, a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after taking three bottles I can safely recommend it to all."

The Bidding.

Mr. Gillespie opened the bidding at 11 cents. This was raised to 11 1-16 by W. H. Cook; to 11⅛ by J. Riddell; to 11⅜ by W. S. Cook; to 11 7-16 by Gillespie; 11½ by W. S. Cook; 11⅝ by Morton; 11 11-16, Gillespie; 11¾, W. S. Cook.

At this price Mr. Cook selected the following:

Killarney, Norwood, King Edward, Myrtle, Indian River.

Mr. Weir offered 11¾ cents for further selections and was unchallenged. He took Keene, Shearer, Lang Cedardale, Stony Lake.

Mr. Gillespie bid 11¾ for further selections and called the following: Central Smith, Benafort, Westwood, Villiers, East Emily, Trewern, Maple Leaf, Ormonde, Selwyn, Warminster.

Mr. W. S. Cook again offered 11¾ for further selections. He took Oakdale, Warsaw, Crown, Daisy D., Shamrock. Mr. Gillespie bid 11 1-16 for further selections. Mr. Kerr offered 11 11-16 for the balance of the board. Mr. Gillespie bid 11 3-4 for selections, and Mr. Kerr 11¾ for the balance of the Board. Lakefield, Pine Grove and several others refused. He would not take Young's Point because Lakefield did not accept his offer. Mr. Gillespie added Young's Point to his selection at 11¾c. Mr. Kerr received Fleetwood, Cavanville, and Fraserville.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

Russian Sailors May Yet Be Alive In Sub-Marine

Special to The Examiner.

Sebastopol, Russia, June 14.—Twenty men, Capt. Bielikoff, Midshipman Tuchkoff, a warrant officer and seventeen of her crew, may be alive yet in the submarine torpedo boat Kambola, which lies twenty-eight fathoms deep in the Black Sea, a few miles from the entrance to this harbour.

During naval manoeuvres the Kambola, while running half submerged, collided with the battleship Rostislav and sank instantly. Lieut. Aquilonoff and three sailors, who were on the submarine's deck, were rescued by the Rostislav's crew.

All depends, of course, on whether the collision smashed the Kambola's plates. If they are intact the twenty men imprisoned may be breathing the air she carries compressed.

Desperate efforts are being made by the officers and men of the Black Sea fleet, aided by divers and salvage workmen from Sebastopol, to raise the submarine before the imprisoned men succumb.

Admiral Bostrem, commander of the naval forces in the Black Sea, has taken personal charge of the pontoons, one of which is equipped with a powerful hoisting crane, assembled at the scene of the catastrophe.

In the manoeuvre a battleship squadron sought to elude a flotilla of five submarines, commanded by Capt. Bielikoff, and enter this habor. Just before midnight the Kambala discovered the battleships stealing in without lights. The submarine (whose name is "Flounder" in English) passed three hundred feet to port of the leading battleship, the Panteleimon, and theoretically put her out of action with a torpedo. Then suddenly the Kambula swerved into the line of battleships and the Rostislav, second in the line, struck the submarine squarely with her ram. The Kambala sank immediately in twenty-eight fathoms of water.

Girl Endeavours To Prove She Is Daughter Of Woman Who Calls Her A Foundling

Special to The Examiner.

St. Louis, June 16.—Louise Edna McCabe, nineteen years old, will strive to prove in court next fall that she is the daughter of the woman who now declares her to have been a foundling, named for a child who died in infancy.

Miss McCabe, who lives at No. 3741 Lucky street, has filed suit against Mrs. Maria Johanna McCabe Perou, of No. 3725 Dodier street, known to her from infancy as her mother. The suit is ostensibly a proceeding to set aside the will of John T. McCabe, whom, so long as believed the girl regarded as her father.

Her claim to a part of the estate is not Miss McCabe's only concern, or her chief one. She longs most of all to learn who she really is if she is not the daughter of John T. and Maria Johanna McCabe. For this information, should her search come to that point, she will have only the meagre records of a foundling asylum.

Until John T. McCabe's death Miss McCabe had no doubt of her parentage. She had been reared in a comfortable home and treated as a loved child by her supposed father and mother. McCabe died in 1898, and during the litigation over the estate, in which Miss McCabe was arrayed against her mother, Mrs. McCabe declared Miss McCabe to be a foundling.

John T. McCabe was married to Miss Maria Johanna Greifsu in February, 1883.

FIRST WILL FILED.

Soon after his death the widow filed a will for probate, which left $1 to each of the children and the balance of the estate to Mrs. McCabe as long as she remained a widow. If she remarried the estate was to go to the children.

Judge Leo Rassieur, then Judge of the Probate Court, admitted the will. Later Mrs. McCabe found a second will which she attempted to persuade Judge Rassieur to admit to probate. A suit was brought in the Circuit Court to set aside the first will and it was tried before Judge Fisher in February, 1898. Mrs. McCabe won this suit. The second will gave the entire estate to Mrs. McCabe with no provision restricting her remarriage.

This suit was resisted by Miss Louise Edna McCabe, supposedly the only living child of John T. McCabe, and it was at this trial that the widow declared Miss McCabe to be not her daughter, bt a foundling.

Mrs. McCabe testified that John T. McCabe died childless. She said that they had a daughter who was christened Louise Edna, but who died a week after birth. John Henry McCabe, she said, died at the age of seven, and four other children died at birth.

Afterward, she said, they took an infant from St. Ann's Asylum, and this infant, she said, was the present Louise Edna McCabe.

The probating of the second will gave Mrs. McCabe the entire estate, $2,700 in cash and valuable real estate. She then married Henry Perou.

Since the will trial Mrs. McCabe-Perou has made an affidavit that her husband died childless, and taht he was never married except to her.

GIRL WILL TRY TO PROVE PARENTAGE.

Miss McCabe at the trial next October, will introduce mortuary and birth records in an effort to prove her parentage.

Sister San Francis, of St. Ann's, at the will trial in 1898 testified that Mrs. McCabe went to her Jan 1, 1890, and asked for a baby for adoption. There was none available then, she said, but a baby girl was received later in the month was christened Jan. 23, and was taken by Mrs. McCabe Jan. 26.

When Mrs. McCabe-Perou made her statements concerning the identity of Miss Louise Edna McCabe, the girl was stunned and hurt. Never before had she any intimation that John T. McCabe was not her father and his wife her mother. They had given her everything money could buy, she says, and had treated her as their own child. They apparently loved her, she says, and she loved them.

August Waltz, attorney for Miss McCabe, refused to discuss the case other than to show the petition and affidavits. Miss McCabe is a stenographer, and lives at No. 3741 Lucky street, with the family of Gus Greifsu, brother of Mrs. McCabe-Perou.

ONE ON THE DOCTORS.

Madame J. Rioux, St. Moire, Que. says:—"Fruit-a-tives cured me of severe Liver Disease. Neither doctors nor any other remedy did me any good, but Fruit-a-tives promptly cured."

"Fruit-a-tives" always cure Liver Trouble, Biliousness and Constipation because they act directly on the liver. They stimulate the secretion of Bile, which decreases the quantity of blood in the liver and thus relieves the Congestion or Biliousness. With plenty of Bile to move the Bowels, there is an end to the Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a disordered liver.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—prepared by a newly discovered process, and combined with valuable tonics and antiseptics. They are, without doubt, the most popular remedy in Canada to-day.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. If you can't get "Fruit-a-tives" in your neighborhood, these wonderful tablets will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price by addressing Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WEDDING BELLS

SISSON—GILLESPIE.

An exceedingly pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Gillespie, 110 Lock Street, when his second daughter, Mabel Jean, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles E. Sisson, of Peterborough, and son of the late Thos. Sisson, of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed in the beautifully decorated drawing room beneath an arch of white flowers, and smilax, by Rev. O. C. Elliott, of Stratford, and a former pastor of Park St. Baptist Church. He was assisted by Rev. W. T. Riddiford. There were about sixty guests present.

The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Annie Sisson, cousin of the groom. She looked very pretty in a Princess dress of champagne San Toy, with trimmings of real Battenberg lace. She carried white roses. The bride and groom were unattended. During the signing of the register, Mr. Horace C. Wright of Toronto, sang "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy."

After the ceremony and congratulations had been bestowed upon the young couple, luncheon was served. The beautiful array of wedding gifts was a fitting testimony to the popularity of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisson left on the 4.38 train for Honey Harbour in Georgian Bay, where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will reside at 545 Gilmour street. Mrs. Sisson travelled in a suit of navy blue with hat to match.

TREACY—McGRATH

One of the most fashionable weddings of this month was that which took place at St. Peter's Cathedral at nine o'clock this morning, when Miss Katherine Marion McGrath, eldest daughter of Mr. Thos. McGrath, 382 Aylmer street, was united in marriage to Mr. L. B. Treacy, of Hamilton, and formerly of Brantford. The nuptial mass was said by Rev. Father McColl, in the presence of a large number of guests.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the organist, Miss Doherty. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a rich gown of white marquisette over chiffon taffeta with trimmings of bebe Irish lace and gold cloth. She wore a white Paris hat with plumes and ospreys. She carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Margaret McGrath looked very pretty in pale pink French voile over chiffon taffeta with trimmings of French valenciennes lace, silk passementrie and a pink sash. She wore a pink chiffon picture hat and carried pink roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Clement Cunningham, of Lindsay.

Appropriate solos were sang by Miss Lily Simons and Lavina Hallihan.

After the ceremony the party drove to the residence of the bride's father, where a reception was held, the bride receiving with her mother, who wore a silver grey silk voile over taffeta, with trimmings of lavender and bebe Irish lace. She wore a mauve hat with ospreys. The house was tastefully decorated, the colour scheme being pink and white. A dainty luncheon was served and happy felicitations bestowed upon the young couple. A large number of beautiful and costly presents were received testifying to the popularity of the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Treacy left on the 4:38 afternoon train for New York via Buffalo, Mrs. Treacy travelling in a tailored suit of navy blue voile with French satin trimmings. She wore a burnt straw hat trimmed with locusts and hunter's green. Mr. and Mrs. Treacy, at the conclusion of their honeymoon will reside in Hamilton.

Among the guests from out of town were Misses Irene Cunningham and Mary Curtin of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Harry O'Brien of Ottawa, and the Misses Treacy of Brantford.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of any face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Orienta Hotel, Peterborough, Friday, June 18.

THE FEATURES OF THE NEW LINEN SUITS

There are almost as many new features in the New Summer Suits as there are suits shown, but there are some that predominate and are shown in nearly all the Coats. One is the deep slashed skirt at both sides of the back, then the flat or stole effect collar is a strong feature, also the button trims. The lace collar cuffs and lace buttons are shown as an entirely new idea, but the very strong feature is the jet buttons—it's a jet button season and they are to be worn everywhere on everything by everybody. The buttons are mostly very large and the button holes are cut in on the slant which enhances the effect very materially. See our beautiful stock on the second floor.

Some Gossip Of The New York Stock Market

(By Reginald Burton.)

New York, June 12 (Special).—The process of elimination which began during the early part of the week, continued until the close of business on Friday. Transactions on the Exchange since the first day of June have averaged over one million shares daily. Most of the trading was concentrated to a few issues, such as Southern Pacific, United States Steel, Union Pacific and Reading, which, in activity, ranked in the order named. On the other hand there were some of the specialties quite active like Great Northern, Erie and Brunswick Dock; the latter reached a new high level. Some say this is due to the probability of the receiver for the Atlantic, Birmingham and Atlantic being discharged; while others contend that there is so much shipping from Brunswick to Europe and South America by the cotton growers of the south, that it is destined to be one of the largest shipping centers. A rumour which probably had much to do with the decline in the latter part of the week was to the effect that a controversy had arisen as to what section on the Paris Bourse, the certificates representing United States Steel should be traded in. Some of the French banking interests contended that the trading should be confined to the Parquet or the coulisse of the Bourse. The coulisse in Paris is similar to our curb markets in New York and Boston.

It is reported that the Harriman lines have been large buyers of steel rails, taking 110,000, while the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is now in the market for 135,000 tons. Prior to this improvement in the rail business it has been expected that the gross tonnage booked in June and each of the midsummer months would fall below the May business, for seasonal dullness can be expected in June, July and August in normal years. A continuation of the increased demand for rails may bring about a revision of this prediction and as far as the current month is concerned the demand for rails has already been sufficient to indicate that the month's total will be larger than that of May. One of the heaviest operators in steel shares sailed for Europe Wednesday, having closed out a big line of steel common, held by himself and associates.

In the cotton market there seems to be continued liquidations of the outside long and short interests in old crop options; however, it is not believed, that the outside holders of contracts will be permitted to reap the benefit by the advance. What influence the support of the southern contingent had on the market has been withdrawn. It is practically admitted on the floor of the Exchange that the long interest in July of not less than 50,000 bales has been sold to local spot interests for the same amount of October, the Southerners paying a premium of ten points in the trade. This deal has undoubtedly strengthened the local cotton situation. Favorable reports are being received concerning trade conditions abroad; the weather is favorable over a greater part of the south, and crop advices are somewhat better; and the bears are very cautious about taking heavy risks on the short side.

WILL BE DRY CAMP

No Soft Drinks at Barriefield, Say the Authorities.

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Kingston, June 16.—Considerable stir was created in local circles by the refusal of Col. Gordon, Commandant at Barriefield Camp to allow Mr. Thompson of Lithia Water firm to open a soft drinks booth. An appeal of Hon. Wm. Harty to the Department was unavailing.

For ten days longer the sale of Plants Flower Pots, Jardinieres, &c., will continue at 446½ George Street and at Greenhouses on Water Street. Bargains are the order of the day.

POST CARD COLUMN.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I presume that you have often heard the different merchants complain of people going or sending to Toronto and buying the different things they require, instead of buying from the merchants in Peterborough, but can you wonder at people from Peterborough going or sending to Toronto or other places for their supplies, when some of those very same merchants give any orders they may have to men that are outsiders, and just travelling through and do not pay taxes or help to support our city in any way.

There are just as good mechanics in the City of Peterborough, as can be found in any part of our vast Dominion, and it is a slur on our mechanics in Peterborough when outsiders are engaged to do work that can be done equally as well, and probably better, and just as cheap, by our own mechanics in Peterborough.

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
MECHANIC.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

SIMILARITY TO HANS WAGNER NOT LOBERT'S CLAIM TO FAME

HANS LOBERT.

The similarity between Hans Wagner and Hans Lobert, the Cincinnati third baseman, is not alone in their given names. They are alike in appearance, the Redleg being a small edition of the great Pirate shortstop.

Both men hail from the same neck of the woods, but Lobert did not break into the National league because he looks like and hails from the same town as Wagner. He is drawing money because he is a sure enough ball player. His feats last season made him one of the most talked-of men in the game, and several efforts were made to get him away from the town on the Ohio.

This spring Lobert has failed to strike his gait with the stick, but he has been playing a marvelous defensive game and will undoubtedly begin clouting the ball hard and often in a short time.

SATURDAY'S SENIOR LEAGUE GAMES SHOULD BE THE BEST OF THE SEASON

Saturday's games in the Senior City League at Riverside Park should prove about the most interesting of the season inasmuch as they will have an important effect upon the League standing and that all four teams will place in the field the strongest line-up that has represented them so far this season.

With the T. A. S. clashing with the Strathconas in the first game it should be a contest well worth seeing. Although the Strathconas were defeated in the first two League games, yet they were always contenders, and would have won both handily had they not blown up at a critical moment. They say now, however, that they are through wit hballoon ascensions, and if they play the same steady ball that won for them the Intermediate championship last year the Right Commissioners will yet prove a strong factor in the senior race. This week they are practising industriously and promise to give the All-stainers a hard argument for the honours on Saturday. The T. A. S. are called to win the League with Quinlan pitching, and there is no doubt that they will take a lot of beating, but the Strathconas will do their best to accomplish the feat in the first game on Saturday.

Park Street A. C. will have several changes in their line-up on Saturday for their game against the West Ends, and hope to repeat their feat of Saturday last and win another victory. Their adversaries will be the hard-working youngsters who wear the grey uniforms of the West Ends and it promises to be a merry battle that will make an interesting contest for the fans. Kirn is pitching grand ball for the West Enders and the Baptists will have to have their batting togs on to hammer out a victory against the vigorous young West End twirler.

ST. ANDREW'S WON CHURCH LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

St. Andrew's won the championship of the Junior Church League last evening by defeating the All Saints' team in an interesting seven-innings' game by 10 runs to 1. Despite the one-sided score some good ball was played and the game was enjoyed by the spectators. Wade, for St. Andrew's, starred with the stick, getting two two-baggers while Chambers did some good batting for All Saints. Mr. W. O'Brien umpired the game satisfactorily. The teams were as follows:

St. Andrew's—McConnell, c.; Cresswellp. Fortye, 1b.; Rankin, 2b.; Morgan, s.s.; Gibson, 3b.; Wade, l.f.; McWilliams, c.f.; Laing, r.f.

All Saints—Wood, c.; B. Taylor, p.; LeBar, 1b.; Price, 2b.; Moore, 3b.; Hogan, s.s.; Towey, r.f.; Rightmyer, c.f.; Chambers, l.f.

The score by innings was as follows:

St. Andrew's.. .. .. ..3 0 1 1 3 0 2—10

Schedule For The Tournament Among City Tennis Players

The schedule of the singles in the City Tennis League has been drawn up and received from the secretary. The games should be of great interest and all those playing should cut out this schedule. Round 6—Finals.

48.—Winner of group 46 vs. winner of group 47.

Rules.

1—Matches shall be played on such court as shall be mutually agreeable to contestants.

2.—Three sets shall constitute a match and the winner of two sets wins the match.

3.—Upon the completion of a match the winner shall immediately notify the Secretary of the Association, Mr. H. B. Collier, of the results.

Note.—Rule 3 is most important. It is necessary that the winners of each round be promptly published in order that succeeding rounds may be properly carried out.

NATIONAL SPORTING CLUB WAS RIGHT IN DUBBING LANGFORD CHAMPION OF THE WORLD

Much boisterous merriment has been indulged in because the National Sporting Club, at the close of the bout between Langford and Hague, declared the negro to be the heavyweight champion of the world, says the New York Press. But the subject is not so deliciously humorous as it might be. The National Sporting Club of London is the only organization in the world of substance and quality that conducts boxing bouts. It is the only club in the world with sufficient gumption to revise the absurd and unjust rules that governed boxing half a century ago, and put modern and national rules in force. By the way, the brutal London rules, with the inadequate Queensberry addition, are still in force in America.

The National Sporting Club of London is the only club in the world where 90 per cent. of those who attend the bouts are business and professional men, or men of means, who can afford to support boxing. In substance, the National Sporting Club is the one organization in the world that really sustains the game of boxing and keeps it on a solid footing in Europe. Boxing is merely one of the features of the club, which has in its membership some of the wealthiest and most prominent men in England the commercial phase of the sport, so unpleasantly conspicuous in this country, is absent.

From all points of view, therefore, the National Sporting Club must be regarded not only as a pioneer in international boxing, but the bulwark of the sport. Therefore, it ill becomes the hangers on of boxing in America to indulge in any smirks because the club has seen fit to announce that Langford is rightfully the heavyweight champion of the world.

The action of the club is a logical one. There is in force in the club a rule which says that a champion must defend his title every six months or forfeit to a bona-fide challenger. Johnson, as champion, was under signed agreement to meet Langford before that Club on May 24th. Johnson fluked out of that match, and Hague, having won the British heavyweight title from Moir, was put in place of Johnson. Langford won from Hague, and the club, having on its rules and regulations a proviso that champions must defend their titles every six months or forfeit to a bona-fide challenger, declared Johnson out of the running.

It follows as a matter of course that the British Club cannot make any ruling that would effect Johnson's title as champion of America, for that was captured from Tommy Burns, the previous holder. But it will be remembered that Burns clinched his hold on the world's heavyweight title by beating Gunner Moir in the ring of the National Sporting Club of London, and that Johnson got the honour from Burns on Australian soil which is under English domination.

Who shall say, therefore, that the National Sporting Club has not the right to declare Langford the heavyweight champion of England and of the world?

Johnson certainly indicated an unwillingness to mix with the Boston negro, and his eleventh-hour cancellation of sailing orders shows that he did not desire even to get in the vicinity of Langford.

The Bostonian has a much better claim to the championship than Johnson, for Langford is willing to fight all comers and Johnson is not. It has been erroneously asserted that Langford had barred Jeffries, but such is not the case. Langford will meet Jeffries, provided the former champion returns to the ring, but the negro is not challenging the boilermaker at a time when he does not appear to be willing to re-engage in the game.

It is also a fact that Kaufman, Ketchel, O'Brien and all the other chaps who have been flirting with the heavyweight title have studiously avoided Langford.

That Johnson and Langford eventually will come together goes without saying. The public will force Johnson to get into the ring with Langford and settle the question of supremacy. Johnson doubtless will take the measure of Kaufman and Ketchel and then Langford will be the only one left for Johnson to tackle.

Meantime, it will be Samual Langford, heavyweight champion of England and of the world, and Jack Johnson, heavyweight champion of America.

WAS THIS BRITISH BOAT FIRED UPON?

Report From Copenhagen States That English Steamer Was Shelled by the Russian—May Lead to International Complications—Vessel Was Not Struck and Fled Out of Range.

Special Despatch to The Examiner.

Copenhagen, June 17.—A British steamer approached near the Russian warship guarding Bjorkoe, Finland, for the meeting of the Czar and Kaiser to-day, was shelled by the Russians according to a report received to-day. The incident may result in international complications. The affair has produced great excitement. Six shots were fired by the Czar's warship, but not one struck the mark. The British steamer fled beyond range and the warship did not pursue. The warship has been patrolling the Finnish coast of Bjorkoe, keeping strict watch for suspicious looking vessels.

Hungarians Caught in Burning Rookery Fight in Mad Panic for Their Lives—Only the Bravery and Discipline of the Police Prevented a Great Catastrophe.

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 17.—More than 100 Hungarians, men, women and children, living in an old five storey river front tenement, fought in mad panic for their lives to-day, when a gasoline explosion on the second floor set the rookery on fire. Fifteen men and women were overcome by smoke before they could grope their way through the dark hallways. Only the bravery and absolute discipline of the firemen and police prevented a holocaust. Ten persons were slightly burned, but no one was fatally injured. The building was destroyed.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN JAMES MURDER MYSTERY

Chas. F. Hornfeck, a Farm Labourer of Oak Bluff, Manitoba, is Held in Winnipeg Jail, Being Accused of Killing Woman—The Nature of Evidence is Not Disclosed.

Examiner Special.

Winnipeg, June 15.— (Special.) — Charles F. Hornfeck, of Oak Bluff, is under arrest, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise Pearl James on the afternoon of April 22 last, at her home on Dominion street, Winnipeg. The prisoner was brought to the city last evening by the provincial police and is being held at the jail pending his examination, which will be opened this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock before magistrate. It is understood that the crown has a strong case against him. The suspect is a farm labourer.

This arrest follows a long term of uphill work by the city and provincial police, who have been following innumerable blind trails. A month ago it was first learned that Hornfeck might know more of the murder than he was given credit for and he was questioned, but his answers were such that no charge was laid against him. Others who knew him, including the farmer whom he worked for, were of the opinion that he knew nothing of the affair, further than what he had read in the daily papers, and it was stated that he had not been off the farm at Oak Bluff since October last, and therefore would not have been at the James house the day of the murder.

Secures Additional Evidence

Since that time it is understood that additional evidence has been secured which justified the crown in having Hornfeck placed under arrest.

The authorities are most reticent about the arrest and last night would not give any explanation for their course of action. Whether it is that Hornfeck knew Mrs. James before her marriage or whether he is supposed to have committed the murder without premeditation was not given out.

Hornfeck was in the city several weeks ago and at that time it was stated by the police that he is not normal mentally. He is a man about five feet seven inches in height and when he was in the city recently wore a dark suit of clothes, was clean shaven, with light hair and blue eyes. His face is not a strong one and had the appearance of a man who might give way to a fit of rage. Two residents of the Oak Bluff district were with him at the time, one of them being Mr. Wastle, the man for whom he worked.

So far as can be learned there was no attempt at that time to bring Hornfeck in touch with any of the parties who claimed to have seen a man coming from the James house on the afternoon of the murder. Whether any of them have since seen him and connected him with the party who was seen near the home is not disclosed.

May Be Hallucination.

If it is claimed that Hornfeck committed the murder, the first objective of the police will be to bring forward a motive or explanation of his act. In the past there have been many instances in criminal annals where a person suffering under an hallucination has claimed to have been guilty of some murder which had excited the public mind, but on examination of the story it has been proven almost invariably that the man who made the confession could not have been in the vicinity at the time; the confession or statements must have corresponded with the details of the crime, but the man making the confession has not been able to complete the details or others have proved an unquestioned allibi for him.

It is understood that several of those who gave evidence at the James inquest will be called for the examination this afternoon and that their stories will be matched up with the evidence now held against Hornfeck.

James Had Heard Nothing.

Lewis James when asked if he had been informed of an arrest being made in connection with the murder of his wife, said he had heard nothing about it.

The circumstances were related and James was naturally very much interested, but said he did not know Hornfeck and had never heard him spoken of as far as he could remember, either by his wife or any other person.

James stated, moreover, that he had received no notification from the police that he would be needed to give evidence this afternoon, but explained that he left the home of E. C. Davis, where he is staying, at seven in the evening, and did not return until after one this morning, having spent the evening with some friends.

Clues as to Suspect.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis were also out for the greater part of the evening, and it was quite possible that an officer had been to the house but had been unable to learn James' whereabouts.

Mr. Davis, who was present at the interview, said he and other friends of James had followed up a number of clues which they thought might lead to the solution of the mystery of Mrs. James' murder, and had recently placed information in the hands of the crown prosecutor, W. H. Whitla, as to their reasons for suspecting a man employed on a farm in Manitoba, but Hornfeck was not the man who was the subject of that investigation. James was informed by one of the city detectives whom he met recently on the street that officers had been working in the country, but he supposed that this was in connection with the clue referred to by Davis.

THE ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Does the City Council appreciate the grave responsibility it has incurred and is continuing to incur by its past and present neglect in respect of the construction of an isolation hospital for which the site is ready, whose erection has been endorsed and whose need is exigent? We have had scarlet fever with us the whole winter and spring and we have it now in some places. The permanence of the disease is directly due to the neglect of the city authorities to provide isolation, which is a means of preventing the spread of contagious disease, and effective in proportion to its completeness. The most effective means of isolation is a hospital devoted to that purpose. Of course such an institution costs money; but if the expenditure of the public money is ever justifiable is it not supremely so in the matter of the preservation of the public health and possibly the life of a portion of the public? While the city seems to save money, individual citizens are put to great expense and inconvenience The lack of an isolation hospital recently cost one citizen more than $100 for a mild case of scarlet fever. His only child was attacked. His wife was in delicate health and could not give the necessary attention. A nurse had to be employed at a cost of $22 per week, and the husband himself was quarantined and his business was necessarily neglected involving additional loss. Fortunately he was able to meet the expense and suffer the loss. But there are others less fortunate in this regard. There is the case of a family in East City, where one members of the family is attacked with scarlet fever. The husband works in the country and is not permitted to come home. The home is quarantined and the wage earners of the family have either to remain idle at home or consume most of their earnings in boarding houses. The mother has to look after the household and nurse the sick child. She has become worn out with her hard work and an appeal has been made to the Board of Health to provide a nurse, which would mean perhaps more work for the mother and a heavy expense. The Board of Health has no money for the purpose. The King's Daughters, appealed to, are also without funds. The City Council has made a grant of three dollars a week, thus forcing charity upon a self-reliant and self-respecting woman, who would not have needed it, if the city had done its duty and provided an Isolation Hospital. The heavy expense the city is now being subjected to would have doubtless been avoided if an Isolation Hospital had been in existence. With that provided and with the Board of Health provided with the means of doing its duty—for which it is dependent upon the City Council—an outbreak would doubtless have been nipped in the bud and confined to one case or at the worst to one family, and we should not have the expense, worry, unsettlement, domestic and business disorganization that is bound to result from neglecting the precautions, represented by the provision of such means of isolation and safe treatment as an isolation hospital and all that it stands for would permit. It is impracticable to be more specific, but anyone who takes the trouble to think can reason out the matter for himself. Some philanthropist should employ himself or herself in making type-written copies of the story of the little hero of Holland, plugging a hole in dyke all night with his finger to save the country from disaster, and send a copy to each of the City Fathers, who have neglected the hole in the dyke. From time to time the Examiner has urged the necessity of an Isolation Hospital, pointing out the possibility of an outbreak of contagious disease, from lack of an hospital, inflicting serious injury upon the citizens and the general interests of the city. The time to deal with contagious disease is in the beginning. A policy of drift is disastrous in any line of civic responsibility, but especially reprehensible when the health and safety of the community are concerned.

ASCENDENCY OF CEMENT

In this age cement has conquered construction work and may be regarded as king. It, of course, has its limitations, but its plasticity in form; its convenience; its easy working; its capability of management by comparatively unskilled, and, consequently, comparatively cheap, labour; its strength; its hardness; its durability; its cheapness; its wide range of adoptability to construction purposes—all thise things make cement popular. A dozen forms of use and usefulness for cement are now in existence, compared with one a dozen years ago. Canada, a few years ago, practically imported all its Portland cement, but the growth of the industry has been almost phenomenal. Even as recently as five years ago our importations of Portland cement from England and Germany exceeded the home production, but last year the imports were only 17.6 per cent. of the home output and the foreign cement was only 14.9 per cent. of the total consumption. Last year Canada manufactured 3,495,981 barrels of cement as compared with an output of 2,491,513 barrels in 1907, an increase of 1,104,448 barrels, or 40.3 per cent. in one short year. In 1907 there were seventeen Canadian cement plants operating and twenty-three last year. The number of hands employed in 1907 was 1,786 and in 1908, the number had increased to 3,029. Various materials are employed as a base. There is one factory in Nova Scotia using furnace slag; one in Manitoba making a natural Portland cement; three in Quebec using limestone, and fifteen in Ontario of which twelve are marl and three limestone plants. The cement-making industry should be as permanent as the structures resulting from its employment. Every year the variety and extent of its use is widening, and permanent structures analogous to and of the strength, solidity and durability of limestone, which owing to the cost of cut stone were prohibitory a few years ago, are made possible and becoming common, with the use of the cheaper material.

A MISLEADING TITLE.

The Montgomery (Alabama) Advertiser unwittingly, it is hoped, does Canada a grave injustice by heading an article referring to the low rate of wages in East Indian cotton factories, thus—"Cheap Labour in Canada." Neither the heading, nor the text of the article refers to Canada, in fact or inference. In this country wages are, in general, as high as in the United States, and in some cases, higher; and owing to conditions the average earner in Canada perhaps lives a more comfortable and enjoyable life than his corresponding fellow in the United States. In Peterborough, a city of 17,000 and many industries, the majority of employees in the older established industries own their own homes and, besides, can draw a respectably sized cheque on a savings bank; and there are scores of ordinary, that is, unskilled, labourers who own their own homes, and live in comfort. This also applies to Canadian cities generally; and it may be added that in no country in the world, does there exist, more generally destributed wealth, more general comfortable conditions of citizenship than in Canada? We have no Hindu labour problem. Contract labour of that kind is absolutely excluded.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Wm. Pugsley having waited for months for the Hazen Government to take action upon the report of the Central Railway Commission, has now, the Ottawa Free Press says, set the law in force in his own behalf. There are always two sides to a case. Mr. Pugsley's side will now go on the judicial records of New Brunswick.

AMERICANIZING CANADA

(London Advertiser.)

J. Hall Richardson, writing to the Fortnightly Review (London, Eng.), discusses the stringency of the Canadian immigration laws, which he considers have the effect of reducing the number of British emigrants, while they do not interfere to the same extent with people coming from the United States. Of course, he tacitly admits that the restrictions are really against "undesirables," and that, consequently, more of this class are to be found among British emigrants than among those from the United States.

The point he is trying to emphasize however, is that Canada prefers immigrants from the United States to those from Britain; that consequently instead of Canada remaining a British country the time will soon come when the majority of our people will be of foreign birth and descent, and that the Dominion will actually become Americanized.

It is not a fact that Canadians prefer immigrants from the United States and dislike those from England. We want good men from wherever they come; there is not much doubt that we would prefer to have the good men come from the mother country. But if British magistrates and philanthropic societies try to unload their feeble and criminal classes on us, we certainly do not want them, and much prefer suitable men from other European countries, as well as from the United States.

We want the men with the will and the ability to work; the men whose energy, industry and sobriety will make them successful settlers. We have some of that class from Britain; send us more, and they will be heartily welcome. Any dissatisfaction felt in Canada with regard to a British immigrant is not because he is British, but because he is no good.

It is true, however, that we welcome the immigrants from the United States, but that is not simply because they come from that country, but because they are, as a class, good men. They are not the undesirables from large cities; they are hardy sons of the soil from the Western States, who know how to work, and who are willing to work. Most of them are men with some means, as is evidenced by the fact that during the past year they brought with them $52,000,000 in cash and settlers' goods. We want this class; we welcome them heartily—would welcome them still more heartily if they came from our motherland.

The fear that this increasing immigration from the United States will Americanize Canada we believe to be unfounded. In the first place a large proportion of this immigration is really Canadian. Some years ago there was an exodus from Canada to the United States. Large numbers of our people settled in the Northwestern States. They went there because the opportunities for advancement seemed greater. While they doubtless succeeded in bettering themselves for the time, yet, with the development of our own Northwest, their hopes and wishes turn their feet homeward, and they are flocking back to the shelter of the old flag.

Apart from that, however, immigrants to a new country soon become assimilated, if they are any good. The successful man becomes content with his surroundings; it is the unsuccessful immigrant who is dissatisfied and wants to change things.

Good men coming into Canada will be successful, and, therefore, content—no matter from whence they come. Even if they come from the United States they will be satisfied. They will find government, laws, social and moral conditions are as good as they left; we believe even better. Instead of Americanizing Canada it will not be long before they are thoroughly Canadianized, and may indeed become more intensely British than some native Canadians.

We have no fear of any evil influence that good immigrants may have on our morals, our religion, or our loyalty. At all events we are quite willing to run the risk.

UNFAIR TO OUR MEN

(Montreal Herald.)

It is to be hoped the authorities at Bisley will withdraw from their decision to bar the latest type of Ross rifle from the competition. The understanding at Ottawa unquestionably is that this latest and best product of the Canadian enterprise is officially approved, and when they have been assured of that the Bisley authorities ought to change their attitude. If they do not, the men who have been training with this rifle because they like it and get good results from it will find themselves at an unfair disadvantage.

Following the South African war, when the necessity of quick movement was made so manifest, military opinion in England leaned strongly to the short barrel, light weight rifle. The earlier makes of Canadian rifle were constructed in accord with this idea, but the men who shoot have not been able to get as good results with the short barrel as with the long one. A long barrel was substituted, with the result that a large proportion of those who are to go on the Canadian team are delighted with it, use it in practice, and expect to use it in competition. It is probably true that among the militia experts there is some controversy on the question, but Sir Frederick Borden, with native good sense, sides with the men who get results and against those who rely altogether on theory, and has formally accepted the new rifle as one of the recognized Canadian patterns. That being so, it would be an outrage on our men to deprive them of their chance of winning, when everybody must feel that barring their favourite rifle has been in some way influenced by rival makers in England, whose animus has been many times revealed over here. The Bisley authorities can afford to let a good rifle be used by the men who want to use it; they cannot afford to let Canadian marksmen believe they have been unfairly treated.

CANADIAN INVESTMENTS AND OTHERS.

(London Advertiser.)

It cannot but be gratifying to Canadians to find great British concerns, like the Standard Life Assurance Company, of Edinburgh, with millions already invested in this country, sending a representative over here to invest millions more. The investments of that Company in Western Canada, it is estimated, amount to $17,000,000, and so satisfied are the directors that they are both safe and profitable, that the general manager of the company, Mr. L. W. Dickson, is now in the west for the purpose of increasing the amount invested. In marked contrast with this is the course followed by Canadian capitalists, like Mr. William Mackenzie, who have been in the habit of going to London to borrow money for Canadian enterprises, while at the same time investing in electric and street railway enterprises in Mexico and South America. Commenting on this the Winnipeg Free Press says:

"It must appear to Britishers like Mr. Dickson somewhat strange that leading Canadians should be using their capital to enterprises in Mexico and South America, when there are so many opportunities for using it to advantage in Canada. It may be that the Canadians who are playing so important a part in the development of Mexico, Cuba, Brazil and Venezuela find it possible to borrow money in London upon the indrsement of bonds by the provincial government of Canada, whereas the indorsement of the governments of other countries in which they operate does not make securities so easy to negotiate. They thus exploit Canada with British money, but reserve the higher rate of earnings obtained in foreign enterprise for their own money. In doing this individuals can claim that they have a perfect right to invest their money where it yields to them the best results. But the same reason cannot be accepted from institutions that control the savings of the people and are granted privileges under he laws of the Dominion. Upon the men who direct the trend of investment of British money, the fact of Canadian domestic capital being invested abroad to so large an extent must leave the impression that eminent Canadians know of a better place to put their money than their own country."

While it is to be regretted that so much Canadian money is being devoted to the development of foreign countries, it is encouraging to know that British institutions like that represented by Mr. Dickson, profiting from experience, are sending over more of their surplus capital for investment in Canada.

BASKET SOCIAL WAS A SUCCESS

Enjoyable Affair Under the Auspices of Methodist Church, Apsley.

Examiner Special.

Apsley, June 15.—A basket social, under the auspices of the Methodist Church, was held in the Temperance Hall on Friday evening, June 11th, and was a decided success. The baskets were very beautifully made and decorated, showing much artistic work o nthe part of the fair sex ,and were well filled with all sorts of delicacies. Baskets were made in all shapes—square, diamond, oblong, rectangular, heart and octagon. They were auctioned off and all went at a fairly good price. Mr. George Bullied, in an able manner acted as auctioneer. The baskets being disposed of and the inner man satisfied, all assembled for the musical and literary part of the programme. Rev. Mr. McQuade, Presbyterian Minister, occupied the chair in the absence of Rev. Mr. Garbutt. Recitations were well rendered by Misses E. McIlmoyle, B. Hales, E. Bullied, Mrs. Caddy and Dick Bullied. Mrs. Caddy and Mrs. D. Lean also Ella Brown and Josie MIlvena sang duets, and Mrs. Caddy a solo, which were well worth being present to hear. A comic dialogue was acted out by Misses A. and K. Bullied, in which they represented themselves as two old women gossiping about the local happenings. The entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. G. Bennett, of North Monaghan, Road Commissioner, was in the village one day last week.

Miss Stella Hales of Burleigh Falls, was home on a visit for a few days.

Mrs. Harry Kent and childrene, of Montreal, are guests at Mr. Thomas Eastlands.

PETERBORO'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS

There was never in the history of Peterboro a time when prospects were brighter than they are now. The city officials state that there has been double the number of building permits issued already this year more than the best previous year and that the prospects are that this percentage will go up even higher.

Think what it will mean when the new factories begin working, simply this, more families will of necessity, move to the city, employment will be given to others in the city that need it and thus create a demand for homes either to rent or purchase, in either case property is bound to advance more or less in every portion of the city. ¶ People who are contemplating purchasing a house will do well to see J. T. O'Connell's list and get terms. We have a choice selection of properties at moderate prices and easy terms. If you have not time to call during the day, come any evening and we will show you any property on our list. We're always at your service.

SENATOR THIBADEAU DEAD.

Best Known of French-Canadian Liberal Workers Passes Away.

Montreal, June 17.—The death of Hon. J. Rosaire Thibadeau, high sheriff and Senator of the Dominion, removes a man who was better known to the English-speaking commercial, political and financial community than any living French-Canadian.

It was Senator Thibadeau who kept the Liberal party alive in this city for a quarter of a century, and thus prepared it for the prosperity that came later on. When the late H. Beaugrand was fighting the Nationalists, who were clinging to Mercier, it was Thibadeau and his straightforward Liberalism who was always the man behind the gun.

Then, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was defeated in Drummond and Arthabaska, and was said to be intending to retire from public life, it was Rosaire Thibadeau who suggested that his relative, the then member for Quebec East, should resign and that Laurier should run in his place.

Then, when Tarte, Charles Thibault and a swarm of Conservative leaders, flushed with their success in Drummond and Arthabaska, made a dead set on the young politician, it was again the tireless Thibadeau who organized assistance from Montreal which certainly saved the constituency, and very likely secured the services of Wilfrid Laurier to the Liberal party and to Canadian public life.

Although rich at one time, Senator Thibadeau died a poor man. Of late years he gave a great deal of his time to the interests of the Notre Dame Hospital. He will be buried on Friday morning.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Synod of Huron has adopted the new hymn book.

The northern coast provinces of Honduras are reported to be in open revolt.

Ten thousand skilled steel workers threaten to go on strike in Pittsburg at the end of this month.

A customs official is searching locomotives at St. Thomas, as there are complaints of articles being smuggled in the engine cabs.

The two paintings stolen from Laval University, Quebec, were returned by a priest. The thief became frightened and gave them up.

The report of the Conciliation Board in not satisfactory to the freight handlers at Owen Sound, and only about ninety of them returned to work yesterday.

President Taft sent a message to Congress yesterday, recommending a two per cent. tax on the income of corporations, and the adoption of an amendment to the constitution providing for the imposition of an income tax.

Capt. Vian of the Montreal fire brigade told the commission that he had received bribe money for the promotion of men on the brigade. In one case he got $200, and as he had a lot of hard work in it he kept the money.

New I. C. R. Department.

Ottawa, June 17.—M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways, and a member of the Intercolonial Railway Commission, announces the formation of a new branch to the traffic department, to be known as that of "business opportunities."

This branch of the service is to be under the direct control of Mr. Tiffin and will be operated for the purpose of increasing the sources of better class of freight. The several cities and towns touched by the road will be asked through the Boards of Trade and Municipal Councils to furnish the Department with a statement of the resources of each. These will be edited at Ottawa and circulated among the various interests.

Mr. Butler believes that extension of the road is to be worked out in bettering the class of freight carried and so adding enormously to the returns to the company.

No More Cheap Bread.

Kingston, R.I., June 17.—"We have seen the last of cheap bread in this country," said Eugene Davenport, dean of the University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill., at the graduating exercises of Rhode Island State College yesterday.

Dean Davenport estimated that in another hundred years the population of the United States would be 1,400,000,000, or more than 400 to the square mile of territory, and said:

"Any way you can figure it, we are near the end of cheap food in this country, which means that population is beginning to overtake the food supply.

"The time is coming when the landless family will be at a tremendous disadvantage, because each new individual must shift for himself."

Liner Teutonic Aground.

New York, June 17.—The White Star Line steamer Teutonic, which left her pier yesterday for European ports, ran aground in the Ambrose Channel, opposite Sandy Hook. Her position is an easy one, and she is likely to be floated at the next high tide.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firm—Hogs Active and Steady at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, June 16.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 13½c to 14½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10½c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 16.—(Special.)—A private cable received from Glasgow to-day reported the market for Canadian cattle much stronger than it has been of late and noted a sharp advance in prices, with sales at 13½c to 14½c per lb. At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market this morning the offerings consisted of 600 cattle, 650 sheep and lambs, 400 hogs, and 1,100 calves. A weaker feeling prevailed in the market for grass cattle and prices for such were lower on account of the poor condition they were in, but the market for stall-fed stock was just as firm as ever, as supplies were limited. The attendance of buyers was fairly large and the demand was fair for good heavies, but the trade in the common and inferior classes was slow. A few choice stall-fed steers sold at 6¼c to 6½c; good, at 5¾c to 6c, while the top figure paid for the best grassers was 5½c, and the bulk of the sales were made at 4¾c to 5¼c. Good fat cows brought 5¼c to 5½c, and the common grades, 3½c to 4c, and good bulls sold at 4½c to 5c per lb. Of the 600 cattle offered there were fully 200 milch cows, for which the demand was rather limited. A weaker feeling developed. Prices ruled $30 to $60 per head lower than a week ago. The top price realised was $70 and sales were made from that down to $35 each. Owing to increased supplies of sheep the market was weaker and prices were ½c to ¾c per pound lower than on Monday, and even at this reduction the demand was limited and sales slow at 5½c to 6c per lb. The trade in lambs was fairly active, and as the quality of the stock was better than it has been of late, prices ruled higher with sales at from $3 to $5 each, and in some cases as high as $7. The supply of calves was very large for the season of the year, but as some of them were in first-class condition, as high as $12 was paid for choice ones and the commoner ones sold from that down to $1.50 each. The market for hogs was steady under a fair demand and sales of selected lots were made at $6.90 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, N.Y., June 16.—Cattle—Steady; prime steers, $6.75 to $7.35.

Veals—Receipts, 200 head; active and 25c higher; $5 to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 2600 head; steady; best grades, fairly active; others slow; heavy, $6.15 to $6.25; mixed, $6.10 to $6.20; Yorkers, $6.25 to $6.30; dairies, $6.10 to $6.20.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 200 head; active and steady; lambs, $4.50 to $6; yearlings, $7 to $7.50; wethers, $5.75 to $6; ewes, $4.50 to $4.75; sheep, mixed, $2 to $5.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Beeves—Receipts 1265, lower; good to choice steers, $6.20 to $7.15; bulls, $3.50 to $4.75; cows, $2.25 to $4.80; oxen, $4.00 to $5.15; dressed beef, slow, at 8c to 10½c. Exports, 720 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 3600; irregular; veals, 50 to $8.37½; choice selected, do., $8.50; grassers, $3.25 to $3.75; buttermilks, $4 to $4.50; dressed calves, steady; city dressed veals, 8½c to 12½c; country dressed, 9c to 11c; dressed buttermilks, 7c to 9½c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5622; steady at $5.25 to $5; culls, $3; lambs, steady to strong; poor to prime, $7 to $8.75; one car choice, $9; culls, $4.50; all sold.

Hogs—Receipts, 6091; firm, at $7.65 to $8.10.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 13,000; market steady to strong; beeves, $5.30 to $7.35; Texas steers, $4.65 to $6.25; western steers, $4.75 to $6.30; stockers and feeders, $3.60 to $5.60; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $6.50; calves, $5.75 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 23,000; market mostly 5c higher; light, $7.20 to $7.85; mixed, $7.40 to $8.05; heavy, $7.50 to $8.10; roughs, $7.50 to $7.70; good to choice heavy, $7.70 to $8.10; pigs, $6.30 to $7.15; bulk of sales, $7.65 to $7.95.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at 12,000; market steady; native, $3.75 to $6; western, $3.75 to $6.60; yearlings, $5 to $7.15; wethers, $5 to $6.25; western, $5.15 to $6.15; spring lambs, $5.75 to $8.60.

New Paper for Hamilton.

Hamilton, June 17.—Hamilton is to have a new daily paper, an official Conservative organ, that will support the Government's Hydro-Electric project and be strongly anti-temperance in its views.

This is the outcome of the attitude pursued by The Spectator in bitterly opposing the Government's power scheme and uniting Conservatives who fought the Cataract Power Co., of which William Southam, president of The Spectator, is a director.

A meeting of "moneyed" Conservatives interested was held here a few days ago. It was the intention to divulge no information until everything was ready, but the news leaked out.

Passenger Train Derailed.

Elmira, N.Y., June 17.—Erie passenger train No. 9, westbound, was wrecked near Waverley early yesterday. Every car on the train except one left the rails while the train was running at high speed. Many passengers were shaken badly and cut by flying glass.

The cause of the derailment is supposed to have been the breaking of a brake beam, which fell from its place and tore up over a thousand feet of track before the train left the rails. The coaches toppled over on their sides, less than 25 feet from the Chemung River, now swollen by rains.

Favors Union.

Winnipeg, June 17.—The annual charge of Archbishop of Rupert's Land to the Diocesan Synod at its opening was admirable in effect and significance, because it made strong appeal in favor of ultimate union of Christian bodies, because it included reference to the liquor traffic stating that the Church of England could no longer be charged with having no policy on the matter, and because it drew attention to the university commission in selecting the university site, his grace asking the synod to pass a resolution of censure on the dilatory methods of the commission. Speaking of the location of the metropolitan see, his grace also said that he favored the maintenance of the see by Rupert's Land, but the diocese should give up some of the privileges in the matter of electing the bishop.

Australia Will Assist.

London, June 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A Melbourne cable says: Col. Foxton, delegate to the defence conference, sailed yesterday. He is authorized to discuss alternatives to the Dreadnought scheme including a provision for a great naval base for the imperial navy at some Australian port and the assumption by the Australian navy of full responsibility for policing the Pacific Ocean. Col. Foxton will assure the Admiralty that the desire of the Commonwealth is to accept British guidance in the construction and management of the proposed subsidiary navy, and to undertake that the whole of Australia's warlike machinery will be so organised as to be instantly available for imperial emergency.

Killed Under Horses' Feet.

Windsor, June 17.—John E. Pickering, a teamster, was killed yesterday morning at the Kerr engine works, Walkerville, when he was trampled to death by his team, which took fright at the blowing of the factory whistle.

Archdeacon Cooper Dead.

Fort William, June 17.—The remains of Ven. Archdeacon Cooper of Brydan, who died Tuesday, as he was about to board the steamship Alberta, from heart failure, were sent to Toronto yesterday, where he has two sons.

PIMPLES, BLACKHEADS, ECZEMA, SALT RHEUM

These disfiguring skin diseases are caused by impure blood, which becomes disordered through Imperfect Digestion, Torpid Liver, or Inactive Kidneys. The pores of the skin close up, poisonous accumulations which should be eliminated are retained, and weaken and putrify the blood. Ferrozone has a specific action on blood impurities and drives them quickly from the system. It stimulates the Kidneys and Liver to healthy action, neutralizes Uric acid, keeps the pores of the skin open, and destroys germs. Ferrozone is a specific for every form of skin disease, and is used with astonishing success the world over. It acts directly on the blood, freeing it of the foul matter that breaks out in such painful and distressing blemishes. There are no unpleasant after-effects from Ferrozone, which does not depress the heart, and is free from Mercury, Potash, and harmful drugs. By using Ferrozone you have the BEST treatment for Skin Diseases and Blood Disorders. No doctor can prescribe anything better, probably nothing so good. Price 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Sold everywhere by druggists.

"For five years my face was disfigured by raw, bleeding eruptions, that resisted all treatment. Three Kingston doctors did their best for me, but failed. I used Ferrozone and was perfectly cured." Mary Shanly, Pittsburg, Ont.

FERROZONE CURES

THE LISTS WILL CLOSE AT 4 P.M. ON TUESDAY, THE 22nd DAY OF JUNE, 1909

The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, Limited.

APPLICATIONS will be received by THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY OF HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, up to June 22nd, 1909, for

5 p. c. First Mortgage Bonds of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, Limited, at Par.

Payable as follows: 10 p. c. on application; balance with accrued interest on July 15th, 1909.

THE Bonds offered are part of an issue of $5,000,000 secured by a First Mortgage upon all the ore, coal, timber and other lands, buildings, mines, minerals, collieries, smelting furnaces, steel mills, coke ovens, rolling mills, forges, coal and other railways, plant, machinery, patents, railways, wharves, rolling stock, powers, rights, revenues, privileges, exemptions and franchises (present and future acquired) of the Company in Canada and Newfoundland.

The Bonds are 50-year Gold Bonds with a Cumulative Sinking Fund of ½ p. c., commencing on January 1st, 1911, and are redeemable at any time by the Company before maturity at 105. The interest coupons will be payable half-yearly at par at Montreal, Toronto, Halifax and Boston.

The mortgage securing the Bonds covers among other things the Iron Ore and Coal deposits of the Company, which alone are estimated to represent in value many times the amount of the issue of Bonds.

The earnings of the Company for the past three years have been as follows:

1906,	$930,281.03
1907,	944,790.66
1908,	734,701.63
	$2,609,773.32

An average for the three years of $870,924.44, equivalent to about three times the interest on the entire issue of Bonds.

The accounts of the Company for the past three years have been audited by Messrs. Price Waterhouse & Co., of London, England, and their certificate can be seen at the office of The Eastern Trust Company, Halifax.

A part only of the Bond issue has been reserved for the Canadian market, the balance being placed elsewhere.

The present Bondholders of the Company whose Bonds are to be redeemed at 110 are to be given the privilege of exchanging their present holdings at 110 for the new Bonds, or the 6 p. c. Debenture Stock of the Company at par, accrued interest to be adjusted; and the Directors will, out of the Bonds available for the Canadian Market first allot those applied for by the present Bondholders and allot the balance among the other applications received PRO RATA.

All Bondholders who wish to avail themselves of the privilege of exchanging their Bonds are to communicate their wishes to the undersigned on or before June 22nd, 1909, stating what number of Bonds they wish to exchange, whether their present holdings of Bonds are First Mortgage or Consolidated Bonds, and what securities, whether Bonds or 6 p. c. Debenture stock, they desire to receive in exchange.

Applications for purchase of Bonds must be for multiples of $100 and accompanied by a deposit of 10 p.c. on the amount of the application. (No deposit is required in the case of applications for exchange of Bonds.)

In case of partial allotment, the surplus deposit will be applied towards the amount payable on July 15th failure to pay which when due will render the deposit liable to forfeiture.

Interim certificates will be issued pending the engraving of the Bonds.

Applications should follow one or other of the forms on page 8.

Forms of application can be obtained from, and payments thereon may be made to THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA, Peterborough Branch.

LARGE ROCHESTER PARTY FOR VIAMEDE SATURDAY

The Refurnishing of the House Almost Completed—Guests Eager for Rooms

Mr. Graham, proprietor of the beautiful summer resort, "Viamede," at Stony Lake, was in the city to-day. He stated that the grand new house that he has built to replace the one that was burnt, is almost completed. It is modern in every detail and nothing has been left undone to make things comfortable and convenient for the guests.

The first party is expected to arrive on Saturday from Rochester and from that on "Viamede" will be the rendesvous for tourists from several American and Canadian cities. The new resort far outclasses the old one and that it is bound to please the most fastidious is an assured fact.

FISHING PARTIES LEAVE FOR THE LAKES

Messrs. A. G. Colland, H. E. Kippert, A. B. Mitchell, Dr. Griffith, of Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Cobb, of Fairfoot, N. Y., arrived in the city last evening remaining at the Snowden House over night. They left this morning for Stony Lake, the first mentioned party having taken a cottage and Mr. and Mrs. Cobb will be guests at the Park Hotel, Burleigh Falls.

EXEUNT "NORMAL STUDENTS"

I love it, I love it, and they are cruel
Who chide me for loving the Normal School;
I view her by day with the wistfulest eyes
And oft through the dark the scene idealize;
'Tis bound by unbreakable bonds to my heart,
Not a cord will break, not a link will part,
Would you learn the spell? it is wisdom's fair throne,
And all that from thought ever grew I may own.

When my face was bright I ventured here
And still though haggard I linger near,
Where wisdom's words so fresh, so free,
I hear, I feel, I taste, I see.
They teach me fame can never betide
Without them near me as my guide,
They teach me Reason can keep me cool
Even though hot be the tests at the school.

I've sat and listened many a day,
Till, my senses numbed I turned away
With a lingering worship, ever mine,
That 'lured me up the hill at nine.
Weeks past by—but the last one aped,
My physique was weary and pained was my head;
I learned how much a mind could bear
By trying to keep all I heard up there.

'Tis o'er, all o'er, with its gladness and gloom,
And I must tread on and for others make room—
'Tis there I exulted, 'tis there I sighed,
'Tis there I could in bliss ever abide,
But Life's panoroma will never be still,
And I have passed over—beyond the great hill—
Yet Love's current circling anon to its fount
Embraces in rapture the School on the Mount.

WANTS PAVEMENT OUTSIDE BUT FOR OTHER REASONS

"Critic" Supports the Benson Street People in Their Effort to Have the Famous Sidewalk Laid Outside the Trees—Reasons for the Stand He Takes.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words re the Benson street sidewalk.

I noticed a few evenings ago a letter from "Ratepayer" stating in very logical terms his reasons for recommending the sidewalk to be kept inside the tree line, which letter was replied to by Mr. J. B. Pentland on Monday evening last in a forcible manner. Now, while "Ratepayer" gave some very good reasons why the sidewalk should be kept inside the tree line, yet Mr. Pentland's main argument for the walk being outside is to beautify the street. Now I agree with Mr. Pentland, as this street leads to one of our leading public buildings, everything possible should be done to enhance its beauty.

As it is, the pedestrian is confronted with two unsightly stables and a poultry yard, which to say the least, is not pleasing to the eye, so I think the sidewalk should be removed as far away from those ungainly sights as possible. Again, with reference to "Ratepayer's" statement that the walk being outside would be over the water table, this I think would be no serious obstacle, as this part of the street for a considerable time of the year is a runway for fancy poultry, and the water running down the pavement occasionally would make it much more agreeable for the pedestrian. With regards to the cost of the walk I certainly think that the people living on the east side pay 60 per cent. of the total cost, as it would be absurd to imagine that those people who (do not) live on the west side are paying a part of the 60 per cent.

Now in conclusion, I trust that the City Council, for the above reasons, will see their way clear to comply with the wishes of the fair-minded and good looking people of Benson street, and place the walk outside the tree line, so that in the winter people will not be compelled to walk under the shade of the trees, but have the benefit of the sun's rays out on the open street.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness, I remain,

Yours faithfully,

CRITIC.

NORMAL SCHOOL REVIEW IS CREDIT TO ITS PUBLISHERS

To-day the Peterborough Normal School Review, the official organ of the local Normal School, made its appearance, and is sure to be popularly received, not only by the students, but also by their friends. The number is most interesting and artistic, containing fifty pages of matter that is of the greatest interest to those who have spent the year at the Normal. From cover to cover it is packed full of interesting reading and brightened by many half-tone cuts of the members of the teaching staff, the editorial staff of the paper and other interesting photographs. The cover design is neat and catch, and the whole number is a triumph for those who are responsible for its publication.

Among the special articles are the following "School Room Humour," by Dr. Park: "The History of Peterborough," by Miss Clara C. Adams; "The Influence of Art in Our Public Schools" by Miss Marie Biggar; "Normal School Graduates," by Principal Walker, B. A.; "The Bible as a Miracle," by Rev. Dr. Talling; "The Power of Music," by Miss Hattie A. Mason; "Tennyson," by Miss Hazel K. Dunn; "Personality," by S. J. Keyes, B.A., B. Paed; "School Gardens," by Miss Edith G. Tracy; "The Tempest," by Miss Loretto I. Coughlin.

The Review also deals with the movements of the Debating Society and other departments in an interesting manner, with sketches of the career of the members of the teaching staff and other valuable information.

Mr. Colin Lees is editor-in-chief of the paper, and to him a great deal of the credit of its success is due. Mr. Lees last year was editor-in-chief of the "Collegiate Echoes," and the training he received while acting in that capacity admirably fitted him for the responsible position he has so ably filled in connection with the official journal of the Peterborough Normal School Associated with Mr. Lees in the publishing of The P. N. S. Review were Miss Lily C. Cadwell, Miss Letitia Elliott, Miss Muriel Park, Miss Edith Trotter, associate editors, and Messrs. R. J. Leach and E. P. McNevin, business board.

THE CLOSING WEEK OF THE CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

Next week is the closing week of the Conservatory of Music year. During this week a number of recitants will be given of which due announcement will be made.

On Monday evening there will be a musicale given by the advanced pupils of Miss Laura Newman, pianoforte, and Miss Adamson, violin.

On Tuesday evening the pupils of Mr. Herr Lautz, vocal, and Mr. Gliddon, pianoforte will be heard.

Admission to these musical events will be by invitation. All those interested and desirous of attending may leave their names, by 'phone or otherwise, at the Conservatory, or with any member of the faculty.

On Wednesday night the annual closing concert will be given. The programme will be presented by the Conservatory orchestra, now numbering thirty, assisted by Miss Winnifred Parker, elocutionist, an associate of Owen Smiley and Mr. Andrew Ross Love, tenor, both of Toronto, and both new members of the faculty of the Conservatory. Mr. Love will be associated in the vocal department with Herr Lautz, who finds the work so growing beyond his individual capacity that he requires an assistant.

OBITUARY.

LATE ALEXANDER BRADBURN.

Manvers Township lost one of her pioneer settlers on Sunday, June 13, when Alexander Bradburn passed away after a couple of weeks' illness. He was 79 years of age at the time of his death and had lived in that vicinity for 60 years.

The deceased, through his honest, integrity and benevolent nature, had formed a large circle of friends throughout the township and country surrounding and his death will be mourned by many.

The late Mr. Bradburn was born in County Down, Ireland, and came to Canada when but a youth. He worked in Manvers Township and finally cleared and settled on a farm there—the present homestead where h ideath took place. Industry and toil transformed a wilderness into a thriving farm. He married Mary Ann, daughter of John Peel, of Cartwright, and together they enjoyed and endured the smiles and frowns of life for many years. His wife still survives.

The children now living are:—George, James, Edwin and John, all of Janetville, vicinity; Mrs. Samuel Stinson, of Manvers; Mrs. William Irvine, Peterborough, and Mrs. Geo. Robertson, of Elgin, Man.

Deceased was a faithful adherent of the Janetville Methodist church and had taken an active part in church work for many years. In politics he sincerely believed in and honestly supported the Conservative cause.

The funeral took place on Tuesday, June 15, at two o'clock, from the late residence of the deceased, lot 8, con. 15, Manvers, to the Janetille cemetery.

DEBORAH REVINGTON.

The death occurred this morning of an old and highly respected resident of the Township of Ennismore, in the person of Miss Deborah Revington. She passed away after a lengthy illness. She was in her ninetieth year. She came out from Ireland in 1837 and settled with her parents in the township of Ennismore. She was a woman highly esteemed by all who knew her. Her parents and the other members of her family had predeceased her.

The funeral will take place on Saturday at 1.30 o'clock from her late residence lot 8, concession 1, to the Little Lake cemetery.

PORT HOPE HOTELMEN SIGN AGREEMENT TO KEEP LAW

The hotelkeepers, we are told, have decided to observe the law, and on Saturday next will sign an agreement to that effect before the License Board. Any hotelman guilty of an infraction of the law will forfeit one hundred dollars, same to be paid over to the Benevolent Society.

This agreement will not be unanimous because when it was proposed some time ago one of the hotelmen told the promoters that he was capable of conducting his own business and refused to sign it, but one of the promoters of the previous round robin says "No, I can conduct my own business also."

This plan has been tried in Port Hope before, but did not work out long. About the only way to make some of the hotelmen observe the law would be to have a detective on duty from 6 a.m. to 6 a.m.—Port Hope Guide.

UNION CREEK NEWS OF INTEREST

Special to The Examiner.

Union Creek, June 17.—A basket social and entertainment were held in the Union Creek school house on Friday, June 4th and proved to be in every way a success. The proceeds were in the interest of the church services held in the school by Mr. Cummer, rector of St. Luke's Church, Kinmount.

Miss Edmonds spent Saturday at her home in Lindsay.

Mr. Ralph Byrne, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. Martin Byrne.

Mr. Chris. Glaney spent a few days of last week with friends in Peterborough and Lindsay.

Mr. Cummer preached his farewell sermon on Sunday afternoon before leaving for Cannington, where he will reside in future. During the three years in which Mr. Cummer has held service at Union Creek, both he and Mrs. Cummer have made many friends, all of whom sincerely regret their departure, and wish them every blessing and success in their new home.

Mr. Gilchrist of Bancroft, and Mr. Lamb of Peterborough, held a Gospel meeting in the school housee on Sunday evening.

Mr. Gilchrist left for Gooderham on Monday, and Mr. Lamb will continue the meetings here all week.

The following is the report of S. S. No. 11, Galway, and Somerville for the month of May. Names in order of standing:

Class IV.—Maggie Glaney, Tom Byrne, Florence English, (absent.)

Class III.—Irene Molyneaux, Gertie Young, Lulu Hunter, Emma Wirght, Mossom Schell, Robt. Wright.

Class II—Mary Wright, Hazel Molyneaux, Leo. Byrne, Vera Henderson, Olive Scarletet, Mossom Henderson.

Jr. Class II.—Wray Molyneaux, Anneteta Henderson, Noble Young, Jim. Graney, Garfield Henederson.

Pt. II.—Gordon English, Johnny Henderson, Bart. Sheehan, Roy Henderson.

Part I.—Harold Scarlett, Veerley Young, Ivan Wright, Katie Henderson, Melville Schell, Mossom Young, Maud English, Willie Young.

Average attendance, 24.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.

It is not often an opportunity occurs at your door to see the latest Parisian and New York styles in Hair Goods, yet such is the case, as Prof. Dorenwend, of Toronto, is visiting this town, and invites your inspection of these goods at his private apartments reserved at the Hotel.

These Hair Goods styles, when properly adjusted protect and ornament the head, soften and beautify the expression of any face, and consequently tone up an aged appearance. Be sure and see them at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, Friday, June 18.

MR. CHAPMAN RECOMMENDS PUMPING PLANT TO ASSIST PRESENT SEWER SERVICE

Addresses the Board of Works on the Subject — The Engineers' Report Will be Ready in the Course of a Short Time.

SOME SUGGESTIONS MADE

Some time ago Mr. Willis Chipman, of Toronto, was engaged to prepare a report for a new outfall sewer on Park street and also to report upon the present outfall and the Romaine street sewers. Mr. Chipman met the Board of Works last night and, although he has not yet completed his report he addressed the committee and made several suggestions for the aldermen to consider. He also outlined the progress he has made on his report which he expects to have ready in a few days.

There were three principal points in Mr. Chipman's address, viz., the present outfall sewer, the Romaine Street sewer and the Edison on Park street drain.

The engineer says that a second outfall sewer on Park street would be a good thing and will eventually have to be built. At the present time, however, it is not necessary, and should not be for ten or fifteen years to come according to the development of the city. The present sewer is, or should be large enough to carry off all the sewage matter emptied into it. The great trouble is that the lower part is too low and in high water it backs up as far as Rink street. This is a very bad condition of affairs and does not give the sewer a chance.

The outlet into the river is too low and to overcome this Mr. Chipman suggests that a small pumping station be built on the river bank and operated during high water. That is the only time the sewer needs any assistance. This pumping plant would be in a building about 20 by 20 feet, and would cost about $10,000 or $15,000 at the outside. With it he contends that no new outfall sewer will be needed for ten or fifteen years or possibly more.

Romaine Street.

In regards to Romaine Street sewer Mr. Chapman reported that from the King Edward School to Lock Street there was a fall of three feet, which is sufficient to carry off all the sewage matter had the sewer been properly constructed. As it is it will have to be torn up and relaid.

Edison Drain.

The third proposition is the Park Street drain. This drain starts from Babb's lane or Homewood avenue and was built of timber some fifteen years ago. It runs down to Park street and then to Rink and down Rink across the McDermid property and empties into Little Lake.

This drain is in a very bad condition and there is an awful stench coming from it, caused by a number of people using it as a sewer. Mr. Chapman suggests that the whole thing be rebuilt of concrete and thus made permanent.

The Edison drain takes care of or is supposed to, all the surface water from the western hills and the territory through which it flows.

With this drain put into shape and made permanent and the pumping plant on the outfall sewer the sewage and surface water of the city should be well taken care of.

BREAD MAY JUMP TO 12 CENTS PER LOAF IN A SHORT TIME

Peterborough people may look for an advance in the price of bread in the near future and a jump from 10c to 12c for a three-pound loaf may be expected. There was a meeting of the bakers of the city last evening to consider the matter and although on account of the fact that one baker was not present, no business was done, the raise was thoroughly discussed, and those present were unanimous in the opinion that the price of the staff of life should be increased. The increase in the price of flour is the reason for the increase. "Why, bread is selling at 14c in Montreal," one baker said to the Examiner this mirning. "There is no commodity that is sold so cheaply as bread," he went on, "considering the cost of manufacture and the work involved."

Deputation From Douro Wants School Section Divided

When the County Council resumed its session yesterday afternoon, a deputation from the Township of Douro, consisting of Messrs. Albert Darling, E. Jory, C. Tighe and W. J. Bullock was heard. Mr. Albert Darling addressed the County Counicl with reference to having arbitrators appointed for the purpose of changing the boundaries of School Section No. 6, Douro, in union with Dummer.

The matter was referred to a committee of the whole council.

During the afternoon Messrs. Lees and Browne, county school inspectors, presented reports, which were received and adopted. They referred to the work of the past school term.

The Council then went into committees, taking up the entire afternoon with its business.

Township Of Smith Wants County To Take Over Lily Lake Bridge

The members of the County Council drove out to the "sink hole" on the Communication road in Smith Township last evening. The Township some time ago purchased about two acres of forest and cut it off and put the whole thing into the hole. On top of this was built the bridge which is now known as the Lily Lake bridge. It is 135 feet long and just wide enough for a load of hay to pass over, while on each side if a horse should step off it would disappear out of sight in short order. The centre of the bridge is now floating on 16 feet of water, although the two ends appear to be on a hard bottom. The centre has dropped about five feet since it was built, but it is considered solid, and is not likely to give further trouble.

At the south end of the bridge the roadway has begun to sink and there is about two feet of water in the centre, while if a man or a horse were to step off the side they would disappear and never be heard of again. The road at the north end has also dropped a little but it is considered all right.

Previous to this the road had been built up, but each time it disappeared from sight.

The township of Smith have asked the County Council to assume this bridge, and it was upon the invitation of Mr. Graham that the councillors drove out last night. The bridge is now in pretty good shape, although an addition will have to be made to the south end to get over the piece of road which has gone down.

The road is travelled a good deal and the bridge is large enough for the county to assume control of it and it is quite possible that this will be done or else a substantial grant will be made towards the necessary enlargement. It will be discussed however, on Friday when the council resumes.

Auto Standing On Roadside Near Cemetery Excited Curiosity

An automobile numbered 1262 was left standing last night near the cemetery gate and this morning. Mr. Frank Wise, not knowing to whom it belonged, telephoned the police station. It was thought at first to have belonged to a Millbrook man, but upon enquiry being made it was learned that it was the property of a local gentleman. It appears that he ing this week a number of recitals was out motoring last evening and his car met with an accident, necessitating him leaving the automobile on the side of the road until repairs could be made.

Three Hundred Visitors From Coldwater In The City To-day

The excursion run by the Ancient Order of United Workmen, of Coldwater, to the city to-day, arrived here shortly after eleven o'clock this morning. They came on a G.T.R. special train of five coaches, each one filled to its utmost capacity. There are probably about three hundred visitors here, the inclement weather apparently detaining many from taking in the event.

The excursionists are spending the day, seeing the various sights, including the great lift lock. The street cars are doing a big business, carrying the people to points of interest.

Contracts For New Dam Have Not Yet Been Awarded

The contracts for the construction of the new water works dam and for the installing of the pumping plant has not yet been awarded, although the tenders were opened by the Water Commissioners yesterday morning. The engineers are still going over the tenders and the Commissioners will meet at the call of the chairman and award the contracts after the reports of the engineers are in. It is not expected the question will be settled to-day.

THE FORD CARS ARE STILL LEADING IN THE BIG RACE

Ald. J. J. Duffus, local agent of the Ford Motor Company, has received the following telegrams from the Company's representatives in the Transcontinental automobile race.

MANY DELEGATES HAVE GATHERED

Notable Women From Many Countries Are Welcomed.

GOLDEN RULE THEIR MOTTO

The Uplifting of Mankind is the Object of the International Congress of Women, Says Lady Aberdeen at Inaugural Meeting—Dr. Anna H. Shaw Speaks on Woman Suffrage in the Dominion.

Toronto, June 17.—The University Convocation Hall was a riot of color last night at the inaugural meeting of the Quinquennial International Council of Women. The flags of all nations grouped and massed in themselves conveyed a great meaning. They represented the combination and unity of the international gathering which they graced. From the panels of gold and purple and crimson looked down the royal arms of the British Empire, the white cross on its crimson field of Switzerland, the straggling stars of the southern cross which form the emblem of Canada's sister dominion, the eagle of Austria, the double-headed eagle of the empire of the Czar, the rampant lion of Scotland, the arms of Sweden, Norway, Italy, Argentine, Denmark, Belgium, Germany, Canada, Bulgaria, Greece, and over all the Golden Rule.

It was the Golden Rule which formed the basis of the speeches of all the delegates of these varied lands, a message conveyed in English in each instance—but an English bearing the stamp of the country of the messenger.

Lady Aberdeen on her arrival was accorded a very warm welcome. By the Canadians it was the welcome of a home-coming, and by the other delegates the welcome conveyed appreciation of a great work. She delivered the opening address in which she said, in part:

"Ladies: I must say to you I feel very much to-night like an old mother coming back to see again a young daughter.

"By the very fact that it is the occasion of our coming of age, and that we have arrived at years of discretion, the world has a right to enquire of what stuff we are made and what is our contribution to the world's life. I think we are here to answer for the faith that is in us."

She spoke of those who had watched over the cradle of the council in 1888 at Washington, now no longer in the flesh, and paid tribute to the memory of Frances Willard, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony. She was honored to be able to wear the brooch that Miss Anthony was presented with at Geneva.

"What do we stand for and what do we offer?" she asked. The answer would come clear and strong. The work of the council "induces them to stand together for common action, and even more, to adopt the difficult attitude of refraining from action."

"Just because we are wedded to no one propaganda, just because we impose no restriction and no shibboleth we welcome all women, of all sects and nations and classes, who are willing to join us in carrying out the principle of doing unto others as we would have them do unto us, that golden rule which is our sole test has brought us into a union so strong we can help the great movements of our generation."

"The keynote of our success and influence must always lie in being rather than doing, in the spirit of our work rather than in the work itself, in the motive underlying our union, rather than in our actual federation.

"As long as we cling," she concluded, "to that sheet anchor, the spiritual forces behind our work and behind our international comradeship, we will surely work miracles of which we do not yet dream."

Addresses were delivered by the national chiefs or their proxies in introducing the delegates and speeches of welcome were made by the provincial, civic and university authorities.

The delegates lost no time in getting into committee work at "varsity. Of the committees which convened in the afternoon the most notable was that on suffrage and rights of citizenship. Rev. Anna H. Shaw, who was appointed convener of this committee at Berlin five years ago, presided. Representatives from 15 different nations were present.

When the ovation which was tendered the distinguished convener subsided, Dr. Anna Shaw said this was the most enthusiastic and representative international suffragist meeting she had ever attended. The cause had made wonderful progress since it was endorsed by the international council at Berlin and made a fundamental department of the council's work. It was making marvelous progress everywhere. Not only was it one of the most popular of movements, but it had become one of the most fashionable.

"I have just come from New York City, where Mrs. Ogle Belmont and other leaders of fashion are devoting themselves to its interests," she said. "Mrs. Ivins, whose husband is regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer in New York, is another of our leaders."

"It is not necessary for us on this continent to adopt the militant methods of some of the British societies, but if I considered it wise to do so, I should not hesitate. We are making magnificent progress by means of public meetings, literature and organization."

Hated the Telephone.

New London, Conn., June 17.—A telephone was installed yesterday in the National Whaling Bank of New London because Sebastian D. Lawrence, who for 45 years was president of the bank, is dead. Lawrence died a bachelor, with a fortune of ten millions. He would not use a telephone and would not have one in his bank.

Derailment Near Port Hope.

Port Hope, June 17.—The G.T.R. mail train No. 6, which left Toronto at 7.30 a.m., was derailed about five miles west of Port Hope yesterday morning. Fortunately no one was injured. The accident is said to have occurred through the breaking of the cars. The engine, baggage and mail cars left the track.

Four Russian Dreadnoughts.

St. Petersburg, June 17.—The keels of four battleships of the greater Dreadnought type were laid yesterday morning. They will be of 23,000 tons each, length 608 feet and beam 83 feet. They will have a speed of 20 knots and the main batteries will consist of ten 12-inch guns of a special nickel steel.

Cannot Promise Guarantee.

Ottawa, June 17.—Sir Robert Perks saw Sir Wilfrid Laurier regarding a proposal to build the Georgian Bay Canal with private capital, the Government to guarantee the bonds of the company. The Premier informed Sir Robert that at present the Government was unable to give this guarantee.

Power Scheme for Brockville.

Brockville, June 17.—The light and power commissioners had a visit yesterday morning from W. Conroy of Aylmer, Que., representing a large power development company on the Gatineau, which is contemplating the erection of a transmission line to Brockville, taking in intermediate points. He believed the company could furnish Brockville with 20,000 horse-power. The plant would have a capacity for 50,000 horse-power. He was requested to submit his proposition in writing.

Imperial Labor Exchanges.

London, June 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Commons Winston Churchill, debating the Labor Exchanges bill, said he proposed to discuss with the self-governing colonies, with the object of seeing what information could be exchanged between immigration offices and labor agencies in the colonies and the labor exchanges to be established here.

There was no reason against a complete imperial system of labor exchanges.

Inquest In Private.

Rosthern, Sask., June 17.—After sitting eight days, the inquest held by Coroner Stewart into the sudden death of Mrs. Katrina Dyak concluded early yesterday morning. The inquest was held behind closed doors.

The verdict was that Mrs. Dyak came to her death through negligence and bad treatment at the hands of Dr. Richard Ralph and Mrs. May Ralph, both of Rosthern. The coroner issued warrants for the arrest of both.

Must Return Manuscript.

Ottawa, June 17.—Morang & Co. of Toronto contracted with Dr. W. D. Lesueur to write the life of William Lyon Mackenzie, and paid $500 for the manuscript. Dr. Lesueur's work was not published and he entered action for return of the manuscript and damages for injured reputation. The claim for damages was withdrawn and Justice Clute yesterday directed the return of the manuscript.

Men Could Not Swim.

Newark, N.J., June 17.—Two men and a dog went out in a round bottomed boat in a small lake in a park here Tuesday night. The dog returned to shore alive, but the men are dead. Charles Peterson and Wm. Rover, both laborers, about 30 years old, are the victims. The boat upset and neither could swim.

Fewer Immigrants.

Ottawa, June 17.—A heavy falling off in arrivals for the first four months of the year is shown in the Government statistics for immigration. It is attributed largely to the doing away with charity-assisted immigration.

Kicked by Horse.

Sightseers Fight Police at Brown-Melvin-Jones Nuptials.

LAURIER AMONG GUESTS

Cordon of Police Is Necessary to Prevent Huge Gathering of Curious Women From Invading Toronto Church While Fashionable Wedding Is In Progress—Sir Wilfrid Laurier Was Present.

Toronto, June 17.—St. Andrew's Church, West King street, was filled by a fashionable congregation yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the marriage of Rev. T. Crawford Brown, pastor of the church, and Miss Eadlen Melvin-Jones, only child of Hon. Senator Lyman and Mrs. Melvin-Jones.

Long before the hour appointed crowds began to assemble outside the church, and the police had difficulty in making way for the carriages, private automobiles and taxicabs.

Various pleas were made to the ushers by women of all classes to gain admission to the church. Old and young jostled each other to secure points of vantage. Every window in the buildings in the neighborhood was filled with interested spectators. At different times the crowd of women became unruly, and on the arrival of the bride with her father, broke through the cordon of police and threatened to overthrow the canopy leading to the church. It was an awful moment. The police were powerless to hold the surging thousands in check. Like a mad rush at a bargain counter women pushed, fought and screamed, and only the prompt action of able-bodied men averted a disgraceful scene.

Another rush was made when the bride drove away. Looking through the crowd one could see elderly females and young girls with tense, drawn faces showing a determination to get near at all costs, and they were only restrained by a cordon of police.

As Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who drove up in a taxicab, arrived, a sudden hush came over the great congregation. With all the grace of a French courtier Sir Wilfrid passed down the aisle, his distinguished bearing and immaculate dress making him a conspicuous object.

After the ceremony in the church there was a big reception to 800 guests at Llawraden, Senator Melvin-Jones' home.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Brown left by the 10 o'clock train for Montreal and will sail by the Empress of Britain for England and the continent.

More Buffalo For Canada.

Butte, Mont., June 17.—A unique round-up started yesterday on the Flathead Indian Reservation, in Western Montana, when the Pablo herd of buffaloes will be corralled and driven to the big stockade in Ravalla. There the animals will be loaded on specially constructed cars. A number of the finest specimens will go to the Canadian National Park. Others of the animals will be shipped to eastern parks.

Negro Paid Penalty.

Arcadia, Fla., June 17.—An unknown negro was lynched last Tuesday for an attempted criminal assault upon Mrs. P. R. Reed, wife of a prominent citizen of Arcadia.

A posse was formed as soon as the news of the attempted crime spread, and within an hour the negro was captured, a short distance from the scene of the crime, and lynched.

Canal Ready Monday.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 17.—Announcement was made by the canal officials yesterday that the Soo locks would be in operation again next Monday. The boats which dashed through did but little damage to the sills, while the substructure is in fair condition to be used. New gates will not be put in immediately.

Tot Commits Suicide In Well.

Owensboro, Ky., June 17.—"Mamma, if you whip me I will jump in the well," wailed the five-year-old son of Mrs. Samuel Scott, who resides near Central City, when his mother reprimanded him for a childish prank. Sobbing and crying the little fellow fled from the room and carried out his threat. The mother found him dead.

MANY DON'T KNOW HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of everyone, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about suffering from heart disease."

This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."

"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."

"But undoubtedly heart weakness, and disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the wear and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble."

There is no doubt but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Price 50 cts. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FLUTTERINGS OF THE HEART.

Mrs. G. H. White, Williamstown, N.S., writes: "I was troubled with weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad I could scarcely be down in bed. I procured a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they helped me so much I got another box and it has made a final cure. I cannot speak too highly of them. I think they are worth their weight in gold."

TECUMSEHS WILL ONLY PLAY OWN MEN ON WESTERN TRIP

Toronto, June 16—The Tecumsehs will play none but their own players against New Westminster for the Minto Cup. The report from Ottawa that Johnnny Powers, formerly of the Caps, would go along and play on the Indians' home, in incorrect. The matter had been suggested to Manager Querrie, but he decided that he would prefer to win the cup with his regular team, and therefore made no offer to the Ottawa player.

The Tecumsehs are very earnest in their training for the trip west. They had two and half hours' practice in the sun yesterday, every player but Fred Rowntree and Bert Green being on the field. Jardine played in Rountree's place and Whitehead in Green's position. Everybody checked hard and strong, and the club doctor was on hand to render first aid. Kinsman played a great game in goal, and appears to have the entire confidence of the big defence in front of him. Manager Querrie's knee is apparently all right again, as he ran on it all afternoon without injury.

A wire was received from the Vancouver Lacrosse Club to-day asking for a game on Wednesday, June 30, the day after the second Minto Cup game with New Westminster.

TWO GREAT GAMES IN THE SENIOR LEAGUE SERIES

The City League games on Saturday promise to be the most interesting in the series to date, as all four teams are in the best of shape and will put up hard games for the honours.

The first game at two o'clock will bring together the Strathconas and T.A.S., and will be a hard fought battle, as the High Commissioners are determined to end their losing streak by trimming the leaders. On the other hand, the Abstainers figure on keeping up their good work and will endeavour to stop the ambitions of the Strathconas with a jar. Both teams can't win, but there will surely be some doings at the ball yard before the issue is decided.

The West Ends are not the least dismayed by their defeat on Saturday at the hands of the T.A.S., and will endeavour to make up for it by taking Manager Jack Pilling's Park St. aggregation into camp. The South Enders, however, will trot out their best team Saturday, and it begins to look like the hardest kind of a game between the two.

With fine weather, the biggest crowd of the season should be on hand for the games.

RESULTS IN SECOND ROUND OF THE TENNIS ASSOCIATION

The results of the second round inter-club matches of the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Association doubles.

J. W. Wood and C. Currier, West End, beat C. Moore and S. Anderson, Collegiate, 6-4; 7-5.

Y.M.C.A. vs. Nicholl's Oval—F. Cressman and A. O. Meyers, Y.M.C.A., beat R. Dobbin and D. E. Easson, Nicholl's Oval, 6-1; 6-2.

Dr. McPhreson and W. D. Campbell, Y.M.C.A., beat Ray P. Best and D. B. McRae, Nicholl's Oval, 6-4; 6-2.

Club totals second round:

Y. M. C. A.	8
Golf Club	7
West End	4
St. John's	4
Nicholl's Oval	1
Collegiate	0

Third round as per schedule, to be finished by June 19:

Y. M. C. A. vs. Golf Club.
Nicholl's Oval vs. West End.
Collegiate vs. St. John's.

KELLEY SECURES NEW PITCHER

"Doc" Newton, From the New York Americans, Has Reported to The Leafs.

Toronto, June 16.—The urgent need of a stronger pitching department has been felt by Manager Kelley and President J. J. McCaffrey ever since the team started down the toboggan slide, and their efforts to strengthen this end of things has resulted in the purchase of Doc Newton from the New York American ball Club. The Doc's record is a goodone, and great things are expected of him. A wire from Mr. McCaffrey reached Toronto this afternoon, confirming the purchase. Newton will join the team at once.

BLUE STREAK IS FASTER THAN EVER

The Toronto motorboat flyer Blue Streak, which went down to the Thousand Islands Saturday in charge of J. G. Robinson, is having all the racing she wants down that way. Yesterday she met and defeated the Gilbert, a speedy launch which defeated her here last fall. Since the changes in installation Blue Streak has been travelling 22 miles an hour. This is her third straight win down east this trip.

WITH THE RUNNERS.

The Canadian Amateur Athletic Union, at a meeting yesterday, decided to try and have all the champions attend the annual championship in Winnipeg, July 15, 16, and 17. The runners, jumpers, and weight-throwers will be there from Vancouver to Halifax. Scheffer and Ross, of Halifax, McDonald of Varsity, Bricker, Archibald, Tait, and Seibert, are all in training for the events. President Merrick and Secretary Crow will both attend the meeting.

BASEBALL

The Torontos landed both games yesterday at Jersey City and this morning stand second, with only Rochester showing in front, while a combination of adverse circumstances might have landed the Leafs at the bottom, which it didn't, however Such is baseball luck.

The Pirates, who have been clouting the ball unmercifully the past ten days, came to a halt yesterday Before the Giants struck Pittsburg Manager Murray, of Philadelphia ball club warned them to watch the heavy hitters with vigilance. The Phillies say that there were indications that the Pittsburg batting was not on the level. A Quaker player said: "The way the Pirates are hitting the ball is, to say the least suspicious. You remember some years ago when Chief Zimmer was discovered by Tom Corcoran, then of the Reds, behind a board fence in centre field wigwagging the Reds' battery signals to the Pirates. I believe that the same sort of thing is being worked again."

• • •

The City League teams are arranging games for July 1st. The Strathconas will journey to Hastings that day and will play the home team as one of the attractions of the big day of sports that has been arranged. The West Ends will likely play in Roseneath as the team of that village are anxious for a game.

• • •

The Park St. team will have a much-changed line-up for the game with the West Ends on Saturday. The infield will likely consist of Harry O'Brien or Jack Pilling, 1st b.; Wareham, 2nd b.; Davidson, s.s.; and Guerin, 3b.

• • •

A strange feature about Saturday's City League games is that all four teams expect to win.

• • •

The prices for the double header in the Senior City League at Riverside Park every Saturday afternoon are: Adults, 15c; children, 5c; ladies free.

HEAT OF THE SUN.

The Enormous Energy Vested in the Rays of Our Luminary.

We receive warmth and light from the sun, but the most of us think little about the enormous power vested in our luminary. The most satisfactory way of arriving at an idea of its tremendous energy is by measuring the amount of heat which its rays are capable of generating. And, further, by our knowledge of the relation which exists between heat and mechanical work, we are able to estimate the amount of work which the sun is capable of doing and also the quantity of energy it must be losing year by year.

By suitable arrangements we cause a certain quantity of its heat to be absorbed by water or some substance and note the rise in temperature which results, and as we know the mechanical equivalent of heat in water for each degree of temperature it is only a matter of calculation to arrive at a knowledge of the sun's total energy. Like everything else connected with this wonderful body, figures give us no adequate conception of its vast energy and various illustrations have been used by different investigators.

Thus Herschel considered it in relation to the quantity of ice which it would melt in a given time and states that the amount of heat which the earth receives when the sun is overhead would melt an inch thickness of ice in two hours and thirteen minutes.

From this it can be calculated that if the body of the sun were entirely surrounded by a sheet of ice on its surface of more than a mile in thickness the sun's heat would entirely melt this coating of ice in the same time—namely, two hours and thirteen minutes.

Another scientist uses an even more striking illustration. He says: "If we could build up a solid column of ice from the earth to the sun two miles and a quarter in diameter, spanning the inconceivable abyss of 93,000,000 miles, and if then the sun should concentrate its power upon it it would dissolve and melt, not in an hour nor in a minute, but in a single second. One swing of the pendulum and it would be water. Seven more seconds and it would be dissipated in vapor."

Of course of this enormous quantity of heat the earth receives but a small fraction. The rest, except what the other heavenly bodies receive, passes away into space and is lost forever, so far as can be ascertained.

It is by this enormous supply of energy that the whole world is kept alive and active. It keeps us warm and drives our steam engines and water wheels. It circulates our atmosphere and brings us rain and snow. It grows and nourishes our plants and animals and, in a word, is the source of almost every earthly blessing.

A Conscientious Forger.

The following incident is told of Austin Bidwell, the notorious forger who many years ago attempted to break the Bank of England: When he was arrested he remembered that being short of money at the time, he had procured lunch on credit at a London restaurant and wrote to an acquaintance whom he had befriended to settle the score. This was duly done, and Bidwell was apprised of the fact. Then the forger recollected that he had forgotten to tip the waiter threepence, as usual, and he forwarded three postage stamps to the restaurant keeper for Robert's benefit. Bidwell's missive to the landlord, framed, was long on view in the bar of the restaurant.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

N.B.—Unauthorized publications of this advertisement will not be paid for.

W. W. CORRY,
Deputy of the Minister of Interior

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Interior Fittings, etc., Armoury, Peterborough, Ont." will be received at this office until 4.30 p.m., on Tuesday, June 22, 1909, for the Interior Fittings, etc., Armoury, Peterborough.

Plans, specification and forms of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the office of Mr. W. Blackwell, Architect, Peterborough.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, with their occupations and places of residences. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Supplying Coal for the Dominion Buildings," will be received at this office until 4.30 p. m., on Thursday, July 15th, 1909 for the supply of coal for the Public Buildings throughout the Dominion.

Combined specification and forms of tender can be obtained on application at this office.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAPOLEON TESSIER,
Secretary.

WEDDING BELLS

WHELAN—WHITE.

This morning at 7.30 a pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Francis Xavier church, when Very Rev. Dean Murray united for life Mr. John Whelan, of Peterborough, and Miss Margaret White, of this town, daughter of the late Bernard White, of Elgin.

The bride attired in cream silk poplin and wearing a white picture hat, was assisted by her sister, Miss Sadie White, of Elgin, who wore blue voile and a Tuscan hat. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Israel Whelan, of Burritts Rapids.

The ceremony concluded the bridal party repaired to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown, Bartholomew street, where, joined by friends, they partook of a sumptuously prepared wedding breakfast. At 11.30 they left by the limited for Peterborough, where the groom has a cosily furnished residence in waiting for his bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Whelan received several costly and useful presents from friends here and at a distance. The latter was engaged as maid at "Fulford Place" and by all was held in high esteem. On the occasion of her marriage she was remembered by Mrs. Fulford, with a substantial cheque, while Mr. and Mrs. McLean presented her with a handsome set of dinner dishes. Captain Johnson and Engineer McNeill, of the Magedoma, also presented her with checks and Mr. Hugh Wilcox, with a large cut glass bowl. From the groom she received a gold horseshoe brooch set with pearls, while the bridesmaid received a gold ring.—Brockville Recorder.

WALL STREET WAYS.

Methods of a Brilliant Operator of Many Years Ago.

One of the most brilliant operators of Wall street in the sixty sixties of the last century was Walter Wellman Morse, though he was by comparison with some of the gray haired market veterans only a mere boy, being just thirty years of age. The public confidence he enjoyed made it possible for him to realize profits in any stock.

Such was the influence his indorsement would carry that after he had accumulated stock at his prices he could tell his daily callers that the stock was due to go up, and immediately there would be enough professional and public buying of the stock to send it up, thus enabling Morse to unload at a profit.

An example of Morse's popularity was illustrated in a scene accompanying the opening of subscriptions for stock in a coal mining company organized by him. The day the subscription book was opened people flocked to the office and fought with each other in their efforts to enter and get their names recorded. One man who had subscribed for a large amount of this stock, after getting away from the crowd, came back and, walking up to Mr. Morse, said, "I say, Mr. Morse, was the gold or coal stock I subscribed for?"—Moody's Magazine.

BIRDS AS SCOUTS.

A Gypsy's Warning Before the Battle of Sadowa.

During the night, July 2-3, before the battle of Sadowa, a division commanded by the archduke, retreating before the Prussian army, had bivouacked near a town in Bohemia facing north.

At midnight the archduke, when resting in a peasant's cottage, was awakened by the arrival of a gypsy, who insisted on seeing him personally, having come to report the advance of the enemy.

The archduke, who spoke German fluently, asked: "How do you know? Our outposts have not reported any movement."

"That, your highness, is because the enemy is still some way off."

"Then how do you know?"

The gypsy, pointing to the dark sky lighted by the moon, observed, "You see those birds flying over the woods from north to south?"

"Yes. What of them?"

"Those birds do not fly by night unless disturbed, and the direction of their flight indicates that the enemy is coming this way."

The archduke put his division under arms and re-enforced the outposts, which in two hours' time was heavily attacked.—Field Marshal Sir Evelyn Wood in London Saturday Interviews.

Some Prophecies Fulfilled.

Long before his name was known outside his native country Oliver Cromwell was making one of his rambling speeches in the house of commons. Lord Digby asked Hampden who he was, and Hampden replied, "If ever we should come to a breach with the king, that sloven will be the greatest man in England." Never was any prophecy more completely fulfilled than this.

Almost equally remarkable in its way was Disraeli's prophecy. "But a time will come when you will hear me," made when nothing appeared more unlikely than the brilliant series of triumphs which fulfilled it.

Another instance of a quickly fulfilled prophecy was furnished by Pope Pius VII. when he was told of Napoleon's escape from Elba. "Don't worry about it," he said; "it is a storm that will be over in three months." The story of the hundred days proved his holiness to be right to a few hours.

He Got None.

"What's a pun, father?"

"A pun, my son, is a play upon words. There are three kinds of puns—good ones, which you laugh at; indifferent ones, which you take no notice of, and bad ones, which make you throw something at the punster."

"Can you make a pun, father?"

"Of course, my son! Now, you're thinking about your supper, aren't you?"

"Yes, father."

"Well, that's supper-most in your mind at the present time. That, you see, is a play on— Here, you young rascal, what did you throw that book at me for?"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Frog Farming in France.

Among the advantages of frog farming in France is the fact that it enables persons of limited means to utilize marshes and ponds which are too shallow and warm for fish culture and practically useless for any other purpose and produce on a comparatively small area a large amount of valuable food material for which there is always an eager market.

Hunted the Hunter.

"Is it really true," asked Miss Chellus, "that you're engaged to Mr. Richley?"

"It is," calmly replied Miss Bute.

"My," exclaimed Miss Chellus, "he was a great catch!"

"I beg your pardon," retorted the other haughtily; "catcher."—Catholic Standard and Times.

NEEDLE TRAVELLED THROUGH WOMAN'S BODY TWENTY-TWO YEARS

Strange Experience of Mrs. J. W. Knee—Stepped Upon Needle 22 Years Ago and Never Had it Extracted.

CAME OUT OF ARM.

Chicago, June 15.—When a girl at the home of her parents tweny-two years ago Mrs. J. W. Knee, of No. 62 Thirty-sixth street, stepped upon a needle, burying it in her right heel. Being unable to extract it, and as it caused no inconvenience, she left it remain. This week the steel implement, after travelling upward the entire length of her body, made its appearance about as far removed as possible from the point where it entered, and was removed without causing any sensation other than surprise.

The needle, as bright as when new, was taken out, point first, from Mrs. Knee's left arm, it having crossed from the right side of her body and in all probability started on a return trip.

During all the years it was in her body it never created any physical discomfort unless a temporary attack of supposed rheumatism—the only attack of the kind Mrs. Knee ever experienced—can be attributed to the ramblings of the steel point.

A slight but persistent itching under Mrs. McKnee's arm, beginning in the day and compelling her attention throughout the morning, was the only physical notification the needle created to direct the attention of its human captor to the fact that it sought freedom. Although the annoyance kept Mrs. Knee's mind on the location periodically for several hours, it remained for one of her neighbors, Mrs. C. A. Alden, who lives in the building, to discover and remove the needle. Mrs. Alden called on her neighbor shortly before noon.

After chatting a few moments, and as she turned toward a door to leave, she accidently brushed her hand against Mrs. McKnee's side and was scratched. An examination followed and the needle was found. By this time it had produced its point to such an extent that it was easily seen.

At the time Mrs. McKnee stepped on the needle her parents lived near Wabash avenue and Twenty-third street. Her mother and an acquaintance attended a theatre one evening and when they returned the daughter, who was asleep, arose to open the door. As she walked down the hallway she trod on the needle.

ROYAL THEATRE

3-Motion Pictures-3

In the Bad Lands

This is a very interesting story of Army Life on the Frontier. It tells of the love of the Colonel's daughter for a young Trooper and the difficulties encountered before she wins him. It depicts battle scenes with the Sioux Indians, in which the American soldiers win, but at great loss. A grand picture and one that will be greatly enjoyed by one and all.

CURED BY GYMNASTICS

A very funny picture, showing how an old woman who THINKS she is always ill, becomes a bore to her son-in-law, with whom she lives. The doctor orders her to take twenty hours exercise every day, and you should come and see her take it.

THE GAMBLER'S HONOUR

A serio-comic picture, depicting the honour of a Gambler, and how he has to steal his wife's furniture to pay his gambling debts, and how his wife cured his disease.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest songs, "I love, I love, I love my Wife! Oh, You Kid!"

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

OLD METHODIST CEMETERY SHOULD BE TRANSFORMED, SAYS A CORRESPONDENT

"Uncle Dudley" States That the Burial Ground Has Been Allowed to Fall Into a Disgraceful Condition, and That the Authorities Should Take Some Action.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

"Beautify the City," yes, "Beautify the City" is a familiar heading to Peterborough readers. The Examiner has been advocating this for some time and the suggestion has been heeded in regard to improving the central part of this large and prosperous burg, but the outlying parts are painfully neglected as yet. If any citizen wishes the strongest possible evidence of this fact let him step out to George street and proceed to the northern terminus of the aforesaid street and fix his gaze in the direction of the Nicholls Hospital. Adjoining the well-kept grounds of that grand institution he will see a two-acre grove of pines, birches and oaks, over-run with locusts, lilacs, poison ivy, and all manner of weeds and spreading plants.

Scattered over this wilderness are tombstones—some standing in their proper places, some fallen down, some broken, and some carried away to other parts of the field. A few years ago this lot was grown up with locust underbrush which was hashed down and thrown up into heaps and remained there till a second crop has now reached a height of four feet. It was always a menace to surrounding property in dry weather, but fortunately a fire started in the grass a few weeks ago and swept these old heaps away. At any time during the two weeks following this fire, a grand improvement could have been made at very little expense. Another opportunity has been allowed to pass.

That's the late history of what is commonly known as the Old Methodist cemetery—Peterborough's disgrace.

The really strange part of the situation is the fact that this cemetery is under the supervision of the trustees of one of the largest congregations in our city. It should be distinctly understood that the responsibility of these same trustees in this matter did not cease when the cemetery was no longer used as a burial plot.

During the last year these same gentlemen have been approached in a quiet and business-like way and requested to make some improvement but they always say: "Yes, yes, we'll see about that. We're going to do something." As the private method has failed to give results this public statement has become necessary although it is to be regretted that such is the case.

Another point worthy of mention is the fact that many of the pioneers of this district—the men and women who made the early history of this vicinity—were laid to rest in this graveyard which is under discussion. And furthermore that some of their descendants are living an easy life with never a thought of the condition of the graves of their deceased friends. This class also has a share of the responsibility in this business and unless they get busy pretty soon it will be somebody's duty to publish a list of names.

It is generally understood that aldermen are elected to see to all the interests of the community and these neglected spots should surely receive some attention from the city fathers.

It is well that a good programme is provided on public holidays to keep the visitors in the central part of the city lest they carry away an unfavourable report of our suburban districts.

There is in this city an organization with a big name. The Peterborough Horticultural Society—and supposed to have an eye for the beautiful. If its members wish to exercise their powers the opportunity is shaking hands with them.

By this time the photographers and the members of the Camera Club will have replenished their supply of plates and films after the monster military demonstration and will be looking for new outdoor subjects. If they visit the old cemetery they can secure some "Jungle Scenes" quite easily.

With all these interests focused on the same object surely something can be done immediately. If the present condition is allowed to continue for another year the cost of clearing the plot will be almost doubled. It's "Now or Never" and the proper sign is "Do It Now." Probably some arrangement can be made with the Trustee Board of the Nicholls Hospital to take over this undesirable lot and improve it. Whether this shall be made into a park or still continue to be "God's Acre," can be decided on later but the all important point is to get the work started at once.

Believing that "Peterborough means Progress," and thanking you, Mr. Editor for this opportunity of saying out loud "Beautify the City," I am, as ever,

UNCLE DUDLEY.

The Peterborough Telephone Club And What It Aims At

The Gazette Gives an Interesting Account of Flourishing Local Organization — Great Progress Has Been Made.

THE MEETINGS HELD.

The Telephone Gazette says:

The Gazette was much interested on a recent visit to Peterborough, Ontario, to observe the working and practical results of a local club of Bell Telephone Company employees, organized under the direction of the energetic and resourceful local manager, Mr. F. W. Doan.

This Club has been in existence for some months and has proven not only an attractive social organization, but through the esprit de corps engendered in the staff, the development of latent talent in its members and the mutual exchange of practical ideas in their every day duties, has been particularly beneficial to the employees and therefore advantageous to the Company.

As we think this offers a suggestion which might well be adopted at many other agencies we give a brief outline of the Peterborough organization and its methods.

The Club officers are a Chairman, Vice Chairman, Sec.-Treas. and critic. The Chairman holds office for one month and is then replaced by the Vice-Chairman. A new Vice-Chairman and Secretary-Treasurer are elected each month and by this rotation of honours and responsibility, interest is maintained and a friendly rivalry established in developing the objects of the Club.

The Club first took up the history of the evolution in telephone instruments and equipment and through the information compiled and presented, the staff was made familiar with the various stages of development which has resulted in the present efficient equipment of a first-class exchange. The Inspectors, especially the older ones, took a great deal of interest in this and prepared large sketches of old and improved styles of wiring, demonstrating practical methods for securing the best results, and avoiding interruptions to the service.

Questions were freely asked and explanations and demonstrations made—until every point was fully amplified. The benefit, especially to the younger inspectors, has been very noticeable, as well as an increased interest in the work.

Later, with a view to interesting the staff in the increase of the Company's business, and incidentally to observe and develop the natural adaptability of individuals in this line, a canvassing class was organized. In turn the members personated Contract Agents and prospective subscribers, or subscribers whose business required, or whose services would be improved by, increased or additional equipment. The Critic, who was selected for his experience and success in this class of work, pointed out mistakes made by the candidates and offered practical suggestions and arguments to secure the desired results.

The benefit from this school of instruction has been particularly noticeable—the men have been trained to think quickly and to express themselves freely and with confidence. They have developed an interest in the Company's success, have been brought to recognize that they can have a part in extending the Company's business and that in doing this they can improve and develop themselves. The result is a Contract Agent in practically every man in the service, with results to the mutual advantages of the staff individually and collectively, and to the Company.

This class has recently started in on a study of the Central Energy switchboard and its parts, and it is hoped to make an exhaustive study which will thoroughly familiarize the whole staff with this, the most important part of exchange equipment.

Later it is anticipated that the scope and studies of the Club will be extended to other features of the Company's service. It is satisfactory to note that the interest of the members is increasing as the advantages of the organization are recognized.

During the winter months four meetings per month were held—two from 5.30 to 6.30 p.m., and two from 8 to 10 p.m. During the summer months only emergency meetings will be held.

DOG SAVES BOY FROM DROWNING IN RIVER

Examiner Special.

New York, June 15.—Just as soon as Freddie Pudmore gets money enough, he is going to buy Blitzen. It is doubtful, however, if he ever will accumulate a sum sufficiently large to tempt "Jack Helper" who owns Blitzen. Blitzen is only a "mut" dog, but, well—

Freddie, who is sixteen years old and lives at 501 East 112th street—the present tense is due to Blitzen—was rowing down the Harlem river late yesterday afternoon when the swell from a railroad tug began to toss his frail craft until he was afraid it would capsize at any moment. With all the strength of his young arms he pulled for a boat house at 124th street, reached it safely, pulled his boat up on the float and remarked a self-congratulary tone to a man who was loitering near by: "Gee, that was a narrow squeak!" promptly missed his footing and fell overboard.

There was a swift tide running and Freddie was swept among the spiles of a dock, only a few yards away, but a difficult place to reach. The man on the float was ready witted. He took in the situation at a glance, turned his head and whistled. In a moment a nondescript cur, which never won a blue ribbon in his life, ambled down from the boathouse. He was none other than Blitzen.

"Here," said the man, who had obtained a rope in the meantime. He tossed one end of it to Blitzen, who caught it between his teeth. Then he whispered something which only Blitzen could understand, and in a second the dog was overboard. He made straight for Freddie, who was just able to catch the rope. The man at the other end pulled and in a few moments the lad was on shore, where a few revolutions on a barrel effectually pumped him out.

Labourers Strike An Oil Well While Excavating On A Lindsay Street

Lindsay, June 17.—While excavating a drain for the placing of a new water main on York street, workmen struck an oil well last evening at the corner of Peel and York streets. One of the labourers, Ben Mayes, drove his pick into the earth and a stream of crude petroleum flowed from the hole he had made in copious quantities.

The presence of the petroleum was first made manifest by the distinct smell of the coal oil. The oily looking surface of the liquid that was pouring from the hole was then noted and when a paper was saturated with it and lighted with a match it flamed up and burned quickly emitting black smoke like coal oil.

The petroleum was mingled with water and the rate with which it flowed out of the hole quickly filled up the bottom of that portion of the drain. The workmen were finally compelled to stop the hole with clay and stones before they could continue their work.

The odour of petroleum, or coal oil, was distinct for a considerable distance around the spot where it was discovered. Many curious people visited the spot last evening.

Petroleum is defined as [illegible] dark brown or greenish [illegible] mixture, which, at certain points exists in the upper strata of the earth's crust from whence it is crushed or forced by the pressure of the gas distending it. It consists of a complex mixture of various hydro carbons largely of the methane series but may vary much in appearance, composition and properties. It is refined by distillation and the product include kerosene, benzine, gasoline, paraffine etc.

If the find is followed up and it is discovered that the liquid exists in considerable quantities in that locality it will be of considerable benefit to the town. Other and more extensive flows may be located.

A REPORT BY THE SCOTTISH COMMISSION

From Farm and Dairy.

"Men with a knowledge of agriculture will find many openings in Canada, but they must be careful," states the report of the Scottish Agricultural Commission which visited Canada last fall. Canada suffers from "honest exaggeration," as well as from a superabundance of land agents and speculators. It is "a country of almost boundless possibilities from an agricultural point of view," but "no man should farm in Canada until he knows the country and its climatic condition, and has learned from experience as a hired hand or otherwise what Canadian farming means."

The Commission is afraid that emigrants settling in Eastern Canada will be smitten, like so many of the Eastern Canadians, with the Western fever, as money is more quickly and easily made on the prairie; but its members see that the westward movement will not last forever, and even now, they consider the expert fruit-grower might well settle in the Annapolis valley of Nova Scotia or the Niagara peninsula of Ontario. "If a man has no ambition and no ability to be anything else than an agricultural laborer," the Commissioners say, "Canada is not the place for him. Everything considered, he will not be any better off in Canada than in Scotland." But if he is determined to "reach the top as an occupying owner, Canada is emphatically the place for him."

The Commissioners are not inclined to minimise the hardships of homesteading on free land. The ordinary man who does not care to be on the frontier of civilisation they recommend to remain a hired hand of a tenant farmer till he has made £400 or £500. With this he could purchase a farm in a partially settled district at from $10 to $15 an acre, payable in instalments. "There is a rich reward for such a man, and to the homesteader, too, if he perseveres to the end. There is independence; there has sometimes been, and there may be yet, great wealth."

"To make the pathway of the Scotch farm laborer to a homestead of his own a little easier," the report suggests the formation of a company to farm on an extensive scale, paying good wages to good men, making handsome profits for itself, giving its own farm servants the first claim to part of its land, breaking up the ground for them and other Scotch settlers by contract, and standing by them in bad years. For the dairymen and market gardener, who has some difficulty in making much money at home, there is no better chance than near the rising towns of the West, where cows and feed are cheap and milking machines get over the labor difficulty. In British Columbia there is at least equal need for care on the part of the emigrants, for land is selling at almost fabulous prices, but the settler has undoubted advantages in climate and soil and in an ever-increasing market. Settlement on the colony system is more needed here than on the prairie, because such a scheme includes co-operation and transport facilities, which are of the essence of fruit-growing.

The unscientific and exhausting way in which prairie farms are compelled to yield crop after crop of wheat without intermission for a long series of years did not, of course, escape the Commissioners' notice. But, taking everything into consideration, wheat growing "gives more than a chance for the man of small means, and a great opportunity for the man of brains and money." Great efforts are being made to propagate early ripening varieties. As in other countries grumbling at railway rates is heard in the Canadian West, but "concessions have been made which seem to be reasonable." The Canadian wheat-grower pays from five to ten cents less per 100 lbs. for transportation over a given distance than his neighbor in the United States. To Canadians Great Britain must largely look in the Commissioners' judgment, for immediate and regular supplies of wheat. "Without pushing the margin of cultivation further back, Canada on virgin soil will by and by be able to make up for more than the deficiency of the United States, and produce wheat at prices which, while tending upwards, will not be exhorbitant."

The parental care of all the Canadian Governments for the agricultural industry is perhaps the most striking fact brought out in the report, and this feature of Canadian administration of affairs is commented upon most favorably. Certainly, a most intelligent campaign for the education of the agriculturist and the benefit of agriculture has been carried on, and it would be strange indeed if all this faithful effort did not affect Canada's status as an agricultural nation.

SLUGS AND MILLIPEDES

From Farm and Dairy.

What is the best method of controlling the slugs and millipedes that injure garden products?—A.P., Huron Co., Ont.

Little damage is done by slugs if poultry are allowed the run of the garden, as they are dainty morsels to the ordinary fowl. Frogs too, are very fond of slugs, and should be protected for their many kind offices to the garden.

There are, however, many other ways of dealing with slugs. If quicklime, ground tobacco or salt is dusted about the vegetables after dusk when the slugs emerge from their hiding quarters in the day-time, especially in rainy weather, many of them will be killed. The poisoned bran-mash, so effective against cutworms, is also a protection from slugs. This is made by mixing thoroughly half a pound of Paris green with 50 pounds of bran, and sweetening the mixture with molasses. Sufficient water should be added to give a firmness to the handfuls of baits distributed about the plants in the rows. Slugs sometimes climb apple trees to eat holes in the fruit, but they can be readily checked by the use of the poisoned bran-mash, or by burlap placed about the trunks.

Millipeds often do much damage to the roots of plants. They also eat holes in potatoes, strawberries and other plants. In some soils they are extremely abundant, and under such conditions it is almost impossible to grow plants from seed. A good plan is to mix thoroughly with the soil some tobacco dust or gas lime, to give the soil a good soaking with kerosene emulsion, or to give two or three light dressings of nitrate of soda. As millipedes usually move about at night, they can be trapped by leaving slices of mangel, potato, etc., lying about. They can be collected in the morning and destroyed. The value of poisoned-baits in their case has not yet been clearly shown.

Millipedes or myriapods are often miscalled blackworms or wireworms, but the latter are the young of click-beetles and have only three pairs of legs. The millipedes have many legs, often several hundred.—Prof. W. Lockhead, Macdonald College, Que.

HOW TO PREVENT MOTHS.

From Farm and Dairy.

This plan for preventing the ravages of moths was given me by a woman who tried it last year and was perfectly satisfied with the results. When she saw the first miller she went through her house, room by room, after this manner. She closed the windows and doors and opened the closets and drawers while she burned about a tablespoonful of gum camphor in a tin plate set on top of a bean pot, and away from all draperies or anything which might ignite from the flames. The room soon filled with the strong fumes of the burning camphor, which penetrated all the closets and drawers, and she let it remain for an hour because it discolors nothing.

She also told me of an excellent powder which she keeps in her closets as a preventive against moth millers. It is made by mixing one ounce each of cloves, mace, nutmeg, tonquin beans, caraway seeds and cinnamon with six ounces of Florentine orris root, all powdered. Put this mixture in bags and hang them among the clothing, or lay them in trunks or drawers where clothing liable to be injured by moths, is packed away. There is no objectionable odor to cling to the clothing—nothing but a sweet, spicy fragrance which pleases the senses. This is good all the year round.—Mrs. B. P. Erose, York Co., Ont.

POULTRY BUILDING ON UP-TO-DATE PRINCIPLES

From Farm and Dairy.

Until a year ago our flock of hens was kept in a bank barn. Owing to the damp and crowded quarters very few eggs were ever received before March 1st. We concluded that if poultry was to be kept at a profit, winter eggs were necessary, and that some suitable building should be provided. Consequently, we constructed a building on the most up-to-date principles, as far as possible. It has been occupied now for over a year, and has been very satisfactory.

The building is of wood, made of scantling frame, set on a cement foundation. The top of the cement wall is about eight inches above the level of the surrounding land. This, with an underdrain insures a dry floor. The house is 50 feet long, 13 feet wide, and 6 feet high. It has a gable roof with a 5 foot pitch. The studs are set about 30 inches apart. On the outside of the sheds, on the back and two ends, are tacked two thicknesses of building paper. The siding is of hemlock, put on up and down, with the cracks battened. The inside of the studding is lined up with ⅝inch basswood, matched,—culls of house lumber. This makes a very neat finish and is easily cleaned. The front, which faces the south, consists of one thickness of lumber, with cracks battened for the first two feet; above that is all glass and curtain. The frames are about 4 feet square. There are five windows and six curtains. The curtains are hinged at the top, so that they may be fastened up. Cheap cotton was used for curtains and it answers very well.

The floor consists of a layer of field stone, covered with clay, packed, and topped with six inches of gravel. This is always dry. The loft is boarded loosely and is covered with a foot or two of straw. The roof is sheeted with fence lumber, and is covered with a felt roofing.

The interior fixtures are simple, consisting of a dropping board, the full length of house, 33 inches wide, and two roosts of similar length. Cotton curtains are arranged to be let down in front of the roosts at night in cold weather. The nests are under the dropping board, with a hinged front and a rear entrance. The house is divided into four pens, wire being used for partitions. This house will comfortably hold 125 fowls, allowing about five square feet of floor space to each. The approximate cost of the building was $1 a hen capacity.

A HINDRANCE TO GOOD ROADS

From Farm and Dairy.

Direct damage to roads by heavy motor cars is not the only way in which they affect our highways. Instances are not uncommon in which they have played an important part in the defeat of the Ontario Good Roads Movement.

The County of Ontario in 1907 at the November session of the Council, passed a by-law to issue $80,000 in debentures for the improvement of their roads. Considerable opposition to this measure was manifested at the following municipal elections. This caused the incoming council of 1908 to pass a by-law to refer the matter to the ratepayers in 1909. The voice of the people was decidedly against the movement.

The County of Ontario as a whole has perhaps the best roads in the Province. The defeat of this measure in a county where the people have shown their appreciation of good roads by spending large sums on their construction in the past is worthy of note.

The County of Ontario lies east of the County of York wherein is located the City of Toronto; it also lies east of Lake Simcoe. The proposition was to make what is known as the Centre Road from Port Whitby to the Narrows bridge near Orillia, a distance of about 75 miles, an up-to-date road. Other shorter pieces of roads leading into various towns and villages were included in the proposition.

The principal argument raised against the proposed expenditure was the automobile nuisance. Large numbers of automobiles leave Toronto in the morning, going north by way of Yonge street. They pass either around the north of Lake Simcoe, or take the shorter route south of the lake, and follow the Centre Road to Whitby, then back to Toronto the same night. The Centre Road has been a good gravel road for more than forty years. It is used much by the farmers and their families in attending markets and in driving to the towns and villages. Many of the older men and women are afraid of the reckless driving of some of these city motorists, and are consequently compelled to take back roads to get in and out of the towns and villages. When the good roads measure came up for consideration the farmers in Ontario County concluded that better roads would only increase the nuisance, and that they would not be able to use new roads when built.

A large number of automobiles are owned in the County, being used by medical men and others. No complaints have been heard against these as their owners exercise consideration when meeting or passing a horse-drawn vehicle. It is the reckless chauffeur from the city that strikes terror into the hearts of women and horses.

The decision of the people in the County of Ontario to not spend a large sum of money on their public roads can be placed to the credit of the automobile. The Ontario government, at the last session of the legislature, should have dealt with this nuisance in a more drastic manner than it did.

The Matchmaking of Bobby.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

With a smile of glorious anticipation illuminating his chubby face, Bobby trotted up the street as fast as a pair of very fat and very little legs would carry him. He was going to see Dick Brant. Next to visiting Alice Mayling this was his greatest treat.

Richard Brant could not make amazing castles and preserves like Miss Mayling, but he could tell stories of Indians and grimalkins and other creatures dear to the small boy's heart. Miss Mayling's stories carried morals and were about little boys who were so very good that Bobby found them extraordinarily uninteresting. Had it not been that the Mayling cakes were as good as her young heroes Bobby would not have been a frequent caller on Alice Mayling.

This afternoon as he was warming his dimpled hands before the open fire he regarded with secret awe the deft fashion in which Brant rolled himself a cigarette with one hand. Brant had been a plainsman until he had run across a mine while he was looking for stray cattle, and he could throw a rope and talk real Indian talk.

"I looked for you yesterday," said Dick Brant gravely as he sank into a chair on the opposite side of the fireplace.

"I was seeing Miss Mayling," explained Bobby. "She makes cake on Thursdays."

"And you deserted me because Miss Mayling was making cake!" cried Dick solemnly. In reality, though he used mock pathos, he was a little jealous of Miss Mayling's popularity with his little chum. Somehow Bobby seemed to Brant the most sincere friend he had made in the big eastern city.

"Cake is nice just out of the oven," explained Bobby. "She always bakes a little cake for me, and of course I have to go and eat it."

"I suppose so," assented Dick, "but I was very lonesome yesterday."

"I'm sorry," said Bobby, with prompt penitence and a troubled face. "Wouldn't it be nice," he added, "if I could go to see you and Miss Mayling at the same time? You could tell me stories and she could bake cake."

He stared into the fire, lost in rapture at the thought of this most valuable combination. Dick looked scared and blushed. He was little used to feminine society, and a suggestion like that, even from Bobby, startled him. Besides, he had been secretly studying Miss Mayling from afar.

"Then you wouldn't be lonesome any more," resumed Bobby, the vast attractions of his good idea growing on him, "not even if I didn't come and see you, 'cause then you and she would have each other. But of course I would come to see you," he added quickly. "It would be awful nice."

"I guess it would," assented Dick a little absently.

"Then why don't you?" demanded Bobby, with engaging directness.

"To begin with, I don't know her," explained Dick. "You see, a man has to know a lady before he can call on her, and I've never met Miss Mayling."

When Bobby finally trotted away he was thinking deeply. It was absurd that his best man should not know Miss Mayling.

At the next baking day at Miss Mayling's the thought was revived, and with a denial that meant immense determination to him he obtained permission to take his small spice cake home. As soon as he was out of her sight he carried it to Brant, his fat legs speeding wonderfully.

"Ain't it fine?" he demanded eagerly when he had watched Brant devour the last spicy morsel, not without envy that almost assumed a poignant degree.

"Simply great," admitted Brant, with unforced enthusiasm. "I tell you, Bobby, the woman who made that cake is a wonder of a cook."

Bobby beamed his professional satisfaction. "I thought you'd like it," he said confidently. "She makes nicer cakes than that sometimes. I'll bring you another when she makes fruit cake."

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible tortare, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Burlington, N.S., writes:—"For years I suffered with Salt Rheum. I tried a dozen different medicines, but most of them only made it worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle and before I had taken half a dozen doses I could see a change so I continued its use and now I am completely cured. I cannot say too much for your wonderful medicine."

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Do you know the difference between washing and having the work done for you?

Sunlight Soap actually makes the dirt drop out—saves you time and money—but injures neither hands nor clothes. That is just the difference between Sunlight Soap and ordinary soaps.

"Don't do it," advised Brant smilingly. "If the fruit cake is as good as this I'm liable to abduct her and force her to bake cake for me for the rest of her life."

"What's abduct?" demanded Bobby. When the word had been explained to him he wrinkled his pudgy brows. But if anything deep idea had come to him, as that contortion would seem to denote, it remained a secret in his fat breast. "Give us an Indian story," he demanded.

"All right, son," said Dick as he stretched himself out in his easy chair and prepared to entertain his small guest with the story of how Chief Spotted Panther carried off his Indian bride from the camp of a hostile tribe.

He was unusually graphic in his story telling, for as he went on he began to imagine that he was Spotted Panther and Miss Mayling was the Indian maid. Thus sadly had the unprincipled suggestions of the schoolboy Bobby contaminated Dick Brant's good manners. But it must be admitted in his favor that it was not the cake, but the memory of her womanly sweetness, that fired his thoughts and lent eloquence to his tongue.

It was a deeply impressed small boy who climbed down off the chair arm when the tale was done and regretfully announced that he would have to be going home. The very next day he went to visit Miss Mayling with the more or less peremptory request that she bake him a fruit cake.

"Going to have a tea party, Bobby?" she asked gayly. But Bobby shook his head solemnly and declined to be drawn into trivial conversation.

"I want it for some one—some one who doesn't get nice cake," he condescended at last, examining Miss Mayling shrewdly as he spoke.

"If you don't tell me who it is I won't bake it for you," she teased, anticipating the revelation of some new love affair. Bobby was as popular as he was fickle, and Miss Mayling, hardened by experience with the young man, supposed that only the power of love could have induced him to forego the eating of her cake the day before.

"Have I got to?" he asked anxiously, fearful that a premature explanation might destroy the success of the abduction.

"Certainly," insisted Miss Mayling. Bobby was dismayed. But the cake must be secured at all hazards.

"It's for Mr. Brant," he explained. "He said if you baked him a fruit cake he'd come with his pony and hit all the chiefs on the head with a tommyhawk and carry you off and make you bake cake for him all the rest of your life. You'll have to live in a tent and cook with hot stones instead of a gas range, and—and—anyhow, he says he'll do it if you tempt him with fruit cake."

Miss Mayling leaned over and kissed the earnest little face.

"I think," she said softly, "that I'll bake two little cakes next week, Bobby, so that you and your friend shall each have one."

Bobby looked into the serene face into which there had crept something he had never seen there before—a tender curve to the even lips, a new light in the brown eyes that made them glow and sparkle and dim with tears by turns.

He had always thought Miss Mayling almost as pretty as his mother, but now he was disloyal for a moment and thought she was more beautiful than anybody he had ever seen.

His moist little fingers clasped her slim, cool hand, and he looked up into her starry eyes.

"I wish I was big enough to 'tect you," he said enviously. "I bet Mr. Brant wouldn't get that cake."

Alice Mayling bent over and pinched his chubby cheeks.

"Bobby, my dear, you remind me of a certain little god without whose aid Lochinvar himself would have failed."

And then she looked up suddenly to see passing her window a tall, straight figure, with his glance firmly fixed ahead.

"Of course he wouldn't be so ordinary as to stare in here," she said softly. "But he's the sort who'll find a way—and I don't think I'll make it very hard for him."

Bobby cuddled closer to her soft, silken frock.

"What makes grownups say things that don't tell anything?" he demanded. But she did not answer.

MIRACLES OF LONDON LIFE.

Nothing Done to Cool Heat of Summer or to Warm Rooms in Winter.

A caustic correspondent of a Swedish newspaper has given his views on the miracles of London life. He says:

"I have heard much of English comfort, but when I came here I failed to discover anything of it. It consists principally of an old armchair, both with the rich and the poor. The Englishman seeks an indefinable ornament of comfort. Seems indeed to be able to be at ease anywhere, as well on the floor as in an easy chair.

"In the suffocating heat of a London summer nothing is done to cool the streets, and in the bars and restaurants beer and soda water are served warm. The arrangements in an English house in winter are completely incapable of keeping the rooms warm. Double windows, used by the poorest in Sweden, are unknown in England.

"In the very best hotels it is true that one finds comfortable chairs, but they are usually placed where no one would think of sitting. I have never yet succeeded in the best hotels in London in getting a room where the electric light switch was anywhere near the bed.

"English cleanliness is much spoken of. The Englishman must have a great deal of water to wash with. A quantity must be splashed all over the room, and in particular there must be a great pool near the washstand. When an Englishman washes his face in 78 cases out of 100 he simply takes the water in his hands and blows it all over the floor.

"Englishmen are mad over fresh air. The expression may seem ironical to those who know how in London one does not so much breathe the air as swallow it. Tramway car windows stand open the whole year round, and there is no country like England for the prosperity of dealers in cough and cold medicines.

"Hygiene may appear to be perfect in London, but they still say that much remains to be done. Spitting is not allowed in the parks, at least not near the seat. I have found that one of the cheapest and best places for spitting is the British Museum, where it only costs $10. On the Great Eastern Railway it does not cost more the first time, but afterward the price is $25 a time."

Did Not Require an Expert.

A well-known business man in a town not far from London discovered one morning recently on entering his office that his safe was out of order. He immediately telegraphed to the Metropolis for an expert.

When the latter arrived he found that the safe—an old-fashioned affair, locked with a key—could not be opened. After a hasty examination the expert, taking a piece of wire, dug out from the key a mass of dust and lint. He then opened the safe in the twinkling on an eye. The business man wore a sickly smile as he asked, meekly:

"How much?"

"Three pounds."

"Do any of your firm's patrons here know of your visit?"

"Not a soul but yourself."

"Then," added the business man, "here's five pounds. I'll take it as a great favor if you'll go back by the first train. If anyone in this town knew that I had paid a man three pounds to dig dirt out of a key for me I'd never do another shilling's worth of business in the whole town."

Surnames in Bosnia.

Bosnia is a land where a man's surname very often varies according to his religion. In the old days families often divided their members between Christianity and Islam, so as to be certain to have friends on the winning side, much as old Scottish families in some case deliberately divided themselves between Jacobite and Hanoverian. In such Bosnian cases, Sir Charles Eliot explains, all representatives of the original family recognise each other as relatives, but generally they use different names for the two branches, conveying the same meaning in Slavonic and Turkish respectively. For example, there are the names Raikovich and Jennetich ("Rai" and "Jennet" both meaning paradise) and Sokolich and Shahinagich ("Sokol" and "Shahin" both meaning falcon).

Clocks and Men.

There was a clock that used to say:
"I run the world both night and day.
Observe things, please, and you will see
The earth and stars keep time with me."

Oh, brother, there are lots of us
Who run things with our fret and fuss!
When we run down we cannot know
That things go just as smoothly, though.

Interesting Drinks.

"We have 5,000 temperance drinks in America," said a temperance lecturer. "That, I believe, is the record.

"Expert as our cocktail-compounding bartenders are, they have none of them mastered the entire American drink question, and they would throw up their wet hands if a man asked for a bak-no-ma-shale, a canaiba, a yaupon, a tarangina or even a mescal.

"You see, all the races that compose America introduce here the drinks of their old homes. Bak-no-ma-shale and rum are colonial cocktails, sweet and perfumed and nasty, that our soldiers and sailors learned to like in the Philippines.

"A tarangina is a slightly acid drink from South America. It is a mixture of the leaves, flowers and fruit of tropical plants—orange, banana, lime, pineapple, lemon, chocolate, mango, guava, tamarind and I don't know what.

"Mescal is a Mexican abomination made of the cactus. It goes down like a bunch of cactus thorns.

"A canaiba is a powerful sugar cane rum that the Jamaicans distill illicitly. For a cent you can buy a pint, though half a pint is quite sufficient."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Queer Fish.

In European fresh water is to be found a very large siluroid known as the wels. Its head is large, broad and depressed, fully as long as the trunk itself, while the tail is compressed and longer than the head and trunk together. The entire fish is destitute of scales and covered with a smooth, slippery skin like an eel. The snout is very short, the mouth broad, with the lower jaw longer and very extensible. There are six barbels around the mouth, two of which, situated on each side of the upper jaw before the eye, are very long, extending nearly to the tail. The other four are much shorter and arranged in pairs on the chin. Owing to its poor eyesight and sluggish movements the wels would be badly handicapped in the race of life if not for these barbels, especially those of the upper jaw, which can be moved voluntarily in every direction in moving leisurely about the fish uses them constantly in feeling its way, and at the same time they serve to attract other fishes, which mistake them for worms. When the wels perceives its prey close enough to be seized it makes a dart and rarely fails to capture it.—New York Tribune.

Too Bad.

"Some men have a good start in life."

"Very true."

"It is different with me, however."

"How different?"

"Mine was a stem."

Turn About.

Mr. Kipling, while on a visit to Mr. Hardy, went to see a house which the author of "Life's Little Ironies" thought would suit him. When Mr. Kipling moved out of earshot, Mr. Hardy observed to the occupant:

"I may mention to you that this gentleman is no other than Mr. Budyard Kipling."

"Is that so?" she replied. "I never heard the name before."

Presently Mr. Kipling, in turn, found himself alone with the lady and remarked:

"Possibly you may not be aware that the gentleman who brought me here to-day is Mr. Hardy, the eminent author."

"Oh, indeed," was her reply. "I don't know his name."—London Chronicle.

London, ex-Watering Place.

Time was when London was a watering place, whose wells, if not rivaling Bath or Harrowgate, were widely famed and frequented by people from all quarters. In South London there were quite a number of spas, Lambeth wells, which sold water for a penny a quart and gave it to the poor for nothing, St. George's wells, Sydenham wells and Dulwich wells being the best known.—The London Graphic.

A Definite Reason.

An English paper tells of a canny Scot whose neighbor met him flitting. Te Best had wife and children and household furniture piled atop the wagon, and he was solemnly driving his one horse along the street.

"So ye're flittin'?" said the neighbor.

"I am. I want to be near me work."

"And where's yer job?"

"I haven't got one yet."

Fruits of a Rival.

"I wouldn't give a fig for you!"
Said the maiden at the gate.
And the young man found her words were true—
She had another date.
—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Singular Effect.

"Hasn't that umpire got a peach of a voice?"

"Yes; a ball once hit him on his Adam's apple, and it has never been the same since."—Town Topics.

A Withering Glance.

I once had a dapple named Spark,
Who met with an auto at dark.
It gave him a glance
That pressed out his pants
And tore off a part of his bark.
—Judge's Library.

What He Married For.

"They tell me you are married," they said to the poet. "How did that happen? Did you marry for money?"

"No," said he, "for better or verse."—New York Press.

Look Out and Up.

If your enemy is an airship man
You'd best keep out of view,
For there's no denying
That when he's flying
He's got the drop on you.

ASK COUNCIL FOR GRANT.

From Farm and Dairy.

A deputation of fruit growers from Durham and Northumberland counties waited on the United Counties Council last week and asked that a grant of $100 be made to assist in preparing a creditable exhibit of fruit for the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition, to be held in Toronto this coming fall. Among others, Messrs. Gibson, and Capt. Dudley, of Newcastle, Mr. Fred Hoar, Mr. Westington, Mr. Reddy, and Mr. Geo. A. Stevens, made up the deputation.

It was pointed out to the Council that fruit growing was one of the greatest industries of the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland. The exhibit made last year by Norfolk County had put many other counties, that could grow better apples, much in the back ground. One of the members of the deputation pointed out that from the exhibits made at the Fair last year, a visitor would get the impression that Norfolk was the only place that apples could grow. When it is known that Durham and Northumberland produce the best apples that can be grown, some effort should be made to have an exhibit worthy of the Counties at this exhibition, in order that the fruit industry of this part of Ontario might be advertised and kept before the public as it should. Warden A. A. Powers promised the deputation the favorable consideration of the Council.

POTATO SPRAYING PROFITABLE

From Farm and Dairy.

The potato spraying experiments of the New York State Experiment Station (Geneva), for 1907 and 1908 are summarised in a single "popular bulletin," No. 307-311. These two years were dry seasons, so that blight was almost wholly absent one year, and little in evidence the other; yet spraying was profitable both years, in the experiments at the Station, in business experiments in which farmers co-operated with the Station and in volunteer experiments reported by other potato growers.

The Station tests have now been continued seven years, with an average gain, at Geneva, of 110 bushels to the acre from spraying every two weeks and of 84 bushels from spraying three times during the season. On Long Island the gains were 54 and 29½ bushels respectively. Six years of farmers' business experiments, covering almost a thousand acres have given an average gain of 43.8 bushels to the acre, and an average net profit of $17.94 an acre.

On 1700 acres sprayed during five years by farmers who have reported their results to the Station, the average gain has been 50½ bushels to the acre. Such results certainly prove spraying potatoes a most profitable practice.

Advice To Young Men.

From Farm and Dairy.

Remember, my son, you have to work. Whether you handle pick or wheelbarrow, or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a newspaper, ringing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. Don't be afraid of killing yourself by overworking on the sunny side of thirty. Men die sometimes, but it is because they quit at 6 p.m. and don't get home till 2 a.m. It's the interval that kills, my son. The work gives you appetite for your meals; it lends solidity to your slumber; it gives you perfect and grateful appreciation of a holiday. There are young men who do not work, but the country is not proud of them. It does not know their names even; it only speaks of them as "old so-and-so boys." Nobody likes them; the great busy world doesn't know that they are here. So take off your coat and make dust in the world. The busier you are, the less harm you are apt to get into, the sweeter will be your sleep, the brighter and happier your holidays, and the better satisfied the world will be with you.—Rev. R. J. Burdette.

Yes, come into the garden. Spring wears her greenest gown.

BORED TO DEATH.

A Youthful Suicide Who Had Exhausted Life's Sensations.

On the evening he committed suicide recently at Monte Carlo Ferdinand Ravenes, a wealthy Spaniard only twenty-one years of age, said to a friend, "The only sensation that I have not experienced is that of death."

In spite of his youth, Raveres was an accomplished parachutist, swordsman and pistol shot. His name first came into prominence at the time of his duel with M. Gustave de Villette, perhaps the most famous duelist. The meeting was postponed for ten months after the quarrel until M. Ravenes, who had never handled a weapon of any description, should attain his majority. During the interval he practiced fencing with assiduity. The duel took place last May, and M. de Villette was so gravely wounded in the chest that for months he hung between life and death.

An authentic anecdote is told of a visit M. Ravenes made to Morocco. As the steamship was approaching Tangier Ravanes was chatting with a Spanish diplomat who boasted intolerably of the welcome that would greet him at the port. M. Ravenes at once made a wager that his own arrival would be still more startling. As the ship dropped anchor in the harbor and the usual crowd of small craft approached her the young man jumped overboard. Avoiding the boats which at the cries of "Man overboard!" endeavored to rescue him, he swam vigorously to shore. The adventure attracted the attention of the crowd, and the diplomat's arrival passed unnoticed

M. Ravenes's final act was accompanied by no less dramatic surroundings. Wintering at Monte Carlo, he invited a number of friends to supper at a restaurant. Champagne was abundant, and an orchestra of Hungarian musicians played exotic music. To his guests, who remarked on the luxury of the feast, the host replied: "All this is nothing. The surprise is coming at the end." As dawn began to break the company thought of separating, when Ravenes said: "I promised you a surprise. Here it is!" And, getting up suddenly, he mounted the musicians' platform, produced a revolver and blew out his brains.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bad Coins in Church.

Vestrymen in a number of New York churches are complaining of the quantity of counterfeit coins found in collection boxes nowadays. Time was when a piece of counterfeit money in the contribution box was a curiosity. Persons who were unfortunate enough to get stuck with spurious coins took good care not to pass them off in church. Whether they are less conscientious now or less able to detect the character of the change they handle is a question still to be answered. Churchmen hesitate to suspect the congregation of having up counterfeit dimes, quarters and half dollars for the collection plate as the easiest way of discharging their church duties and at the same time getting rid of bad money, but with all their charitable intentions there are those counterfeit coins to be explained away somehow. —New York Times.

England's Money Honors.

It has always been the policy of the rich who have controlled England and still control her to reward men of great usefulness to the government with plenty of money. When they wanted to honor Lord Roberts they didn't stop at merely sending him a patent of nobility. They paid him in vulgar bank notes. I knew Lord Cromer in London. He did a great thing for his country—that is, for the ruling classes of his country—and when his time came to quit they paid him something like £10,000 a year. And I am glad to say that he is man enough to think it isn't enough.—American Magazine.

Salt Seasoned Timber.

A workman was packing salt about a pile of timber. "Seasoning timber with salt, eh? It sounds like a joke, doesn't it?" he said. "It is often done, though, especially in ship timber. Ships built of salt seasoned timber get a better insurance rate. Some very rich woods are seasoned in boiling oil. That's an ancient and costly process. A new dodge is electrical seasoning. With strong electric shocks the sap is driven out of the wood and replaced by a solution of borax and resin. The scheme is cheap—not half as good as salt."—New York Press.

Powerful Searchlight.

The flagship Connecticut of the United States navy is now equipped with the most powerful searchlight in the world. It has a strength of 180,000,000 candle power, which, for the sake of comparison, is 179,908,000 candle power more powerful than the ordinary street arc lamp. The great mirror is five feet in diameter and was made for the government in Germany. The searchlight will throw such an immense beam of light that it will be able to detect a submarine or torpedo boat at a distance of ten miles.—Popular Mechanics.

THE PRIZE APPLES.

They Were Not Submitted to the Committee on Awards.

This is a story of six prize apples, of Samuel G. Blythe, editor, writer and formerly president of the Gridiron club, and of Robert H. Davis, editor, writer and good all around fellow. It happened in Washington, when Davis called upon Blythe in his office.

There were six large, perfect and luscious looking apples standing in a row on the office window sill, their rosy cheeks polished till they gleamed like rubies. They tempted Davis, and he promptly ate one. Then he ate another while talking to Blythe. Then he put the third in his pocket for refreshment on the way home.

About an hour later Blythe received a note from Davis by messenger with a request to give the bearer the three remaining apples. Blythe's sense of chivalry made him comply with the request, and he wrapped up the three ruby cheeked prize apples, put them in a box and delivered them to the messenger boy without the least appearance of regret at relinquishing that for which he had worked and planned for months.

The apples were the largest of a specially fine variety and had been carefully cultivated by Blythe on his farm in the northern part of the state. They had arrived that morning and had been set aside for the moment, to be later packed and sent to the committee on awards at the agricultural exhibition. Blythe had hoped to get a prize for them, but he was too magnanimous and gallant to deny them to a friend, and so Davis ate all of the six prize apples.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Another Idol Shattered.

An iconoclast in the person of Dr. Eduard Engel in a lecture recently delivered before the members of a literary society in Hamburg on "The Legend of Charlotte von Stein" tore to pieces all the illusion which clustered around her name. He showed by old letters and other documents that the woman to whom Goethe had written 1,500 letters which portrayed the innermost thoughts of his mind and heart despised all that was noble. She called all literary people "fools" and made sport of them. When Schiller died she congratulated his family, saying that it was better to live alone than to be compelled to abide in the neighborhood of "unnatural company." The lecturer ended the discourse by saying that Goethe's letters to Charlotte will now be read "with feelings of sympathy for the unselfish love and admiration for the poet's boundless imagination which formed a goddess out of this nothing."

A Telephone News Service.

The city of Budapest has a news telephone service with which news items, music, etc., are transmitted to the various subscribers. At about 9 o'clock in the morning a buzzer is sounded for about fifteen seconds, after which the correct time is announced. Then the subscriber is told the program of the day, which is carried out on a time schedule. First there are stock quotations and news items, then the parliamentary news, closing prices of stocks, the weather forecast, etc. Toward evening the subscriber can listen to music at the cafes or gardens and in the evening to the royal opera or one of the theaters. The service costs $7.31 per year.—Scientific American.

Society Nicknames in England.

It is difficult to imagine that dignified individual, the Rev. Lord William Cecil, who objected recently to common policemen restraining the exuberant spirits of highborn youths at Oxford, being referred to as "Fish," or Lord Alington, his majesty's host the other day at Crichel, being called "Trottens."

Other nicknames are "Tatters," borne by the Duchess of Newcastle, and "Cuckoo," which serves for both Lady Shaftesbury and Lady Lucan, while Lord Heneage is "Smike," Lord Raglan "Chalks," Lord Winchester "Tim," the Duke of Marlborough "Sonny," Lord Londonderry "C." and Lord Yarmouth "The Bloater."—London Tit-Bits.

The motto of chivalry is also the motto of wisdom—to serve all, but love only one.—Balzac.

"CAN I GET WELL?"

If Your Trouble comes from the Kidneys, or from Kidney Poisons in the Blood,

YES!

And if you have been ailing a long time don't lose your courage. It takes a little time—takes some constitutions longer than others. But Doan's Kidney Pills will gradually drain the poisons out of your system; the pain in your back will stop; the sediment in the urine will cease; there will be no rheumatic pains; you will feel freer and brighter, and when the last of the poisons have gone you will be well.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. W. Perkins, South Maitland, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. For six months I could not obtain a good night's rest, had to get up four or five times to urinate, and the urine was very thick and red. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Coming Down Easy.

Inquiries after the welfare of Patrick Conroy were answered by his devoted friend, Terence Dolan, who was at the Conroys' in the double capacity of nurse and cook. "No, he's not dangerous hurted at all," was Mr. Dolan's reply to a solemnly whispered question at the door.

"We heard he had a bad fall and was all broke to pieces," whispered the neighbor.

"'Tis a big story you've heard," said Mr. Dolan in his cheerful roar. "Thrue, he fell off'n the roof o' the Brady stables, where he was shinglin', and he broke his lift leg, knocked out a couple o' teeth and broke his collar bone.

"Mind ye, if he'd have fell clear to the ground it might have hurted him bad; but, sure, there was a big pile of shtones and old lumber that broke his fall."

Coquelin's Memory.

"How many parts do you know well enough to play to-night if need be?" somebody once asked Coquelin. He took a sheet of paper and wrote down the names of fifty-three plays of his repertoire. His friends laughed.

"You are boasting surely, mon ami?" said the Viscomte de Lovenjoul.

"You have every one of these plays in your library," said Coquelin quietly. "Get them all out and put them on the table." The viscomte did so.

"Now," said Coquelin, "let anybody select a cue from any one of these plays at haphazard and give it me."

They tried him with sixteen plays out of the fifty-three, and he never missed a single cue or made one mistake.—Fortnightly Review.

Armor Plated Pawnshops.

The inside of a Chinese pawnshop is a terra incognito to most people, Chinese and English. Few are admitted within its mysterious walls except those directly connected with the business. A traveler was recently permitted to inspect one in an inland town and was surprised to find the entire building incased in sheet iron about one-eighth of an inch thick. It must have cost a large sum to build an iron house within the usual lofty brick edifice, yet there it was, even to the roof. It served a twofold purpose—a protection against fire and thieves. Yet even within this iron castle night watchmen armed with heavy revolvers and clad in bullet proof jackets ever keep watch.

Color Blindness.

Forty men and four women in a thousand are either wholly unable to perceive certain colors or can recognize them only with difficulty. All attempts to overcome color blindness by educating the color sense have failed. There are three theories of color vision, all of which are based on the workings of the sensitive fibrils of the inner eye.

TO REGULATE THE LIQUOR CONTROL

Anglicans of West Favor the Gothenburg System.

PROHIBITION IS USELESS

Canon Murray in Moving Resolution at Synod of Prince Rupert's Land, Declares that Local Option System Has Proven a Failure—To Prohibit Is to Upset Principles of Christian Liberty.

Winnipeg, June 18.—The Anglican Synod of Rupert's Land endorsed the principles of the Gothenburg license system as the best means of controlling the liquor traffic, after a protracted debate. The synod was divided into three camps: the advanced temperance party, the moderate, who desired Gothenburg control, and therefore favored the resolution which was submitted yesterday by Canon Murray, and a third party, who desired things to remain as at present. Canon Murray, in moving the resolution, said:

"The liquor traffic, as at present carried on in Manitoba, is a source of much evil, moral, physical, intellectual and industrial. Most of the remedies which have been tried, and have been most popular, have not been attended with sufficient success to justify following." The canon discussed, first, prohibition, which had been put forward. Even if prohibition could be carried out, it is regarded as a remedy impossible for the Anglican body, being inconsistent with the principles of Christian liberty for which the Church stands. With the exception of the rural districts, where a vast majority of the people do not desire intoxicating liquor, prohibition does not succeed. The speaker went largely into statistics to establish this. The failure of prohibition was attributed to lack of public sentiment; secondly, it was merely negative. That method is not constructive, and it does not remove the lust of private gain; it does not put the liquor traffic out of politics.

The results cannot be secured by local option, and he believed the only real restraint lay in following the Gothenburg idea.

The debate developed the fact that the sentiment of the synod was overwhelmingly in favor of the Anglican Church declaring itself upon the great question, and offering, a well-defined policy to its people. The resolution finally carried by a large majority.

Prize for Civilian Riflemen.

Ottawa, June 18.—With a view to the greater encouragement of rifle shooting among members of civilian rifle associations, the Militia Council will offer "The Dominion of Canada Prize" to each gazetted and efficient Civilian Rifle Association, for competition during this season. The prize is a nickel silver ornamented salver, 10 inches in diameter, bearing the coat of arms of the Dominion, with an inscription. Competitors must be duly enrolled members of the association they represent. To be eligible, it will be necessary for the association to hold four competitions during the season in which at least forty per cent. of the members must take part.

Paid $150 For Promotion.

Montreal, June 18.—At the royal commission yesterday, among the many members of the fire department who were heard, Capt. Pressean was the only one who testified that money had been paid for promotion.

The captain's experience occurred some years ago when he was approached by one of the surgeons in the department who undertook to secure his promotion for $200. Pressean compromised for $150, and shortly afterwards was advanced to foreman. His subsequent promotion did not cost him anything.

Justice Cannon announced that he would continue the usual sittings of the commission until June 30th.

Is Harry Thaw Sane?

Fishkill Landing, N.Y., June 18.—Harry K. Thaw was taken from the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan to White Plains yesterday for a hearing before Justice Mills to determine whether or not he is now sane. Thaw was in custody of Dr. Baker and two attendants from the asylum, and was accompanied by the Rev. George H. Toop, rector of St. Luke's Church at Matteawan, for whom he has formed an attachment. Proceedings similar to those now in progress were instituted last summer, but were withdrawn by Thaw after Justice Mills had refused to grant him a hearing before a jury.

During Theft of Evidence.

Kansas City, Mo., June 18.—Miss Annie Lee Owen, official stenographer in the investigation of the police department to decide whether illegal resorts are allowed to do business was slugged while working in her office and stenographic notes reporting the testimony of witnesses in the hearing stolen.

Admiral Doesn't Like Cigarettes.

Washington, June 18.—Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic battleship fleet, has recommended to the Secretary of the Navy that no cigarettes be sold at the ships' stores at any of the vessels under his command.

HON. P. LANDRY IS VERY MUCH VEXED

Describes a Visit to Jail to See Editor Fournier.

LIKE COMMON CRIMINAL

Dominion Senator Grows Eloquent in Description of Indignities Heaped Upon Editor of Le Nationaliste—Wears Old Prison Garb and Is Herded With "Thieves and Assassins," Says Senator.

Montreal, June 18.—Hon. P. Landry, Senator of the Dominion, has been visiting Jules Fournier, editor of Le Nationaliste, who is confined in the Quebec jail, having been sentenced to three months for contempt of court. The Senator says:

"I asked for the prisoner, and he appeared behind a double iron grating which separates by four feet the assassins and the thieves from their relatives and their friends. In the lighted prison cage, which one traverses to reach the grating in question, an ordinary prisoner talks with the members of his family without any restraint whatever; but Fournier, guilty of a newspaper offence, is left without mercy behind a double grating in company with two other prisoners, who were also receiving a visit from several relatives.

"As three people only can sit in front of the grating, I was obliged to trouble the conversation of the two other prisoners, as they were forced by the circumstances to interfere with mine, for the reason that the distance separating Fournier and myself was so great we had to converse in a very loud tone to be as all understood.

"Fournier was dressed in the ordinary prison garb, a sort of blue drilling, barred trousers, and a ten-cent straw hat, all being worn to a fringe, having been used by several prisoners who had used the clothing before him.

"I remember some years ago, when Mathurin, who had been condemned to death, was awaiting his execution, of having paid a visit to the miserable man, Mr. Bernatchess being governor of the jail. He personally brought me to the prisoner, whom I could see close at hand, and I also remember that he wore his own clothing. In comparing, therefore, the treatment inflicted upon Fournier and those who visit him with that accorded to Mathurin, it will be easily understood what sentiments such a visit produces, and if I do not give expression to my indignation here it is because I do not want him to suffer for the just indignation because of the persecutions to which he is made to suffer to-day.

"He, however, supports it all bravely, convinced that he had right on his side when he denounced the administration of justice; he has no desire to lessen the value of his act in bowing before those who threatened him with imprisonment. He entered his cell holding his head high. He underwent the ignominious treatment of being made the victim of an insulting inspection like a vile criminal, and after they had stripped him of everything he possessed, they took away his clothing and replaced them with the garb of a vulgar bandit. He endured, however, all these humiliations with the serene conscience of a man who had done his duty. From his prison cell he will walk out carrying high his head."

"Fournier neither asks pity or favor. In fact he has nothing to ask from the reign of despotism and terror which exists all over the Province of Quebec. Fournier will do his time, and others will suffer like him, but the day will come when the cup will run over, and the people will do justice to themselves."

Queen's New Buildings.

Kingston, June 18.—Queen's University trustees have chosen the Union street grounds as a site for the two new science buildings to be erected, one for chemistry and the other for mining and metallurgy.

When the two buildings are completed Queen's University will consist of fourteen buildings. The extra campus ground will be bought alongside the present university athletic grounds, and a clubhouse erected.

Houses Burned.

Ottawa, June 18.—Fire yesterday morning caused the partial destruction of several buildings and entailed a loss of $15,000. The blaze was in the vicinity of J. R. Booth's lumber piles, and a high wind was blowing.

Dr. Marsh Secured Some Photographs Of Eclipse

Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, of the Peterborough Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society, gave the Examiner some interesting details of last evening's partial eclipse of the sun, which was watched with interest by Peterborough people. The exact moment for the eclipse in Springville was 6.51.31. The first visible contact was observed at 6.51-28. The sky being cloudy at noon Dr. Marsh had not the opportunity of correcting his watch hence the time may have been two seconds astray.

While the sun was too low for good photographs Rev. Dr. Marsh succeeded in getting two fairly good photographs of the eclipse with the assistance of his five-inch telescope, exposing one plate at 7.10, and the second at 7.20. The image on the plate is five and one-half inches in diameter.

Dr. Marsh's son, James, while fishing on the river, succeeded in obtaining three photographs of the eclipse, with a 5 by 7 camera, demonstrating what can be done even with a small camera.

The eclipse was of little scientific value in this latitude, being only partial, while the sun being so low, the observer was not able to note the lunar hills, owing to a refraction interfering with the keenness of definition, while the sun was obscured before the lunar shadows had reached the spots. Hence no comparison could be made between the density of the shadow of the moon and the sun spots.

Wants Names Of "Old Montrealers" Residing In Peterborough

Mr. E. Goodwill, secretary of the Canadian Club of this city has received a letter from Mr. W. E. Findlay of Montreal, asking for the names of former residents of that city residing here. It is the intention of the leading citizens of Montreal to hold a reunion of all old Montrealers, for one week from September 13th to 20th. It is the purpose of those at the head of the affair to give the old residents an opportunity to see the wonderful expansion and growth of the city and also provide a programme of entertainments.

Montreal old boys and girls residing here are asked to leave their names with Mr. Goodwill that they might be forwarded to Mr. Findlay.

The Millionaire Tramp Is A Most Polite Hobo

New York, June 18th.—James Eads How, "the millionaire tramp," was addressing six hundred resident and visiting members of Mr. How's Unemployed Association, at Fourth avenue and 26th street, telling them that it ill behaved any of them to go to Philadelphia and join the strikebreakers, when Policeman O'Sullivan came along on his motorcycle. Hearing this charge to the six hundred O'Sullivan got off his wheel, brushed the dust from his uniform and advanced to te orator.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said, "but this cannot go on. You have no permit, and this year all street meetings have permits. I shall be obliged to place you under arrest."

"I appreciate your courtesy in telling me what you intend to do," said Mr. How, taking his hands out of the air, where he had been waving them in denunciation of strikebreakers. "I shall accompany you."

"Shall I call the wagon?" asked the policeman, "or would you mind the walk? It is only a few steps to the East Twenty-second street station."

"There is nothing of which I am fonder," said Mr. How, "than a brisk walk in the open air."

The policeman and the orator walked off together, followed by that part of the six hundred to whom te proximity of a station had no terrors. When Mr. How and the policeman and their twenty or thirty followers reached the station they found there Alexander Law and Cora Harvey, of Oklahama, officers in the Unemployed Association. Mr. How presented the policemen to the officers and the policeman said he was delighted to meet them.

I regret that I shall have to leave you, but I leave you in good hands," said O'Sullivan, "and I ust get back to the job."

"I am sorry to have you go," said Mr. How, "I am glad to have met you and hope that I'll see you again some time."

Bishop Construction Company Will Build the New Dam for Water Commissioners—Their Tender the Lowest—Was Accepted on the Recommendation of Engineer—Wm. Hamilton Company Get Contract for Pumps.

FIGURES OF TENDERS

The Bishop Construction Company, of Montreal, was this morning awarded the contract for the construction of the new Water Works dam, while the contract for the furnishing of pumps and water wheels was divided between the William Hamilton Company, of Peterborough, and the John McDougall Caledonia Iron Works Company, Limited, of Montreal.

The Water Commissioners met this morning to award the contract. The tenders were opened on Wednesday morning and have been in the hands of Engineer Wm. Kennedy since that time. To-day, acting on his recommendation, the Commissioners awarded the contract for the construction of the new dam to the Montreal firm.

Another item in the specifications was for the construction of a rectangular tunnel for the diversion of a creek, but this was eliminated by the Commissioners as they had arranged with William Taylor and Company to furnish a concrete pipe at a lower figure than in any of the tenders.

There were twelve tenders in all, the details of which are given below.

The Tenders

The key to the tenders is as follows:

No. One—Earth excavation per cubic yard.
No. Two—Rock excavation per cubic yard.
No. Three—Concrete, 1, 2, 4, per cubic yard.
No. Four—Concrete, 1, 3, 5, per cubic yard.
No. Five—Concrete, 1, 4, 8, per cubic yard.

SUMMER SOLSTICE, ECLIPSE, GALES AND COLD DIP, ENSEMBLE

The gale of last night may be the forerunner of the solstitial storm period which falls on June 21st, when we have the longest day and shortest night of the year. The weather disturbances come upon the 21st or a few days before or after. The accompanying cold dip to-day may be a little solar ill temper, on account of an important and firmamentally influential body like the sun being permitted to be eclipsed by a passee old maid like the moon.

If the sky is clear this afternoon, if the wind falls at sunset, if the sky remains clear, and if the temperature doesn't warm up a little, there will probably be frost and—another if—if people who have bedding plants out, do not afford them protection, tender plants will be nipped, and the bean crop imperilled.

Thumb Was Severely Cut By A Circular Saw

John Mulhall, 816 Water street, an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company, was the victim of a very painful accident while at work yesterday. He was using a circular saw when in some manner his left hand came in contact with the rapidly revolving teeth and a severe gash was inflicted. Dr. Young was called and, assisted by Dr. McMahon, who is to take Dr. Young's practice during the latter's absence in camp with the Battery at Cobourg, amputated the left thumb. The injury, although painful is not serious.

C. G. E. Company Donate $25 To Firemen's Benefit Fund

Chief Howard received a cheque for twenty-five dollars this morning from Mr. E. G. Patterson, Superintendent of the Canadian General for the brigade's good work at a recent fire at the works.

The letter accompanying the cheque is as follows:

Peterborough, June 17, '09.
Chief Howard, Fire Department, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—Please accept our thanks and appreciation for the very efficient manner in which yourself and brigade extinguished the fire in our sub-station on the night of Sunday, 13th inst. Also please accept enclosed cheque to augment the funds of the Firemen's Benefit Association.

Yours truly,
Canadian General Electric Co. L't'd.

East End Of Stony Lake Is To Have Telephone Line

Messrs. Dawson and Allen of the Mount Pleasant Independent Telephone Company were in town Monday and Tuesday and went over the route of the proposed telephone line between Norwood and Stony Lake. We understand that they received sufficient encouragement to insure the immediate construction of the line and Mr. Dawson stated before leaving that work would be begun in a few days. The poles for the line were taken out some time ago and are ready to be put in the ground. Mr. Dawson has the promise of fifteen subscribers along the route.—Norwood Register.

COUNTY COUNCIL INSPECTED NEW BRIDGE AT BUCKHORN

Went on Tour of Inspection Yesterday—Combined Business With Pleasure and Had Enjoyable Outing.

HAD A SPLENDID TRIP

The County Council went on a trip of inspection yesterday to the bridges under their supervision, at Buckhorn, and at Gannon's Narrows. A visit was also made to Ball Lake, where it is proposed to build the new float bridge. Business was combined with pleasure, and altogether a very enjoyable time was spent. The trip was made on the Steamer Manita, the party driving to Chemong in busses, going on board at about half-past nine.

The party was composed of Warden R. N. Scott and his council, and Aldermen Phelan and Buller, of the City Council, Mr. E. A. Peck and E. M. Elliott and Mr. Wm. Gallon, of Apsley.

The trip from Chemong to Buckhorn was made in good time, and no stops were made between the two points. Upon arrival at Buckhorn the party went ashore and had dinner at Mr. T. Eastwood's hotel.

Then the trip was continued to Gannon's Narrows, and on to Bobcaygeon, where a stop of three-quarters of an hour was made, which allowed the passengers to go ahead and see the village. Shortly after 4 o'clock the trip to Chemong was commenced, and upon arrival at the park Warden Scott and his guests had tea at the hotel where an excellent menu was greatly enjoyed.

From Chemong the party returned to the city by bus, arriving here about 8.30 o'clock.

At Bucknorn.

After dinner was partaken of at Eastwood's Hotel, the Council inspected the new Government bridge over the dam. It is a creditable piece of work and a great improvement on

It will be remembered that the old county bridge crossed on the old government dam, and when the dam was rebuilt the bridge was destroyed. It was up to the county to construct a new bridge, and the engineer estimated that one of steel would cost some $10,000. A deputation went to Ottawa and requested the government to build the bridge over the dam and to make it all of concrete, except the swing. This was agreed upon on condition that the county pay $3,000 towards the cost.

The Buckhorn bridge itself is 400 feet long, and with the swing and approaches is 800 feet long. The Government has certainly made a splendid job of both the bridge and the dam.

The approaches to the bridge were hardly wide enough for two loaded waggons to pass, and a deputation waited upon the Government last winter and were successful in having them widened. This work has been completed and the Councillors were greatly pleased with the job.

After the bridge was inspected the party went over to the Buckhorn cheese factory where they watched the manufacture of cheese for a while.

At Gannon's Narrows.

The boat then made a trip to Gannon's Narrows, where they inspected the floating bridge.

Councillor Shaw was in charge of the party here as he is most particularly interested in this bridge. Mr. Shaw wants the county to build a third pier about midway between the two already built. He claims that it will afford the bridge greater strength and will break the force of the storm water, which has a great sweep coming down the lake. The bridge at the present time is in good shape, and as it is an expensive and heavily travelled bridge the county cannot afford to take any chances on it. The probability is that the pier will be built.

FELL FROM BUGGY

Intoxicated Man Narrowly Escaped Being Injured Yesterday.

A farmer who had evidently tarried too long at the bar yesterday afternoon, met with an accident which probably would have resulted more seriously had it not been for the timely action of a citizen. The intoxicated farmer near the post office fell from his buggy and in some manner got his foot caught between the board and the seat of the vehicle. He could not get free and had the horse not have stood still he undoubtedly would have been badly hurt. However, the timely action of a citizen avoided any mishap.

RATING WILL BE THE BEST

Chief Howard Was in Toronto Yesterday—Summoned There by Board of Underwriters—Discussed Matters of Fire Protection.

WAS ENTERTAINED.

Chief Howard was summoned to Toronto yesterday by the Board of Fire Underwriters, for the purpose of discussing some objectionable defects in the electric wiring of the city. The Fire Chief was instructed to pay particular attention to these. The recent re-inspection of Peterborough, the re-rating, and some matters in connection with general fire protection.

While the Secretary of the Board would not give any statement as to the key rate for Peterborough, he intimated that this city was to have the best of any in the Province.

The Inspectors, who were in the city a short time ago, reported to the board that of all the cities they had visited, in none had they received such courteous treatment from the Fire Chief as they had in Peterborough. In addition of this fact, the Board entertained Chief Howard at dinner yesterday at the King Edward hotel.

THIS IS A RARE BIRD

Resembles a Turkey, But Taxidermist Eleome Has Never Seen One of the Variety Before.

On May 28th, Mr. Wm. Graham, of Westwood, saw a bird which was new to him, in actions it resembled a Turkey, and being very tame he threw a stone at it and if all his aims are as successful he will never miss his mark. He gave it to Mr. Michael Walsh and he has had it mounted by E. Eleome, taxidermist. Mr. Eleome has been observing birds, etc., closely for 25 years, and has never seen one before, but traced it up and found its name the "Bartramian Sandpiper" this bird should find its way into our Collegiate or Normal Schools.

JUSTICE TO ALL

Canadian justice plays fair with even the "Heathen Chinee." On Wednesday, at Osgoode Hall, Mr. Justice Latchford directed judgment to be entered by consent for $1,250 damages for the death of Sheung Tim Fat, who was one of the persons killed in the Canadian Pacific Railway wreck near Kenora on January 28, 1907, when he was en route from China to British Guiana. His widow, Yeung Ah Ying; his mother, Cheung Tam Kien; Cheung Lau Shi, and his son, Cheung Tam Kien, brought action, the writ being issued Wednesday morning. But the action was settled in the company a little later in Single Court, the plaintiffs being also awarded $100 damages for loss of the baggage of deceased, which went on to Montreal and was sold, being unclaimed. The apportionment of the award is to be agreed upon between the parties and sanctioned by the Judge. Under a less effective system of justice than Canada's, the railway, like other corporations, might have fought the issue out in the courts.

DOING THINGS

Why can't government and representative bodies generally get into motion something more promptly than a heavy freight train on an upgrade? We have governments, provincial and other, confronted with the serious menace to our forest growth and the duty of taking preservative and restorative measures. Yet though they are willing to act there must be so much investigation, so much red tape before taking action that a business firm would only ask a few weeks' or a few months' notice to inaugurate. It is shown that on occasion governments can act promptly. The lock gates at the Soo were recently smashed to smithereens, yet Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, was "onto the job" in a few hours, visited the wrecked lock and had the work of repair under way as rapidly as the most wide-awake and energetic private business firm could have done. The way to do a thing is to do it. Government civic bodies and representative corporations generally, should note this.

MUST HAVE OUR PULP

The United States in its tariff intensity is rather cutting off its nose to spite its face, that is if it thinks it is going to disturb Canada by imposing a duty of 1-12 of a cent per pound on Canadian pulp. The result will be that American consumers—the users of print paper—will have to pay higher prices, while the price of Canadian plup or the demand will not be prejudicially affected. A first-rate authority like Mr. Charles Riordan, of Montreal, says that the United States can't get on without Canadian pulp. His opinion is supported by the fact that though last year the demand in the United States for Canadian pulp was less than in 1907, the price increased; and though the price of Canadian pulp is two dollars per ton dearer than that of the United States, yet there has been a large exportation of pulp from this country across the border. This, even without the testimony of the United States forestry officials, shows that the United States cannot get along without our mechanical pulp. The cost will be further advanced by the prohibition of export of aCnadian pulp wood in an unmanufactured condition. We are justified in rejoicing at and course of events that tends to prevent or retard the depletion of our forest resources.

THE WARMED VIPER.

Germany is the warmed viper of history. To-day, June 18th, 1909, is the ninety-fourth anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, which was fought and won by Willington on June 18th, 1815. That day the unconquerable British squares resisted the desperate ly impetuous rushes of Ney's Napoleonic cavalry and held the field till Blucher and his Prussians completed the signal victory. Thus Britain's infantry crushed Napoleon's power and saved Prussia, whose forces he had defeated at Ligny two days before. This victory, won by British arms, changed the map of Europe, or rather restored it from the wreckage which the conquering Corsican had inflicted upon it. In the early years of the last century Great Britain almost paralyzed her resources and piled up the bulk of her national debt in making head against Bonaparte. A considerable portion of this debt was accumulated in helping Prussia to keep her armies in the field and enabling them to defend the soil of the Vaterland. It is claimed by German historians that the victory of Waterloo was due to the arrival of the Prussian Army at the close of the engagement, when the victory was practically won. But, whatever part the Prussians contributed to the rout into which the defeat degenerated, the fact remains that there would have been no Prussian army to be defeated at Ligny, or to share the spoils of victory without English capital. Without Britain there would have been no Waterloo, without Waterloo there would have been no Prussia, and without Prussia there would have been no Germany. The fabled farmer warmed the viper on his hearth; the viper turned and stung him. Great Britain made Germany possible and now the power created by British capital and British valour is in arms against the very source to which it owes its autonomic existence. Not only is Germany's present attitude a mark of ingratitude, but it represents a failure to recognize to what an extent the civilization, the autonomy of European powers and the liberties and privileges that make them great and powerful are to be credited to the achievemnt of Great Britain, especially in the latter end of the eighteenth, and the beginning of the nineteenth, centuries. The real era of civilisation began at Waterloo. Then democracy was released from the thrall of tyranny, a relentless despotism was crushed. A writer in the Montreal Witness puts this succinctly: "Though Germany has taken the place of France as a military nuisance to Europe, militarism is a fading force in the control of national destinies." A hundred years ago Britain brought peace to Europe by the force of her brigades; to-day Britain is holding head against a military despotism, more by the diplomacy of her crowned Peacemaker than by the might of her Dreadnoughts. The Dreadnought is still indicated, but it is in the form of a reserve force. The real force, the real influence is the influence of the higher civilisation, which was born on the field of Wateloo. Shall the warmed viper win?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Syracuse, N.Y., Post-Standard says:—"The manner in which the Government Canal Department at Ottawa is now dealing with the wreck in the Soo canal locks signally illustrates the modern Canadian way of doing things. Whether we like to make the admission or not, it sets an example of efficiency in Governmental methods better than ours, and worthy to be copied on this side of the border."

There must have been a good deal of bubble in the report that the Ontario government was offered twenty million dollars for the Gillies Limit, for at the auction sale conducted by the government on Wednesday, at the prices realized for a quarter of the 870 acres, the whole limit will bring a good deal short of a quarter of a million. If the Whitney Government got such a fabulous offer or one-tenth of it, it has shown very poor judgment and knowledge of the provincial property, in refusing such an offer and putting the property up at tender.

THE ALARM GROUNDLESS

(Montreal Witness.)

The journals of Lord Northcliffe were the chief sinners in creating the German scare in Great Britain, and one of the richest pieces of burlesque that has ever been seen on the world's stage was that gentleman's reproof of his countrymen—sent over from Berlin—for their hysteria. Now it seems that the distraction is subsiding, even in half-pay-officer clubland and among the tariff reformers. Some of the latter indeed are accused of having started the erase of malice prepense, and with their tongues in their cheeks, for the express purpose of scaring the country into protection for the benefit of the privileged classes. Germany for many years will not be in a position to challenge British supremacy at sea. Even were the terms equal and Germany might anticipate victory, she would also have to contemplate the possibility of defeat. Under existing conditions that possibly would be a certainty. It would mean that German commerce would be swept from off the sea, as was that of Spain, of Holland and of France, her narrow seaboard blockaded, her colonies taken from her, and her industries ruined. What Germany most desires is industrial progress and commercial expansion. In these directions she would rival Great Britain Sensible people in both countries realize the strength of this view of the situation. The industrial and commercial fight is on, and it will be finally decided by educated intelligence in school and workshop, not by armies of soldiers on land or battleships at sea.

Tenders For Pumps

Tenders for pumps and water wheels were received from five different firms, but for several different kinds of pumps. The tenders wer referred to the Engineer and to Superintendent Henderson, who made recommendations that the tender of the William Hamilton Company for one unit of triplex pump similar in general design to those now in use, at the price of $12,900 be accepted.

The Commissioners also accepted tenders of the John McDougall Caledonia Iron Works Company, Limited, of Montreal, for one unit of turbine pump and water wheel subject to the engineer's approval as to design and details of construction at the price of $9,306 subject, no contract to be entered into nor payment made to the contractor until the pumps be fully tested for sixty days and guaranteed.

No Time For Retreat.

In an Irish garrison town a theatrical company was giving performances, and some soldiers from the local barracks were engaged to act as supers. Their duties included the waging of a fierce fight in which, after a stirring struggle, one army was defeated on a given signal from the prompter. For a few nights all went well, but on the Friday evening a special performance of the piece was to be given under the patronage of the colonel and other officers of the garrison. The two armies met as usual at the end of the second act, when they fought and fought and kept on fighting, regardless of the agonised glare in the eye of their (acter) general, who hoarsely ordered the proper army to "Retreat, confound you." But the fight still went on, and soon the horrified manager saw the wrong army being driven slowly off the stage, still fighting desperately. Down came the curtain amid roars of laughter, and the fuming manager hastened to ask the delinquents why they had failed to retreat on hearing the signal.

"Retraite," roared a burly fusileer whose visage had been badly battered, "and is it retraite ye'd have us, wid the colonel and all the officers in the boxes?"—London Scraps.

Mind Your Own Business.

An old custom once prevailed in a remote place in England of giving a clock to any one who would truthfully swear that he had minded his own business alone for a year and a day and had not meddled with his neighbors. Many came, but few, if any, gained the prize, which was more difficult to win than the Dunmow flitch of bacon. Though they swore on the four gospels and held out their hands in certain hope, some hitch was sure to be found somewhere, and for all their asseverations the clock remained stationary on the shelf, no one being able to prove his absolute immunity from uncalled for interference in things not in any way concerning himself. At last a young man came with a perfectly clear record, and the clock seemed as if it was at last about to change owners. Then said the custodian, "Oh, a young man was here yesterday and made mighty sure he was going to have the clock, but he didn't." "And why didn't he get it?" "What's that to you?" snapped the custodian. "That's not your business, and you don't get the clock."

The Chinese Sampans.

In Canton 400,000 people spend their whole existence in boats, which are there called sampans. They are born in them, live in them from infancy to old age and finally die in them. Collectively these boats form a floating auburb to the city proper, one of the most amazing human settlements in the world. Every creek is crammed with them. Along the main banks of the river they are huddled twenty deep—so close together that the covering of mats appears continuous as far as the eye can reach. And each sampan houses a separate family, with its own big brazier lamp, which serves for heating, lighting and cooking the evening meal. The scene when a really serious conflagration once gets a proper hold in the midst of these floating wooden homes may be imagined. Escape is impossible except for those moored at the outermost edge. In one of these conflagrations over a thousand persons lost their lives.

Wanted Her.

"An old couple from the east," says the Detroit Free Press, "are visiting their son in this city. If the mother gets out of sight of the father, he is constantly asking for her and is not content till they are together again. The other evening she went to another part of the house while he was in the parlor and after he had asked for her a half dozen times the son said, rather curtly:

"'It seems as though you couldn't be without mother five minutes at a time.'

"'You're right,' said the old gentleman slowly. 'That's the reason I married her.'"

An Old Truth.

Skiggs ran away with Skaggs' wife,
Left no address behind.
But very soon Skiggs envied Skaggs
And had a change of mind.
Skaggs advertised. Skiggs sent her back.
Herein the moral lies:
Skiggs now believes—and so does Skaggs—
It pays to advertise.

Dickens' Characters.

Dickens bestowed many of his fictitious names on real flesh and blood personages, says an admirer of the famous novelist. Indeed he and David Copperfield were not far apart, so far as salient features were concerned. Tracy Tupman was the happy counterfeit of a man named Winters, who at the present day would be pounded or arrested for what is known in slang as "mashing." Paul Dombey was an invalid nephew of the author, his right name being Harry Burnett. Dora Copperfield was a Miss Beadwell, with whom Dickens was in love at the early age of eighteen. Mrs. Bardell, who gave Pickwick the worst time in his life, was a scheming boarding house widow named Ann Ellis. Tommy Traddles was Colonel Froom Talfourd, formerly superintendent of Indian affairs in Canada. Miss Mowcher was a Miss Wilkes, Mrs. Skewton a Mrs. Campbell; the abominable Squeers was William Shaw; the lovely Cheeryble brothers were cotton spinners and merchants of Manchester; the fat boy was a true to life character, and so was Captain Cuttle, one of the most attractive of all.

Didn't Impress Him.

Shortly after his rise to the bench Judge Coleman had occasion to pronounce a life sentence upon a notorious offender. In the course of his remarks the judge spoke with so much feeling and eloquence that many of the listeners were deeply affected. The prisoner, on the other hand, seemed to be quite indifferent, looking at the ceiling and apparently giving no attention whatever to what was being said. After he had been remanded to jail one of the young lawyers had gone into the cell, curious to know how the criminal had felt when his honor was passing sentence upon him.

"What do you mean?" asked the convicted one.

"I mean when the judge was telling you you must go to prison for life."

"You mean when he was talking to me?"

"Yes."

"Oh, I never paid no attention to Dick Coleman. He ain't no public speaker nohow!"—Argonaut.

The Fate of the Fancy Set.

James, aged seven, had been promoted. In recognition of this great event his father purchased for him the following things that James insisted were necessary:

A box of one dozen pencils, assorted leads; one ink and one pencil eraser, one pencil box with a marvelous roll top, three copybooks for home work, two penholders and a patent strap that was a marvel of ingenuity, but somehow or other didn't seem to hold the books very firmly.

The father examined the outfit a few days after and found that it contained—

One much chewed lead pencil furnished by the city, a scribbling pad with a few sheets on it, a tin fountain pen that did not work and never could have worked and a skate strap to hold the things together.

The father asked no questions. He instinctively knew what had become of the fancy implements of education. —New York Press.

Caustic.

"I have adopted a new motto for my life," sighed the man who resided with his mother-in-law.

"What is it?" they inquired.

"Everything is relative."—Philadelphia Ledger.

LOTS AT STONY LAKE

A choice selection of building lots for cottages on Big Island, Stony Lake. This magnificent island, situated at the head of Clear Lake, just at the entrance into Stony, has been laid out into some twenty-five building lots, the plan of which may be seen at the Examiner Office. The location is the very best in the Kawartha Lakes District. The property is exceptionally well wooded. There are good landings, excellent points for buildings, and deep bays for the reception of large and small crafts. Call at the Examiner Office, or J. T. O'Connell's Real Estate Office, and see plans of Island 4twlm

HOW LONG HAVE YOU PAID RENT?

"Too long" you say; yes, we say so too. Show us a prosperous man and in nine times out of ten he owns his own home. He may have been a rent payer one day, but he got his eyes open in time to start life anew and become prosperous. The man who purchases a house, if it is on easy payments will find he can meet his obligations just the same as he met his rent and with the satisfaction of knowing he is building a home for himself and his family, and that the landlord cannot sell his home from over his head. Every man should own his own house. Our books show a long list of houses, one of which will be just what you want—fair prices, easy terms. Consult us to-day and you will get a real bargain. Note the following.

CANADA'S PULP SUPPLY.

Apparently Inexhaustible, Says U. S. Senator Brown.

Washington, June 18.—After disposing with little difficulty of a number of disputed paragraphs in the tariff bill, the Senate yesterday began the consideration of the print paper and wood pulp provisions.

"Canada is our only competitor in this market," said Senator Brown. "The seas and the interior product of other countries than Canada protect the mills of the United States against all competition worth mentioning. Many of the workmen in the Canadian mills are American citizens and receive higher wages than when in the United States."

Senator Brown drew the following conclusions: Our pulp wood supply is nearly exhausted; the pulp wood supply of Canada is apparently inexhaustible; free pulp would tend to conserve our pulp wood; the production cost of print paper is less in the United States than it is in Canada; a ton of news print paper costs in Canada $39.54 to manufacture, and in the United States $37.24 per ton; the print paper market is controlled in the United States by combination, and whatever duty the law may fix it will assist the combination in that control, in violation of the law of competition, to the injury and outrage of the public.

Annuities Are Popular.

Ottawa, June 18.—The revenue up to date from the Government system of annuities totals $160,000, and the total number of applications is 228. The revenue of late has averaged $65,000 a week, but on one day of this week $10,000 was received.

The system of annuities was inaugurated only in September last, and the first few months were necessarily devoted largely to matters of organization. A number of agents and lecturers have been engaged, three in Ontario, two in Quebec and one each in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, while the west has not yet been provided for.

The Department is about to enter upon negotiations with the large manufacturers of the country, suggesting that the purchase of annuities for their employes, or co-operating with the latter in doing so.

Dominion Steel Men Meet.

Montreal, June 18.—The Dominion Iron & Steel Co.'s shareholders had a love-feast at the Windsor Hotel yesterday. Reports were satisfactory and everybody went away happy.

There was considerable applause when President Plummer referred to the outcome of the lawsuit and paid tribute to the Dominion Coal Co. for the fair spirit in which it had acted since the judgment.

H. Gordon Strathy asked about the value of the Wabana ore fields, and likened them in a way to the C.P.R.'s land holdings. Mr. Plummer said that ore could no doubt be sold at a profit of $1 a ton.

The shareholders authorised the new issue of $20,000,000 consolidated mortgage bonds and re-elected the old board.

Dam Blown Up.

North Bay, June 18.—The effect of the dams built over a year ago at French River, to keep the waters of Lake Nipissing at normal level the year round, has been most disastrous, especially this year, with abnormally high water. Much property along the shore line has been flooded. Representations made to the Government by the Town Council of North Bay resulted in an examination, followed by the blowing up with dynamite of one of the dams Wednesday to allow the water to get away. New dams will be constructed on different plans.

Men Need Conciliation.

Ottawa, June 18.—The maintenance-of-way men on the C.N.R. are desirous of having a new schedule of wages drawn up, and the Labor Department has been applied to for a board of conciliation and arbitration. J. G. O'Donoghue will represent the men, and W. J. Christie of Winnipeg the company. Various classes of employes of the G.T.P. are wanting wage schedules and working conditions rearranged, and an application has been made to the Department for a board of conciliation and arbitration.

Sentenced to Twenty Lashes.

Belleville, June 18.—For improper relations with a young girl, Richard Simpson of Madoc was yesterday sentenced to a year in prison, with 20 lashes. Other sentences were: James Smart, for perjury, six months; Wm. Babcock, Belleville, unlawful wounding, six months; Harry Barnum and Jerome Cronk, Trenton, for shop-breaking and theft, three years in the penitentiary; Wm. Vancott, Trenton, receiving stolen goods, six months in prison.

WORK IS MAKING MARKED PROGRESS

International Council of Women Reports Growth.

RUSSIA IS TAKING HOLD

Last Year's Meeting There Proved Big Success—Vice-President for Turkey is Nominated—Officers Are Named For Coming Five Years—Many Canadians Are on the List of Candidates for Offices.

Toronto, June 18.—The executive of the International Council of Women was in session all day. It met in the senate chamber of the university. The Countess of Aberdeen presided.

The correspondence included a report from Russia that the women's congress there last December was a great success. An application had been made to the Russian Minister of the Interior for his sanction of a constitution for a national council of Russian women.

An honorary provincial vice-president for Turkey was nominated. Mme. Selma Hanem, who will endeavor to organize a national council of Turkish women. This lady is the sister of the president of the Turkish Parliament.

In the evening the mayor, assisted by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. J. M. Gibson, and Sir Mortimer Clark, received the delegates in the City Hall. The attendance was very large, and hundreds went to be presented to Lady Aberdeen.

The nominations of general officers for the next five years, as sent in by the various national councils, were approved. They were:

President, the Countess of Aberdeen, by the national council of Great Britain and Ireland; Madame Jules Siegfried, by the national council of France.

For the three vice-presidents: Miss Bedaux, by the Netherlands; Lady Edgar, by Canada; Baroness Gripenberg, by Finland; Frau Marianne Hainisch, by Austria; Mlle. Monod, by France; Frau Charlotte Norrie, by Denmark; Mlle. Popelin, by Belgium; Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, by Canada; Mme. Jules Siegfried by France; Countess Spallett Rasponi, by Italy; Mrs. Mary Wood Swift, by United States, and Mrs. Garrison Villard.

Honorary corresponding secretary: Dr. Alice Salomon, Germany.

Honorary recording secretary: Mrs. Foster Avery, United States; Dr. Alexander Skogslund, Sweden.

Hon. treasurer: Mrs. W. E. Canford, Canada.

Conveners: Finance, Miss Willoughby Cummings, Canada; press, Miss Johanna Naber, Netherlands; peace and arbitration, Mrs. May Wright Sewall, United States; laws concerning the legal position of women, Mde. L'Affadie D'Arrast, France; woman's suffrage, Rev. Anna Shaw, United States; white slave traffic and equal moral standard, Mme. Avil de Ste. Croix, France.

Education and public health are to be nominated.

Each national council has ten votes to distribute among the candidates, or can give all ten votes to one of the nominees.

Mrs. Bovey, Montreal, was elected a life patron.

Shoots His Wife.

New York, June 18.—"I have just killed my wife; God help me!" was the cry with which William Westervelt, a prosperous mason and builder of Teaneck, near Hackensack, N.J., rushed into the house of a neighbor yesterday. Mrs. Westervelt was found dead at the foot of the bed in her room with a gunshot wound in her neck. Westervelt declares he was showing his wife how to handle the double-barrelled shotgun when the weapon was accidentally discharged.

Kingston Gets Setback.

Kingston, June 18.—City Solicitor McIntyre has received word to the effect that the railway commissioners will not allow any portion of the grant voted last session by the Federal Parliament to assist in the protection of level crossings to go towards the construction of a subway at Kingston Junction.

Labor Report for May.

Ottawa, June 18.—During the month of May 93 fatalities occurred to workingmen in Canadian industrial pursuits and 185 were seriously injured. During the month 15 trade disputes were in existence, an increase of two as compared with May of last year. About 32 firms and 4,750 employes were affected and the loss of time in working days was approximately 96,297, as compared with 127,425 in May, 1908.

C.O.O.F. Elect Officers.

Hamilton, June 18.—The Grand Lodge, Canadian Order of Foresters, finished business last evening, and will meet here again next year. The following officers were elected: William Irwin, St. Thomas, grand master; Dr. Alex. Thompson, Galt, D.G.M.; R. Fleming, Toronto, grand secretary; W. H. Shaw, Toronto, treasurer; Dr. H. F. Bingham, Toronto, medical referee; Rev. J. Lindsay, Kentore, chaplain.

Forty Knife Wounds.

Pottsville, Pa., June 18.—With her skull fractured and 40 stab wounds in her body, Mrs. Kate Sperens and her seven-year-old daughter, also badly injured, were found dying in their home at Coaldale, near here, yesterday. Near them lay an infant, spattered with blood from the mother and sister, but not injured. The daughter was stabbed a dozen times and her skull is also fractured.

$150,000 Fire In Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, June 18.—The building of the Great West Saddlery Co., Market street east, used for a warehouse and office, was gutted by fire yesterday. The building is valued at $75,000, while the stock, which is a most valuable one, will run over half a million.

The total loss will be impossible to estimate to-day, but will probably be about $150,000.

W. L. M. King's Future.

Ottawa, June 18.—Hon. W. L. M. King, the new Minister of Labor, is the subject of much discussion in political circles here as a result of an interview given out by Liberal Organiser Alex. Smith. Mr. Smith is one of the best informed men in the Liberal party, and he is enthusiastic on the subject of the newest member of the Cabinet.

"There is no doubt," said Mr. Smith, "that in making his choice of Minister of Labor, Sir Wilfrid had in view his own career, and particularly that portion of it at the time Alexander Mackenzie invited him to a seat in his Cabinet at the age of thirty-five. By choosing young Laurier, Alexander Mackenzie enhanced and enriched the Liberal party, and with similar hopes Sir Wilfrid has now chosen Mr. Mackenzie King.

The import of which seems to be that Mr. King is destined soon to go high in the ranks of the Government.

May Put Lock-Masters In Charge.

Ottawa, June 18.—The disabling of the Soo Canal in a few minutes by an engineer's mistake has caused the Department of Canals to consider precautions that will make such an accident impossible again. It is proposed not to allow vessels to pass in or out of the locks under their own steam, but to place them absolutely in control of the lockmasters.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, June 17.—The railways reported 124 carloads of live stock at the city yards for Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 1880 cattle, 2169 hogs, 1223 sheep and lambs and 493 calves.

Exporters.

Export steers sold from $5.20 to $5.30; export bulls, at $4.75 to $5.25, and one very choice bull was sold by Maybee & Wilson at $5.40 per cwt.

Butchers.

George Rowntree bought over 800 cattle, the bulk of which were butchers, for the Harris Abattoir Co. Mr. Rowntree paid for steers and heifers, from $5.10 to $5.60, and for cows, $3.50 to $4.40 per cwt.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby, who bought 200 feeders and stockers, reports an easier feeling all round, especially for light weight cattle. Feeders weighing from 800 to 900 lbs., held their own fairly well, selling from $4.25 to $4.75 per cwt. But light stockers were fully 20c per cwt. lower, and those weighing from 400 to 700 lbs. each, sold from $3 to $3.75 per cwt. The prospects for the coming week are that prices will go still lower.

Milkers and Springers.

Dealers reported the light, common to medium cows as selling from $2 to $5 per head lower, with the market slow at that. Good to choice cows still bring fair prices, but the market for them was not as brisk as usual. The best cows ranged from $40 to $60 each, and common to medium, $25 to $35 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts of veal calves were liberal, selling at $5 to $6.50 per cwt., with a few of the picked lots going at $6 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The larger runs of sheep have brought prices a little lower, while lambs have held about steady in price. Heavy ewes sold at $5.50 to $6 per cwt.; light ewes sold at $4 to $4.50; rams, at $3 to $3.50; spring lambs sold at $8 to $8 each, or 9½c to 9¾c per lb. The prospects are that should there be heavy receipts prices will decline still further.

Hogs.

Receipts of 2125 from all sources sold at $7.90 per cwt., fed and watered, at the market, and $7.60 to $7.65, f.o.b., cars, at country points, with market firm.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, June 17.—Cattle—steady; prime steers, $6.15 to $6.25.

Veals—Receipts, 75 head; active and 25c higher, $8 to $8.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 400 head; active and steady; unchanged.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Beeves—Receipts 1363; no trading; feeling, steady; dressed beef, slow, at 9c to 10½c for native sides.

Calves—Receipts, 253; market, steady; veals, $7.50 to $8.25; buttermilks, $4 to $5.50; city dressed veals, 12c to 13½c; a few at 12c; country dressed, do., 9c to 11c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 3,065; sheep, steady; lambs, firm at a fraction higher; sheep, $3 to $5; lambs, $7.50 to $9.

Hogs—Receipts, 1304; feeling steadily.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 800; market steady; beeves, $5.20 to $7.35; Texas steers, $4.75 to $6.30; western steers, $4.75 to $6.30; stockers and feeders, $3.40 to $5.50; cows and heifers, $3.50 to $6.20; calves, $5.75 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 16,000; market steady; light, $7.20 to $7.60; mixed, $6.40 to $6.65; heavy, $7.50 to $7.67½; rough, $7.20 to $7.70; good to choice heavy, $7.70 to $7.67½; pigs, $4.20 to $7.10; bulk of sales, $7.60 to $7.65.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at 15,000; market steady; native, $3.75 to $6; western, $3.75 to $6.30; yearlings, $6 to $7; lambs, native, $5 to $8.25; western, $5.75 to $8.25; spring lambs, $8 to $9.25.

British Cattle Markets.

LONDON, June 17.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 12½c to 14½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10½c per lb.

Wire Sweeps Brakeman to Ground.

Orangeville, June 18.—Edward French was on top of a box car which was being shunted. The car was run over John street crossing, where a private telephone wire crossed the track, and the wire caught French under the chin and lifted him clear off his feet. He tumbled off the car 15 feet, head first striking the timber of a culvert. Several ribs were broken.

Cabinet Meet To-Day.

Ottawa, June 18.—The first Cabinet meeting for a fortnight will be held to-day. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will spend much of the summer at Athabascaville, but will make frequent business trips to Ottawa. There is, of course, the possibility that he may have to take Hon. L. P. Brodeur's place at the Imperial Naval Conference.

Wherever there is a failure there is some giddiness, some superstition about luck, some step omitted, which nature loves perilous.—Emerson.

Train Despatcher's Association.

Columbus, Ohio, June 18.—The following officers of the Train Despatchers' Association of America were elected: President, T. D. Dillman, Youngstown, O.; vice-president, F. G. Wagner, Reading, Pa.; executive committee, J. D. Harrod (Columbus), W. H. Halter (Williamsport, Pa.), F. J. Mangel (Sunbury, Pa.), E. A. Strauhber (Salamanca, N.Y.).

All Ready to Go Back.

Owen Sound, June 18.—The freight truckers of the C.P.R. decided to return to work yesterday. More than a hundred men stood loyal to the company and kept on working. Over one hundred of the discontented will be let out, as freight is rather light at this time of year.

Slavonia's Passengers.

Naples, June 17.—The North German Lloyd steamer Princess Irene, carrying the cabin passengers of the Cunard Line steamer Slavonia, wrecked June 10, off Flores Island, Azores, arrived here at 10 o'clock yesterday morning after calling at Gibraltar.

Drowning at St. Mary's.

St. Mary's, June 18.—Raymond Wilson, aged 18, son of R. S. Wilson, commercial traveler, and a young son of Rev. D. N. Morden were canoeing in Rice Lake about six o'clock yesterday evening, when the canoe upset and Wilson was drowned.

Saved by a Cat.

Mme. Marie Rayot's cat saved her mistress' life one morning last month. Mme. Rayot, who lives in Paris, heard the cat mew loudly and jumped out of bed, thinking that it was after her birds, which were in the next room. As Mme. Rayot rushed into this room a burglar knocked her candle from her hand and caught her by the throat and attempted to strangle her. He let go, however, with a cry of pain, and when Mme. Rayot's shrieks brought in the neighbors it was found that the cat had caught the burglar by the throat and had scratched out one of his eyes. An accomplice of the burglar was found hiding under a bed.

The Ten Biggest Canadians.

The Canadian Courier recently conducted a balloting contest to select the "ten biggest Canadians." Nominated for the roll of honor were 120 leading men. Of these the following were declared the winners: Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Lord Strathcona, Sir William Van Horne, Goldwin Smith, William Mackenzie, Sir Charles Tupper, the Hon. S. Fielding, Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Sir Sanford Fleming and R. L. Borden.

Iceland's Art Museum.

Iceland is to have an art museum. The sculptor Einar Jonsen has long desired that his native country should possess an art collection and with that object in view has presented all his works, forty-nine in number, as a nucleus. The only condition named by him was that a suitable housing place be provided by the government and this be accessible to the people. The althing by a unanimous vote agreed to accept the gift and to comply with the terms.

Immediate Publicity.

"I'd like to get this information into all the papers today," says the public man, "but it is too late for them."

"Leave it to me," suggests the friend. "I'll get my wife to telephone it to one of her acquaintances and pledge her to secrecy. That's quicker than having it printed."—Chicago Post.

OTONABEE NAVIGATION CO. EXCURSIONS FOR JUNE

Summer Business Developing Rapidly—Manager Hicks Working Up a Good Booking.

Attention is directed to some changes which have been made in the Otonabee Navigation Company's new time table for the season, since its first announcement in yesterday's Examiner.

Manager Hicks has been unusually busy the past week, and is rather enthusiastic over the amount of business already secured. The following is a list of the principal excursions secured for the month of June:

Saturday, June 19—Rebekah Lodge I.O.O.F. excursion to Rice Lake per steamer Otonabee.

Wednesday, June 23—Roseneath Brass Band excursion from Rice Lake to Peterborough per steamer Otonabee.

Thursday, June 24.—Farmers' excursion to Jubilee per steamer Otonabee.

Friday, June 25—Business Mens'excursion to Rice Lake per steamer Otonabee.

Friday, June 25—St. John's Church choir excursion to Stony Lake per steamer Water Lily.

Saturday, June 26—Knox Presbyterian Church S.S. excursion to No. 5 dam, (afternoon), per steamer Otonabee.

Monday, June 28—St. Paul's Presbyterian S.S. excursion to Stony Lake per steamer Otonabee.

Tuesday, June 29—St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church S.S. excursion to Gore's Landing per steamer Otonabee.

Tuesday, June 29—Peterborough Law Association to Gore's Landing per steamer Water Lily.

Wednesday, June 30—Springville Union excursion to Rice Lake per steamer Otonabee.

The charters for July promise to be quite numerous judging from the number already booked and those in process of negotiation.

hTe steamer Monarch will be busily engaged with freight, etc., until July 1st. On July 5th, it is expected she will begin her regular daily trips from Peterborough to Rice Lake and return.

STONY LAKE TRIP CANCELLED

The Steamer Water Lily will not run to Stony Lake to-morrow, having to undergo some slight repairs.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mrs. Collins and Miss Flora Collins are visiting in Ottawa.

Mr. J. Laird, of Chicago, has returned home after visiting with relatives, McDonnel street.

The many friends of Mr. Henry Cox, Rogers street, East City, will regret to learn of his serious illness.

Miss Mary Curtain and Miss Irene Cunningham, of Lindsay, are the guests of Miss Armene Laplante, Rubidge street.

Mr. Aaron Nicholls, Sr., of Young's Point is in the city to-day and reports everything booming at that popular resort.

Miss Margaret Thomas, of Cobourg, returned home Wednesday, after spending a few days with Mrs. F. Roberts, 56 Hilliard street.

Mr. J. Hogan, 577 Gilmour street, left for Toronto this morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hogan's sister, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. George Flynn of Rochester, returned to their home yesterday, after visiting Mr. Flynn's brother, Mr. James Flynn, 5 Dennistoun Ave.

Master Gerald P. O'Brien, son of Mr. M. O'Brien, Inspector of Separate Schools, 520 Gilmour street, is home from the Institute, Belleville, for the holidays. He is certainly not wasting his time there, but, rather, making hay while the sun shines. At the mid-summer examination he nearly "smashed" the papers, taking 90 per cent. of the possible marks, the second highest in the school; and his name like Abou Ben. Adams, might have "led all the rest," had it not been for his gallantry; for he recognized the chivalric motto, "place aux dames," and permitted a young lady to score two per cent. over his own record.

POST CARD COLUMN.

Sporting Editor of The Examiner:

The Toronto World of the 18th inst. correctly reported the standing of the Eastern League baseballers, showing in the proper order Montreal 512 points, Buffalo 489 points, Toronto 477 points. On the following day when there was no reason for changing the order in which these three clubs were named, each being correctly allotted 500 points, the paper in question, in a picayunish spirit, so characteristic of Toronto, put Toronto above the other two, and shows its petty jealousy of Montreal, which it usually exhibits, raised Buffalo also over Montreal, but of course from its narrow standpoint, lower than Toronto. This is a common occurence and merely serves to show that Toronto, in sporting as well as in all other matters, justly deserves the name of Hogtown. In the heading of your report of the standing, you give colour to the wrong impression by saying that the Torontos are back in second place, thus placing them over the other two.

Yours truly,
SPORT.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In declining to publish my letter to-day, you express a fear that if you did so at the present time it would militate against the interests of business negotiations now going on with regard to the Purity Ware by-law. My letter having nothing to do with the merits of the by-law, as your extract shows, there can be no reason for refusing to give publicity to the Council's action in seeking to evade the law of the land.

Yours, etc.,
CITIZEN.

Peterborough, June 17, '09.

WHAT IS AN AMATEUR?

Editor Post-Card Column.

Sir,—Would you or some of your readers kindly advise me through the Examiner, what constitutes an amateur photographer, and what a professional?

Yours truly,
MEMBER CAMERA CLUB.

An amateur as the word implies is a lover—of the art, sport, or occupation he or she affects, who works without making profit, for the love of it; his only reward being in the pleasure of success, or even failure, and the satisfaction of spoiling good material in pursuing his fancy or fad. The moment he practices his art or pastime for the sake of money or a negotiable equivalent, he becomes a professional and especially in sport, becomes ineligible to compete in amateur works or plays for love; a professional works or plays for pay. An amateur spends money in the practice of his art; a professional makes money by the same means.

Big Clown and Little Clown.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

He was big and burly, a figure in his fantastic dress to make all the little boys giggle and the little girls stare, half frightened.

That was when he was in the ring. But when he was clothed in the ordinary garb of a citizen he was simply a fresh faced boy who could stroll along the village streets without attracting unusual attention.

He liked the little villages where the circus stayed for a day or two and then moved on languidly down dusty roads to the next stopping place.

"Some time," he said to the little clown, "I'd just like to stay behind in one of these little towns and turn farmer and stop being funny for awhile."

The little clown was a woman. When she was dressed for the ring she wore infantile clothes, with a blue sash, and carried a big stick of red striped candy, and all the little girls and boys would almost go into convulsions of laughter when she shook her rattle at them.

"I know," said the little clown, "how you feel. Sometimes I think it would be nice to have a little house and make bread and put the week's wash out on the green grass and have a cat and a fireplace"—

Her voice trailed off dreamily.

The big clown looked down at her. "I've been funny all my life," he said. "When I wasn't anything but a baby my father used to take me in the ring with him. He was a clown, too, and I've just grown up to it."

The little clown nodded sympathetically. "Most of us [illegible] to it."

"Let's run away," she said suddenly, "run them somehow we can't get away."

The big clown stood up. It was time for him to go into the ring. He twirled his pointed hat in his hand and then put it on. "I am going to get away from it," he said. "I want a home and neighbors. I'd like to be a sheriff in some town or mayor or on the school board"— He smiled till the thick white paint on his face was folded into deep creases.

Then he was off to the ring, and the little clown turned her attention to the contortionist, who was in shining iridescent green like a snake.

"I wish you wouldn't pay so much attention to the big clown," the contortionist told her. "I can't ever get a minute with you."

The little clown looked at him with eyes that went beyond him through the door of the tent to where the apple trees were flinging up pink branches to a sapphire sky.

"Did you ever see anything so pretty?" she asked, and pointed to it.

But the contortionist had no eyes for apple trees. "I have never seen anything so pretty as you are," he said, "and if you will stop this clown business and marry me I will put you in an act that will give you a chance to show people how good looking you are. You could wear white and your hair in yellow ringlets down your back and a gold crown. And I'd put on red with horns, and we'd give an angel and devil act."

The little clown leaned forward eagerly. "I have always wanted to do something like that," she said. "I've wanted to have an act that would make people do something besides giggle, and I ought to get pretty good pay."

"Well, I should say," the contortionist bragged. "I get bigger pay now than any one in the show, and you'd just about double it after I had taught you what to do. It would be swell business."

"Yes," said the little clown, "it would."

And when the contortionist had gone the little clown sought the bearded lady.

"Which would you rather do," she demanded, "have a little house in a country town, with a fireplace and a cat and a husband that people looked up to, or would you rather be a headliner in the circus business?"

Now, the bearded lady, in spite of her masculine appearance, was a wise woman and a sympathetic one. "I'd rather be the wife of the man I loved," she told the little clown, "whether he was in a country village or the circus. It isn't the place that makes us happy; it's the man."

The little clown nodded her head. "But I'm not sure," she began, and then the bearded lady said, "Well, be sure before you decide."

"How am I going to know?" questioned the little clown.

"You'll know when the time comes," said the bearded lady sensibly. And after the little clown had gone away the bearded lady sat and thought and thought, and when the performance was over she sent for the big clown.

"So you love the little clown?" she said.

"How did you know?" he demanded.

"Everybody knows," the bearded lady told him. "You can't hide it."

"Well, I do love her," the big clown confessed, "and I want to take her away from all this and live in a little house in a little town and have chickens and a cow"—

"The little clown wants a fireplace and a cat," smiled the bearded lady, "but it all amounts to the same thing."

"Did she tell you?" the big clown asked eagerly.

"Yes," said the bearded lady, "but she is not sure that she loves you, and it's up to you to make her sure."

"But how?" demanded the big clown.

"Leave the show," was the sage advice, "at the next village and see how she takes it."

So the next night when the lights were out in the big tent and the tired performers were packing their belongings into trunks and bags the big clown came to the little clown and said, "Goodby."

"But—but," the little clown stammered, "I don't want you to go!"

"I am going to settle down," the big clown told her, "and have a little house with a fireplace and a cat."

The little clown caught her breath quickly. "And who's going to keep house for you?" she asked wistfully.

"I shall live alone"—the big clown's voice had a note of pathos. "There is only one woman that I should care to have sit in front of that fireplace, and she values fame and fortune more than she values love."

"What makes you think that?" cried the little clown, and just then the contortionist came in. He wore a long fawn ulster and a high hat.

"My automobile is outside," he said to the little clown, "and I have asked the bearded lady to ride with us to the next village. It is much more pleasant than to go in the vans."

"Thank you very much," said the little clown, and held out her hand to the big clown.

"I hope you'll be very happy—all alone in your big house," she said to the big clown, "with your chickens and your cow—and your fireplace and your cat"— Her voice broke, and she ran out of the tent.

The big clown took a step forward, but the bearded lady stopped him.

"Let her alone," she said quietly, "Let her alone."

And presently the big machine whizzed away, and the big clown was left alone beneath the stars of the spring night.

He sat down on his trunk in the middle of the deserted ring and planned how on the morrow he would get his money out of the bank and build a house and begin a new life as a substantial citizen.

But all the joy had gone strangely out of his plans when he could not see the face of the little clown at his table or her slender figure in the big chair in front of the fireplace.

And even while he yearned for her she came to him, running over the sawdust silently, so that he did not know she was there until her arms were about his neck.

"I made him let me out," she sobbed. "Oh, I hate him! He is so sure of himself and of me. And the bearded lady got out, too, and she is coming to play propriety, only she is so much slower than I am. And I want to live in a little house with you and have chickens and a cow"—

"And a fireplace and a cat." The big clown had her in his arms, and there was deep joy in his voice.

"And you shall be the mayor some day," planned the little clown.

"And you shall make bread and hang your clothes on the grass," laughed the big clown.

"And you'll both live happy ever after," prophesied the bearded lady, who just then came up, panting, and gave them her blessing like a very hairy godmother.

Her Answer.

An Atchison girl had a proposal of marriage and asked a week to think it over. She went to all of her married sisters. One, who used to be a belle, had three children, did all her own work and hadn't been to the theater or out riding since she was married. Another, whose husband was a promising young man at the time she was married, was supporting him. A third didn't dare say her life was her own when her husband was around, and a fourth was divorced. After visiting them and hearing their woes the heroine of this little tale went home, got pen, ink and paper and wrote an answer to the young man. You may think it was refusing him, but it wasn't. She said she could be ready in a month.—Atchison Globe.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

TORONTO POLICE PUT BAR ON ROUGH PLAY ON ALL BRANCHES OF ATHLETICS

Toronto, June 17.—Mayor Oliver: "If a player strikes another deliberately on the field he should be arrested."

Judge Winchester: "The police should act the same on a field of sport as they do on the streets."

Chief of Police Grasett: "If a man cannot play a game in a decent and gentlemanly style, he should be in jail. Simply barbarous, some of those games."

These statements from two police commissioners and the chief indicate a probable change in the attitude of the police toward players in lacrosse, baseball, and other games, who assault other players or officials.

In the past the custom of the police has been to let any sort of a scrap go on a lacrosse field, for instance, leaving it to the injured man or the club to lay an information against the assailant.

Since the police commissioners have decided to no longer allow the men on the force to be hired by clubs in their off-duty hours, the indications are that there will be a new policy pursued by the police.

Mayor Oliver was at Scarboro Beach on Saturday, and saw Hyland of Shamrocks hit Braden of Torontos a terrible blow with his stick on the back of the head, putting the blue-shirted boy out of the game. This incident provoked the Mayor's remark quoted above.

Chief Grasett points out that the main difficulty in arresting players is that the men assaulted almost invariably refuse to lay a charge or give evidence against the accused if the police prosecute. It was so in the Finlayson case, when the Montreal man disfigured Charlie Querrie's face with a cruel blow when the ball wasn't anywhere near them.

LONGBOAT WILL RUN SHRUBB IF ALFIE CUTS OUT SPIKES

Tommy Longboat's latest will raise a smile.

"Tom will run Alfred Shrubb 20 miles a week Saturday night at the Island, if Shrubb will cut out his spikes," said Sol Munts last night. "Tom says he has already been a road runner and worn smooth-bottomed road shoes. He does not like a track where spikes are an advantage, because a man with fast early speed can get out, gain a lap, and then make the man set the pace, thus doing double work. On the road the front runner sets the pace for the slow beginner, and has to fight his way along unpaced out in front. He has to worry about what the second man is doing, while in a track race the lapped man has all the pacing and worrying to do, and he cannot see the leader. Alf. Shrubb is an adept at worrying a man he has lapped. He runs so close to him that he has him scared that he is going to spike him. What we want is some referee with nerve enough to disqualify him for this. But, to get back to the shoe question, Tom wants Alf. to cut out the spikes, so as to make it a more equal battle on the track, or he will run him from Oakville to Toronto for $500 a side, on a date to be set, the race to be run rain or shine."

Longboat is training to run 10 miles against Frank Nebrick in Buffalo on Monday night. Longboat as an amateur twice defeated Nebrick. In the first race at Buffalo while the red man was beating Nebrick, a Buffalo man knocked him down. In the second race here Longboat won by a nose in the toughest stretch battle Torontonians ever saw him in.

CHANGES IN THE CITY LEAGUE LINE-UP FOR TO-MORROW'S GAMES

To-morrow's games in the Senior City League series at Riverside Park will start at 2 o'clock sharp, the T. A. S. clashing with the Stratheonas in the first game, and the West Ends and Park Street coming together in the 3.30 fixture. Dan McCabe will umpire both contests, which will start sharp on time and run through without any unnecessary delays. Great interest is being displayed in the result of the first contest between the T. A. S. and Straths. A win for the High Commissioners would result in all four teams being bunched pretty closely together, and therefore both nines may be depended upon to put up a hard fight. With the changes in their line-up the Straths expect to pull out a victory or at the worst, give the Abstainers an awful argument. It should be fast, snappy ball and the players will be on their toes all the way.

The West Ends and Park Street teams will also be strengthened for to-morrow. Several of the Park St. team were out of the city last week and their services were not available, but they will be on hand to-morrow. The West Ends will have first-baseman Ed. King back in the game, as his injured hand is healed. With Kirn pitching at his best and the rest of the team putting up the same grade of ball as on their other appearances, Manager Oldham's bunch will be strong. It should be a grand game.

The Straths will line up as follows: Wilson, c.; Heaslip, 1b; Weatherston, 2b; Kendry, s.s.; Craig, 3b.; Shaw, Curtis, Wettlaufer and Guerin, outfield; Hickey, p.; Ferguson, p.; Ryan, p.

The T. A. S. will have the following: McFadden, c.; M. O'Brien, 1st b.; Flaherty, 2b.; Cahill, s.s.; Doherty, 3b.; Callaghan, l.f.; W. O'Brien, c.f.; Derocher, c.f.; Quinlan, p.

The West Ends, for the second game, will be as follows: Carton, c.; King, 1st b.; Halpin, 2nd b.; Minorgan, s.s.; Dobson, 3rd b.; V. Craig, Gibson, Rose, and Fallon, outfield; Kirn, p.

BOBBY KERR PICKED TO BEAT WALKER IN BOTH SPRINTS

Two weeks from Saturday Bobby Kerr and Reg. Walker will meet in the English championships and athletic critics are beginning to dope out the race already. Of course, every Canadian and many Englishmen think that Kerr will trim the South African in both the 100 and 220 yards events. The Hamilton sprinter has the furlong event at his mercy if past performances count for anything, and the real race will likely be in the 100 yards event. Walker's defeat since his arrival in England makes it look as though he was not at his best form while Kerr was never better. There is little to choose between the two men, but one thing in Kerr's favour is the fact that he will meet Walker under much better conditions than he did in the Olympic games. At that time he was running in the 100 metres and a heat in the 200 metres each day and had a couple of hard handicap races before the games opened. He will be at his best this time, and it looks as though the South African was in for a trimming.

FOUR TEAMS ARE STILL LEFT IN THE RUNNING IN THE MIDLAND LEAGUE

The Intermediate competition in the Midland Football League is now reduced to four teams, which are: Bowmanville, winner of District I; Bethany, winner of District II; Lakefield, winner of District III, and Havelock, winner of District IV. The semi-final games are now in progress and some fine contests are being pulled off.

Last Friday Lakefield played at Havelock and were defeated by 3 to 0. The return game will be played in Lakefield to-morrow evening at 6:30 p.m. with Mr. J. E. Sullivan, of Peterborough, acting as referee.

In the western part of this League, Bowmanville journeyed to Bethany and won by a score of 1 to 0. The return game in Bowmanville is billed for Saturday at 4:30 with a Toronto man as referee.

When these games are decided the winners will play home and home games for the championship of 1909.

In the junior series, Warsaw, Norwood and Havelock were the only entries and they made a sang little district. This series is developing some good material down east and is a source of strength to the intermediate teams. Norwood has captured the high honours in easy fashion and has not lost a single game this season except by default in failing to go to Havelock on the scheduled date. The High School boys play the game both fast and clean and have won on their merits.

WESTON IS SURE THAT HE CAN FINISH ON SCHEDULE TIME

World's Champion Walker is Entering the Home Stretch But is Behind Five Days in His Schedule---Still Feels Confident of Accomplishing His Wonderful Feat.

Walking from New York to San Francisco.

Left New York 4.15 p.m., March 15th.

Due San Francisco, 4 p.m., July 8. Time, 100 days, Sundays not included.

Distance by post roads, 4,300 miles.

Denver, Col., June 18.—Throwing kisses to the girls, bowing to the matrons and smiling upon everyone, Edward Payson Weston, whose ocean to ocean walk is a continental wonder, is now treading the slope of the Rockies, on the home-stretch of his wonderful journey at a never-tire pace which tests the powers of the youngest and most stalwart.

Hale, hearty, happy, this 71-year-young-old gentleman, his feet clogged with mud, his clothes bearing signs of numerous soakings, laughs gayly at his vicissitudes. He now faces the sun-baked deserts. This is the most terrible stage of his trip.

"I am still a young-old man," he said when he reached here, "and I feel as good as ever I did. I expect to finish this jaunt in as good condition as I am now.

"I am more than half way to my destination. The trip as planned is 4,600 miles and I expect to cover the remainder with time to spare.

"Obstacles? Surely, plenty of them, but nothing is unsurmountable when there is a will and a way to walk. I agreed to walk from ocean to ocean, but I had no idea when I started that I would have to swim part of the way.

"That's what I had to do in Colorado. My walk into Denver was over awful roads. It seemed as if I carried tons of adobe on my feet. It was an effort to lift the dirt without taking a step.

Weston's Winning Smile.

Weston wears a smile that won't come off. His upright carriage, kindly, nervous eyes and wholesome smile reflect powers of endurance.

Although the Weston feet have traversed thousands of miles they are just ordinary feet. Cold water is their only luxury. Five days behind his schedule, the veteran made light of the fact and laughed, when it was suggested that he would not be able to make up the time.

"Can't," he said with uplifting eyebrows and broad smile. "Why, I'll make up that time and have more to throw away before I reach San Francisco." And the deterined lines of the Weston jaw augured well for the resolve.

Weston's loss of time was not occasioned through fatigue or illness, but to inclement weather and his desire to acknowledge courtesies extended. One of his "obstacles" was his desire to please.

Greeted as a Hero.

Since leaving Chicago, Weston has encountered that kindly attitude which he met upon the occasion of his great walk last year. Everywhere along the road, men women and children turn out to grasp his hand; his desire for a cup of tea is guessed and the stimulating cup meets him day and night. People everywhere greet him as a hero and he wants for nothing that generous hospitality can provide. He is pursued by pedestrians and people in rigs and automobiles wherever he goes.

SAM LANGFORD, THE COLOURED FIGHTER, IS A CANADIAN

Noted Fighter, Who Recently Won the Championship of England, Hails From Nova Scotia.

HIS RING CAREER.

It is known to but few people that Sam Langford, who defeated Hague, and who is the most prominent coloured fighter in the world at present next to Jack Johnson, is a Canadian like George Dixon, who was born in Halifax, and adds another name to the long list of world renowned athletes bred in the Dominion, which, as far as heavyweight boxing goes, also bred Tommy Burns, for months the world's champion.

It would be a funny thing indeed if the coloured Canadian heavyweight should dispoil the coloured United States heavyweight of the honours he won from the white Canadian heavyweight in the antipodes.

Sam hails from Boston, where he has been living of late years, but his home is at Weymouth, Nova Scotia, where he lived until he was well along in his 'teens. The Langfords are very numerous there and they, wells and Briaters form quite a large community of coloured people at the "Falls," about two miles from Weymouth Bridge. The great grand parents of these people came there after the American revolution, some of them were servants (some slaves) of Colonel James Mody and Col. Taylor, who obtained large grants of land there for their loyalty and heroic services to the crown. Many of these coloured people were very decent and worthy people. Sam's parents still live in the old home, and it seems as if Sam comes naturally by his fighting proclivities as his father is known as "Fighting Bob," and has not a very good disposition. Sam, however, is good-natured.

SPORTING SPARKLETS

When Frank Erne was champion of the world at boxing in the lightweight division, the Buffalo boy refused again and again to meet boxers "because they are not in my class and have no chance to beat me for the title," says the Buffalo Enquirer. Erne threw away on one occasion just $20,000 for four little exhibitions and to-day Frank is in Paris so near the ragged edge of the financial precipice that now and then he has to hoard his francs in order to get a beef stew. But every champion is not so foolish as was Francis, of Buffalo. To-morrow night in Pittsburg James J. Jeffries, who has been out of the ring for the past four years running a drink emporium in Los Angeles, and who between times cultivated an alfalfa farm somewhere out west, will box with his sparring partner six two-minute rounds. He will receive, so his press agents say, $6,000 for this great battle with the pillows. And the Smoky City fans will fall for this battle like a bunch of hungry wolves after a Russian peasant.

On Tuesday next in Oklahoma City where they have pistols loaded with blank cartridges and Mojave sand in their hair, Battling Nelson will fight (?) Jack Clifford for the title championship of the world. Once on a time Jack Clifford was sparring partner of Nelson, and one day when they couldn't get anyone else to fight Nelson, so for the coin that there was in it, Clifford obligingly took on the man who was paying him $25 per week for stopping them, high or low. Of course the Battler won after "a terrific contest." Now Clifford has been resurrected again, and on Tuesday night once more he will take his on the jaw, and incidentally the count and the Battler will have another great fight to put down in his book, "The Life and Ring Battles of Battling Nelson." Yes, we are still the same kind of people that P. T. Barnum wrote about some years ago.

BASEBALL

Let's see, yesterday was June 16, and the first real baseball practise of the season was held on the fair grounds.

It was not always thus.

Last year they were at practise hammer and tongs about the first of May.

There is a coming crop of hay on the diamond and the weeds almost hide second base along the line where Bill Cinnamon was wont to slide. But peace and quietness reign supreme in the bleachers.

About a half dozen players frolicked around the ball yard for three-quarters of an hour last night. However, practises will be more numerous in the near future and there might actually be a game pulled off before next Christmas—Lindsay Warder.

Hughey Jennings was just in the act of yelling E-yah! when he suddenly made a wry face and began spitting out grass, says the New York World. You know Hughey has a very amusing habit of cutting up those monkey shines and then stooping and pulling up grass which he rams into his mouth. Yesterday he was just biting the roots of a succulent piece of blue grass when he forgot all about his yelling, and looked very much frightened. The grass was covered with salt. It is said that Duke discovered that the only way to put a damper on Hughey's enthusiastic rooting was to salt the grass around third, and a handful did the trick. He had a big laugh when Jennings fell for it.

"It will take more than a sprinkling of salt to catch this bird," yelled Jennings to the New York bench, and he promptly moved over to the other coaching line.

"A FAITHFUL OLD HORSE"
An excellent picture showing the faithfulness of a faithful old horse, and how he brings some wood choppers to where they find their lost child buried in the snow in the winter forest. A picture to please everyone, the young as well as the old, but especially the lovers of the dumb aminal.

A STRIKING RESEMBLANCE
This funny comedy of mistaken identity shows a married man who is injudicious enough to carry on a clandestine flirtation with another woman, and consequently gets himself into an embarrasing position.

"IN THE BAD LANDS"
This is a very interesting story of Army Life on the Frontier. It tells of the love of the Colonel's daughter for a young Trooper and the difficulties encountered before she wins him. It depicts battle scenes with the Sioux Indians, in which the American soldiers win, but at great loss. A grand picture and one that will be greatly enjoyed by one and all.

Mr. Leftus will sing one of Theodore Morse's latest Children Songs, Entitled—"Toys for sale". Do not miss hearing this as it is one of the best.

PROSPECTOR FORCED TO SHOOT HIS WIFE

Went Through Terrible Adventure and Committed the Deed to Save Her From a Worse Fate---Was Acquitted by the Jury---A Thrilling Story of Misfortune.

Utica, N.Y., June 19.—James McDowell, a gold prospector, a member of Apollo Lodge, 18, of Troy, N.Y., and of several higher organizations of Free Masons, and now at the Masonic Home at Utica, has led a life full of adventure and privation in prospecting in Albert Province and California and the Klondike regions.

The most tragic of his adventures occured in Alberta, where owing to a terrible accident which befell his young wife, who was spending her honeymoon prospecting with her husband, he was impelled to end her suffering by shooting her though the heart.

The following is McDowell's story of the horrible affair:

"In 1896 I staked three claims in the Peace River Country, 112 miles north of Banff Hot Springs, National Park, Alberta, Canada. My claims were on the face of Castle Mountain, and the approaches were so rugged and precipitous as to be almost inaccessible. There was a very narrow, perilous trail which I spent a month in widening and making more secure, during which time I left my bride of a few months at Calgary, in the Province of Alberta, about a five days' journey from my claims. My bride was lonely among strangers in Calgary, and frequently begged me to take her out to the claims and let her rough it with me, but I insisted that she would be in the desolation of Castle Mountain, which was infested with wolves, and other wild beasts, besides being dangerous of access. No horse, cayuse, bronco or mustang could travel that narrow, perilous trail. Mules and burros were the only pack animals that could keep their feet. Burros, however, could not stand the journey for the necessary length of time.

"Although sure-footed, patient and enduring, they were small and frail, and with a one-hundred-pound pack could not travel for two consecutive days. Should they travel one day they would have to rest two before proceeding. Mules were scarce and dear, but I managed to secure three, and these I packed with tools, provisions and materials for building a log cabin.

"This hut I built in clearing I made some two and a half miles from my claims—as near to them as I could find suitable ground. Then, having built my cabin, I returned to Calgary and loaded my mules with household effects, provisions, tools and a medicine chest. Meantime, my young wife was becoming more and more impatient and eager to join me.

Rode Along Edge of Canyon

"When I had my cabin furnished and had bolstered up the trail by which it was reached, I again returned to Calgary and found my wife prepared to start. Having purchased a few more supplies, we started for our destination on July 4, 1896. My wife was delighted with the cabin, and more than ever anxious and determined to visit the claims, which as I have said, were two and a half miles by an almost inaccessible trail further up the mountain side. One day she was so persistent that I promised to take her, and we started on July 17, making our way slowly and with extreme caution. We made poor progress, as we had to ride on the extreme edge of Albert Canyon.

"My wife was picking her way some ten yards ahead of me at a point where the abyss of the canyon is eighteen hundred feet below the narrow trail. It was about 8 a.m., and the sun was beating down fiercely upon us. I do not know what caused the tragedy which followed, but I think that the mule was stung by either a hornete or a yellow jacket.

"At any rate, I was startled by an agonized roar from the mule and a terrific scream from my wife, and as I looked up from the trail and glanced ahead I was horrified to see the mule rearing and plunging and entirely beyond my wife's control.

"I leaped from my mule and ran forward to her assistance, but before I had covered half the distance mule and rider had plunged down into the abyss and bounded from rock to boulder, and were finally lost to view in the tangled underbrush nearly two thousand feet below.

"I flung myself headlong at the extreme edge of the precipice and shrieked as I witnessed the awful descent of my wife, and once in my intense excitement I came near pitching headfirst down the canyon myself. So narrow was the trail that my own mule could not turn around, and therefore we could not retrace our steps. I abandoned my animal.

"The only way I could get to the bottom of Albert Canyon from where I lay on my breast, gazing wildly into its depths, was to ascend still higher into its mouth and then work my way cautiously downward, I searched for twenty-eight hours, and then came across the carcass of the mule, smashed and crushed into a shapeless mass. Above it hovered carrion birds, and about it I thought I saw the track of a wolf.

"I knew that my wife must be somewhere near, and I walked in a circle around the body of the mule, gradually increasing the radius. I had eaten nothing in over thirty hours, and was fearfully thirsty and feeble from climbing and searching.

Almost Went Mad in Search

"Many times during my search I was fearful that I would go mad from grief, hunger, thirst, and my terrible exertions. My clothes and flesh were torn by the sharp rocks over which I had crawled. My skin was blistered by the almost unendurable heat, and my eyes smarted horribly from the strain of my day and night search. I was so exhausted that when about to fling myself down for a brief sleep and rest I realized the danger of such a proceeding and determined to continue my search, crawling on hands and knees. About noon I came across a huddled, broken, shapless mass some fifty yards away from the carcass of the mule, and dragging myself up to the spot I found my unconscious wife. At the sight I fainted, and did not regain consciousness for over an hour. Then I made an examination. She was breathing faintly, but unconscious, and I thanked God it was so, for had it been otherwies her sufferings would have been unspeakable.

"Her arms and legs were broken. Various other bones in her body were also broken, and there was a great gash in her forehead.

"There was nothing for it but mercifully to put her to death, and drawing my revolver I placed the muzzle near her heart and fired. Then I covered her body with grass, leaves, twigs and rocks to keep off the carrion and wolves, and, bowed down with grief and complete exhaustion for want of food and water, I threw myself down near her funeral pile and slept for several hours.

"Then I started for Calgary, but was so feeble that the journey took me ten days. Upon my arrival I informed Sheriff James Hamilton of the tragedy, and he sent with me a deputy to investigate my statements. The deputy and I removed the rocks and brush from my wife's body, and he made a note of her injuries and described the revolver shot through her heart, and then we dug a grave and buried poor Fannie, placing a rude wooden slab at her head for want of a better gravestone. Twelve days later we got back to Calgary, and both the officer and myself testified before the coroner, whose jury not only held me blameless for shooting my insensible wife, but extended their sympathy to me at my loss.

"To this day the trail is known as Calamity Trail. After the tragedy I could not bear the memory of it, or to continue to live in that country, so I sold my claims and went to California."

IT'S THE TALK OF THE COUNTRY

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Samuel Thompson's Dropsy.

Her's Was a Terrible Case and the Doctors Were Powerless to Check It, But the Great Kidney Remedy Cured It.

Holt, Ont., June 18.—(Special).—It's the country side about here is talking of the wonderful cure of Mrs. Samuel Thompson of this place. She was taken sick with Jaundice, and though the doctor was called in she grew steadily worse. Her stomach was so bad she could not keep anything on it. Dropsy set in and she bloated to a terrible size. The doctor came three times to tap her, but her husband would not allow him to do it, saying that if she could not get better they might let her die in peace. Finally she dropped the doctors and tried other medicines, but they did her no good. Her leg burst and the water streamed from it. Then someone told her about Dodd's Kidney Pills and at once she asked her husband to get her a box.

After taking them a while she took a bad turn. Something would come up in her throat and she would vomit. The water would just fly from her mouth. But from that time she commenced to get better and to-day she is a well woman. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Dropsy by putting the Kidneys in condition to take the surplus water out of the blood. They always cure it.

KING EDWARD'S SUCCESS ON THE TURF DURING THIS YEAR

London, Eng., June 15.—By his third success the other day the King brings up the number of those who have won the Derby three times or more to twelve. Of these, he and Lord Rosebery are the only two still living.

The King's racing career began in March, 1871, when as colonel of the regiment, he ran a bay gelding champion in a hunter's challenge cup at a meeting of the Tenth Hussars at Down Barns. His first attempt was not successful, and it was not until April 15, 1880, that his colours were carried to victory for the first time in a military hunt steeplechase, by a horse named Leonidas. Six years then elapsed before the King registered his first success under Jockey Club rules, when his real racing career may be said to have started.

On June 4, 1886, Counterpane, a filly by Hermit, started favourite, and ridden by the late Fred Archer, won a maiden two-year-old plate. Since then the King's fortunes have fluctuated considerably.

This season promises to be the most successful he has yet had. He has already won nearly £15,000 in stakes and so far heads the list of winning owners for the season. Minoru, besides the Derby, has won the Greenham Stakes and the Two Thousand Guineas, the total value of the three being £12,329. Vain Air has won the Molyneux Stakes at Liverpool and the Sudbury Plate at Derby, total value £577. Oakmore took the Berkshire three-year-old handicap, worth £438; Perrier the Forty-ninth Biennial, at Newmarket, worth £546, and

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Deputy of the Minister of Interior.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Supplying Coal for the Dominion Buildings," will be received at this office until 4.30 p.m., on Thursday, July 15th, 1909 for the supply of coal for the Public Buildings throughout the Dominion.

Combined specification and forms of tender can be obtained on application at this office.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAPOLEON TESSIER,
Secretary.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

He died as he had lived, a very courtly gentleman. It was at the great sea-battle upon the Norman coast, and your father was in command of the after-guard in the King's own ship. Now the French had taken a great English ship the year before when they came over and held the narrow seas and burned the town of Southampton. This ship was the Christopher, and they placed it in the front of their battle; but the English closed upon it and stormed over its side, and slew all who were upon it.

"But your father and Sir Lorredan of Genoa, who commanded the Christopher, fought upon the high poop, so that all the fleet stopped to watch it, and the King himself cried aloud at the sight, for Sir Lorredan was a famous man-at-arms and bore himself very stoutly that day, and many a knight envied your father that he should have chanced upon so excellent a person. But your father bore him back and struck him such a blow with a mace that he turned the helmet half round on his head, so that he could no longer see through the eyeholes, and Sir Lorredan threw down his sword and gave himself to ransom. But your father took him by the helmet and twisted it until he had it straight upon his head. Then, when he could see once again, he handed him his sword, and prayed him that he would rest himself and then continue, for it was great profit and joy to see any gentleman carry himself so well. So they sat together and rested by the rail of the poop; but even as they raised their hands again your father was struck by a stone from a mangonel and so died."

"And this Sir Lorredan," cried Nigel, "he died also, as I understand?"

"I fear that he was slain by the archers, for they loved your father, and they do not see these things with our eyes."

"It was a pity," said Nigel; "for it is clear that he was a good knight and bore himself very bravely."

"Time was, when I was young, when commoners dared not have laid their grimy hands upon such a man. Men of gentle blood and coat-armor made war upon each other, and the others, spearmen or archers, could scramble amongst themselves. But now all are of a level, and only here and there one like yourself, fair son, who reminds me of the men who are gone."

Nigel leaned forward and took her hands in his. "What I am you have made me," said he.

"It is true, Nigel. I have indeed watched over you as the gardener watches his most precious blossom, for in you alone are all the hopes of our ancient house, and soon—very soon—you will be alone."

"Nay, dear lady, say not that."

"I am very old, Nigel, and I feel the shadow closing in upon me. My heart yearns to go, for all whom I have known and loved have gone before me. And you—it will be a blessed day for you, since I have held you back from that world into which your brave spirit longs to plunge."

"Nay, nay, I have been happy here with you at Tilford."

"We are very poor, Nigel. I do not know where we may find the money to fit you for the wars. Yet we have good friends. There is Sir John Chandos, who has won such credit in the French wars and who rides ever by the King's bridle-arm. He was your father's friend and they were Squires together. If I sent you to court with a message to him he would do what he could."

Nigel's fair face flushed. "Nay, Dame Ermyntrude, I must find my own gear, even as I have found my own horse, for I had rather ride into battle in this tunic than owe my suit to another."

"I feared that you would say so, Nigel; but indeed I know not how else we may get the money," said the old woman sadly. "It was different in the days of my father. I can remember that a suit of mail was but a small matter in those days, for in every English town such things could be made. But year by year since men have come to take more care of their bodies, there have been added a plate of proof here and a cunning joint there, and all must be from Toledo or Milan, so that a knight must have much metal in his purse ere he puts any on his limbs."

Nigel looked up wistfully at the old armor which was slung on the beams above him. "The ash spear is good," said he, "and so is the oaken shield with facings of steel. Sir Roger Fitz-Alan handled them and said that he had never seen better. But the armor——"

Lady Ermyntrude shook her old head and laughed. "You have your father's great soul, Nigel, but you have not his mighty breadth of shoulder and length of limb. There was not in all the King's great host a taller or a stronger man. His harness would be little use to you. No, fair son, I rede you that when the time comes you sell this crumbling house and the few acres which are still left, and so go forth to the wars in the hope that with your own right hand you will plant the fortunes of a new house of Loring."

A shadow of anger passed over Nigel's fresh young face. "I know not if we may hold off these monks and their lawyers much longer. This very day there came a man from Guildford with claims from the Abbey extending back before my father's death."

"Where are they, fair son?"

"They are flapping on the furze-bushes of Hankley, for I sent his papers and parchments down wind as fast as ever falcon flew."

"Nay! you were mad to do that, Nigel. And the man, where is he?"

"Red Swire and old George the archer threw him into the Thursley bog."

"Alas! I fear me such things cannot be done in these days, though my father or my husband would have sent the rascal back to Guildford without his ears. But the Church and the Law are too strong now for us who are of gentler blood. Trouble will come of it, Nigel, for the Abbot of Waverley is not one who will hold back the shield of the Church from those who are her servants."

"The Abbot would not hurt us. It is that gray lean wolf of a sacrist who hungers for our land. Let him do his worst. I fear him not."

"He has such an engine at his back, Nigel, that even the bravest must fear him. This ban which blasts a man's soul is in the keeping of his church, and what have we to place against it? I pray you to speak him fair, Nigel."

"Nay, dear lady, it is both my duty and my pleasure to do what you bid me; but I would die ere I ask as a favor that which we can claim as a right. Never can I cast my eyes from yonder window that I do not see the swelling down-lands and the rich meadows, glade and dingle, copse and wood, which have been ours since Norman William gave them to that Loring who bore his shield at Senlac. Now, by trick and fraud, they have passed away from us, and many a franklin is a richer man than I; but never shall it be said that I saved the rest by bending my neck to their yoke. Let them do their worst, and let me endure it or fight it as best I may."

The old lady sighed and shook her head. "You speak as a Loring should, and yet I fear that some great trouble will befall us. But let us talk no more of such matters, since we cannot mend them. Where is your citole, Nigel? Will you not play and sing to me?"

The gentleman of those days could scarce read and write; but he spoke in two languages, played at least one musical instrument as a matter of course, and possessed a number of other accomplishments, from the imping of hawk's feathers, to the mystery of venery, with knowledge of every beast and bird, its time of grace and when it was seasonable. As far as physical feats went, to vault bare-backed upon a horse, to hit a running hare with a crossbow-bolt, or to climb the angle of a castle courtyard, were feats which had come by nature to the young Squire; but it was very different with music, which had called for many a weary hour of irksome work. Now at last he could master the strings, but both his ear and his voice were not of the best, so that it was well perhaps that there was so small and so unprejudiced an audience to the Norman-French chanson, which he sang in a high reedy voice with great earnestness of feeling, but with many a slip and quaver, waving his yellow head in cadence to the music:

A sword! A sword! Ah, give me a sword!
For the world is all to win.
Though the way be hard and the door be barred,
The strong man enters in.
If Chance and Fate still hold the gate,
Give me the iron key,
And turret high my plume shall fly,
Or you may weep for me!

A horse! A horse! Ah, give me a horse!
To bear me out afar,
Where blackest need and grimmest deed
And sweetest perils are.
Hold thou my ways from glutted days
Where poisoned leisure lies,
And point the path of tears and wrath
Which mounts to high emprise!

A heart! A heart! Ah, give me a heart
T rise to circumstance!
Serene and high and bold to try
The hazard of the chance,
With strength to wait, but fixed as fate
To plan and dare and do,
The peer of all, and only thrall,
Sweet lady mine, to you!

It may have been that the sentiment went for more than the music, for even as a child my own ears had been dulled by age, but old Dame Ermyntrude clapped her lean hands together and cried out in shrill applause.

"Westhercote has indeed had an apt pupil!" she said. "I pray you that you will sing again."

"Nay, dear dame, it is turn and turn betwixt you and me. I beg that you will recite a romance, you who know them all. For all the years that I have listened I have never yet come to the end of them, and I dare swear that there are more in your head than in all the great books which they showed me at Guildford Castle. I would fain hear 'Doon of Mayence,' or 'The Song of Roland,' or 'Sir Isumbras.'"

So the old dame broke into a long poem, slow and dull in the inception, but quickening as the interest grew, until with darting hands and glowing face she poured forth the verses which told of the emptiness of sordid life, the beauty of heroic death, the high sacredness of love and the bondage of honor. Nigel, with set, still features and brooding eyes, drank in the fiery words, until at last they died upon the old woman's lips and she sank back weary in her chair. Nigel stooped over her and kissed her brow.

"Your words will ever be as a star upon my path," said he. Then, carrying over the small table and the chessmen, he proposed that they should play their usual game before they sought their rooms for the night.

But a sudden and rude interruption broke in upon their gentle contest. A dog pricked its ears and barked. The others ran growling to the door. And then there came a sharp clash of arms, a dull heavy blow as from a club or sword-pommel, and a deep voice from without summoned them to open in the King's name. The old dame and Nigel had both sprung to their feet, their table overturned and their chessmen scattered among the rushes. Nigel's hand had sought his crossbow, but the Lady Ermyntrude grasped his arm.

"Nay, fair son! Have you not heard that it is in the King's name?" said she. "Down, Talbot! Down, Bayard! Open the door and let his messenger in!"

Nigel undid the bolt, and the heavy wooden door swung outward upon its hinges. The light from the flaring cressets beat upon steel caps and fierce bearded faces, with the glimmer of drawn swords and the yellow gleam of bowstaves. A dozen armed archers forced their way into the room. At their head were the gaunt sacrist of Waverley and a stout elderly man clad in a red-velvet doublet and breeches much stained and mottled with mud and clay. He bore a great sheet of parchment with a fringe of dangling seals, which he held aloft as he entered.

"I call on Nigel Loring!" he cried. "I, the officer of the King's law and the lay summoner of Waverley, call upon the man named Nigel Loring!"

"I am he."

"Yea, it is he!" cried the sacrist. "Archers, do as you were ordered!"

In an instant the band threw themselves upon him like the hounds on a stag. Desperately Nigel strove to gain his sword which lay upon the iron coffer. With the convulsive strength which comes from the spirit rather than from the body, he bore them all in that direction, but the sacrist snatched the weapon from its place, and the rest dragged the writhing Squire to the ground and swathed him in a cord.

"Hold him fast, good archers! Keep a stout grip on him!" cried the summoner. "I pray you, one of you, prick off these great dogs which snarl at my heels. Stand off, I say, in the name of the King! Watkin, come betwixt me and these creatures who have as little regard for the law as their master."

One of the archers kicked off the faithful dogs. But there were others of the household who were equally ready to show their teeth in defense of the old house of Loring. From the door which led to their quarters there emerged the pitiful master of Nigel's threadbare retainers. There was a time when ten knights, forty men-at-arms and two hundred archers would march behind the scarlet roses. Now at this last rally when the young head of the house lay bound in his own hall, there mustered at his call the page Charles with a cudgel, John the cook with his longest spit, Red Swire the aged man-at-arms with a formidable ax swung over his snowy head, and Weathercote the minstrel with a bear-spear. Yet this motley array was fired with the spirit of the house, and under the lead of the fierce old soldier they would certainly have flung themselves upon the ready swords of the archers, had the Lady Ermyntrude not swept between them.

"Stand back, Swire!" she cried. "Back, Weathercote! Charles, put a leash on Talbot, and hold Bayard back!" Her black eyes blazed upon the invaders until they shrank from that baleful gaze. "Who are you, you rascal robbers, who dare to misuse the King's name and to lay hands upon one whose smallest drop of blood has more worth than all your thrall and caitiff bodies?"

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. We invite all the afflicted to consult us confidentially and free of charge. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard-earned dollars.

☞ NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically, and I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

CANADA'S AVIATORS

WHAT INVENTORS ARE DOING AT BADDECK, N. S.

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell and His Assistants, Baldwin and McCurdy, Are Performing Wonders in Little Out-of-the-Way Village—The Silver Dart Is the Best of the Aerial Fleet —How McCurdy Runs Her.

History is being made in the quiet little watering-place of Baddeck, on the shores of the beautiful Bras-d'Or Lakes. Here, at the laboratories of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone and founder of the Aerial Experimental Association, an army of experts is daily engaged with head and hand thinking and working out the problems of the best way to navigate the air. Even as I write these lines a distant purring sound comes to my ears; nearer and nearer it draws, the noise of the rapidly gyrating engine and the whirring of the propeller become louder and louder, until finally a window is flung open, and there, sailing gracefully through the air at an altitude of about thirty feet, is the famous aerodrome Silver Dart, making one of her cross-country flights. At a distance of three-quarters of a mile the drome becomes lost to sight, but in less time than it takes to write these words the machine has rounded the outer mark of the official course and is on her way back to the starting point, the aviator bringing her to earth with the graceful and unhesitating motion of a bird. Hourly flights of four miles or more are but incidents, and the aviators, Messrs. J. A. D. McCurdy and F. W. Baldwin, are as much at home seated on the machine flying through the air as is the ordinary individual sitting at the parlor fireside.

In October, 1907, Dr. Bell organized an association, to be known as the Aerial Experimental Association. The association consisted of five members, and had as its object the building and improvements of heavier-than-air machines. Experiments were first made with a large tetrahedral kite at Dr. Bell's summer home in Nova Scotia. The late Lieut. Selfridge went up in this man-lifting kite, and it was hoped to get data as to the life and what is technically called drift or resistance, with a view to installing a motor and propellers to convert the kite into a free flying machine. The flight was entirely satisfactory, but, unfortunately, the kite was wrecked by being pulled through the water after it had come down.

The association then moved its headquarters to the engine works of Mr. G. H. Curtiss, who was executive head of the association. Gliding experiments were commenced, but it was not until the arrival of their fourth aerodrome, the Silver Dart, that substantial successes were obtained. The Silver Dart is a double-deck aerodrome, 49 feet wide, with planes six feet broad, fore and aft. Centered on it is a 50-h.p. eight-cylinder motor, built by the G. H. Curtiss Co., of Hammondsport, New York. This motor drives a ten-blade wooden propeller, placed at the rear of the airship. The elevation is controlled by a horizontal rudder, broadly made and extending out in front, by the tilting of which the aviator can direct his course up or down. At the rear is placed a perpendicular rudder, by which the drome is steered, and which operates like that in an ordinary boat. The planes, with the exception of two small triangular wings at the extreme tips, are of rigid construction, the sections being covered with vulcanised silk. The forward thrust of the propeller, when the drome is stationary and the engine is going at full speed, is 800 pounds.

March 10 witnessed a sensational flight by the Silver Dart, when the machine out-distanced all her former records. Having been fitted with ice-wheels, the machine was trundled out on the ice, where, after a preliminary examination of the motor and machinery, Mr. J. A. D. McCurdy, owner of the machine, climbed through the network of wires into his tiny seat in front of the engine. The body of the machine was held in check by half a dozen sturdy onlookers while the engine was set in motion. With a "Let her go" from the operator, the attendants released their hold, and away went the machine over the ice like an arrow sprung from a bow. After skipping along the ice for about 200 yards, the drome rose at a graceful angle to a height of about twenty feet and shot away for the town of Baddeck, some three miles distant. Passing over the channel between the town and Kitson's Island, the aviator headed the machine for the 10-mile turning buoy. Rounding the mark in a wide, sweeping circle, the drome started on her return course. On the way in she had to pass over a thickly wooded patch of land, but was sufficiently high to avoid coming in contact with the tree-tops. The finishing point was rather close inshore, and Mr. McCurdy, to avoid the chance of landing on shore, shut off the power, and the machine, bereft of motion, glided gracefully to the ice. This was the record flight of the Silver Dart, the drome having covered a distance of twenty miles, less 200 yards, in twenty-four minutes.

Needless to say, this little group of men who are working so earnestly for Canada's success in the science of human flight are enthusiastic in their hope for the future.

"I feel confident that this machine could continue flying for an indefinite period," the aviator says. "These flights we are making are only experiments, and occasionally during a flight, when we have gone scarcely more than 100 yards, some little piece of mechanism gets out of adjustment, and we have to alight to fix it. Then, again, the machine will run along as you have seen, for twenty miles without a hitch. The aerodrome is here to stay, and after it is somewhat more perfected I look to see it employed by the big powers of the world during times of war to carry despatches, do scouting work, etc."

A Sign.

Whenever you hear people referring to any one as "an original genius" you may be sure that they are prepared to make excuses for him.—Chicago Record-Herald.

LONG TERM FIRES.

The Buddhist Fire of Bangkok Is the Oldest in the World.

In Siam is a fire that not only lasts for years, but has what have been aptly termed "lineal descendants." It is to be found in a Buddhist temple near Bangkok, where every fourth year at a certain period the priests light a fresh fire in a big brazier. This flame is kept alive for four years and is in turn extinguished after supplying a brand to ignite its successor. Inasmuch as this practice has obtained for upward of two centuries, the Buddhist fire of Bangkok is in a sense the oldest in the world.

Another long term fire is said to exist at Sarhad, Persia. This flame is a symbol of religious fervor, and it is death to extinguish it, and it is claimed it has burned for seventy years. In explanation of this curious rite it is explained that the Persians, rigid Mohammedans and regarding their former fire worshiping faith with detestation, nevertheless suffer the Sarhad flame to continue to display their gratitude for a service rendered a high official of the Persian Government many years ago. At that time, it is said, a pious Parsee, who had come to trade at Sarhad, was the happy means of saving the grand vizier from assassination. So the grateful Shah of that day ordered that the fire lighted by the Parsee should be kept alive indefinitely.

There are some regions of the earth, like those inhabited by the Eskimos, where the motive for retaining fires for long periods lies in the great difficulty of obtaining means for lighting new ones. One traveler reports seeing a fire in Lapland that had not been extinguished in seven years. It had been carried from place to place in an old ship's bucket.

England claims one of the oldest fires in the world, that in an inn called the Checkers, in Osmotherly. This inn, the story runs, has remained in charge of the same family for 100 years, and during that period the fire in the kitchen has never been extinguished.

The keeping up of fires for years at a time is said to be sometimes an incident of a Sicilian vendetta. The wronged individual when lighting his "fire of vengeance" is said to take solemn oath that it shall not be extinguished until his thirst for revenge shall have been satisfied by the death of the offending person. There is on record a trial in Palermo wherein it was shown that the accused, charged with murder, had kept his kitchen fire alight for five years.

Dyeing Real Flowers.

"Every once in a while some florist gets busy and puts some odd colored blossoms in his window as an extra attraction to the display," said a clubman. "I just noticed one down the street. It consisted of a bunch of impossibly green carnations. At first glance a good many people thought they were made of paper, but they got interested when they found out that they were 'natural.' Now, anybody who wants to have any of these freak flowers can get them by buying some kind of aniline ink, any color desired. Carnations are the easiest to color, white ones, of course. Put their stems in a glass filled with the ink. Their stems are soft, and in a short while the large veins in their petals are filled with the ink. Don't let them absorb too much color; they are prettier with just so much. Then remove them and put them in a vase of salt water. Lilies-of-the-valley lend themselves to this scheme also—in fact, any white soft-stemmed flower may be used."

Forestry in Germany.

In Germany no man may cut down a tree without replacing it by planting two or three more. And if the timber be growing on a slope which would, if deforested, precipitate a considerable body of water into a river, thus causing floods, the trees may not be cut at all, except such a portion of them as each year reach maturity. Most important of all, when it comes to recreating the devastated forests, the Germans do not tax growing forests for thirty years after the young trees are first planted. By that time, under proper conditions of scientific forestry, a permanent and regular annual crop may be cut and the forest may well bear its just share of the burden of taxation.—Technical World Magazine.

Two Sides of It.

"Well," said Cassidy, "'tis too bad that none av us kin iver be as good as some people think we sh'u'd be."

"Aye," replied Casey, "but 'tis consolin' to think that none av us kin ever be as bad as some people think we are."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Had Heart Trouble and Shortness of Breath For Six Years.

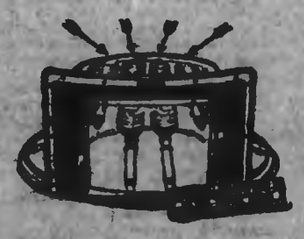
Was Weak and Thin—Only Weighed Seventy-three Pounds. Now Weighs One Hundred and Thirteen.

When you find your heart the least bit out of rhythm, your nerves unhinged, your breath short, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your nerves strong and your whole being thrill with new life. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cured Mrs. K. E. Bright, Barnley, Ont. She writes: "I was greatly troubled, for six years, with my heart and shortness of breath. I could not walk eighty rods without resting four or five times in that short distance. I got so weak and thin I only weighed seventy-three pounds. I decided at last to take some of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking eight boxes I gained in strength and weight, and now weigh one hundred and thirteen pounds, the most I ever weighed in my life. I feel well and can work as well as ever I did, and can heartily thank Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for it all."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Hecla Furnace

These Grate Bars Clean Your Fire Without A Poker



Because each of these four Grate Bars can be shaken separately. When the outer edge of a fire is dead, shake only the outer grate bars. When the outer edge needs a hard shaking, and the center only a few twists, you can clean each part of the fire of all the ashes and clinkers, without turning good coal down into the ash pan. This saves the fire—saves coal—saves sifting ashes—and, of course, one grate is much easier to turn than four geared together.

"Hecla" Individual Grate Bar is only one of a score of improvements possessed by this furnace alone.

The "Hecla" Fused Joints, for instance, insure the Furnace being dust, smoke and gas proof. The joints are fused, making them solid and absolutely airtight.

Our catalogue will tell you more of these and other exclusive features, which make the "Hecla" the safest and most sanitary warm air furnace on the market. Write today for free copy.

THE LISTS WILL CLOSE AT 4 P.M. ON TUESDAY, THE 22nd DAY OF JUNE, 1909

The Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, Limited.

APPLICATIONS will be received by THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY OF HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, up to June 22nd, 1909, for

5 p. c. First Mortgage Bonds of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, Limited, at Par.

Payable as follows: 10 p. c. on application; balance with accrued interest on July 15th, 1909.

THE Bonds offered are part of an issue of $6,000,000 secured by a First Mortgage upon all the ore, coal, timber and other lands, buildings, mines, minerals, collieries, smelting furnaces, steel mills, coke ovens, rolling mills, forges, coal and other fixtures, plant, machinery, patents, railways, wharves, rolling stock, powers, rights, revenues, privileges, exemptions and franchises (present and future acquired) of the Company in Canada and Newfoundland.

The Bonds are 50-year Gold Bonds with a Cumulative Sinking Fund of ½ p. c., commencing on January 1st, 1911, and are redeemable at any time by the Company before maturity at 105. The interest coupons will be payable half-yearly at par at Montreal, Toronto, Halifax and Boston.

The mortgage securing the Bonds covers among other things the Iron Ore and Coal deposits of the Company which alone are estimated to represent in value many times the amount of the issue of Bonds.

The earnings of the Company for the past three years have been as follows:

1906, - - - - - - - - -	$960,281.03
1907, - - - - - - - - -	944,790.66
1908, - - - - - - - - -	734,701.53
	$2,639,773.22

An average for the three years of $879,924.44, equivalent to about three times the interest on the entire issue of Bonds.

The accounts of the Company for the past three years have been audited by Messrs. Price Waterhouse & Co. of London, England, and their certificate can be seen at the office of The Eastern Trust Company, Halifax.

A part only of the Bond issue has been reserved for the Canadian market, the balance being placed elsewhere.

The present Bondholders of the Company whose Bonds are to be redeemed at 110 are to be given the privilege of exchanging their present holdings at 110 for the new Bonds, or the 6 p. c. Debenture Stock of the Company at par, accrued interest to be adjusted; and the Directors will, out of the Bonds available for the Canadian Market first allot those applied for by the present Bondholders and allot the balance among the other applications received PRO RATA.

All Bondholders who wish to avail themselves of the privilege of exchanging their Bonds are to communicate their wishes to the undersigned on or before June 22nd, 1909, stating what number of Bonds they wish to exchange whether their present holdings of Bonds are First Mortgage or Consolidated Bonds, and what securities, whether Bonds or 6 p. c. Debenture stock, they desire to receive in exchange.

Applications for purchase of Bonds must be for multiples of $100 and accompanied by a deposit of 10 p.c. on the amount of the application. (No deposit is required in the case of applications for exchange of Bonds.)

In case of partial allotment, the surplus deposit will be applied towards the amount payable on July 15th failure to pay which when due will render the deposit liable to forfeiture.

Interim certificates will be issued pending the engraving of the Bonds.

Applications should follow one or other of the forms on page 8.

Forms of application can be obtained from, and payments thereon may be made to THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA, Peterborough Branch.

WOULD YOU CONVICT — ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE?

THE WHIPCORD MURDER

A TRUE STORY

(Copyright, 1900, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

EDGAR TRUMAN BRACKETT, State Senator of New York and one of the ablest lawyers in the country, says:—"Circumstantial evidence is good evidence, and if the case is complete and follows the rules of law properly prescribed in other respects it holds no more danger for the innocent man than direct statements. It has been said that circumstantial evidence is superior to direct evidence because it does not admit of perjury; that circumstances cannot lie, but witnesses may. This distinction is, I think, falsely emphasized. There is no such weight in favor of circumstantial evidence. A circumstance must be presented to the jury through witnesses. And are not the witnesses still open to the same suspicion of perjury?

"It may be said with truth, however, that witnesses are somewhat less likely to commit perjury or to be honestly mistaken concerning a simple circumstance than concerning a complicated story presented through direct testimony. All evidence, of whatsoever kind, depends chiefly upon the reliability of the witnesses and the care with which the rules of law are applied by the Court.

"I look forward to the day when capital punishment shall be abolished. When that time comes juries will be able to approach their duties with better balance and to judge more fairly of all evidence. They will then be removed from the possibility of committing an error that lies beyond remedy and at the same time will be free to give convicting testimony its full weight."

"WHAT gone of the Bucksons?" asked James Pauls. His question was directed to the convened loiterers about the little store. "Ain't seen 'em in two weeks," he added.

"Guess John's off on his sloop," said one of the others. "As for Nancy, she's got a fancy fer makin' quick dashes on friends an' relatives 'round the State. Ain't much use tryin' to imagine where she is—'s likely one place as another. Passin' there to-day an' took the house to still stood."

"I wonder if she makes it 's hard for her relatives 't what she does for John?" suggested the storekeeper with a smile.

"Pity fer 'm if she does," exclaimed Pauls. "That's a queer thing, too. Last time I see both of 'm at the house they was just havin' the rip rarinest set-to I ever heard tell on. She was just givin' him snakes."

"Bet he wasn't sayin' much," volunteered the storekeeper.

"No, he wasn't just then. But he was lookin' a whole lot, and you can lay on that."

"How'd it come about?"

"I was comin' by the orchard an' I passed by the kitchen window. There was a clatter comin' from Nancy's tongue like she was talkin' against the Day of Judgement. I heard a good many mad women in my time, but I hand over the palm to Nancy Buckson fer makin' a man feel like he was standin' unprotected in a hail an' lightnin' storm. She was lashin' out with all she could put her mind on and a lot she couldn't.

"Thinks I, here's a likely time fer poor old John, and I stopped. I stepped up quiet to the window and peeped in over the sill. There was Nancy ragin' up and down, with a skillet in one hand and a wooden spoon in t'other, and just makin' a monkey of John, she was talking that sharp. But when I looked at him I tell you I was surprised. Never seen him with such a face. They do say John has a temper somewhere under that calm face of his, but I never believed it before "He was standin' near the stove watchin' Nancy close. He wasn't sayin' nothin'; he was just lookin'. And I guess if there's anythin' in the evil eye he'd have sizzled her up on the spot. He ain't what you'd call pale at any time. John isn't, but his cheeks was just burnin' red and his eyes was a-dancin' in his head, he was that mad. He stood there fumblin' with a whipcord, makin' knots and hitches without knowin' what he was doin'.

"I saw that wasn't no place fer me, so I lit out fer home. Pretty near as fur's I could see the house I could hear her screamin' at him."

As to John's Temper.

"You're right about John havin' a temper," said the storekeeper. "He's a bad one when it gets worked up. They call him Parson Buckson, 'r the Prayin' Captain, on board his sloop. He's pious, they say. Has all hands up fer service on Sundays, and by ordinary couldn't be hired to put a belayin' pin to anythin' but its just and proper use. But they tell of a man that crossed him once and got his skull crushed in for his pains—never spoke again. There was other times, too, when he let go of himself and laid up folks that was holdin' the other end of the argument. Oh, Johnny Buckson's got a temper all right, and don't you forget it."

"When was this time you saw them quarrelling, Pauls?" asked Foster, the Sheriff, who had listened in silence to the conversation.

"Oh, must have been about a fortnight gone—yes, full as much as that. Hold on—I remember now. It was two weeks ago yesterday—Friday. I was comin' back from Pierce's."

"When did they go away?" continued Foster.

"Why, if Pauls is right in his date they was gone the next mornin'," answered the storekeeper. "I passed that way two weeks to-day and the house was all closed up. Ain't neither of them been seen since, fer 's I know."

"Look's like they'd busted up for good," was Pauls' deduction from this information. "I wouldn't wonder if they had. Both of 'em never has stayed away so long before." He brightened under the prospect of a choice bit of news for retailing. "By jings, that's just what they've gone and done."

The deliberations of the cracker box conversation were interrupted in a startling manner at this point. A barefooted boy, breathless and staring, stumbled up the steps and flung into the circle.

"Oh, Mister Foster," he gasped, his small voice almost lost in fear and labor of lungs, "we just found—a dead woman—in the Cropsey Woods—me 'n' Chris Taylor!"

The Sheriff started up.

"What! A dead woman? Who—where?"

The boy nodded and struggled for speech.

"We was blackberryin'. We had Chris Taylor's little pup with us. In a patch of blackberries he set up a howl—'n' begun scratchin' like anythin'. We thought it was somethin'—'n' we were sickin' him on when he dug up a hand—'n' then part of a dress. We run all the way to tell you, Mister Foster."

"Who was she?"

"We didn't stop to look. It was in a clearin' in the woods—'bout half a mile back of Buckson's."

The Sheriff hurried away to hitch up his horses. Others of the group scattered through the streets, intent upon spreading the strange news and preparing to take part in the investigation. Within ten minutes, as if by prearrangement, thirty men and boys had met and were trailing the Sheriff's rig along the road leading into the Cropsey Woods. Pauls lingered to put a team to his farm wagon and lumbered after them. The two small informants accompanied Foster.

After proceeding about half a mile the Sheriff drew up and started off with his guides on foot through the heavily grown timberland. He had not covered many rods when he had no need of their further and somewhat vague directions. Mournfully through the shaded aisles of the forest came the shrill, whining howl of a dog. It led him straight into a large clearing thick with tangled vines and blackberry bushes.

Finding the Body.

The little animal that had been the first to make the discovery had not left his post, but sat beside a stretch of clear sand voicing the alarm. The hollow he had scratched in the soil showed to Foster a white human hand, with fingers bent inward, and the folds of a garment.

The searchers were soon at work with a spade which had been brought along by one of them. The earth yielded readily and they soon found that the body had been buried from sight by only a few inches. It was the face they leaned toward. The Sheriff wiped the soil from it with his handkerchief. With almost a simultaneous breath those that crowded about him spoke a name:—

"Nancy Buckson?"

There was no mistaking the features of the wife of the sea captain, and the body was clothed in a calico dress which they had seen her wear a hundred times. Almost all of those in the party had known her for years, had talked with her, had seen her daily about the streets. Awe stricken in the presence of the proof of terrible and secret death visited upon a member of their little community, they stood back until, under the urging of the Sheriff, they summoned courage to complete the disinterment of the body and prepare for its removal to the town.

It was discovered that the sides of the shallow grave had been thickly sprinkled with chloride of lime, evidently to hasten decomposition. The Sheriff was not able immediately to determine the manner in which death had been induced, and was at first inclined to believe that poison had been employed. There was no evidence of a wound. The body was being carried to Pauls' wagon when one of the searchers, who was acting as a bearer, called Foster's attention to the neck. The Sheriff then found what the clinging soil had concealed—that a stout cord was wrapped tightly about under the collar. It had been bound with great strength and the skin was deeply compressed. There was no doubt that the woman had been strangled to death.

Medical examination confirmed this evident fact and further established that the victim had been dead about two weeks. Marks of bruises upon the limbs seemed to indicate that she had engaged in a severe struggle before being overpowered.

Interest centred immediately upon the cord used by the murderer, and Foster took this as his first clew. It was a woven whip lash of the detachable kind, such as could be found in the possession of any farmer in the vicinity. The story told by Pauls recurring, the Sheriff asked him to state whether in his opinion it could be the same one which he had seen in the hands of Buckson during the altercation he had witnessed. He replied that it was very similar, but that there was no mark upon it by which he could swear positively to its identity.

Foster then visited the Buckson home. He found it locked front and rear, but one of the side windows was not fastened and through this he gained entrance. The kitchen presented a scene of confusion and the results of violence that left no doubt in the mind of the investigator that he had found the place in which the murder had been committed. The table had been overturned. One of the chairs was broken—Foster thought that it might have been used as a weapon—utensils and broken crockery strewed the floor. In one corner lay a woman's shoe. This was of interest from the fact that one shoe had been missing from the body found in the woods. Most significant of all was the fact that the polished shaft of a hickory wagon whip, cracked in the middle by what must have been a heavy blow, lay amid the wreckage.

The Missing Silver.

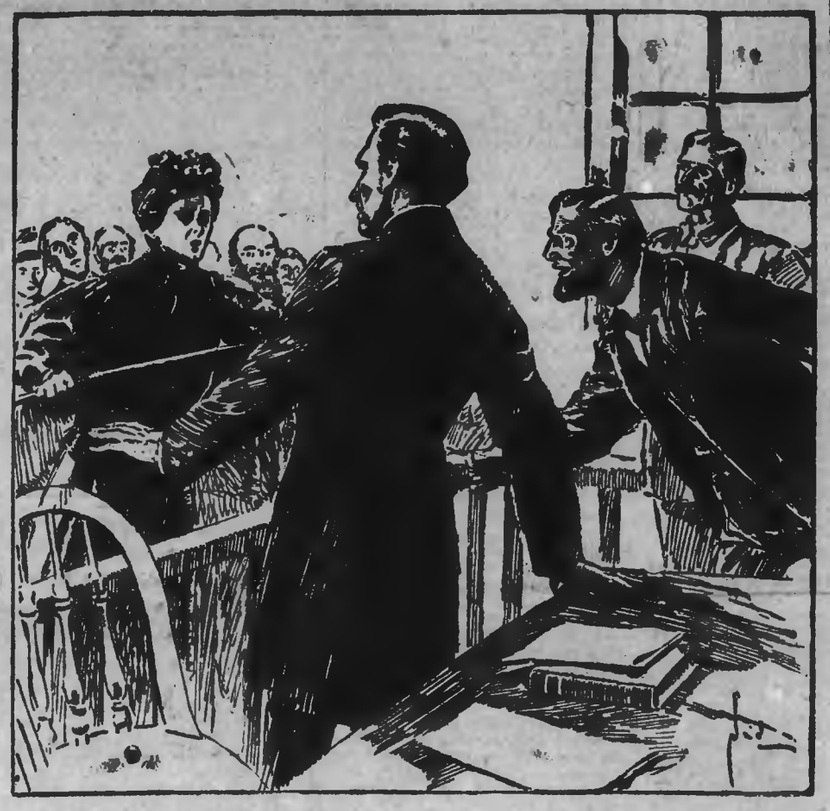
Other rooms in the house indicated that some one had made hasty preparations for departure. Trunks in the attic had been thrown on end and their contents scattered about the floor. The drawers of dressers and chests had been pulled out and thrown aside. A tumbled litter of clothing and household articles carpeted the living apartments.

Foster examined the wreckage with some care and satisfied himself that all objects of intrinsic value had been selected. This view was borne out by the fact that the sideboard had been cleared. Neighbors called in to give information declared that a number of small sterling silver pieces had always stood upon the shelf.

The whiphandle was identified beyond all question by residents of the place who had seen Buckson use it on his farm wagon. The wagon itself stood in the barn and there was no whip in the socket.

In the cellar Foster found a small open box containing chloride of lime. A quantity had been taken from it and a trail of white leading up the stairs and faintly traceable on the rear steps showed that it had been used recently and carelessly.

Outside the door of the woodshed the investigator came upon a spade. It bore marks of use in sandy soil, whereas the ground included in Buckson's farm was composed uniformly of rich loam. Of greater interest were some streaks of the chloride of lime still adhering to the blade. The value of all the circumstances was heightened by the fact that there had been no rain in the vicinity since a short time before the disappearance of the Bucksons, when there had been three days of heavy downpour.



"JUST LET HIM OUT OF THERE THIS MINUTE OR YOU'LL HAVE TROUBLE WITH ME."

The case was complete in all its details to the minds of the authorities. No one could be found who had seen either of the Bucksons after the quarrel described by Pauls. The sea captain, as a hundred witnesses could testify, was a man slow to anger but terrible in his wrath. It was plain that, spurred to the limits of exasperation by the shrewishness and continual fault finding of his wife, he had struck her in the heat of temper and had wound the cord about her neck, probably but a moment after Pauls had left the window. After strangling her, they believed, he had waited until night, when he had dragged or carted her body to the woods, buried it with lime and returned to gather all things of value from his home, after which he had made off under cover of darkness, leaving the place locked. At the inquest the jury returned a verdict in which they found that Buckson was the murderer of the woman.

The village was but a short distance from Providence, and Foster visited that city after the inquest. Buckson's sloop, the Oregon, was on the regular run from Providence to Norfolk, Va., and the Sheriff's first thought was to obtain trace of her movements.

The information he gathered fitted consistently with the clearest view of the case. It was a Friday when James Pauls saw the beginning of the domestic tragedy through the window. The Oregon had been scheduled to leave early in the afternoon of the next day. She had been delayed on account of the failure of Buckson to appear on time. He came late that afternoon and the Oregon sailed early on Sunday morning. His vessel had thus, apparently, served John Buckson as a convenient means of flight.

The Sheriff's Work.

The Sheriff learned that the sloop was booked to touch at New York on her return voyage, and herein he thought he saw the murderer's plan. The captain, he conceived, would not be likely to leave the Oregon at Newport. A cargo would be taken on board there for New York, and there would be money on hand at the latter port that a hunted man would find useful in flight. Then, too, the metropolis would offer facilities for evading pursuit that would be lacking in the smaller place. Buckson had every reason to believe that his crime was concealed for a month or more, until long absence of any tenant from the house should lead to an investigation. Even then, as the Sheriff understood the sailor's probable reasoning, there was small chance of the discovery of the body and he need be under no pressure to escape. The conclusion of this to the Sheriff was that New York was the place to look for the fugitive.

Some time had elapsed before Foster had reached this stage in his inquiries, and the Oregon was even now due to be upon her return. The Sheriff, armed with the necessary papers, made the trip to New York and laid the matter before the police. Captain James Leonard was assigned to assist him. Application was made of the port authorities, and by their aid the berth occupied by the Oregon was quickly learned. She had arrived the preceding day.

Foster and Leonard boarded the vessel the following afternoon, having learned that the captain had not gone ashore. Buckson was sitting in the shade of the deck house and Leonard stepped around to that side.

"Captain Buckson?" he inquired.

"Yes, sir."

"At the demand of the State of Rhode Island I place you under arrest for the murder of your wife, Nancy Buckson, on or about May 21."

The man sat limp in his chair, gazing in helpless horror at the policeman, his face gone white under its tan.

"Squire," he stammered, after he had gained some control of himself by a great effort; "squire, I never killed Nancy. You've got the wrong man."

"All right," said Leonard soothingly; "perhaps we have. But you'll have to come along, just the same."

John Buckson suddenly stood upright and passed a hand over his damp face. Apparently in this action he summoned to his aid some latent forces of command and resistance, for it was the strong outfacer of wave and tempest that confronted them the next moment.

"Do you tell me that Nancy is dead?" he asked.

"There seems to be no doubt about that," answered Leonard, "and you will be asked to explain how."

"Will you let me go below a second to attend to some private matters?"

But Leonard suspected and feared the change in the prisoner.

"We'll go with you while you get what you want."

Buckson stood a space in thought and then shook his head.

"I'll go with you," he said calmly.

They took him to Police Headquarters for the night and next morning, having waived extradition, he was started for Providence in charge of Foster. The Sheriff tried to engage him in conversation, but with little success. He could make nothing of the man. The sailor sat in morose silence, showing no disposition to resent the grave accusation against him nor a willingness to discuss it. After that first flash of terror when Leonard's announcement had fallen upon him all unprepared he had shown no emotion of any kind. Foster thought him a hardy and dangerous criminal and kept the closest watch upon him during the trip. He had reason to congratulate himself for having taken this care before they reached Providence. He found Buckson fumbling in his pocket and caught his hand in time to prevent the captain from drawing a large knife, the blade of which he had been able to open inside his coat.

Crowd Is Assembled.

If Buckson's indifference had been sturdily maintained during his arraignment and journey it fell from him when he reached the streets of his native town. The Sheriff's desire in notifying the authorities of the arrival of the prisoner had been that they should keep the news from public knowledge until the captain had been safely and quietly escorted to the jail. On his arrival, however, he found a large and threatening crowd. Word that the murderer was on his way had been public property for hours and townspeople and farmers had gathered to voice their indignation and their desire for speedy and condign punishment of the culprit.

Buckson cringed before the demonstration. If no other phase of the crime and its consequences could reach his reserve at least the hatred and contempt of his neighbors broke through his barriers completely. It seemed as if the first realization of his position before the community came to him on the last stage of his journey to his cell. His demeanor served only to increase the fury of the spectators against him, since it stamped him coward as well as villain. They closed in about him and blows were struck at the last, while the Sheriff was hustling his charge inside the stout, barred building.

The trial of John Buckson for murder was brief and satisfactory both to public opinion and to the individuals that go to make up the machinery of justice. It was not a case that involved subtleties of deduction or the intricate tracing of motives and movements. The facts gathered by Foster were considered quite ample. There had never been a pithier collection of convicting circumstances in the experience of the prosecuting attorney. He took occasion to point out that while there was not a shred of direct evidence there was no single link or strand in the sequence of facts that could be made to show a weakness.

Here was a perfect example of the strength of circumstantial evidence, he said. While each step in it had of necessity been presented through witnesses they so exactly corroborated the details in their statements and were so free from the suspicion of perjury that he had no hesitation in declaring that each successive action of the murderer could not be more precisely mapped out if he had performed the deed under a hundred pairs of eyes. Nothing was lacking and nothing was open to question.

The court room was crowded as he made his eloquent address, and the spectators read in the eyes of the jurymen the determination to visit the severest penalty upon the guilty man. It was one of those occasions when the least experienced observer, through sympathy with the prevailing sentiment, knew beforehand what the verdict must inevitably be.

Outside in the dusty streets a few youngsters who had clung curiously about the steps of the court house, conscious of the centre of interest, but who had tired of the quiet, were playing their usual games. There were few others abroad. Occasionally a worker or some woman bound to her domestic tasks stepped to the doorway to listen for the murmur that would mean a break in or an end to the trial.

A figure was coming along the road toward the town. The first persons to see it were three children who sat at the side of the highway in the shade. They whispered among themselves for a second and then fled shrieking. The figure passed on. At the first corner, where it turned, a mother of five looked up from her tubs in a back yard, caught a glimpse of it out there in the glaring sunshine and fainted.

It went on to the Buckson house, where it stopped, surveying the closed door and the drawn shades. At this point the figure was heard to speak to itself by a frightened urchin who lay hidden behind a fence and trying to think of his prayers. And this is what it said:—

"That John Buckson'll be the death of me yet. He's let them pesky hogs into the garden again."

The Remark Significant.

There was a significance in these words and an acerbity with which they were delivered that struck an added chill into the listener. It was the more remarkable that the figure should have had such a strange effect upon those who saw it. A stranger would have said it was nothing more than a comely, neatly dressed young woman with a blue parasol.

Off sailed the figure toward the main street this time, and as it moved on so grew the sensation that followed in its wake. It had not noticed the commotion at first, but a white face suddenly withdrawn from a window at its approach apparently annoyed it, for it bounced up a walk to an open door.

"Mirandy Nebitts, what's so wrong with Nancy Buckson that you're tryin' to climb under the sofa to get shut of me?"

There was some necessary delay at this point, while the figure made various indignant and scornful disclaimers of the suggestion that it had stepped out of the spirit world. It asserted with some vehemence that it would like to hear any one say anything like that again. Possibly these expressions were accompanied by some demonstration of a more convincing nature, for Miranda Nebitts was presently able to talk.

A moment later the figure was seen moving rapidly toward the court house, indifferent now to further effects upon those who saw it. It continued its advance up the steps and there was a threatening lowering of the brows as it pushed into those about the door.

"Here you," a sharp, commanding voice broke in upon the closing words of the eloquent prosecutor, "you that's got my John behind that railing! Just let him out of there this minute or you'll have trouble with me."

Nancy Buckson was not dead, a fact the astonished townsfolk admitted without reservation. But who was the woman whose body had been discovered in the woods? Her identity remains officially an entry among the unsolved mysteries of crime, but public report had settled the matter to local satisfaction within the year.

It was learned that a burglar and desperate character, Collins by name, had lived for some time in Providence with his wife. The couple had disappeared about the time of the Buckson case and neither of them had since been seen. It was believed that Collins and the woman had entered the Buckson home and robbed it on the night the Bucksons left; that some quarrel had arisen between them which ended in murder, the criminal using the whipcord as the first thing that came to his hand. The fact that the woman wore one of Nancy Buckson's dresses, the wrecking of the house and the loss of the valuables fitted into this theory, which depended chiefly upon a supposed remarkable resemblance between the victim and the captain's wife.

The altercation between the Bucksons witnessed by Pauls had spluttered itself out. The captain had left the village after dinner for Providence to take his vessel to sea. Mrs. Buckson, who frequently left home during her husband's absence, had closed the house and had walked to a town not far distant, where she was not recognized and where she started upon a stage trip to Maine to visit a sister. Captain Buckson's behavior on the vessel was explained by himself. Believing absolutely, on the strength of Leonard's statement, that his wife must be dead and that a crime was about to be fastened upon him in consequence, the simple man's thought had been of suicide. This also accounted for the incident of the knife on the train.

It is perhaps fitting to add that the incident was not without its happy results and that the worthy captain and his no less worthy wife lived afterward in great peace and amity.

When they heard that Lieutenant Cavanaugh, —th United States cavalry, was coming home on a month's leave of absence a general alarm was sounded, and they met in secret session for conference and action.

They were all openly and avowedly suitors for the lily white hand of Helene Kemble, and now they formed an alliance for the purpose of keeping the trespasser from their territory.

It was conceded generally that the odds would be in favor of an army officer, and, though they gathered solace from the fact that he never brought a mount with him, they realised that obstacles must be placed in his path.

The first fruits of their common cause against the enemy were seen at Mrs. Dalrymple's lawn fete, which occurred on the night of Lieutenant Cavanaugh's return to his home city.

Helene was talking to a little knot of friends when she saw her hostess approaching with a tall, square shouldered, good looking man. She prepared complacently to meet the young officer whose merits so often had been rehearsed to her. Before they reached her, however, one of her admirers quickly came up to her and bore her away to the dancing pavilion.

"WHAT AUDACITY!" SHE THOUGHT, TURNING TO GIVE HIM A GLANCE.

After the waltz was ended she saw the lieutenant approaching again in company with his aunt, whom Helene knew slightly.

Another suitor interposed at once, hurrying her to a table with such haste as to bewilder her. This program was followed the rest of the evening. Whenever Cavanaugh was seen in her vicinity some one was sure to intervene and whisk her away. She knew chance was not entirely to blame, and at last she divined and enjoyed the situation. She wondered if Cavanaugh was equally wise.

"If he has the diplomacy one in the service of Uncle Sam should have," she thought, "he will find a way or make one."

Once during a dance the young officer collided with her partner, and she felt confident that the action was intentional. As he begged her pardon his partner started to give the desired introduction. Instantly the man with Helene danced her away in double quick time. After this dance Cavanaugh took his departure.

"He hasn't what George designates as staying powers," she concluded.

Two days passed without any apparent effort on Cavanaugh's part to effect a meeting.

"He is either stupid or indifferent," she concluded, slightly piqued.

She changed her mind when she received from his aunt an invitation to a sunset dinner to be given for the young lieutenant.

"That was a shrewd move," she mused. "I wonder what he would do if I should not accept the invitation?"

A spirit of contrariness seized her. She determined to prolong the situation. She sent her regrets as to the dinner, pleading indisposition. The fib forced her to remain indoors throughout twenty-four beautiful hours. It made her illogically indignant against the man, of course.

On the following day she took her first riding lesson, accompanied by a riding master and her younger brother, George. As they rode three abreast Lieutenant Cavanaugh, mounted on a shining chestnut, approached. To Helene's utter surprise he wheeled about and rode at her side.

"What audacity!" she thought, turning to give him a glance meant to be annihilating. Her frigidity was wasted. The young lieutenant was not even looking at her. With flushed face and set features he was concentrating his whole attention on his horse. After a sharp trot they came to a corner, and with a sharp cut of his whip the lieutenant turned and vanished down a side street.

"How dared he!" she wondered. "If I hadn't shown by my manner what I thought of him I actually believe he would have spoken to me."

They turned at the next corner. To her dismay she saw him in the distance ahead of them. Angry as she was at his behavior, she could not help noticing that he was riding superbly.

"Let us ride faster!" she suggested.

They passed Cavanaugh at a gallop.

Instantly he rode with them again, but this time alongside of George. Cavanaugh said something to the boy and, again putting the whip to his horse, rode on. The lad reined up and gave vent to wholesome and hilarious mirth.

"What did he say to you?" demanded Helene indignantly.

"Oh, say, Helene, this is rich! He borrowed that horse of Jim Hunt, and you know Jim is a member of our troop of state cavalry."

"Well, what of that?" she asked unenlightened.

"Why, that horse is used to drilling fours, and Cavanaugh had hard work to convince him he wasn't on duty."

"Really?" said Helene relenting.

"Let me show you," said the lad eagerly. "I am trumpeter for the troop, you know, and I brought my trumpet with me to practice in the woods. Let's overtake him, and I will show you."

They urged their horses forward. The boy rose in his saddle and sounded the recall. Cavanaugh's horse responded instantly and swiftly.

"Lieutenant Cavanaugh," said the boy naively as the chestnut swung into line, "let me introduce you to my sister, Miss Kemble."

The young lieutenant acknowledged the introduction gravely and then explained the ways of his horse.

"Don't you think, Lieutenant Cavanaugh," she said sweetly, "that it would be a pity to interfere with the military training of your horse? If your way lies on this road, why not continue in fours?"

"It would be a kindness alike to horse and rider," he replied.

"I had exhausted," he said presently when they were back in the city, "all my knowledge of maneuvers and tactics, and it remained for Hunt's mare to help me out. I don't think it was her training alone that prompted the movement. I really suspect that she had grasped the situation and wanted to help me out."

"Suppose," she proposed innocently, "that we ride past the club."

"The charge of the light brigade against the enemy," he laughed.

George was discreetly silent, and the "combine" never was able to fathom the secret of the encounter. But they all got over it in time to appear at the wedding next year.

A Famous Penman.

In a little log cabin in the village of Geneva, O., Platt R. Spencer, the author of Spencerian penmanship, first taught writing. The school was familiarly known as "Jericho" and is fresh in the minds of hundreds of successful men and women in many parts of the United States.

Platt R. Spencer spent the first penny he ever earned as a lad for a sheet of writing paper. He sent by a lumberman to a distant town for it and sat up into the night awaiting his return. Later, at Ashtabula harbor, he wrote the beautiful Spencerian characters, of which he was the author, in the sands on the shores of Lake Erie, and still later, while employed on a small vessel going in and out of the same port, he wrote upon the framework of the cabin at odd moments. He often walked miles to borrow a book and retraced the distance on foot to return it promptly.

When he became a teacher himself, after overcoming many obstacles and hardships, he had little patience with the scholar that would waste his time, but he would stay hours after school to assist the willing pupils. The little log school thus became famous for the successful men and women who received their education under this great man. Spencer was born in 1800 and died in 1864. Besides being a penman and educator he was a poet.—American Boy.

His Break.

Dr. P. S. Henson once delivered his lecture on "Fools" at the New York Chautauqua. In introducing him Bishop Vincent said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are now to listen to a lecture on 'Fools' by one" (the audience broke into a roar of laughter, and after it had died away Bishop Vincent added) "of the most brilliant men in America."

Dr. Henson rose and, with a genial smile, said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I am not so great a fool as Bishop Vincent" (another roar of laughter, after which the speaker added) "would have you believe."

INDIGESTION GAS-WATERY RISINGS

Do you belch up gas?
Does your head feel light and dizzy?

Let us show that we are a part of the forward movement by adding Peterborough to the list.

What Liquor Does in Peterborough

Did you say that you are in favour of the open bar being continued in Peterborough, and that you do not intend to vote for Local Option? Why? Every week you see in the Peterborough papers items of police court and other notes that show what liquor is doing in Peterborough.

You know the liquor traffic breeds criminals.
You know the liquor traffic makes drunkards.
You know the liquor traffic causes murders.
You know the liquor traffic makes truthful men liars.
You know the liquor traffic corrupts the legislature.
You know the liquor traffic makes deadbeats out of honest men.
You know the liquor traffic makes people too poor to pay taxes.
You know the liquor traffic fills our insane asylums.
You know the liquor traffic is the main entrance to the penitentiary.
You know the liquor traffic furnishes the club-room for crooks and thugs.
You know the liquor traffic breeds poverty and causes premature death.
You know the liquor traffic is the greatest cause of the ballot box stuffing.
You know the liquor traffic causes original registration.
You know the liquor traffic endeavours to protect the criminal.
You know the criminal endeavours to protect the liquor traffic.
You know the liquor traffic lessens the earnings of men.
You know the liquor traffic makes good workmen poor workmen.
You know the liquor traffic is the father of the boycott.
You know the liquor traffic is the perpetual law-breaker.
You know the liquor traffic causes divorces.
You know the liquor traffic makes no man a better man.
You know the liquor traffic ruins the family.
You know the liquor traffic fills our poor-houses.
You know the liquor traffic crushes out the lives of innocent women and children.
You know the liquor traffic causes suicide.
You know the liquor traffic makes brutes of husbands and fathers.
You know the liquor traffic breaks the hearts of thousands of mothers.
You know the liquor traffic is against the church.
You know the liquor traffic corrupts the police. See what it is doing in Montreal.
You know the liquor traffic hates the Sabbath.
You know the liquor traffic is the clearing house of our money for criminals, drunken sots, ruined men, blasted hopes, miserable lives, suicides, and, in fact, all manner of vice.
You know the liquor traffic depreciates adjoining property.
You know the liquor traffic costs many times more than the revenue derived from it.
You know the liquor traffic is in Canada because it pays the millionaire brewer.

For these and for many other reasons we must drive it out of Peterborough.

Work Available

A Peterborough hotel keeper asked one of our merchants recently if he intended to vote for Local Option and thereby take the bread and butter out of the mouths of the hotel keepers. This is a common argument used against the agitation for Local Option. An effective reply to it is furnished by the following instance.

When it was announced, during the April elections, that a certain county in Michigan had "gone dry," the wife of a prosperous saloon-keeper visited her nearest neighbour and sought consolation over the prospect of poverty for herself and her children. Another woman, who was scrubbing the neighbour's kitchen floor, looked up and said, "Madam, my husband has spent half his earnings in your husband's saloon. Now that the saloon is to be closed, he should be able to support the family without my help, and you can have my job!"

The Attractions of a Wet Town

Last fall Allen county, Ohio, voted wet by 67 majority. The usual argument was used by the liquor men in that campaign—taxes would be increased, business would be ruined and personal liberty would be jeopardized if the county voted dry. If Option may be all right for some practical in cities and towns the size that way cannot be aware that there of over 20,000 population in which are in states that have passed general are under prohibition by the direct list of cities and their population, as Tennessee the law will not go into it remained wet, it was argued, trade would increase and many persons would come to Lima from dry territory to make their purchases.

A few days ago two men did come to Lima from dry Logan county to make purchases. Neither of them returned. One is dead, the victim of an drunken brawl; the other is in the Allen county jail awaiting trial for murder.

What caused the men to go to Lima? It may have been the page advertisement in certain Lima newspapers that on the day of the journey a new liquor house was to have a "grand opening." At any rate, the men went to Lima; both of them became drunk and quarrelsome; both purchased beer and whiskey to take back to their homes, and on one of the principal streets one of the men cut the throat of the other, death resulting almost instantly.

The wets of Allen county argued last fall that if the saloons were closed the city and county could not exist, because it would be deprived of saloon revenue. Within a few months an awful crime is committed; a man unprepared to die is sent into eternity, and another must face trial for taking life. The cost of this expensive trial will be borne, not by Lima, but by Allen county. One or two deaths have taken place in Peterborough this year directly on account of the liquor traffic. Do we want these things to continue? If not, vote for Local Option.

Making Good

Springfield, Ohio, is a city with a population of 60,000. It has come under prohibition through the recently passed county Local Option. One of the exchanges tells us that "the city of Springfield is making good dry history these days. The saloons closed April 28. From April 29th to May 18, without saloons, there were 28 arrests. For the corresponding days last year, with saloons, the number of arrests was 89. Notice that drop? Less than one-third as many."

A RETIRED BRITISH ARMY CAPTAIN MAY PURCHASE DIAMOND MINE FROM LOCAL MAN

Read the Story of the Discovery of Diamonds in Ontario by Mr. O. S. Ferguson, of Hunter Street, Fifth Ward, And is in the City Investigating the Find—It is Understood That He Has Made a Handsome Offer to Mr. Ferguson.

THEY LEAVE TO INSPECT THE PROPERTY ON MONDAY NEXT

A few weeks ago the Examiner published an interview with Mr. O. S. Ferguson, of the Fifth Ward, in which he told of a wonderful discovery of diamonds, he had made some sixteen years ago in Ontario, just where he refused to state. The article was read with much interest in Peterborough and was widely copied by papers in Canada and the United States.

The result of the publicity thus given to the discovery has borne fruit in the shape of a most handsome offer to Mr. Ferguson for the purchase of the "Canadian Kimberley" Diamond Mines. A well known retired captain of the British army read of the discovery of diamonds in Ontario, and himself firmly convinced that the precious stones might be mined in this province hastened to get into communication with Mr. Ferguson and is now in Peterborough for the purpose of concluding the transaction. He has been in South Africa for years and is an authority on diamonds, so that he knows the real article when he sees it.

In company with Mr. Ferguson he will leave on Monday for the place where the diamonds were discovered which Mr. Ferguson has kept a mystery since his discovery.

It will be remembered that the lucky Fifth Ward man made his find in a peculiar manner. Just at sunset one evening, he noticed a number of birds picking up some shining articles from the ground. His curiosity was aroused and on making an examination he found that there was a large number of the stones which he suspected to be diamonds. He brought a number home with him and they have been examined by experts and pronounced genuine diamonds. There seems to be a fortune in the discovery for Mr. Ferguson.

IN DESTITUTE CIRCUMSTANCES

Family Who Recently Came Here From Montreal, Residing on Robinson Street, East City, Without a Bed to Sleep Upon—Only Two Chairs, Table and a Stove.

MAN WITHOUT WORK.

Without a bed to lie on or a pillow on which to rest their heads, is said to be the rather distressing plight of a family residing on Robinson street, East City, near the elevator. A stove, two chairs and a table constitute their household effects, according to the story told by the father to Mr. Finch Miller, the City Relief Officer.

The family consists of father and mother and four small children. The father is a strong, able-bodied man of about thirty-five years, and it is a matter of great surprise to the charity officer and others to whom he has sought in search for aid that a man in his healthy condition cannot obtain work.

Came From Montreal.

The family is an English one, and have been in this country for two years. They resided in Montreal until they came here about six weeks ago. The man was apparently out of work in that city and came here with the hope of doing better. Judging from his present condition and scanty means he has not made much of a success since coming to Canada. Since his arrival here he says that he has only worked six days. In remarking to the Relief Officer that he was unable to secure work, he stipulated that his wages would have to be at least $1.50 per day, or else he would not go to work. The man, it is said, smokes cigarettes a great deal and never goes without them. "It is a most remarkable thing," said Mr. Miller to an Examiner reporter, "that some men must have their cigarettes while their wives and children go without bread."

Both husband and wife have applied to Mr. Miller and also the King's Daughters for assistance. Mr. Miller, on one occasion, gave the woman a dollar of his own in order that she might buy groceries, the family being without a bite of food. But he has not given from the charity funds, believing that with te present summer activities it is not impossible for the man to secure employment, even though he had to work for less than $1.50 per day.

SENT BOY TO THE MIMICO

The Magistrate Orders That Dave Windover be Sent to Mimico School for Boys for Period Not Exceeding Five Years—Magistrate Sounds a Warning to Bad Boys.

IS INCORRIGIBLE YOUTH

Dave Windover, the eleven-year-old son of Alex. Windover, Edinburgh street, is to be sent to the Mimico School for Boys. It will be remembered that a week ago six children of Windover's were taken from him and placed in the Children's Shelter. It appears that the mother is away a great deal of her time working and has been unable to give them the proper care and attention.

Mr. Cochrane and Mr. Henry, of the Children's Aid Society, both stated that the boy was incorrigible and the language he used was pretty bad. Mr. Henry said that he would not do anything he was told.

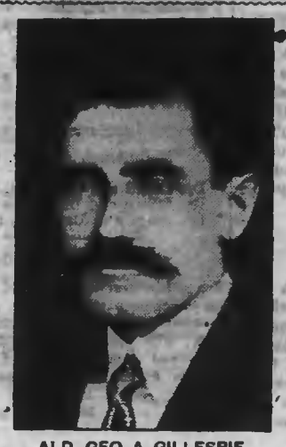
His Worship considered that the best place for him was in the Industrial School where he will have to remain for a period not exceeding five years. The other children were given back to their mother.

NOT SATISFIED WITH HIS LOT

Rev. Dr. Langfeldt Has an Interview With Walter Blythe, the Agincourt Murderer, Who Has Been Twice Reprieved, When in the Very Shadow of the Gallows.

PROLONGING HIS TORTURE.

Walter Blythe, the reprieved murderer, is not at all satisfied with his lot. He would have been satisfied if the sentence had been carried out on June 17. The news of his reprieve, brought to him by Rev. Canon Farncomb did not make him happy. In an interview which was granted Rev. Dr. Langfeldt while attending the Toronto Synod, Blythe gave utterance to the above sentiments. He looks well, and appears to be happy. Whenever the reprieve is mentioned he gets angry and can hardly control himself. He scarcely notices the enormity of his brutality in killing his wife, but he condemns very severely the cruelty of those in authority to have his mental torture prolonged. It is thought that his sentence will given on the charge of manslaughter and may not exceed 20 years.



ALD. GEO. A. GILLESPIE,
One of Peterborough's delegates to Retail Merchants' Convention at Brockville.

MR. ROBERT FAIR,
Who, with Ald. Gillespie, represented the Local Merchants at Brockville.

LOCAL DELEGATES REPORT ON RETAIL MERCHANTS' CONVENTI

Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie and Mr. Robert Fair, Who [illegible] Returned From the Annual Gathering at Brock[illegible] State That it Was a Great Success—Some of [illegible] Business Done.

Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie and Mr. Robert Fair, who were Peterborough's delegates to the Provincial Convention of the Retail Merchants' Association, at Brockville, on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, have returned and are loud in their praises of the success of the convention and the whole-hearted hospitality of the people of Brockville.

The attendance was large and representative, and there seemed to be a steadily growing interest in the affairs of the Association. This was indicated by the wider views taken by the delegates upon the different subjects that came before them during the convention. The importance of being thoroughly organized was the keynote of the gathering.

On Wednesday the Association was opened, the session being taken up with the appointing of committees to take up the proposed amendments to the constitution, the required Provincial and Dominion legislation and other subjects pertaining to the welfare of the Association. The committees were composed of strong men who handled their reports with despatch and effect.

In the afternoon the delegates were entertained by the Brockville Association to a drive around the city, the many beauty spots being visited.

The Mayor of Brockville gave an address of welcome at the evening session, after which there were addresses from President B. W. Ziemann, Dominion President J. C. Watson and Dominion Treasurer J. E. Beaudry. The reading of communications and the secretary treasurer's and auditor's annual statements took up the rest of the evening.

On Thursday morning the committees appointed to take up amendments to the constitution, new legislature and other matters, reported.

Mrs. Fulford's magnificent [illegible] was placed at the disposal of the [illegible] gates in the afternoon, and they [illegible] joyed a forty-mile trip up the [illegible] Lawrence.

In the evening the election of [illegible] cers took place as follows:

President—B. W. Ziemann, P[illegible]

1st Vice-President—C. W. [illegible] Guelph.

2nd Vice-President—Mr. Patt[illegible] of Lewis and Patterson, Brockv[illegible]

Provincial Treasurer—M. [illegible] Toronto.

Provincial Secretary—E. M[illegible] wern, Toronto.

A strong delegation from [illegible] was present on the first day and [illegible] ed that the convention meet next [illegible] in that city. As soon as the [illegible] borough delegates arrived, how[illegible] they made a determined effort [illegible] duce the Retail Merchants to [illegible] here in 1910, and very nearly succeeded, despite the fact the Limeste[illegible] City delegates had gained. On a vote being taken there was only a majority of four votes in favour of going to Kingston. It is likely that Peterborough will be chosen in 1911.

Speaking of the subjects [illegible] by the convention, the Peterborough delegates state that every question was discussed in a broad manner, sectional views were taken. The discussion was along the lines of protecting the public from fakirs and scheming merchants, to make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong. The local representatives took part in the debates and their views were received. Mr. Fair was a member of the committee to take up the Association considers the unjust tage charges from the wholesale houses and mills to the retail [illegible] tions.

While in Brockville Messrs. Gillespie and Fair met the new manager of the Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. R. Travers, who is to succeed Mr. Montizambert. They found Mr. Travers, like all the Brockville people, a capital entertainer, and are certain that he will create a favourable impression here.

KINGSTON COUNCIL PROPOSES TO ABOLISH "CANNED" MUSIC

"Music Hath Its Charms," is all right in most places, but down in Kingston, the charm is worn out and is for sale as common junk. There will also be a few waggon loads of gramophones for quick disposal at prices below cost of the proposed by-law is carried. This by-law as drafted says: No person or persons shall play or permit to play in or upon any house or premises owned or occupied by him, or in or upon any public street, any gramophone or similar instrument between the hours of 9:30 on the evening of any day, and 9 o'clock of the next following morning.

The idea of this by-lay is to shut down the theatorium gramophones and to not be partial private instruments were included. It is generally considered that the gramophone is a musical instrument, but the Kingston law-makers seem to now believe that it is a nuisance and simply a noise producer. When this by-law comes up before the council again there will likely be some real music let loose in the discussion.

BODY OF YOUNG WOMAN FOUND JAMMED INTO A TRUNK IN NEW YORK

Examiner Special (2:45 p.m.)

New York, June 19.—This morning all doubt was dispelled that the corpse of the young woman found yesterday jammed into a trunk on the top floor of 782 Eighth Ave., in apartments occupied by Chinese was that of Miss Elsie Siegel, daughter of Paul Siegel, a Board of Health Clerk, and a granddaughter of Franz Siegel of Civil War fame. The identification was made by Mrs. Siegel, the murdered girl's mother by means of jewellery found on the dead girl's body. The police say Miss Siegel was lured to the home of the Chinamen.

SIXTEEN CHILDREN UNDER A TREE ARE STRUCK BY A BOLT OF LIGHTNING

Sparta, Ga., June 19—Sixteen children were struck by a bolt of lightning while taking shelter under a tree at a picnic near here, all were rendered unconscious and six may not recover. The photograph of a tree was burned on bodies of several of the victims.

A LARGER MARKET THAN USUAL THE REIGNING PRICES TO-DAY

Now that the seeding operations are completed and the day being fine and cool, the attendance of farmers was somewhat larger than for the past month or so. The upstairs display consisted almost exclusively of butter, eggs, and chickens, while a few ducks and three or four turkeys were there for variety.

The price of butter ranged from 21c to 24c, with 23c as the standard. Eggs were taken at 18c to 20c, and chickens brought 50c each for small ones, and 65c for large specimens. The ducks looked good at $1.30, but there were few buyers.

Down on the open square potatoes were in abundance, with prices from 75c per bag for seed and $1.00 for common and $1.25 for extra fine.

Only four loads of hay were on sale and the figure was $13.00 per ton.

Very little meat was visible and garden truck was not very plentiful. The good old rhubarb was there in bunches and so were the radishes. Outside of these two varieties the display was small.

Two loads of young pigs attracted some attention and so did hte price, for the owners wished $7.50 and $8.00 per pair.

Other prices ranged as follows:

Farmers and Butchers hides, 8c and 9c per lb.

Wool, washed, 16 and 17c; unwashed 8c and 10c.

Baled hay, $16 per ton.

Live hogs, $7.60 and $7.75.

WAS ALLOWED OUT ON BAIL OF $100

Wesley Crowter, charged with the theft of five dollars and a gold watch appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning. He has been remanded on two occasions and as his council, Mr. F. D. Kerr, remarked, it was unfair to keep him in gaol awaiting trial. His Worship allowed him to go, his father giving bail for one hundred dollars.

FOSTER'S FORECAST OF THE WEATHER DURING THE NEXT SEVEN DA

Washington, D.C., June 19.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 19 to 23, warm wave 18 to 22, cool wave 21 to 25. This disturbance was expected to bring severe weather on the Pacific slope, to be preceded across the continent by unusually cool weather and to inaugurate a period of moderately warm weather favourable to growing crops where not too dry.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 23, cross Pacific slope by close of 24, great central valleys 25 to 27, eastern states 28. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 23, great central valleys 25, eastern states 27, Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 26, great central valleys 28, eastern states 30. These dates are for the states and the Canadian provinces. This disturbance will bring warm weather and, where not too dry, good crop weather. Storms will be moderate till about 29, when their intensities will increase and about June 1, will become radically severe. I expect very severe weather in eastern provinces and north-eastern states to follow June 29, and quite similar weather events at same time on Pacific slope both in the states and in British Columbia.

From Manitoba eastward through the Canadian eastern provinces and in our north-eastern states unusually cool weather will prevail following June 25. The disturbance near June 1 will be continental and of unusual severity. Next bulletin will give additional particulars about that disturbance and will give general forecasts of July crop weather. Our weather indications are favourable [illegible] high prices for grain but as the gr[illegible] speculators have absolute control [illegible] prices I warn all grain dealers to [illegible] cautious. The policy of the gr[illegible] speculators is to take the other s[illegible] from the general tendency of pr[illegible] and usually their money has gre[illegible] effects than do the weather and [illegible] conditions. The safe plan for [illegible] farmer is to sell at home when he [illegible] get fair prices. If he undertakes [illegible] ship grain or live stock to the gr[illegible] markets the speculators can run pri[illegible] down before he gets there.

THE GOD OF WAR.

The planet Mars was considered [illegible] the ancients to have an influence [illegible] er the human race favourable to w[illegible] and hence its name. If that pla[illegible] has any such effect in stirring up [illegible] bad blood of men and nations it w[illegible] reach a climax about September [illegible] when it will be at its nearest [illegible] proach to the earth. Mars reach[illegible] these close calls on the earth abo[illegible] every 17 years and during the [illegible] weeks of which September 24 will [illegible] central day will be the most favo[illegible] able time for observation. On [illegible] tember 24 the earth will pass betwe[illegible] the sun and Mars and at midni[illegible] during those two weeks Mars will [illegible] the most conspicuous orb in the ski[illegible] Some of our great orthodox astrono[illegible] ers have suggested that while Ma[illegible] is so close to the earth it might [illegible] possible to communicate with the pe[illegible] ple on Mars if intelligent beings li[illegible] there. The plan of these great a[illegible] tronomers is to arrange a great grou[illegible] of mirrors so they can all be moved [illegible] machinery, thereby throwing flas[illegible] of reflected sunlight similar to t[illegible] daylight signals used by our arm[illegible] and naval signal corps.

IMPORTANT ATHLETIC EVENTS COVERED IN THE EXAMINER EXTRA

Lacrosse.—N. L. U. games, Cornwall at Tecumsehs, Nationals at Shamrocks, Montreal at Capitals.

Baseball.—American, National, and Eastern League results.

Horse Racing.—The results of the Blue Bonnets meet at Montreal. The winners at Gravesend and Latonia.

Local Baseball.—Senior City League, double-header, at Riverside Park—T. A. S. vs. Strathconas; West Ends vs. Park Street A. C.

All these events will be fully covered in the Examiner's Saturday night Sporting Extra, which will be issued at 7.30 o'clock to-night. Special attention will be paid to the local games, the box scores and the play by innings being given in each case. Don't fail to secure a copy at the office or from the newsboys.

PLUMBERS ON STRIKE

CHEMONG VILLAGE WILL CELEBRATE DOMINION DAY

Chemong village and vicinity are Canadian to the core and will celebrate the forty-second Dominion Day in loyal and royal style. There will, of course, be a general social reunion; and a splendid programme of land and aquatic sports run off—sports of all kinds, canoe races, foot races, Mud Lake Marathons, etc., etc. At a meeting recently held, Messrs Dan. Whetung, Jr., and Alfred McCue were appointed a committee and they are working energetically to make the occasion a grand success. Further details will be furnished later.

HAS RETURNED FROM A TOUR OF LEADING CITIES IN EUROP

Mr. Louis Mendel returned to the city last evening after an eight weeks' tour on the continent, including visits to Germany, Belgium, France, Austria and England. Mr. Mendel returned on the steamship "Baltic," of the White Star Line. He had a most delightful voyage and a fine time abroad, but after all, he remarked that he would rather be back in Peterborough than anywhere. He returns with all the latest and newest ideas in photography, having visited the principal centres of art, including the great international photograph exhibition in Dresden, Germany.

Mr. Mendel paid a visit to his own home in Tilsit in Eastern Germany. At the exhibition in Dresden he learned many new and improved methods of photography, and at Berlin he was the guest at dinner of Duehrkoop, the greatest artist photographer in the world. Mr. Mendel's work was most favourably commented upon by the great artist. In Berlin he had also the pleasure of witnessing the grand spring parade of over twenty-thousand soldiers. He saw the Kaiser, too, during the parade. In Dresden, he saw the soldiers marching, led by the King of Saxony.

In Paris he spent several days, and among the interesting events here was a visit to the famous Longchamps races. In London he had the honour of meeting Mr. Mortimer, an associate of the Royal Photograph Society. Mr. Mortimer very kindly explained to him the work in connection with the latest artistic photographs.

Mr. Mendel visited Brussels and returns to Canada after an outing [illegible] of instruction and pleasure.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY

The Board of Works yesterday did well to put the street cleaning brigade at work on the streets in the business section. This action is hopeful in that it indicates that the Board recognises its responsibility in respect of employing one of the chief means of beautifying a city and making it attractive.

The good housekeeper thinks and acts household tidiness and cleanliness, waking and almost, sleeping. The house is her kingdom and the broom, her sceptre. She has her regular daily sweeping and her invariable sweeping day as inexorable and unchanging as the laws of the Medes and Persians. She sweeps from cellar to garret and does not leave the sweeping at the door of each room as the Board of Works does in the matter of the streets.

This is where the Board of Works is at fault. It pays good attention to the business streets and provides generally prompt removal of the filth accumulated by street cleaning; but it entirely neglects the residence streets. Some of them—the majority of them—have not had the winter's accumulation of rubbish, dirt and disease-breeding litter raked up and, of course, not removed. The city sidetracked a garbage by-law and the private citizen cannot be expected to be at the expense of cleaning the streets. If the city would provide means of removal of rubbish, most citizens themselves, for shame's sake, and at least, for decency's sake, would rake and tidy the streets in front of their premises.

The city has, it is not extravagant to say, a villainous way of uglifying, instead of beautifying our streets. Fully two months ago the gratings at street intersections were cleansed out and the heaps of festering filth piled up at the street corners; and it has been left there till, in some cases, weeds and grass, and even small maple trees, have grown up upon it. Weeks ago the sewer manholes were cleaned out and the resulting mounds of mud left on the street where they remain to this day. Private persons put in sewer services and leaves the litter—stones and surplus earth—to disfigure and injure the usefulness and impair the beauty of the street. Six weeks ago a private contractor put in a walk to a private property on a certain street. He left a great deal of surplus earth in the gutter and, further out, a big heap of large cobble stones, rejected from the sand used. This is a type of which is going on, in the residence sections of the city. Speaking of loose stone on the street, recalls another instance of reprehensible neglect. Gravel is put on the streets and loose stones of large size are left, to be permanent obstructions to comfortable use of the streets. Let the City Fathers ask themselves what is the object of building and maintain streets. Is it not to provide a good, smooth, level and easy surface for wheels to roll over? That is the only object with which we spend—or misspend—thousands of dollars every year. To the extent this object is not gained, the money is wasted; and besides the citizen put to needless expense and inconvenience. A vehicle would last twice as long used over smooth, clean streets, as it does when jolted and banged over rutty and stone-strewn streets. A wheel striking a protruding stone, imparts a greater shock—more wear and tear—to a wheel than miles of travel over a smooth road surface. With millions of vehicles passing over our streets in the course of a year the aggregate damage—easily avoidable—to wheeled conveyance must be very great. The surface of a street should be as smooth and clear of obstructions as a granolithic pavement. And it could be thus all over the city if a little system were introduced into street management, and little common sense and ordinary care exercised.

But this is a digression—necessarily painful because it takes us over littered and stone-sown streets, which are a flagrant obstacle to the attempt to beautifying the city, and a bad example to the citizens and not only that but a discouragement to them in the work of tidying their own premises—the effect is lost or marred by the dirty untidy and littered streets which the city maintains.

The city should set the example. Every year the city issues an ukase, calling upon citizens to clean up their premises; and a policeman, if he feels like taking a walk, strolls around to see if it is complied with. How can the city expect to see such a mandate obeyed when, in every residential street, it disregards the spirit of its order in maintaining uncleaned and littered streets?

To have the city beautiful we must have the conditions, contributing to that end, generally prevalent. If a private home is kept neat and beautiful and the street in front is allowed to remain untidy and filthy, the effect is impaired or destroyed. There must be general co-operation. Citizens must work with citizens for the city beautiful, and the city authorities must do their share. Will they help the citizens and ratepayers in the laudable work of making Peterborough as it can be made the most beautiful, tidy and taking city in Ontario.

CANADA'S FOREST RESOURCES.

Some interesting figures relating to the forest area of Canada is contained in the 4th bulletin of the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior. The information available in regard to our forest area is of the most general nature, and the various estimates which have been made are uncertain. Actual knowledge is confined to restricted areas, and general conclusions are based on deductions therefrom, on judgments from climatic, geologic and other conditions, or on measurements made upon the map. In regard to the timber granted under timber license, and that included in forest reserves, there is fairly definite information, but in regard to the general forest areas knowledge is confined to the routes of travel followed by and reparted on by the members of the staff of the Geological Survey. No attempt, except the survey undertaken by the province of Ontario in 1900, has been made either by the Dominion or Provincial Governments to have any systematic examination or estimate of the greater forest areas. In the interests of accurate knowledge of one of the greatest of Canada's natural resources, it is desirable that in all the provinces, and in Dominion territory, a forest survey should be undertaken and systematicically carried out throughout the whole forested area.

In the census of 1901 the forest area of Canada was estimatede at 799,000,000 acres. More recent estimates reduce the area to between 500,000,000 and 600,000,000 acres, but this will include areas of timber which is not at present merchantable, and for land covered with merchandise timber presently available estimates have been made as low as 208,000,000 acres, and even 100,000,000 acres. It is to be remembered, however, that these are estimates based from deductions from a general knowledge of conditions or of special areas, and none of them are entitled to great reliability. The stand of timber is even less known but between five and six hundred billion feet of timber suitable for sawing would be a conservative estimate. In addition there are large areas scuitable for pulpwood. The whole forest area of Canada has suffered so severly from fire that the average stand must be computed at a low figure.

puted at a low figure. The area included in forest reserves and parks in the Dominion is 128,060,800 acres, and the area held under timber license or lease is 75,800,000 acres, but these areas overlap to a considerable extent. In the important matter of Forest Reserves, Quebec leads the provinces and very greatly surpasses the Dominion. Quebec's total of forest Reserves and National Parks is 174,064½ miles square, about one-fourth of the total for the whole Dominion.

With such resources, the importance of preserving them, of utilizing them to the best advantage and of repairing by reforesting the necessary waste through industrial exploitation, suggests also the importance of providing that this country shall reap the largest economic advantage of this exploitation, as represented, at least, by not permitting a foot of timber of any kind to leave the country, except in an advanced condition of manufacture. Above all we must put an end to exportation of pulp wood in the raw. During the past six years—since 1904, inclusive, Canada has exported, exclusively to the United States, pulpwood logs to the extent of 901,801 cords of the value of $4,655,371. If this amount had been reduced to pulp, not to speak of paper, the value of the export would have been increased about five or six times or to between twenty-five and thirty millions of dollars instead of four and one-quarter millions. This difference would represent the amount that would have been paid for labour transportation, and the operation of the necessary machinery, etc. In the six years mentioned, Canada has exported 3,041,855 cords of pulp wood logs, of the value of $13,682,033. If this amount of logs had been manufactured into pulp at home, there would have been left in Canada, between sixty-five and seventy million dollars, instead of a paltry thirteen and one-half millions. The United States cannot do without our pulp; therefore a market being assured we should sell them only pulp—not a stick of pulp wood. Our neighbours have wasted their pulp wood resources rather recklessly, and in self protection we must not turn them loose upon our areas, but we should adopt and adhere to a policy that will give Canada the ultimate cent of profit for the commercial conversion of her pulp wood and other timber resources.

DISTRUST RUMOURS

Working on a newspaper breeds skepticism. Newspapers, contrary to a general impression, founded upon ignorance, are anxious to publish only what is true, and when they fail to do so they are the victims of wrong information. It is safe to say that the reporting staff of a newspaper spends more time in running down rumours that prove to be baseless or grossly exaggerated, than in gathering their collection of reliable news. Popular rumour is the greatest liar on earth. It is born of imagination or fancy and panic. A nervous Britisher standing on the chalky cliffs of Albin, sees a porpoise airing its iridescent back above the waves and at once converts it into a German submarine, on hand to blow up the British Islands. He spreads the story and from every new mouth it grows larger, till the sportive porpoise becomes a hostile fleet.

At this time the citizen of Peterborough are asked and urged to distrust rumours. Disbelieve every story you hear about conditions of the public health. Our reporters in the rounds hear, repeated in a hundred different forms, reports of the alarming spread of—scarlet fever—of numerous deaths and from their knowledge of the facts are able to contradict them. The public should pay no heed to these alarming rumours. Keep cool and if you hear a blood curdling story don't believe it unless you can get it confirmed by some one who knows, something you will fail to do in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL

In an article last Saturday, the Examiner bore a little hardly, perhaps, upon the Board of Health, in connection with the Isolation Hospital dream. It was intimated that there had been something like lukewarmness in regard to the Isolation Hospital. The facts seef to be the reverse. It is claimed by the Board of Health that on more than one occasion it has urged upon the City Council, the construction of a hospital. The minutes of the Board show, to go no further back than the first of this year, that, on February 25th, 1909, the Board of Health adopted the following resolution:

"Moved by Dr. Young, seconded by Mr. Johnston, That the attention of the City Council be again called to the urgent necessity for a hospital in which contagious diseases may be treated, and that the Council be reminded that this Board has repeatedly called attention to this matter. Carried."

FREE VACCINATION BY THE CITY PHYSICIANS

Doubtless the recent prevalence of small pox in Cobourg, Port Hope, Seymour Township and the possible danger of infection being carried by men returning from the lumber camps in some of which, or in the vicinity of which, as in Parry Sound District there have been a recent outbreak, has led the Board of Health very properly to take proper precautions, and induce a general adoption of vaccination. It is not always well to wait till danger is at our doors before taking the precaution involved in the protection of vaccination.

In this view the Board of Health have provided that the physicians of the city will be at the Council Chamber at the following hours on Saturday, June 19th, and Monday, June 21st, for the purpose of vaccination free of charge:

Dr. Morgan and Dr. McGrath, from 9 to 10 a.m., etc.
Dr. Young and Dr. Carmichael, 10 to 11.
Dr. Halliday and Dr. Boucher, 11 to 12.

THE HISTORY OF THE 3rd PRINCE OF WALES DRAGOONS

The Organization and Progress of the Crack Cavalry Corps Who Go Into Camp at Nassau on Monday---The Men Who Were Instrumental in Organizing the Companies.

The following very interesting history of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, was written for the Examiner by Capt. S. T. Medd, the adjutant of the crack cavalry corps:

Consists of four squadrons of cavalry, drawing their strength from four counties of Central Ontario, Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough and Prince Edward, and lettered respectively, A, B, C, D.

"A" Squadron from Northumberland County is the old Cobourg troop organized 1855 by Lieut-Col. D'Arcy Boulton, with G. A. Boswell as Lieutenant. This troop now increased to the strength of a squadron, is stationed at Colbourne under Major E. E. McLaughlin; Capt. H. W. Dudley, 2nd in Command and Lieuts. E. Campbell, W. C. Edmison and G. W. James. "A" Squadron had the honour or escorting H.R.H. the Prince of Wales on his visit to Cobourg in 1860; they also formed the escort for Lord Dufferin on his visit to Kingston in 1872.

"B" Squadron was raised at about the same time at Port Hope, by Lieut.-Col. Smart, with the late Col. Williams as Lieut. When the Prince of Wales, in 1860, went to Ottawa to lay the foundation stone of the new Parliament Buildings, "B" Squadron enjoyed the distinction of acting as his escort. These two troops were united in 1870 to form the Northumberland and Durham Squadron of Cavalry, under command of Lieut-Col. Boulton. In 1884 "B" troop was transferred from Port Hope to Millbrook under the late Capt. Henry Weller, son of His Honor, the late Judge Weller. This squadron is now commanded by Major David; Capt. S. T. Medd 2nd in Command. Lieuts., R. J. McIlmoyle and A. W. Medd. In 1872 Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers, then a Major in the Infantry, undertook to raise a troop in the County of Peterborough. His efforts were successful and "C" Squadron stationed at Peterborough with R. A. Morrow, Lieut. and W. H. Rachan, Cornet, was the result. Major T. D. Johnston is at present in command of this Squadron, with Captain W. C. Campbell 2nd in Command and Lieuts. S. W. Anderson, R. Cleghorn, and J. Duffus, Subalterns.

"C" Squadron also had the honor of escorting Royalty; upon the visit of Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise to the Cobourg Brigade Camp in 1881, when the party included Prince George, Duke of York.

"D" Squadron, stationed at Wellington, Prince Edward County, was raised by Major White at Picton in 1872. It is now commanded by Major McCullough, Capt. F. J. McDonald 2nd in Command, and Lieut. W. H. Terrill, R. Zerfest and W. E. Woodward as subalterns.

"D" Squadron has also had the honor of escorting a Governor General, on the occasion of Lord Aberdeen's visit to Belleville, 1895.

Such, in briefest outline, is the account of the origin and organization of the Prince of Wales' Canadian Dragoons.

Lieut.-Col. Boulton, who on his retirement was the Senior Officer in the Dominion, had a long and highly honorable career in connection with the Militia of Canada, and especially with the cavalry arm of that service. So long ago as 1837 he raised a company of infantry volunteers, and as captain, enlisted with his men with the incorporated regiment which was known as the Queen's Own, serving in Toronto, and on the Niagra frontier, till the troubles of that stormy period were over. When the active militia was reorganized in 1855 Captain Boulton raised a volunteer cavalry troop known as the Prince of Wales' Dragoon Guards, wearing the scarlet uniform of the English Regiment of that name. The troop was increased to a squadron in 1870 under his command, and in 1875 the corps was increased to a regiment, with headquarters at Cobourg, and has always been efficient for duty.

As has been above stated the troop was designated, although without formal authority "The Prince of Wales' Dragoon Guards" in 1855 on its reorganization. But on the occasion of H.R.H's visit to Canada it occurred to Col. Boulton to make application through Major-General, the Honorable Robert Bruce, Governor to H. R. H., for the adoption of the regiment by the Prince. His Royal Highness graciously assented and from England, the application being renewed through the Horse Guards authority was communicated to the General Officer commanding in Canada assenting to the application, but omitting the term "Guards." At the same time the regiment was authorized to use the coat of the Prince of Wales and to wear the uniform of the 3rd Prince of Wales' Dragoon Guards, i.e., scarlet. From that time for the Prince of Wales called the regiment his own "Canadian Dragoons". More than one communication was received by the officer commanding, expressive of the interest which His Royal Highness took in the regiment. Thus, on November 10th, 1891, the following telegram was received from Sandringham:

"To Col. Boulton, Cobourg:—The Prince of Wales thanks his Canadian Dragoons for kind congratulations."

Again in 1893, on Dec. 2, Col. Boulton received the following from Major General Herbert:

"My Dear Col. Boulton, I send you the following extrat from a letter I have received to-day in reply to one which I sent to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales; His Royal Highness would thank you to say to Col. Boulton and the officers of his Canadian Dragoons how much he appreciates the good wishes they have asked you to communicate to him. He shares with Col. Boulton the pleasant memory of his visit to Cobourg some years ago. And he is pleased to hear from you the very favourable report of the conditions of the regiment, which he understands owes this mainly to Col. Boulton's long command and careful administration." I feel that his gracious message will be appreciated by all ranks of the P. W. Dragoons.

HON. CAPT. E. A. LANGFELDT,
Chaplain of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons.

Upon Col. Boulton's retirement he was highly complimented by the officers commanding the Canadian forces on his long and honourable career and the efficient service which he had given the country, and if patriotism consists of willing service to one's country Col. Boulton in the highest sense of the word is a patriot.

Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers succeeded Col. Boulton in command, and succeeded in maintaining the high state of efficiency of the regiment under his predecessor, and at the expiration of his tenure of command was succeeded by Col. Sutton, of Millbrook and Col. Brown, of Colbourne. The present commanding officer of the regiment, Lieut.-Col G. H. Syer comes from a well known and highly respected family in the Township of Cavan, and has long been connected with the regiment in the various ranks, being some years ago sent to England as a member of the Jubilee Contingent from this regiment, and has always been known and recognised as a capable and efficient officer.

The 2nd in command of the regiment is Major J. C. Rogers, a nephew of Col. Rogers.

Captain Medd, of Peterborough, is acting Adjutant of the regiment and has received commendation from the Inspector of Cavalry as an efficient officer.

The 3rd Dragoons was the first cavalry regiment in Canada to appoint a chaplain. Rev. Herbert Symonds, formerly Professor of Theology in Trinity University, then Rector of Ashburnham, now the Rector of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, was gazetted chaplain in November, 1896. He attended the camps at Kingston and Belleville in 1897 and 1898 respectively. He was succeeded by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., now Rector of Ashburnham, and who attended the camp at Kingston in 1908 and is detailed for duty with his corps at the Peterborough Camp now commencing.

The first Medical Officer of the regiment was Capt. Turner, appointed on the formation of the Corps, retired through age limit in 1897, with rank of Surgeon Lieut.-Col. He was succeeded by Surgeon-Major T. W. H. Young who resigned that appointment recently to take over the command of the newly formed 24th Battery C.F.A. The present regimental surgeon is Captain T. Douglas.

Major J. G. Hagerman, of Cobourg, was the first Paymaster of the regiment and held that appointment for a good many years when that office was cancelled; subsequently the Militia Department has added a Paymaster on the strength and Mr. E. S. Clarry, of this city, received the appointment with rank of Hon. Captain.

Capt. Stapleton who retired with the rank of Major, held the position of Quartermaster for twenty-three years. The present Quartermaster is Capt. W. H. Smith, of Cobourg.

Capt. B. R. Poole has been the Veterinary Officer of the Regiment for some years past.

The 3rd Dragoons have always come forward with their quota of men when there were troublesome times in this country. Officers and men of the regiment served at the front in 1837; in the Northwest Rebellion and the South African War, Col. W. W. Brown, retiring C.O., resigned his rank of Major and enlisted in the ranks; the commissioned vacancies having been filled. Other officers and ex-officers who served in the South African war were: Major, now Lieut. Col., E. S. Greenwood; Major C. H. Rogers, Capt. Shaw and Lieut. Price.

The 3rd Dragoons has furnished several officers to the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, namely: Capt. Casey; Capt. Strickland; and Capt. Shaw.

The establishment of the regiment is as follows: 32 officers, 290 rank and file and 266 horses. It is recruited well up to its complement of both men and horses.

HOT WEATHER MONTHS KILL LITTLE CHILDREN

If you want to keep your children rosy, healthy and full of life during the hot weather months give them an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. This medicine prevents deadly summer complaints by cleansing the stomach and bowels; or it cures the trouble promptly if it comes on unexpectedly.

The mother who keeps this medicine on hand may feel as safe as if she had a doctor in the home. Mrs. C. C. Ree, Georgetown, Ont., says:—"I can heartily recommend Baby's Own Tablets as a great help to baby during the hot summer months. I have used them for summer troubles and am much pleased with the result." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RESOLUTION OF APPRECIATION OF THE LATE ALFRED DAVIS

At a special meeting of the Directors of the Imperial Guarantee and Accidenet Company of Canada, held in Toronto on Thursday, the following resolution was adopted and inscribed on the minutes of the Company:

It was moved by Mr. Noel Marshall, seconded by Mr. S. Burrows, that in view of the lamented death of the President and General Manager, desire to place on record their deep sense of the loss sustained by the Company.

They cannot forget that to Mr. Davis' initiative the establishment of the Company is due, and its present influential and successful position is the result of his untiring effort and wise control.

The Directors also desire to place on record their lasting appreciation of the cheerful and genial courtesy that always characterized their relations with Mr. Davis and their sincere regret that his untimely death has deprived them of his wise counsel.

It is further resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mrs. A. L. Davis with the assurance of the deep and heartfelt sympathy felt for her by the Directors and Officials of the Company in her irreparable loss.

The remains were laid in the family musoleum of Hon. Senator Cox, Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto.

Among those from Peterborough who went to Toronto on Wednesday to pay the last tribute of respect to a former highly respected fellow-citizen were, Messrs. Mayor Rush and Alderman Morrow, R. Neill, W. J. Thompson, George K. Martin, A. H. Stratton, Thos. Fortye, Dr. Morrison and others.

GLIMPSES OF LIFE AND CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND

Current Events in the Motherland as Seen by Canadian Eyes—What is Going on in the "Tight Little Island"—Political Matters and Other Things.

(Written for The Examiner by Mr. F. M. Dale Fesse.)

Bath, Eng., June 10.—East Anglian scenery is not very different from West Anglian, save that it is decidedly flatter, and one gets a somewhat wider range of landscape on which to feast his vision.

Travelling from London to Ipswich this feature is markedly discernible, yet although one missed the picturesqueness of the breezy uplands of Wiltshire, Somersetshire and Gloucestershire, there is a distinct charm in this variation of scenery.

The little village from which this letter is dated is situated about 2½ miles from Ipswich, and not being on the beaten track of the tourist is seldom disturbed by the dust-raising rush of the motor car. But it has an interest of its own, nevertheless, for it possesses a church, considered to be among the oldest in England, and still preserves some of the country's ancient customs, which are now rapidly passing into lassitude.

Last month, the ceremony of beating the bounds of the parish was performed. The following quotation will serve to show for what purpose it was originally performed:

"It used to be customary for the school children, accompanied by the clergyman and parish officers to walk through the parish from end to end. The boys had willow wands with which they struck the lines of boundary. Before maps were common the boys were thus taught to know the bounds of their own parish." The ceremony this year in this parish was held on the 3rd Rogation Day, May 19th. There was only one gentleman present (Mr. A. Mee) who had taken part in the last one. This is not to be wondered at for it was held more than 45 years ago. With the flag flying from the Church tower and the ringing of the bells, a large assembly, composed of the Lord of the Manor (Mr. H. W. Mason) and his co-ex-churchwarden, Mr. G. A. Hempson, and the principal parishioners, with 26 of the Senior School Children, met at the further end of the village and marched in procession through the streets under the guidance of the Churchwardens, Captain V. E. Garrett and Mr. W. Tayler; until they reached the Reading Room, where they were joined by the Rector, the choirmaster (Mr. C. Freeman) and the Choir, surpliced and carrying white wands. "All people that on earth do dwell" was sung as the procession made its way towards the gates of the Sacred Edifice. A good congregation joined heartily in the short bright service, conducted by the Rector, which included prayers for our village, our homes and our crops. After which the party set out on their eventful journey, taking up the border line at Grindle Lane. Captain Garrett as standard bearer proved an excellent leader, while Mr. Hempson in charge of maps and measures was a clever exponent of the route with the aid of Mr. Ranson and Mr. M. Mason; the ladder was entrusted to E. Rivers, and the hatchet and paint pot were in the hands of W. Mee. The river Gipping was crossed and party navigated in boats kindly lent by Mr. H. Mason, Mrs. Carter, Mr. M. Mason, Mrs. Thwaites and Mr. Wright; both the river and the railway were twice crossed, farm buildings were climbed over, houses passed through, thick woods penetrated, deep ditches and high hedges with barbed wire forded and climbed; these were only some of the difficulties encountered. After passing through the grounds of Mr. H. Mason, Miss Henderson, Mr. R. Bond, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Hudson, Captain Sheldrake, Mr. J. B. Fraser, Mr. W. C. Block and others, a halt was made at Fir Tree Farm, a delightful spot, where by the permission of Mr. Rudland, a most refreshing repast had been provided by the Churchwardens, the Rector and Friends, and supplied by C. Mee; to this ample justice was done, and never was luncheon more sweet.

Having an hour or two to spare while passing through London the other day I went to view the much talked of painting by Hans Holbein, "The Duchess of Milan," which has just been secured for the nation at the enormous cost of £73,000. There was a continual stream of sightseers passing and repassing before the picture, but the expressions I heard were for the most part, not those of ecstatic admiration.

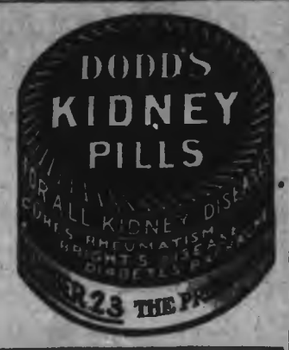
The picture is, of course, a magnificent one, the rich quality of the fur on the dress and of the dress itself being wonderfully reproduced. The hands of the lady also are beautifully painted. It is a great thing to have such a work of art secured for all time to the nation, but one cannot help feeling that Messrs. Colnaghi have been paid fairly well for their patriotism on the amount of money they have received for the picture, and in the free advertising that they have likewise secured.

A great change has taken place of late years in the advance that has been made towards better accommodation for railway passengers. Travelling by rail throughout England was at one time the reverse of pleasant but without being converted to a liking for all things English it must strike the ordinary Canadian mind that we can learn something to our advantage by a study of the English railway system. For one thing, trains are run absolutely on time, for another the greatest care is taken for the comfort and safety of passengers and notwithstanding the high rate of speed which is maintained over most of the lines, very few accidents are recorded. It is possible also for passengers to get refreshments at any of the larger stations and take cups of tea into the carriage, to drink at their leisure. The custom is for passengers on leaving the trains to place the empty cups under their seats. Last year, it is reported, the Great Western Railway lost no fewer than 50,000 cups and saucers, owing to the dishonesty of "trippers" so that an extra half penny has been added to the outlay on this form of refreshment in order to meet the loss occasioned by these depredations.

The Suffragettes are not going to have things all their own way amongst their own sex in England A movement which gives every sign of being a powerful one, under the auspices of the Women's National Anti-Suffrage League has just been started in England. A powerful address has just been given at Woodbridge by Miss Mary Angela Dickens, granddaughter of Charles Dickens, in which she scored the Suffragette Sisterhood unercifully.

Whatever else the Colonial Pressmen carry back with them, they cannot fail to bear away a high impression of English political eloquence. The oratory to which they have been invited to listen to has throughout been of a high order. Our public men seem to have felt that they were speaking to trained and experienced critics, and must, therefore, be on their mettle. To-day, for example, Sir Edward Grey made to the Conference held in the Foreign Office one of his best speeches, which was highly appreciated by his Colonial hearers. Sir Edward almost invariably speaks well. The House of Commons delights in him; but he never spoke more effectively, even in the House of Commons, than he did to-day to the Conference of the Empire Press. His description of our foreign policy in a single sentence deserves to become classic. "That policy," he said, "is to keep what we have got, to consolidate and develop it, to quarrel as little as possible, and to uphold in the councils of the world by diplomacy those ideals by which we set so much store."

An incident in to-day's sitting was possibly not so pleasant. Lord Cromer rather jarred. With questionable taste, he advocated a limitation of the freedom of the native Press in India, which he not obscurely hinted had been abused, with the result that gross outrages had been committed. Whether he is theoretically or practically right or wrong, in the circumstances he struck a discordant note. Those who were present could feel that the harmony was disturbed. It was restored by a very tactful and pretty speech from Mr. Surendra Nath Bannerjee, of Calcutta, who expressed the hope that, under the conciliatory rule of Lord Morley, the trouble would be overcome, and reminded the Conference that Anarchy was of the West, not of the East.



VICTIMS OF OBESITY

Cure Yourself at Home in Comfort

As a bodily affliction Obesity often seems to be inexplicable, so rapid is the increase of weight and bulk, even in cases where the victims are studiously temperate in eating, etc. There is evidently a predisposition that way and neglect only tends to confirm it. The remedies tried may have grievously disappointed you.

Here is one that will not do so, and you may get the ingredients at your druggist's and mix them yourself without trouble: Ask for ¼ oz. Marmola, ¾ oz. Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4¾ oz. Peppermint Water. Shake together in a good-sized clean bottle. Simply take this mixture after each meal and at bedtime, one teaspoonful to the dose, and give yourself no further trouble; the superfluous fat will subside with wonderful rapidity.

Dieting need not worry you in the least, nor is violent exercising at all desirable. Wasting methods of weight reduction are not natural. Try the pleasant treatment above prescribed for a week or so, and you will be fit, strong and free from all bodily discomfort, besides having regained correct weight and a shapely figure.

JUBILEE POINT IS A POPULAR RESORT

Jubilee Point promises to be more popular than ever this summer. Already this season there has been a large number of guests and several more have written in advance for accommodation. During the past week it has been the objective point of several excursions and next week two or three others are billed for there.

THE NOX TASTELESS LIQUOR, DRUG AND TOBACCO CURE.

We have yet to hear of one failure to cure where a fair trial has been given. Can be given without the person knowing it, is harmless and absolutely without taste. Mother, sister or wife, you would be doing a great work by giving this remedy to some members of your family. We will mail a full month's treatment for five dollars. THE EVENING EXAMINER TO SUMMER RESORTS.

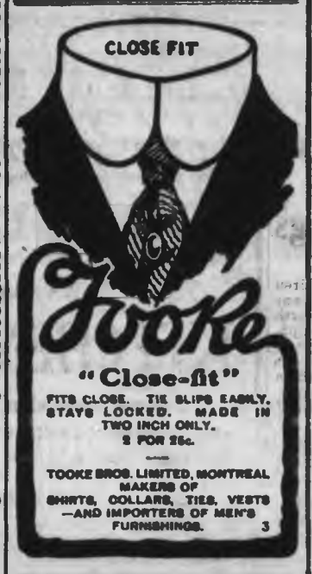
Parties going to summer resorts should not leave without having the Evening Examiner sent to their address. It contains all the important local and foreign news, and should be sufficient without the larger city papers to keep everybody in touch with what is going on. Special Summer Resort Rates.



NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, June 19.—The market opened with only a moderate amount of activity but prices were firm and for the most part slightly higher. There was an entire absence of that sort of hurried selling which has characterized the market recently. Steel stocks were strong notwithstanding the more definite news from Paris suggesting the failure of the plan to list the stocks on the Bourse.

The equipment stocks were strong and these issues are much more favourably regarded in view of the increasing business. The railroad list also showed a tendency to improvement. Atchison was the feature of strength and it looks as if the campaign in this stock was in full swing. The general market did not respond very much to this strength, although prices were firm. Trading was very quiet during the second hour and the leading element seemed disinclined to make any new commitments.

We look for better prices next week and would continue to buy all good stocks on reactions. Foreign houses had only a few scattering orders in this market. Americans were heavy in London.

A MEMORIAL TABLET

One Will be Unveiled at St. Luke's Church To-morrow in Memory of the Late Adam Dawson.

To-morrow morning in St. Luke's church the rector, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, will unveil a memorial tablet placed in memory of the late Adam Dawson, who died on June 18th, 1907. The deceased was a faithful member of St. Luke's church, having acted as Warden and in other capacities, and was prominent in Masonic civic circles. His friends will find the ceremony interesting as there will be a special sermon and service, and no doubt they will attend in large numbers

Mount Everest of the Himalayas is the highest mountain peak in the world, being over 29,000 feet high. The 18,000,000 packets representing one year's output of "Salada" Tea would, if placed end to end, produce a pyramid 5,800,000 feet in height, or 193 times higher than the highest mountain in the world. Can you grasp the magnitude of the demand for "Salada" Tea? 74

Some Information About Twelfth Annual Camp Of Y. M. C. A. Boys' Department

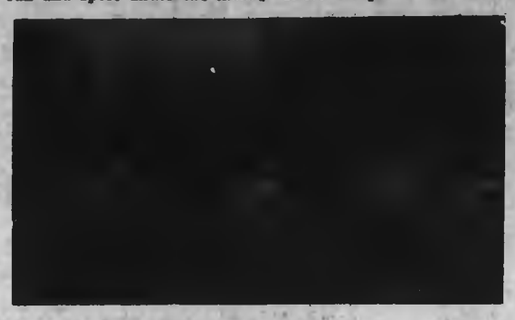
The announcement of the twelfth annual camp of the Y. M. C. A. has at last been issued and contains much that is interesting. The following are extracts from it:

Camps and Camping.

Every normal boy loves to camp out. It makes him happy and healthy, and gives him a reserve force to enable him to withstand the strain of school and business life. He learns to do things by doing. He takes an active part in everything that goes on. He tramps through the woods, learns how to swim, takes part in athletics, catches fish and is on the go from morning to night. Out under the trees, or around a camp fire he learns the true meaning of a manly Christian life. After his vacation, he comes home with a stronger body, wider sympathies, and a broadened mind.

Purpose.

To give a boy a happy, healthful vacation, and an outdoor life brim full of fun and sport under the most



THE Y.M.C.A. CAMP,
Situated at Clear Lake to the delights of which many Peterborough boys are eagerly looking forward.

wholesome influences and surroundings, and to aid in the development of a manly Christian life under the careful leadership of earnest Christian men.

Supervision.

The boys will be under the constant supervision of the officers of the Association, assisted by young men of character and ability, who are interested in the development of a manly character among boys.

The Cook House.

This important feature will be well looked after. A competent cook will be in charge and an abundant supply of good wholesome food will be served three times a day. We know the eating capacity of a boy in camp, and we will have everything that boys like to eat.

Location.

The location will be at Sandy Point, Clear Lake. It has a safe, sandy beach for swimming, and miles of water for boating and fishing. It has a good field for baseball and other games, and is, without doubt, the finest spot on the Lakes for a Boys' Camp.

Expense.

The cost of the camp will be as follows: If 15 boys go, $4.00 for the first week, and $7.50 for the two weeks. If 20 or more boys go, $4.00 for the first week, and $7.00 for the two weeks. This does not include transportation to and from camp.

What to Take.

Do not take your best clothes. Take an ordinary granite plate and cup, knife, fork, and spoon, one old suit, old hat, gymnasum suit, one quit, one of heavy dark blankets, small pillow, suit of heavy underwear, towels, soap, toothbrush, swimming tights, and Bible. Also, if desired, rubber coat, camera, musical instruments, fishing tackle, mirror, needle and thread, safety pins, baseball glove, books, jack knife and other useful articles. Every article should be marked or stamped with the owner's name.

Pack the whole outfit in a small trunk or in a box not larger than 30 in. x 15 in., with cover, hinges and lock, and handles on each end. Two keys should be taken, and one left with the Leader in case the other is lost.

Regulations.

We believe in putting a boy on his honour, therefore the rules are few, but these are cast iron:

1. No camper shall enter the water for the purpose of swimming except in specified hours, or under the supervision of the Director or a Leader.

2. The use of tobacco by any boy is absolutely prohibited during his connection with the camp.

3. No fire arms are allowed.

For violation of these rules, the camper subjects himself to immediate dismissal from camp.

When We Go.

The party will leave the Wolfe Street wharf on Monday evening, July 19th, at 7.30 a.m., and go by Steamer over the Lift Lock direct to Sandy Point, arriving about 11 a.m. Returning we will leave Sandy Point about 3 p.m., Saturday, July 31st, and arrive in the city about 7 p.m. The round trip will cost 50 cents.

Camp Life.

"Something doing all the time," is our motto. Plans are being made for the most enjoyable outing that the boys ever had. Among the activities will be baseball, athletics, swimming, tramps through the woods, aquatic sports, exploration trips around the lakes, camp fires, potato and marshmellow roasts, concerts, and many other enjoyable features too numerous to mention. This promises to be the best two weeks ever spent by any boy.

Seattle Exposition Is A Dream Of Soft Beauty

Ralph P. Mulvane Describes the Great Fair---Canada's Building and Exhibits Best Arranged of Any on the Grounds---Compares Favourably With St. Louis and Chicago.

A little garden of Eden, a mass of creamy white, artistically constructed buildings with waving flags and myriad lights, bank upon bank of flowers, entrancing little patches of wild growth among the well-kept lawns and flower banks to relieve the intense glare of a merciless sun, a broad expanse of water, outlined in light—that is the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition to me.

I spent four days at the fair and each day was a succession of new pleasures, furnishing me with new thoughts in comparison with the wonderful Chicago and St. Louis world's fairs, at both of which I spent a long time. I can compare the three fairs, or rather the A.-Y.-P. fair with the other two, in a few words.

The Chicago and St. Louis exhibitions were immense things, covering by three and four times as much ground as does the A.-Y.-P. They numbered more and larger buildings, greater expanses of roads and less of shrubbery and the eye-resting green. Their exhibits were more numerous and of a more diversified character. The St. Louis fair was a blaze of light at night and a glare of almost dazzling white by day. It was immense—the word is hardly strong enough—but it was too large.

Dream of Beauty

Naturally, the cities of Chicago and St. Louis are not to be compared in population with that of Seattle—nor the country from which those fairs derived their support and revenue. In spite of this, who would expect to go to Seattle and witness a world's fair laid out on the most delightful of pleasing lines, a smaller fair than its two huge predecessors, but complete in detail and by a hundred-fold more worthy of the name in comparison with the size of the city that undertook its laying out and the population of the section of country that has chiefly contributed toward making it a success. The A.-Y.-P. fair is a dream of soft beauty—even the gleaming sun-rays do not hurt the eye, for the buildings are of a soft, creamy shade, and there is abundant grass and flowers to relieve the strained optics.

Again I say, the A.-Y.-P. is but a miniature of its predecessors, but such a complete miniature. It has copied its forerunners' good features and omitted their faults. Built on gently rising hills it overlooks a portion of Lake Washington and the city beyond. At night it is a scene of splendour, the buildings being well outlined by electric lights, and the streets a soft glare of light from most uniquely constructed pillars, globe-topped. Thousands of flags of all nations flap in the breeze. On the surface of the lake countless boats glide about. From the Paystreak comes the laughter of thousands of voices, who can enjoy, right in Seattle, the best attractions at the St. Louis and Chicago fair, with numerous additions.

In this respect there is a difference between the A.-Y.-P. fair and the others. The streets of the former two fairs were filled day and night with hundreds of quaintly garbed orientals, occidentals and residents of every other far-off nation whose costumes lent an air of distinction and interest to those fairs that can but be missed in the A.-Y.-P.

Canada's Fine Building

These remarks are made in a spirit of generalization with few specific details. Let me get down to more facts in detail as I observed them. The first that stands out in my mind, from an unprejudiced standpoint, is the building erected by Canada. Without doubt Canada has this year the best building on the A.-Y.-P. grounds. Its exhibits are arranged with wonderful ability and attractiveness, and they are complete. Actual scenes, represented in model, enliven the building with an interest missed in most of the other buildings, many of which are really not more than meeting houses for the persons from certain states. Canada's building represents a marvelous array of mineral and agricultural exhibits. There are live beavers sporting in a small pond, and a wonderful group of the animals that formerly dwelt in Canadian lands and that dwell there now. But more than all, Canada advertises herself in the building by the neatest, most attractive way imaginable, and all by the simple process of gilt-letter placarding on the walls by the various exhibits. On these placards is no stretched imagination or repulsive boasting, but a plain statement of facts, which has drawn continued comment from all visitors.

As yet the exhibits of some of the buildings are not all in place, but enough are there to afford material for comparison. Briefly speaking, the main buildings, those devoted to Alaska, manufactures, machinery, arts, etc., are tastily filled with exhibits, although naturally, again, the number and diversity of these exhibits must be smaller than those of the former fairs. A person can, by steady, easy travelling, see everything in three full days—whereas a solid week from early morning to late evening was necessary at the St. Louis and Chicago fairs.

The Paystreak, as I saw it, is filled with worthy attractions, although several are not yet opened and several others have small value. The prices to these attractions are lower than those prevailing at other fairs, which speaks highly for the A.-Y.-P. directors and concessionaries.

A Humorous Feature

The fair is not without its humorous side. Over on one of the banks of Lake Washington is a huge sign in electric letters reading "You'll Like Tacoma." Visitors from Vancouver have humorously considered having the following tacked onto the sign: "Until you see Vancouver." Tacoma's advertisement and the weird and beautiful electric advertisement of the Elgin Watch are among the features of the exposition in that line. The Elgin sign can be seen for miles around as it blazes forth in many-coloured lights.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory,, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and frgrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample of The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One Dollar bottles guaranteed.

Inspector Lees Makes His Report To County Council Deals With Important Things

Mr. R. Lees, County School Inspector, presented the following report to the County Council this week:

Gentlemen:—In presenting to you my report on the work of the past six months, it is not my intention to go into detail, but to call attention briefly to a few matters only.

During the half of the year just closing, I visited the schools of the Western half of the County. Of the 49 rural schools, I found 20 in charge of the same teachers as a year ago. In some cases the change was for the better, but not in all. The tendency on the part of the trustees and teachers to change as often as possible is probably the most serious hindrance to progress with which we have to contend. During this term, a number of schools have been in charge of teachers without proper legal qualification. This was almost a necessity at the beginning of the year as it was very difficult to secure qualified teachers. That matter can now be remedied if trustees will offer reasonable salaries and take prompt action to secure teachers.

There seems to be abroad an impression that by recent changes, the power and privileges of the inspectors have been very greatly increased, and those of trustees correspondingly curtailed. The very opposite is the fact. As an illustration, the power of granting "permits" to teach, which was exercised a few years ago, has now been withdrawn, and no inspector has any power to permit an unqualified person to act as a teacher. It might be well for trustees and would-be teachers to keep this in mind as the inspectors are constantly beset with requests for "permits" which they cannot give.

During the past two or three years, a good deal of progress has been made in the matter of improving school grounds and premises. Many boards have spent considerable sums on repairs, new desks, etc. In some cases grounds have been enlarged and otherwise improved. There are still a couple of schools without playgrounds In the case of one, no suitable ground can be secured, and of the other, I are told that the land is too valuable to be wasted in playgrounds for children. In that community, the children are evidently not the most important crop. In this connection it is worth while to direct attention to a pamphlet on the "Improvement of School Grounds," by Professor Hutt of the Agricultural College. A copy has been placed in every section, and its suggestions, if followed by teachers and trustees, will prove helpful.

Progress has also been made in the matter of school libraries. Every school in the county has now made a beginning. A number in which there are earnest and enthusiastic teachers, backed by progressive trustees, have made several additions since getting the first instalment. The libraries are proving an immense benefit where teachers have the skill and interest to make use of them. The grants given for this purpose, are so liberal that if trustees are willing to make a small advance, they get it all back in a very short time.

The applications for the General Legislative Grants have just been prepared for the Department of Education. These grants are (1) 40 per cent. of all that portion of the salary in excess of what is paid by the township. (2) A grant of $20 or $30 for a Second Class Certificate according as the teacher has had less or more than five year's experience. (3) A fixed grant of $30 in the poor townships. The amounts asked for are as follows:

SEVEN YEARS AN INVALID

Then She Took "Fruit-a-tives" And is Now Well.

Arnprior, Ont., Nov. 27, 1908.

I was ill invalid for seven years from fearful Womb Trouble. I had falling sinkh with constant pain in the back and front of my body and all down my legs. There was a heavy discharge and this made me weak, sleepless, restless and miserable. Often I was obliged to be in bed for a month at a time. I was treated by several doctors, but their treatment did me no permanent good.

A few months ago, I was persuaded to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes, and from the outset of this treatment I was better, the Constipation was cured, and the discharge lessened. I took, for the paleness, several bottles of the Iron Mixture as recommended in the "Fruit-a-tives" book, but I feel that it was "Fruit-a-tives" alone that cured me.

(Mrs.) Eliza Levesque.

Take Mrs. Levesque's advice, Take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure yourself. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50; trial box 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

POLICE ARE GENTLE.

Chief Says Lawyers Are Worst at "Sweat Box" Tactics.

Buffalo, N.Y., June 19.—At yesterday's session of the International Association of Chiefs of Police Mayor Richard Sylvester of Washington and Harvey C. Carr of Grand Rapids, Mich., were re-elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Michael Regan, chief of police of this city, was elected first vice-president, and James McSweeney of South Bend second vice-president.

Among the papers read at yesterday's session was one by Col. N. J. Grasett of Toronto, in which he characterized as unjustified allusions to the use of "sweating" by the police.

"Most persons don't know the difference between a sweat box and a soap box," said he. "Sweating of prisoners does not compare with the brutal treatment of witnesses by lawyers on cross-examination. The sweat box is not as bad as the witness box is for witnesses of the prosecution. These lawyers, who are most vociferous in complaints against the sweat box, are usually the most savage in their treatment of citizens in the witness box."

Col. Grasett was unable to be present yesterday, and his paper was read by Deputy Chief William Stark of Toronto.

Chicago was selected as the next meeting place of the association.

London Camp Exemplary.

London, June 19.—Gen. Lake completed his inspection of the London camp yesterday, and the camp broke up last evening.

Not a single man of the 1,621 in camp has appeared in the Police Court or before officers for drunkenness or disorderly conduct. This record has never before been equalled.

Thirty per cent. of the men, or nearly double the usual number, qualified for first-class efficiency, pay and good scores were made.

The soldiers in camp had sweet revenge Thursday night on members of the Dundas Centre Church, however, who were active in abolishing canteens this year. Rev. E. B. Lancely invited all men in camp to a sacred concert, and the men accepted. For two hours the choir sat waiting, and not a single soldier appeared. Finally it dawned upon them that they had been fooled.

Board Has Jurisdiction.

Ottawa, June 19.—The Board of Railway Commissioners has decided that it has jurisdiction over the White Pass and Yukon Railway. It orders the various companies, which co-operate with the White Pass and Yukon Railway to become parties to future proceedings, and to file tariffs with the board by July 16.

Chairman Mabee points out that it is apparent from the traffic agreement and mode of operation that a through route exists between Skagway and Dawson. He also notes that by the amendments to the Railway Act passed at the last session of Parliament its provisions were extended to any or all lines running in Canada.

Landslide Near Kenora.

Kenora, June 19.—One hundred and fifty yards of C. P. R. track over a hill at Hawk Lake, 25 miles east of here, slid into the lake, leaving only a few timbers. Had train 97 been on time it is probable that it would have gone with it, but being about half an hour late a disaster was averted.

The bridge at Hawk Lake on the Canadian Pacific near Kenora was destroyed Thursday night, and arrangements have been made with the Canadian Northern to handle three C.P.R. passenger trains each way daily between here and Winnipeg for two or three days.

British Skipper Didn't Know.

Stockholm, June 19.—Further details show that the British steamer, Woodburn steamed during the night within the prohibited zone of navigation in the vicinity of Pitkapas Bay. Her captain evidently was unfamiliar with the published regulations. The Russian torpedo boat fired first three blank shots, which were followed up by four projectiles.

To Spend Million for Irrigation.

London, June 19.—At the meeting of the Southern Alberta Land Co. the report recommending that $2,000,000 be spent on irrigation was carried. The Countess of Antrim yesterday launched on behalf of the Canadian Government an ice-breaking and passenger steamer at Arrow. The vessel was christened the "Earl Grey."

New Farm House Burned.

Lindsay, June 19.—The commodious home of Jack Hartnett, a farmer, just east of Lindsay, was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. The origin is yet unknown, as Mr. and Mrs. Hartnett were in town at the time. The house was a new one and the brickwork and painting of the interior just completed this week.

Retail Merchants' Officers.

Brockville, June 19.—The Ontario retail merchants elected the following officers: President, B. W. Zieman, Preston; first vice-president, C. W. Kelly, Guelph; second vice-president, A. M. Patterson, Brockville; treasurer, M. Mayer, Toronto; secretary, E. M. Trowern, Toronto; auditor, D. W. Dockeray, Toronto.

Fined for Abusing Boy.

Kingston, June 19.—In the Police Court Mrs. Frances Hunter of Pittsburg Township was found guilty of unlawfully assaulting a ten-year-old boy, given in her charge by the Orphans' Home here and fined $10 and costs or fifteen days by Magistrate Farrell. The lad said that he was beaten with a mop stick.

Three Arrests In Ottawa.

Ottawa, June 19.—Three men have been arrested on the charge of having last Sunday night wrecked the house of Moses Laperte with dynamite. Two are brothers named Deltour employed at a quarry, and the other a market gardener named Lacrosse.

The Charm of the Piano

A piano ceases to be an instrument and becomes a thing of life under the hands of a master. It breathes every emotion—that is, if the piano is a great one, like the New Scale Williams. It is matchless for tone and volume. 3

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

R. L. Borden sailed yesterday from Quebec for England.

Lord Charles Beresford is coming to open the Toronto Exhibition.

Court Chamberlain Palitsir was killed in a balloon accident at St. Petersburg.

Montreal had a lively little snowstorm yesterday, and frost was reported at London and Kingston.

An application to cancel the liquor license at Fort Erie race track was postponed by Judge Wells at Welland.

A. J. Paterson, senior director of the Bank of Montreal, died suddenly on a fishing trip to the Restigouche river.

A mob at Ulysses drove the Catholic Bishop of Lincoln and two priests from town, threatening them with violence.

The sentence of death passed on Salem Asseley, who killed his brother in a quarrel at Hawkesbury, has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Soo Canal Open To-Day.

Sault Ste. Marie, June 19.—New upper gates were put in position at the Canadian Soo Canal at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The swing dam will be removed during the night and the canal will be in shape to lock boats as usual by noon to-day.

Fatal Wreck.

Fond du Lac, Fla., June 19.—An engineer was killed, his fireman fatally hurt and a mother and her babe badly injured when a passenger train ran into a wreck in the yards and was derailed.

LACK OF BLOOD

Is What Causes Headaches, Dizziness and Heart Palpitation.

On the blood depends the welfare of the whole body. Where good blood exists disease is unknown, but where the blood is poor and watery disease quickly seizes hold of the body. It is then headaches, backaches, dizziness, heart palpitation and other serious ailments make themselves felt. Good blood can always be obtained through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They actually make good, rich blood and thus restore lost strength and banish disease. Mr. Herbert Hanson, Brewers Mills, N. B., says: "I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly. I was troubled with headaches, dizziness and loss of strength and had a hacking cough, which I feared would lead to consumption. I tried a number of medicines without benefit, but was finally persuaded to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and used these Pills for several months with remarkable results. They helped me so much that I now strongly recommend them to all other sufferers."

The experience of Mr. Hanson is that of thousands of others who have found health and strength through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after other medicines had failed. It is through their power in making good blood that these Pills cure such troubles as anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, heart palpitation, neuralgia, nervous troubles and the distressing ills of girlhood and womanhood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers in medicine or direct by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

A June Snow Flurry.

Malone, N.J., June 19.—A snow flurry in mid-June was the novel experience of the residents of Duane and other sections of Franklin County early yesterday. The snow continued to fall only for a short time.

Manitoba Welcomes Rain.

Winnipeg, June 19.—A gentle rain fell over the most of Manitoba early yesterday morning. It was badly needed in many districts, as there has been very hot and dry winds during the past few days.

The French Treaty.

Ottawa, June 19.—The Government has received word from Paris that the bill ratifying the Franco-Canadian trade convention, as negotiated by Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Brodeur in 1907, and amended last summer, is now before the Chamber of Deputies, and will be accepted to within a short time. The treaty, however, cannot come into effect until formally ratified by the Canadian Parliament, which will be done early next session.

The Earth's Crust.

The solid crust of the earth is about 25 miles thick, and it floats upon a denser substratum, which is fluid or at least plastic. The crust of the earth may, therefore, be compared to an ice floe resting on the ocean and the mountains to icebergs imbedded in it. Just as an iceberg floats with only a small proportion of its bulk above the surface of the water, so the hills as we know them are merely the crests of huge bergs that float, almost wholly submerged, in a denser substratum.—Captain Crasier in New Quarterly Review.

The Tribute of Protest.

During a matinee of "La Femme X" at the Porte St. Martin theatre, Paris, a man of seventy-four named Letang, sitting in the third row of the stalls, sprang to his feet. He was very much excited by the play and shouted to the judge in the trial scene that the prisoner (Mme. Jane Hading) was fainting and ought to be allowed to leave the court.

"You are torturing an unfortunate woman!" he shouted, and as he said the words he broke a blood vessel and fell dead in the theatre.

What He Liked Best.

An old farmer was invited to attend a party at the village doctor's one evening, where there was music, both vocal and instrumental.

On the following morning he met one of the guests, who said:

"Well, farmer, how did you enjoy yourself last night? Were not the quartettes excellent?"

"Why, really, sir, I can't say," said the farmer, "for I didn't taste them. But the pork chops we had at supper were the finest I ever ate."

Faith, Hope and Charity.

A London weekly offered 2 guineas for a definition of faith, hope and charity. The winner is as follows: Faith, blind trust in a first page; hope, what investors are fed upon; charity, what some of them are likely to be brought to.

That is certainly not bad, but this one is perhaps even better: Faith, the gift that saves mankind; hope, the gift that cheers mankind; charity, the gift that makes man kind.

The Head of the House.

The baby was ill, and the doctor ordered that he be taken to the sea. This involved the closing of the house until the little one should be well enough to return. After the wife had secured hotel accommodations by the long distance telephone the man of the house went to his room and slowly and thoughtfully spread the entire contents of his wardrobe upon his bed, that they might be convenient for his wife to pack.

He stood surveying them, deep in meditation, when his wife came into the room and began to speak to him.

He raised his hand rebukingly. "Don't talk to me now, Susie, don't talk to me! I have a great deal on my mind. If we are going to the seashore day after tomorrow there are many things to be done, and I must plan."

His wife, who had already telephoned the butcher, milkman, baker, grocer, expressman and ticket office and given the maid a month's vacation and arranged with a relative for the care of the dog, gazed at him in silence.

"A great deal on my mind," he repeated. Then the interrogative nature of his wife's silence forced him to explain.

"You see," he said, "I have got to put a nail in the cellar window and stop the newspaper."—Youth's Companion.

A Painter Who Was a Musician.

Those painters who also have the feeling and some of the proficiency of a musician reveal it in their work. They are usually colorists, with more eye for the colors and tones of nature than her shapes and forms. Such a one was Corot. He had a good tenor voice and played on the violin. He sang at his work, and sang, too, when he was not painting, but wandering through the forest of Fontainebleau or around the village of Ville d'Array, absorbing the beauty of the scene and storing up impressions for future pictures. In fact, his whole long life of seventy-nine years was to Le Pere Corot, as his friends loved to call him, a song. And one feels it in his pictures, at least in his later ones, by which he is best known. Their coloring is subdued, like a lullaby or waking song, for it was the dawn or twilight that he preferred to paint. It vibrates with the hum of melody, and here and there is an accent of effect that trembles like the string of his violin.

Corot's long life was a remarkable instance of a man being able to continue to the end the springtime of his youth.—Circle Magazine.

Too Deep For Him.

Hayrix—That be one thing about them pesky silbernacks I can't understand.

Mrs. Hayrix—What be that, Hiram?

Hayrix—Why 'n tarnation don't they fix it so's we kin hev a meon on dark nights when we need it, by grass?—Chicago News.

Running Conversation.

Collector (angrily)—You know very well, sir, that this bill has been running several years. Now, I put it up to you. What do you want me to do with it?

Debtor—By George, I'd enter it in the next Marathon race if I were you.—Puck.

A Suit of Ratskin.

A thrifty Welshman at one time exhibited himself publicly in England attired in a costume composed from top to bottom of ratskins, which he had spent three years and a half in collecting. The dress was made entirely by himself. It consisted of hat, neckerchief, coat, waistcoat, trousers, tippet, gaiters and shoes. The number of rats required to complete the suit was 370. Most curious of the garments was the tippet, composed entirely of rats' tails.

Worst Place For It.

Small Johnny had been ill for several weeks when one day an aunt from a distance came to visit the family. "Why, Johnny," she exclaimed, "how thin you are! Have you been sick?" "Yes'm," replied the little fellow. "I had the brain fever and right in my head too, the very worst place I could have had it."

His Secret.

Student—How would you advise me to go about collecting a library? Professor—Well, I'll tell you how I managed it. When I was young I bought books and loaned them. Now I borrow books and keep them.—Stray Stories.

Double Quick Composing.

Sir Arthur Sullivan wrote the overture to "The Yeomen of the Guard" in twelve hours and that to "Iolanthe" in less space of time—from 9 p. m. to 7 a. m. But even this capacity for speed in composition is eclipsed by M. Bompard, who for a wager composed the music to a song in ten minutes. Mr. N. Trotere, however, is the composer of whom most quick time anecdotes are told. His beautiful song "Asthore" was both written and composed in forty minutes in Blanchard's restaurant. The melody of "In Old Madrid" was the result of a sudden inspiration. It came to the composer while on his way home from the aquarium. Lest it should escape him he rushed into a small public house in Rochester row, seized a biscuit bag and on it jotted down the air. But Mr. Trotere holds the championship. It is said that he actually composed "The Brow of the Hill," wrote a letter and ran 400 yards to post it in eight minutes.—Dundee Advertiser.

Odd Names In China.

Chinese children are endowed with strange Christian names. Their girls, for instance, are not called Mabel, Jenny or Matilda, but Cloudy Moon, Celestial Happiness, Spring Peach or Casket of Perfumes. Their boys get less attractive names, being made for work and wisdom rather than pleasure and dancing. Thus we find a little two-year-old Practical Industry; three-year-old, Ancestral Knowledge; four-year-old, Complete Virtue; five-year-old, Discreet Valor. To their slaves they give still another set of names. Not For Me, Joy to Serve, Your Happiness and Humble Devotion may be taken as typical examples.

Harold Chose the Easier Way.

Maynard had been naughty, and his father, after showing him his fault, had sent him up to his room to ask God to forgive him for being a bad boy. Three-year-old Harold was present, but seemed to take no notice of the conversation. It was his turn, however, before many days to receive punishment, and his father took him across his knee. "Oh, don't, papa," he said. "I would rather go upstairs and pray."—Delineator.

TARIFF ON PAPER ISSUE AGAIN

Four Dollars a Ton is Affixed by United States Senate.

ARE AFRAID OF CANADA

Senator Gallinger Declares That the Dominion Must Not Be Allowed to Get Hold of the Industry — An Amendment to Put Pulp Paper on the Free List is Defeated by the Republicans.

Washington, June 19.—The Senate yesterday defeated Senator Brown's amendment providing for the free importation of print paper by a vote of 39 to 32, only four Republicans, Messrs. Beveridge, Bristow, Brown and Burkett voting for it, thus adopting the finance committee's amendment fixing a duty of $4 a ton on print paper.

Senator Gallinger occupied the earlier hours with a speech in support of the finance committee rates on paper and wood pulp, declaring that Canada had a vast advantage in the cost of labor over the United States to the production of paper, and urged sharp competition in the United States as the reason why the price of paper had been kept down.

Gallinger referred at length to precautions that had been taken by New England States to preserve their forests, especially in view of the activity of the wood pulp industry. A reduction of the duty on paper would not only bring Canadian paper here but Norway, Sweden and Finland, with cheap labor and abundant forests of spruce, would enter the United States market.

"If Canada," he said, "gets control of the wood pulp and print paper in the United States, the newspapers will be at their mercy in the matter of price."

He believed the rate of duty recommended by the committee on finance to be too small, and predicted that it would be regarded as a monumental blunder. He preferred to continue the duty of the Dingley law.

Senator Brown again took the floor and undertook to withdraw his amendment for free paper so as to place himself in position so as to support the provision of the House bill, which levied a duty of $2 instead of $4 a ton on print paper as proposed by the finance committee, but Senator Aldrich objected.

Explaining that there was a great international question pending before the Senate, which did not exist when the House passed the tariff bill, Mr. Aldrich said Canada had adopted a policy announced by the Premier by which it was intended to effectually prevent the export of logs or wood pulp. This was that of taking possession of the American market for print paper.

"We ought to make the duty so high," he said, "as not to permit the carrying out of such a plan."

The duty of $4 a ton was not, in his opinion, sufficient to cover the difference in the cost of production between the two countries.

Referring to the report that the International Paper Co. had purchased 12,000 square miles of wood land in Canada. Mr. Aldrich suggested that that company might be caught in the Canadian trap preventing them from bringing that wood across the line.

Following closely upon the defeat of Mr. Brown's amendment Mr. Stone offered an amendment placing "wood pulp print paper, suitable for books and newspapers" on the free list.

It was opposed by Senator Bailey on the ground that it would remit $700,000 in revenue, which, he said, the Government now collects and especially "as the only people who would receive any benefit from that remission is a single, small particular class.

Anxious to Get C.N.R.

Ottawa, June 19.—Hon. George P. Graham heard yesterday an application from the County Council of Lanark to have the projected Canadian Northern line from Toronto to Ottawa pass through Lanark County. A large deputation attended and pressed their views. Another deputation from Smith's Falls, through which it is proposed the line shall run, opposed this. Mr. Graham reserved judgment.

Six Months for Seager.

Toronto, June 19.—George Seager, chauffeur for D. D. Mann, who ran his car into a street car on College street while "joy riding," after taking Mr. Mann to the station a month ago, was sent to the Central Prison for six months in the Police Court yesterday morning for injuring Miss Fanny White, who was in the car at the time of the accident.

Blind Peddler Burned.

London, June 19.—James Carroll, a blind peddler, claiming Winnipeg as his home, was brought to the hospital suffering from fearful burns about the neck and head. Carroll on Thursday was lighting his pipe, when the match ignited his celluloid collar. He claims to have roamed about all night. His wounds are in a terrible state.

Hooted and Cheered Ward.

Health Section of Women's Congress is Formed.

LADY ABERDEEN CONVENOR

Effort Will Be Made by New Standing Committee to Enlist National Sympathy in Campaign For Health—Committee on Laws Drafts Proposals — France May Be the Scene of Next Meeting.

Toronto, June 19.—Last night's meeting of the International Congress of Women in Convocation Hall to discuss questions of public health was an awakening to many who heretofore have given the matter only cursory thought.

In moving a resolution that a standing committee on public health be formed as part of the international council and that national councils be urged to take a similar course, Her Excellency, the Countess of Aberdeen, said:

"My friends of the international council, may it be given to us to pledge the women of the world to this crusade for health, so full of hope, so full of certainty of victory, so blessed in the relief it will bring to suffering humanity."

Her Excellency introduced the subject of the evening by referring to the volume of reports, "The Health of All Nations," which had been edited by Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon, honorary secretary, and commended it to the attention of the delegates.

During the past years, said her excellency, they had been consolidating their energies in the various countries where they had councils, they had been forming councils, collecting information and giving adherence to various principles of progress in which they urged the councils to promote individually and collectively.

It was a question of international concern and which combined action by the nations was of the highest value.

Wherever there is the best undertaking and co-operation between official and voluntary workers, there will be the best work and the most faithful results. Neither can do what is necessary without the other. The official work by itself tends to become red tape and devoid of elasticity, the voluntary by itself generally lacks system and restraint. It must be our earnest endeavor to use our influence to combine both and to help our women workers to train themselves to do their share in both capacities. There is scope enough and to spare for all. This is work in which all societies and all individuals can and must take part for the common weal, and we need no further stimulus than the thought that no more beneficial contribution can be given to the world's happiness and the world's progress than to increase its power of bringing up its children in possession of that perfect health of body and mind which constitutes the truest riches of the nations."

Mrs. Edwin Gray nominated Lady Aberdeen to the convenorship of the new committee, and she was elected. Dr. Blum of Germany, Miss Gough of Australia, Mme. Bernocco of Italy and Dr. Eleanor Brown of Toronto also spoke.

After a round of social gaieties, hours of inspection and committee meetings, the delegates to the fourth quinquennial congress of the National Council of Women, got down to the real business of the congress yesterday morning.

In respect to the suffrage question, Mrs. Gordon said, that when Prime Minister Asquith asked for the opinion of the women recently, he was doing the wisest thing that had ever been done by any member of the Cabinet in England. The suffragettes were also urged to prepare a statement of their rights and go out and teach the women of the world.

France will likely be the next place of meeting for the quinquennial.

At the first meeting of the council, which was held yesterday morning, the delegates from Holland showed their appreciation of the good work done by their president during the last five years by presenting her with a beautifully silver-finished mahogany gavel. The presentation was made by the president from the Netherlands. Miss Baelde, who in a neat and humorous speech, paid great tribute to Lady Aberdeen, both as their leader and as a woman who had the courage of her convictions.

A great deal of controversy was caused when the meeting was asked to pass the minutes of the special meeting held last year in Geneva. This meeting was called to revise the constitution. It was supported by all the delegates, but the American, and was adopted.

Important recommendations were made regarding the law reform by the committee on laws in their report. Their recommendations are:

"That the law permit the fathers of illegitimate children be found if possible."

"That women be allowed to be guardians of children."

"Reform and simplification of marriage laws."

"Independence of married women and their property."

"That women be allowed to serve on juries in criminal cases."

"Wider powers of women in administration of state, civil and reform tribunals, as justices of the peace and boards of commerce."

"Votes for women and rights of women to sit as members of Parliament."

"That the nationality of married women be decided."

"The age of consent in seduction cases be raised."

Another important affair that was brought before the board was in connection with the Rhodes' scholarship for men, permitting study in England and the continent for the colonial male students. The council recommend that this should also apply to women students as well, though on a different basis, and that is that they should have a chance with their continental sister students, who were successful in winning the contest.

Czar and Kaiser Confer.

Reval, June 19.—At the banquet on board the Russian Imperial yacht Standart Thursday night, the Czar said:

"I assure Your Majesty that I cherish the sincere and unchanging wish ever to maintain the traditional relations of hearty friendship and mutual trust that always have united our two houses and the cultivation of which I strongly desire not merely as a pledge of the good relations of our two countries, but of the general peace.

In reply Emperor William said: "I am rejoiced to see, in this hearty reception, a new and valuable confirmation of our sincere personal friendship. I see in it also fresh confirmation of the traditional relationship of cordial friendship and confidence, which, corresponding to the manifold interests and thoroughly peaceful sentiments of our two countries, exists between our Governments."

I.C.R. Sunday Trains.

Ottawa, June 19.—The recent announcement that there will be no Sunday trains upon the Intercolonial Railway with the provinces of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island does not, according to the Railway Department, involve any important departure as far as the western end of the Government Railway is concerned.

The trains will continue to leave Montreal as usual on Sundays, but as they will not cross the boundary of Quebec until after midnight on Sunday they will not offend Maritime Province sentiment. On the other hand the trains will leave Halifax on Saturday, but will not leave on Sundays, and as they also will be clear of the Maritime Provinces before Sunday, once more the sentiment of the "Bluenoses" will be respected.

Children as Shoplifters.

Vancouver, B.C., June 19.—A shoplifting gang who have been for weeks causing departmental store managers great worry, is made up of children, the eldest just past 12 years, the youngest five.

Those arrested are: Two McFee girls, aged 12 and 7; a girl named Waterman, aged 12, and a McFee boy, aged 5. They all live on Mount Pleasant. They claim that they were first stated on a career of crime by older girls, who told them how easy it was to pick up things in stores. For a time they worked for them, getting a share of what they purloined.

Money-Lender In Court.

Chatham, June 19—John W. White, a money-lender, charged with levying a charge over the amount allowed by law on a $250 loan made to Timothy McQueen, came yesterday morning before Judge Dowling, who reserved judgment. White admits loaning McQueen $250 from which he deducted $12 for his fees as solicitor. He also admits that within a year he accepted from McQueen the sum of $250 in full payment of the $250 loan, from which the $12 was deducted as fees.

Constipation Bad Breath Headache

When the bowels are constipated and you have stomach trouble and headache, try Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are so mild you can scarcely feel their action, yet so effective that the entire secretory apparatus is stimulated to healthy action.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURE QUICKLY

Thus writes Mrs. D. P. Fowler, from Yarmouth: "I used to feel drowsy and heavy, my color was shallow, and there was usualy a bad taste in my mouth. I had vague pains all through my limbs, and an annoying headache as well.

"After one dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills there was a sudden change. I felt better, my appetite increased, and that exhaustion and depression gradually left me. Life seemed brighter and happier after I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills, so I strongly recommend such a good medicine."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills you certainly need; then why not get them now, and enjoy the abundant good health they are sure to bring out? Price, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00. At all dealers.

CHILD WAS VERY BADLY TREATED

Mother is Charged With Inhuman Treatment of Daughter.

TORTURED AND STARVED

Mrs. Eugene Lajoie of Aylmer Appears in Hull Police Court Charged With Beating Child and Forcing Her to Eat Potato Peelings and Raw Meat—She Locked Life a Much Hated Sister-in-Law.

Ottawa, June 19.—Because she resembled a disliked sister-in-law, Mrs. Eugene Lajoie of Aylmer, with nine children, is alleged to have tortured her daughter until she almost died. The child is now in the hospital, her body a mass of bruises, the head being disfigured by five cuts. The neighbors say that Mrs. Lajoie made the child run backwards and forwards in front of her while she struck her with a stick, also that she tied her hands while hungry and placed her where she could watch others eat. The child willingly ate potato peelings.

Evidence showed that the child was treated more like an ill-favored dog than like a human being. She was not allowed to eat at the table with the rest of the family, and the neighbors said the unfortunate little outcast searched in the yard for peelings and scraps of raw meat with which to appease her hunger.

When remonstrated with Mrs. Lajoie replied that the family doctor would not allow her to feed the child.

At times the fiendish mother had her twelve-year-old son drag his younger sister along the floor, bumping her head until the child became unconscious. Another kind of torture was to keep the little girl on bended knees for hours at a time. After the mother threatened to poison her.

The woman's husband admits that he knew of the cruel treatment of the child by the mother, but claims he was powerless to stop it. The case was adjourned, pending the calling of more witnesses.

Mustn't Celebrate Fourth.

Ottawa, June 19.—The Militia Council has refused permission to the Princess of Wales Rifles of Kingston, Ont., to take part in the 4th of July celebration at Elmira, N.Y., and accordingly that regiment has had to cancel its trip.

"I don't know what sort of people these Kingston militia can be," said one of the officials of the Department last night. "But to go to a 4th of July celebration in His Majesty's uniform is really too much."

The Governor-General's Foot Guard have, however, arranged for an excursion to Burlington, Vt., on July 4, during the Champlain tercentenary celebration, but they are not going as a regiment, but merely in a civilian capacity.

Sir Hugh's Gifts to Charity.

London, June 19.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In acknowledgment of the pleasure given the Imperial Press delegates by the manouevring at Aldershot, Sir Hugh Graham has forwarded $500 to the funds of the Soldiers' Orphans' Home and a similar amount to the Admiralty for the Sailors' Orphans' Home. Gen. Smith-Dorrien, expressing thanks for the former gift, said it would be mentioned in orders that the rank and file might know of this kindly thought for the welfare and happiness of their kith and kin.

Former Chief Involved.

Montreal, June 19.—Before the royal commission yesterday it was said that ex-Fire Chief Benoit had been transmitted money for the placing of firemen on the department. It was also declared that ex-Ald. Marsolais, now dead, had been given $500 for the same purpose. This was brought out during the vague and reluctant evidence of O. J. Munday, who is said to have been a go-between in transaction for securing places on the department.

Coast to Coast 'Phone.

Port Arthur, June 19.—A. Allan, superintendent of telegraph construction on the Lake Superior division of the C.P.R., is here to-day from North Bay. He has a gang of men engaged in stringing a telephone line between Fort William and White River.

This is the first stretch of a long distance line from coast to coast which the C.P.R. is installing.

Bricklayers' Strike Settled.

Galt, June 19.—At a meeting last night, the striking masons and bricklayers and the contractors reached an amicable agreement. Both sides made concessions and the increase to 40 cents per hour will date from July 1st. J. Webster, vice-president of the building association, remarked that both parties were well satisfied with the settlement.

Degrees for Two Canadians.

London, June 19.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Glasgow University will confer the honorary LL.D. degree next week upon Sir Hugh Graham, proprietor of The Montreal Star, and Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Toronto Globe. Both are at present in England with the Imperial Press Conference delegates.

Mother Sees Her Boy Killed.

Chatham, June 19.—The four-year-old son of Peter Savoy of Loggieville, was killed by a heavy wagon with a load of three tons of salt passing over his skull and side, crushing him terribly. When the driver saw the brain oozing, he fainted. The lad's mother was a few yards away and is not likely the survive the shock.

Rates Must Go Up.

Ottawa, June 19.—That the schedule of rates for advertising and job printing must be increased in accordance with the increased cost of getting out a paper, was the statement made by William H. Allen of The Carleton Place Herald at the annual meeting of the Ottawa Valley Press Association yesterday.

BROTHERS IN AFFLICTION COME THROUGH TOGETHER

Two weeks ago last Wednesday Mr. Fred Roberts, of Hilliard street, was taken to the Nicholls Hospital to undergo an operation for appendicitis This was successful and his recovery was very rapid. On Thursday last he was permitted to return home and is making rapid progress and in a few days he will be up and around again His many friends will be pleased to see him once more enjoying good health, although it will be some time before he can return to work.

While Mr. Roberts was at the Nicholls Hospital his brother, Albert, was at the St. Joseph's Hospital for an operation of a dangerous character While his recovery has not been so rapid, yet he is doing nicely and the critical stage is over.

HEALTH.

ESCAPING THE SPIKES IS HARDEST PART OF BASEBALL

Managers Want Players Who are Not Afraid to Take Chances and the Basemen Have to be Able to Take Care of Themselves.

THEY MUST BE NERVY

That baseball will soon be as dangerous as football unless a means is found to do away with "spiking" is the opinion of many experts.

Hardly a day passes that some player in the various leagues is not put out of the game as a result of being gashed by the sharp steel plates worn on the ball player's shoes to keep him from slipping and sliding over the grass.

Both base runner and guardian of the bag must display absolute courage in making close plays. The runner dare not slow up for fear of being put out, and losing a chance to score a run that will perhaps spell victory, and for his part the guardian of the bag must be recklessly indifferent to the peril of a collision. Consequently they are smashed together all the time, ankles, feet, and legs are cut, bones are broken and injuries sustained that take valuabele men out of their teams.

Managers have come to so thoroughly understand the perils that go with putting a tag on a base runner that almost the first question they ask when they are inquiring into the abilities of a newcomer is:

"Can he touch out base runners?"

This looks easy. It might be expected to be a simple feature of an infielder's work, but as a matter of fact it is the hardest.

It is a play whose difficulties escape the average spectator. He can see and thrill when a long hit is made, a difficult running catch completed, a one-hand stop and accurate throw put through, but the skill and nerve necessary to escape the spikes and touch out the base runner are features of the game lightly esteemed by the man with a knowledge of the inside.

A close play is never made but that the base runner has no time to be careful. If he showed any undue caution he would be quotted a quitter, and would soon find himself out of a job. He must come straight through, never thinking of consequences, either to himself or to the man he is seeking to elude.

In fact, a large percentage of runners now slide even to first base on hunts for slow grounders whenever there is a chance of beating them out. Therefore, not even the first baseman is immune from the peril of getting mixed up with the spikes.

Cases of intentional spiking are rare. Not many ball players will intentionally maim a fellow player. Yet in the anger and excitement of the game, men lose their heads and often make accusations that in their sober senses they regret.

The catcher is more exposed to the spiking peril than any of the fellows, for the probable reason that plays are at the home plate more bitterly contested.

Here is the final station. The base-runner has moved around to the last stretch of the journey, but as far as the vital question of run-making goes he might as well never have gone to the bat unless he can cross the home plate.

Therefore extra recklessness inspires him when he gets to this point. The catcher is correspondingly anxious to stop him. This is a combination that leads to many serious smashups at the home station.

The great second baseman and shortstops know the fine art of getting the tag on a runner, and it is generally admitted that the knowledge is of paramount value in guarding second base.

Here a great number of plays come off where quick action is required, for most of the base stealing has second base for an objective point, and in most of the double plays second base is one of the stations for which the runners are trying.

Runners constantly practise means of circumventing the tag. The light, speedy men have all kinds of ways of going into a bag, without exposing more than a minimum of their bodies to the probability of being tagged.

These men can do as much by wriggling and dodging as the more reckless runners can achieve by smashing right into the man with the ball These runners have sudden movements that are very deceptive. Often only an arm or leg is exposed, and by a sudden swerve even this poor surface will be parked out of danger long enough to let the runner reach the bag in safety.

It is not possible to do away with spikes. The ball player must have them both, to field his position and when he is at the bat and on the bases.

Therefore a premium is put on courage for the equipment of the infielder and the nerve must be supplemented with good judgment and a mastery of every trick of touching the man before he can land.

FISHING SEASON HERE

Followers of Izaak Walton are Making the Most of Their Opportunities These Days.

Since the 15th of this month a new pastime has come into vogue. The fisherman has bided his time for many months and now he is having his innings. The early morning hours see many of the disciples of Isaac Walton going riverward to spend a portion of the day in an attempt to get some real fresh fish, which is a grand treat. Tin cans and bamboo poles, and string and hooks, are all being hunted up and brought into use. Many return with a good supply of fish, while others have the day's sport which is some satisfaction in itself.

Why Not Fill Your Body WITH NEW ENERGY

And avoid the weakness and tired feelings of spring—You can do this by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

You need not be a victim of circumstances and suffer all the weakening and depressing effects of spring.

Tired feelings, headaches, indigestion and nervous troubles all fly when the system is flooded with rich, red blood.

Energy and vigour only come after all the ordinary wants of the system are supplied. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so wonderfully successful as a blood builder that you soon begin to feel strong and healthy by its use.

By means of its great restorative treatment you can rebuild the body when it has been wasted by worry, overwork, lingering colds or the depressing and debilitating effects of spring.

There is no reaction after the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because it is not a stimulant. On the contrary it is a blood forming, system building medicine which by working hand in hand with Nature proves of lasting benefit to the system and thoroughly drives out weakness and disease by filling the system with new energy and vigour.

Mrs. H. A. Loynes, nurse, Phillipsburg, Que., writes: "I was all run down and could not do my work. Everything I ate made me sick. In nursing others I had seen the good results of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and resolved to try it. As a result of this treatment I have gained ten lbs., do my own work alone and feel like an entirely different person."

Sunshine grates have maximum strength

Sunshine Furnace has four triangular grate bars, each having three distinct sides. In the single-piece and two-piece grate an anchor-like provision is made for expansion or contraction, and a waste of coal always follows a shaking.

On the left- and right-hand sides are cutter pins, which when loosened permit the grates to slide out. These four grate bars are made of heavy cast iron, and are finished up with half-inch teeth. This teeth will grind up the toughest clinker, and because the grates are made in sections, not only can nothing but dust and ashes pass through, but after each shaking a different side can be presented to the fire. Also, with the Sunshine grate there is no back-breaking movements attached to the shaking. By gently rocking the lever, first on the left and then on the right, the ashes are released on both sides, and fall through into the pan.

WEST PETERBORO' FARMERS' INSTITUTE ANNUAL MEETING

Held This Afternoon in the Bank of Montreal Building—Reports Presented—Election of Officers

A NEW PRESIDENT.

The annual meeting of the Farmers' Institute was held in the Bank of Montreal building this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. J. Telford, the president, was in the chair, and opened the meeting by a few remarks regarding the work of the past year. Reports of an encouraging nature were presented and adopted, and the election of officers took place as follows:

President—Mr. J. H. Garbutt.
Vice-President—Mr. T. D. Young.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. Wm. Collins.

The old board of directors was re-elected.

The reports presented were as follows:

To the Members of West Peterborough Farmers' Institute:—

Gentlemen,—I hereby beg leave to submit to you for approval the Annual Report of the Executive for the year ending May 31st, 1909. Since our last annual meeting we have had a very good time for the agriculturist, although crops were, in some cases, below the average, the prices have been higher than usual; and, while we have this year had a late backward spring, we have a hope that we may have a beautiful harvest, on which depends the prosperity of our country. Since our last annual meeting, we have to lament the departure through death of two of our Board of Directors, viz., R. Q. Dench, of Lakefield, and A. A. Stewart, of Otonabee.

On June 12th, 1908, we had our usual excursion to Guelph, but it was attended as in previous years. On not, owing to several causes, so well attended as in previous years. On Dec. 9th our first regular meeting was held at Ennismore, with an attendance of 45 in the afternoon and 350 in the evening. Nine addresses were delivered. Next day at Lakefield; attendance, afternoon, 55; evening, 350.

The delegates sent by the Department were Mr. W. F. Kydd, of Simcoe, and Mrs. Colin Campbell, Windsor. The latter addressed the meetings of the Women's Institutes at the above places in the afternoons; and helped at the union meetings in the evenings.

Supplementary meetings were held at Stewart, on January 5th. Attendance, 26, afternoon; 104, evening. Jan. 6th, 4th line Smith, attendance 22, afternoon; 58, evening. In Peterborough City an afternoon meeting was held; attendance, 35; and in the evening North Monaghan was visited, when sixty-six were present. The delegates for those meetings were C. F. Alward from New Brunswick and E. W. Kitcher, North Simcoe.

Now, while we have had good meetings and splendid practical speakers sent to us, we have to deplore the lack of interest taken by our farmers in those things which are of such vital interest to their success Only a small proportion of them attend the meetings, and of those only a small number will become members and thereby they are not receiving the valuable reports and bulletins published and sent out by the Department; and we often think that our Directors are not giving the help they should to us to increase membership. Now it is their duty to help the Executive in that line and help to make a success of the meetings in their own locality.

Another matter to which we would draw your attention is, the formation of Farmers' Clubs in the districts where Institute meetings are held. The Superintendent wishes all Institutes to take this up so as to enlist the younger members of the farming community in the work. I have received a letter from Mr. Putnam, Superintendent, stating that in case of any place holding meetings where the attendance was under 25, no speakers will be sent to the place unless they ask for it by petition signed by at least 25, as a guarantee of good faith that they will try to secure an audience.

We cannot close without extending to the City Council our hearty thanks for the use of the Council Chamber to hold our meetings in; and also to the press for the splendid reports published by them of our work.

Signed on behalf of the Executive Committee.

WM. COLLINS, Secretary.

RHEUMATISM Strikes the Heart and then Kills

Causes: A run down condition of the system, poisoned blood, and Uric Acid. The joints become clogged with irritating secretions and grow stiff. Every movement tortures and racks the sufferer. Cure is not possible until the blood is purified. The most potent blood purifier is Ferrozone. It is a perfect solvent for Uric Acid and an antidote for all other poisons liable to cause inflammation or Rheumatic Pains. But Ferrozone doesn't stop here. It provides the enfeebled sufferer with an abundant supply of pure, invigorating blood. This quickly results in more strength with which to fight the disease, starts a rebuilding of the system, ends in a permanent cure. Mr. Thos. Egan, of 92 Pearl Street, New York, suffered so intensely from Rheumatism that his friends believed he could not recover. "The Rheumatism," writes Mr. Egan, "crippled me for four years. It seemed to run to the joints, which swelled and caused dreadful pain. I wasn't able to walk and my strength rapidly decreased. My heart became so weak I had to be bolstered up in bed. I was at my wits' end when I heard of the wonderful cures of Ferrozone. Twelve boxes cured and I am now strong and perfectly well." There is no better remedy. Severe tests have proved it superlative to all others. If you want the BEST and most scientific treatment for Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, or Sciatica, use Ferrozone. No case too chronic. ROYAL THEATRE

4-Motion Pictures-4

"A FAITHFUL OLD HORSE"
An excellent picture showing the faithfulness of a faithful old horse, and how he brings some wood choppers to where they find their last child buried in the snow in the winter forest. A picture to please everyone, the young as well as the old, but especially the lovers of the dumb animal.

A STRIKING RESEMBLANCE
This funny comedy of mistaken identity shows a married man who is injudicious enough to carry on a clandestine flirtation with another woman, and consequently gets himself into an embarrassing position.

"A SOLDIER'S HEART"
A most beautifully coloured picture story of the love of a young lieutenant for a pretty maiden, and also for his mother, and how things get mixed up and his bethrothed becomes jealous thinking his mother is another rival, but all ends well.

ALPHONSE GETS IN WRONG
A very funny picture showing the troubles and adventures of Alphonse, and how he turns the tables on his joker friends and gets the best of them.

CLEARING THE WAY FOR BUILDING THE NEW WATERWORKS DAM

To get in the way of an autocar or a locomotive usually has disastrous results, but to get in the way of a public work often produces some good cash and high values. On the Smith side of the river, where the new dam will be built for the pumping station Mr. John McCauley owned a lot of about half an acre, with a small frame house and stable on it. It was found necessary to remove the buildings, and hence a deal was made with the owners and the property was purchased. It is said that the price paid was fourteen hundred dollars, and the owner has the privilege of removing the buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. McCauley have moved to East City to live with their daughter, whose place they bought recently, and intend to reside there permanently.

The purchase price may seem rather high, but it must be taken into consideration that this is a special case, and Mr. McCauley is leaving the house which he has occupied for many years and was living in very comfortable circumstances.

THE WEATHER.

Much warmer conditions now prevail, and the thermometer is now endeavouring each day to surpass the temperature of the previous day. Yesterday (Sunday) was quite warm, 84 degrees in the shade being reached. To-day is still warmer, although the maximum figures are not yet obtainable.

GYPSIES ROUNDED UP BY THE POLICE TO-DAY ARE IN THE LOCAL JAIL

The band of gypsies which have been causing so much trouble in the vicinity were rounded up this morning by Provincial Detectives Miller and Greer, Constables McGinty and Newhall and the county authorities at Fowler's Corners and were brought into Peterborough at noon to-day. There were about sixty, men women, and children, in the party, and their equipment included a large number of horses and waggons. Their arrival caused a sensation in this city and this afternoon many dozens of citizens visited the gaol to get a glimpse of the fantastically garbed foreigners, who were placed in the gaol yard. This morning Warden Scott and Detective Greer started in advance of the posse and the gypsies proceeded to tell their fortunes. When asked if they would surrender the reply was "No! no, we'll not surrender, but they changed their minds when the main body arirved in sight, and, giving themselves up peaceably, accompanied the officers into the city. They are Mexican gypsies and speak Spanish and French fluently, while they have a smattering of English.

This afternoon the men are being tried in the court house, but what will be done with the tribe is not yet clear.

WANDERERS CREATED HAVOC IN OMEMEE AND VICINITY

Omemee, Ont., June 23.—The general public are warned to be on the lookout for a band of gypsies now in the vicinity of Peterborough, who are travelling through the country, apparently without any sense of law or decency. They are simply a band of thieving vagrants, impertinent and lawless. They do not hesitate to enter houses without ceremony, taking anything they can lay their hands on.

When passing through Omemee they plundered gardens, picked pockets, and stole articles out of the stores. If there is no public statutes or public officers to deal with such desperadoes it is high time that steps be taken to lay a stern hand upon them and compel them either to leave the country or earn their living in some honest way.

Little Boy Had Hand Badly Cut In Accident On Saturday

Roy Taylor, the four-year-old son of Mr. John Taylor, Burnham street, East City, met with an exceedingly painful accident on Saturday evening. The little fellow, with a number of other playmates were running up and down the street, the former being in a waggon drawn by another lad. They were apparently going so fast that the Taylor boy fell out and in trying to save himself cut his right hand on the jagged edge of the tin box on the waggon.

Two arteries were severed and had it not been for the prompt attention of a doctor who was attending a patient next door, the little fellow would have undoubtedly bled to death. Dr. Greer was called and three stitches were required to bind the wound.

Mr. Duff Explains His Mission To The Farmers Of The West Riding

Mr. Duff, agricultural teacher at Norwood, addressed the County Council upon the agricultural class, which would shortly be started in Norwood High School. He said that all the work would not be done in Norwood alone, but would be extended throughout the county. He said that when he was sent down here he was told to do all he could for the farmers of Peterborough, and this he had to do. The main thing was to help the farmers along. In a short time they would have an office opened in Norwood, where farmers can go for information of all kinds. One of the great problems in the county was drainage, and in this the department would be of great assistance. They also propose to have a short course next winter which would last for about four days with morning and afternoon sessions. The actual work to be done at Norwood was taken up, and the speaker explained what would be done with the county's $500. The department would pay special attention here to dairying, poultry, etc. These classes would be started in September and last for two years, and were for boys who were too young to remain away from school, but who had passed the entrance classes. For the older boys a class would probably be held for them six to eight weeks in the winter. He asked the Council to set aside their portion of a grant of $500, so that it would be available for immediate use for purchasing apparatus.

Moved by Messrs. Knox and Graham that the council give this matand refer it to the Finance Committee to deal with.

"THIS WAY! THIS WAY!" IS NOISY CRY ON SEATTLE'S "PAY STREAK"

THE MIDWAY PLAISANCE OF THE ALASKAN EXPOSITION.

What the "Midway" was at the Chicago and Buffalo exposition, the "Pike" at the St. Louis Fair, such is the avenue of noise and pleasure at the Yukon-Alaska-Pacific fair at Seattle which they call the "Pay Streak." Pay streak visitors say it is well named. Like every midway, there are four chances to spend money there to one chance in any other part of the grounds.

But everybody who goes to the Pay Streak has a good time. The western people enter as heartily into the spirit of carnival as their visitors, and the noise of the "bally-hoo" artist the "spieler" is heard till the gate clicks shut at night.

The name, of course, comes from the mining term signifying the ... of ground—usually long and ... —which contains gold or ... metal.

SUPPRESSION OF CRIME.

The amendments to the Criminal Code passed at the last session of Parliament make it a criminal offence for any person to "carry about his person any bowie-knife, dagger, dirk, skull-cracker, sling-shot, or other offensive weapons, or, being marked or disguised, has in his possession any firearm." This is a law that should be enforced. The universal carrying of weapons in the United States is one cause why the primitive instincts of many of the people find an outlet in bloody affrays and loss of life. If the implements of death were not so convenient the uncontrolled passion would find outlet in nothing perhaps more serious than a bout at fisticuffs. The carrying of revolvers in Canada is altogether indefensible. Nobody needs them for defensive purposes, especially if everybody were without similar weapons. Their possession is a temptation to their unlawful use, and these are a frequent cause of fatal accidents. The fool that rocks the boat is close kin to the fool that toys with a firearm. Douglas Jerrold said of one of his characters, "Take temptation away from his eyes and fingers and he's a perfectly honest man." The moral is to remove temptation to the use of lethal weapons by removal of the weapons. Another important amendment to the Criminal Code is the stiffening of the section relating to the sale or distribution of obscene books or literature, or immoral post cards or pictures. This is an evil more permanently pernicious than the carrying of weapons; for it strikes at the very fundamentals of moral character and so distorts the point of view and debases the moral sense, as to make the person ripe for any immorality or outrage. Judge Riddell, in dealing with a case of this kind, intimated that foul books and pictures had a worse effect than murder; this only killed the body, but the other killed the immortal soul. There is need for more vigilance on the part of the authorities in regard to the suppression of the practice of circulating obscene literature and pictures. There is reason to believe that there are persons in this city dealing in this moral leprosy, or its wide distribution could not be accounted for. Suppression of the stuff and the person who vends or distributes it is the only remedy that will be effective. Suppression of the temptation to, and of the instruments of crime, is the surest way, outside personal regeneration, to suppress crime.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

By way of dividends and interests, American railways pay $135,000,000 annually to British stock and bondholders.

Te revenue of Canada has, says the Ottawa Citizen Conservative, increased $1,750,000 for the first three months of this year, as compared with 1908. It looks as if we would soon be on the crest of the wave of prosperity again.

The Montreal Herald gives this extremely sensible advice: "Besides advertising that their goods are "Made in Canada," manufacturers will have to see that they are so well made that Canadians will be proud of the label."

The John Morley of others days—is, says the Buffalo Courier, one of the few surviving English statesmen who have not lost their heads in the panic over the "German peril." It was a high public service for him to say at this time to the Imperial press congress that the English tongue is a stronger and more enduring bond of imperial union than anything else—a thousand times stronger than the achievement of soldiers and sailors and the statesmen who direct them. It requires courage for a man these days to make a declaration like that.

PLANING NOW FOR THE FUTURE.

Finance Chronicle.

Confindent that all roads will lead to Rome anyhow, Montreal is perhaps not so exercised as are some other communities with regard to any one plan for facilitating navigation between it and Fort William. However, the question is a live one for Montreal and for the Dominion at large.

Solutions seriously advanced call for consideration on the part of business interests everywhere.

First, there is the view of those who hold that improvement of terminal and transhipment facilities is all that is urgently required. These claim that transference of grain from large vessels to boats adapted for present canal use—or to rail routes—is preferable to bringing lake vessels through enlarged canals. Second, there is the proposed scheme of a Georgian Bay ship canal. And, third, there is the much advocated plan of a deepened and widened channel via the Welland and St. Lawrence canals.

The choice is not one for Canada to make off-hand, even if considerations of public finance warranted any immediate undertaking—which they do not. There is danger in delay, say the impatient. But others may remind them that in affairs national, as in matters more personal, action in haste may mean repentance at leisure. What is called for, and that without delay, is organized and far-reaching inquiry. As yet there is no sufficiency of data upon which to base intelligent choice of plans. Nor can the matter be decided from reports of engineers, relating to feasibility, comparative distances or relative cost. There are other considerations. Mileage gains may not have corresponding time advantages. Seasonal conditions may have important bearing, and insurance considerations must be kept in mind. Then, too, the origin and destination of through trade and the potential volume of local traffic are matters upon which the opinions of experienced shippers and business men must be determined and weighed.

In regard to the reference in the first paragraph of the above article, it may be said that Montreal has shown an indifference, if not, hostility to the Trent Canal, as a contributor to her shipping aggregate. The metropolis would, very unwillingly dispense with any existing route that would represent the annual volume of grain transportation by the completed Trent canal, and it should welcome a new route that is capable of increasing her prosperity. When the grain growing capacity of the West is increased even a tenth of its possibilities, the existing routes will be inadequate to handle the outflow of grain towards British and European ports. If the Welland and St. Lawrence Canal systems have nearly made Montreal outrival New York as a grain-shipping port, certainly the Trent Canal system properly equipped with barge carriers can contribute much more than enough to make the rivalry triumphant. A landlocked route like the Trent Canal from Midland to Montreal, would represent cheap transportation and a new avenue of return shipments of merchandise and other commodities and new in land markets for Montreal merchants.

ESTABLISHING FOOD STANDARDS FOR CANADA

(From Canadian Grocer.)

The Canadian Grocer learns upon highest authority that food standards are about to be established in Canada.

Consideration is being given to the whole matter at present by the Department of Inland Revenue, of the Dominion Government, which has charge of such affairs.

Chief Analyst A. McGill, who has been working upon the new standards for some time is at present in Europe, but the work has advanced sufficiently to ensure its being carried through, and upon Mr. McGill's return, further definite action is likely to be taken.

Undoubtedly the idea of the Department of Inland Revenue in making this move is to protect the honest manufacturer and dealer, and the consumer, and the newly made standards will be very clearly defined, so that there can be no doubt as to what they mean.

Realizing the serious nature of the work undertaken, the Government worked, and is proceeding very cautiously in the establishment of the standards.

No changes which might be called radical in the extreme will be introduced, but, wothout a doubt, unscrupulous manufacturers will be forced to retire from the field, or to market goods of purity and honest value.

In short, the new standards will call for food products up to certain well defined established tables. Practically all food stuffs is use to-day will be covered, including meats fresh, salted, pickled, smoked; oysters, caned meats, vegetables, fruits dried fruits, sugar, molasses, syrups, teas, coffees, spices, lard, extracts condensed milk and all other milk products, ice cream, dried vegetables evaporated apples, jams, marmalades, jellies, pickles, catsup, maple syrup, maple sugar, confectionary, honey, cocoa vinegar, fruit juices, wines and liquors.

The objective of the Government is to secure for the honest dealer and the consumer, honest goods. In the past any attempt at deception through various methods has been ever frowned upon, sometimes punished, but not always. In the future deception of any kind will be severely dealt with.

The danger which might be done to commerce by too strenuous action in the arranging of standards has been an ever-present thought with the Government, and with the idea of precluding any such disastrous consequences, the Department has been in close touch with the leading manufacturers in various lines. While the opinions of these business men will carry weight they will not influence the Government in establishing standards which will accomplish the desired effect—the ensuring of honest goods.

One result of the new standards will be the dropping of the word "cream" as a name for evaporated milk, which will be forbidden, and "Evaporated Cream" will no longer be sold. Provided the milk product is properly labelled—"Evaporated Milk" it may be offered for sale.

Tea standards, in the sense they are understood by tea merchants, will not be established. The new ruling will provide that teas conform in kind and country of production to the names under which they are sold. Standards for individual grades from various places of growth will not be arranged which is regrettable.

The use of standard preservatives will be allowed, but any which are at all injurious to the health, or which have not been proved beyond doubt to be harmless will be strictly forbidden, as will any preservative tending to deceive one as to the quality of the food.

The experience of other countries having food standards will be employed to the advantage of the Canadian people, and practice changes which may have worked havoc elsewhere will be avoided, or very seriously considered, before action is taken.

If everything can be prepared in time, the law establishing the Canadian Food Standards will be enacted at the next session of Parliament.

DOUMA GOES TO ENGLAND.

Russian Legislators Will Be Guests of the Crown.

London, June 21.—The meeting of the Emperor of Russia and the Emperor of Germany in Pitkipas Bay will be counterbalanced by the presence of a party composed of influential members of the Russian Douma in England for the next fortnight, and the visit to King Edward by the Russian Emperor during the Cowes regatta.

This is the second excursion of Russian deputies to England, a party composed of members of the first Douma coming here in 1906, when the Emperor dissolved that body, as the guests of the members of the Parliament.

Whereas the first delegation embraced members with revolutionary tendencies, the coming visitors represent the more conservative factions of the Russian Government, and will practically be the guests of the nation, M. Khomyakoff, president of the Douma, and Prince Peter Troubetskoy, will head the delegation, which consists of five members of the council of the empire and 15 deputies.

An elaborate program has been prepared for their entertainment, which includes a reception by the King.

The fact that the Czar's meeting with the King takes place at Cowes will save unpleasant incidents.

Colombia's President Abdicates.

Colon, June 21.—Advices received here from Cartagena, Colombia, confirm previous reports that Gen. Rafael Reyes, president of Colombia, has abandoned office and sailed for Europe.

The support given by President Reyes to the United States-Panama-Colombia treaty has been partly responsible for the prevailing dissatisfaction.

Young Couple's Queer Death.

Williamsport, Pa., June 21.—Kneeling beside the lifeless body of the bride he married eight days ago, Albert S. Munro was found dead under circumstances that point to a mysterious double poisoning. On a dresser in the bed chamber, where the bodies were found, was a box partly filled with chocolates. This has given rise to the theory that the deaths resulted from poison.

DYSPEPTIC

Food Does You No Good

Half the time you're afraid to eat; your tongue is coated, mouth tastes bad, stomach is bloated. If you want to get well, stop using dyspepsia tablets, and go to the source of the trouble before it is too late. Strengthen your stomach, cast out the bile, regulate the bowels—do this, and dyspepsia will be no more.

For your condition the best prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are made specially for the stomach, kidneys and liver. No better remedy will be devised, for Dr. Hamilton's Pills are perfect.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS A SURE CURE

"No one could realize my sufferings from stomach trouble and indigestion. For five years I have not been well. My food did me no good, because I couldn't digest or assimilate. My doctor said constipation was at the root of my trouble, so I got Dr. Hamilton's Pills. My appetite improved, pain after eating ceased, and my food digested quickly. I am delighted with the thorough cure I derived from Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"(Signed) MARTIN E. WALKER, "Bridgewater."

Quick results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; this medicine cures all trouble in the stomach and digestive organs by removing the cause.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Toronto, Canada.—"I shall endeavor to describe to you how I felt before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I scarcely knew what it was to be well. I had awful bearing-down pains, usually before my monthly periods and suffered terribly and had to go to bed. I was not able to walk across the floor the pain was so bad. I doctored for a long time, but the doctor's treatment did not do me any good. I gave up all hopes of ever being well again until one day my husband saw the Compound advertised in the paper. He decided to get me a bottle, and I am thankful he did. I had not taken one bottle before I began to feel better, and I kept on taking it until now I am a different woman. It also helped me during maternity and childbirth. I can thoroughly recommend your Vegetable Compound to any woman who is afflicted with female troubles."—Mrs. J. M. TWEEDALE, 128 Nassau St., Toronto, Canada.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

THE WOMEN MUST GIVE ASSISTANCE

Suffragist Argument Outlined by Dr. Anna Shaw.

IS GREATEST LADY ORATOR

Englishwoman Declares Before Big Meeting in Toronto That Legislative Problems Cannot Be Solved Until Men and Women Work Side by Side For the Betterment of the Human Race.

Toronto, June 21.—Dr. Anna Shaw, of the International Council, acclaimed as the world's greatest woman orator, spoke in Massey Hall yesterday afternoon in behalf of women's movements and quite fulfilled her reputation.

Inspector J. L. Hughes presided at the opening and all the local leading lady progressives were on the platform or in the audience.

Miss May Wright Sewell sat beside Dr. Margaret Gordon on one side of the platform and Dr. Stowe Gullen and Mrs. Flora Macdonald Denison were on the other. Dr. Marjorie McMurchy and Mrs. F. H. Torrington were in the front row on the floor. There were about 1,500 women and 15 men present.

Women had been told, especially in sacred and profane writing, she said, what they should do and what they should not do. Men told them what God meant them to do, but the only way to settle that was to leave God and women, as we leave God and men, to work out the problem between them.

The idealistic was the only practical person. No man was broader or larger than the ideals that inspired him. As people approached their ideals those grew and expanded and as they followed them they grew ever nobler.

"What I aspired to be and was not, comforts me," she quoted from Browning, asserting that ideals were the greatest power in the human race.

"It is better to be able to stand for a principle than not to stand, but it is better to go ahead," was one of her well-turned points that drew applause.

A New York paper recently said that the world had got along very well so far without women, and if they went back home the world would continue to get along very well. In a vein of delicate sarcasm she indicated the belief of women that they had had a great deal to do with the getting along of the world, and, indeed, some of them found the world quite a load on their backs.

"The first social unit was not man The first social unit was the mother and child," she declared, and from this were built up the more complex units of the family, the community and so forth.

"Men are never content with the old things, and we are their daughters. But nothing worse can be said of women than that we are discontented. Thank God some of us are discontented. She followed with a noble appeal for help for the cause which would provide that little children should be at least as well born as the beasts of the field; that those who lived should live under conditions which would guarantee their integrity of character and purity of personal ideals. How could women be content with all the conditions that existed, dragging their children down?

"The things that concern us are things about which we have a right to be concerned," she said.

"So long as society comes into the home and lays its hand upon the woman's children so long is government woman's business.

"God never laid on any human being an obligation without giving also the power to carry it out."

Their home occupations have been interfered with and stopped. Women were left without occupation, and had leisure to think and study and plan for the needs of humanity which they saw. They owed it to humanity and to themselves to give out of themselves what they could. Men were praised who gave money for schools and colleges and public libraries, but woman gave her life and her power, and gave more than any man who by the toil of other men rolled up vast millions and then scattered it abroad.

She went on to speak of some of the aims of the women's council.

"We are here to learn that a person may not speak our language and yet be human," was one remark.

"Woman is one-half of the divine heart and one-half of the divine brain," she declared, and as God gave them intellect and character so men and women must work together, brain to brain and heart to heart.

"None of the things there were seeking," she concluded, "would come until woman participated in public affairs."

RHEUMATISM IN THE SYSTEM

SIX YEARS CURED IN SIX DAYS

TO MFRS. "NERVILINE."

"The suffering I endured for six years with Rheumatism is beyond description. Every time I was exposed to cold or dampness meant that I had to go to bed. My muscles stiffened, my joints swelled, and any attempt at exertion brought on excruciating twinges. The pain shifted from one part to another and I was scarcely ever free from misery and sleeplessness. I took all kinds of liquid medicines, but they nearly all depressed my heart and I had to stop them. Then I was told of the wonderful power of Nerviline.

Nerviline

"If Nerviline had been made specially for my case it couldn't have been more successful. It sank right into the core of the painful part, gave me ease, allowed me to sleep, gave me the use of my arms and limbs—in fact, made a new man of me. I urge all Rheumatics to use 'Nerviline.'

A. E. TRAYONER.
"Justice of the Peace, Lancaster."

The most wonderful pain-subduing substances in the world are in Nerviline—that's why it penetrates so quickly, why it instantly cures pain that other remedies can't even relieve. You'll be surprised how quickly sciatica, lumbago, or rheumatism are cured by Nerviline—seems almost magical the way it will cure a cold or sore throat. When the chest is sore and it hurts to draw a long breath, one rubbing with Nerviline is sufficient. So highly valued is Nerviline by those who use it, that many families consider it quite as good as a doctor for aches, pains, and minor ailments of every kind. Large 25c bottles are sold by all dealers.

Englishman and Author Found Drowned.

Llandrindod Wells, Wales, June 21.—The body of St. John Hankin, author and dramatist, was found yesterday in the River Rhon, near here. Mr. Hankin disappeared from a sanitorium at Llandrindod Wells two days ago. He was in ill-health and depressed, and left a letter to his wife ending with these words:

"I have found a lovely pool in a river and at the bottom I hope to find rest."

The writer said also that he was sinking into invalidism that he could not bear.

St. John Hankin, who was born at Southampton, 1869, was educated at Malvern and at Merton College, Oxford. He was engaged in literary work on The Saturday Review in 1890, and afterwards contributed to The Times and to Punch. His publications include "Lost Masterpieces," "Three Plays with Happy Endings," and several plays and translations from the French.

To Sell the Hope Diamond.

Paris, June 21.—The most important diamond sale this city has seen in many decades will take place next Thursday at the Hotel Drouot, when the famous Habib collection will be offered to amateurs and dealers. The collection was brought together by Selim Habib, a Turkish collector and merchant. The collection consists of only eight stones, but it is anticipated that the sale will realize several million francs, for it is intimated that seven of the stones formerly belonged to various crown collections of jewels, while the eighth is the celebrated Hope diamond, which he bought for $400,000 and values at twice that sum.

Wife Refused to Be Dead.

Camden, N.J., June 21.—Charles Bradley was arrested last night on a charge of giving false information to newspapers.

Bradley loved Miss Nellie Simmons of Millville, but he had a wife, from whom he was estranged, though there was no divorce. Notices of his wife's death were inserted in several Philadelphia papers. He showed them to Miss Simmons and the ceremony was to be performed Sunday after his wife's funeral.

Unfortunately for Bradley, Mrs. Bradley saw the notices, declined to be buried and caused his arrest.

Double Duty on Pulp.

Washington, June 21.—Senator Aldrich, from the committee on finance, on Saturday brought in the committee's amendment to the wood pulp paragraph, which proved to be a provision for doubling the duty on wood pulp coming from countries which undertake to prohibit the exportation of logs to the United States. The amendment was recognized as an effort to retaliate upon Canada because of that country's efforts to prevent the shipment of raw logs to the United States, and Senators generally desired an opportunity to study the subject before voting upon it.

Only Six Tenants Used Baths.

London, June 21.—The contrast between the decency and comfort of American and English artisans' dwellings has often been drawn and the Lambeth Borough Councils in an effort to raise the standard of London workers' homes erected recently forty-two houses for workingmen, each equipped with a bathroom. At the end of six months a report to the council showed that only six tenants were using the baths for proper purposes. The other thirty-six used them for the storage of coal or as receptacles for rubbish.

Cuba's Ingratitude to Spain.

Madrid, June 21.—The news that Cuba has officially declined to consider Spain's debt claim has caused a stir in official circles.

Senor Besada, the Minister of Finance, expected the claim would be settled, as he considered the 300,000,000 pesetas ($60,000,000), but a slight return for the enormous sacrifices made by Spain for Cuba's prosperity.

Operation on Glen Campbell.

Winnipeg, June 21.—Glen Campbell, M.P. for Dauphin, was yesterday morning operated upon for appendicitis.

BRIEFS FROM FAR AND WIDE

The Soo Canal was reopened on Saturday.

Much-needed rains have fallen in the West.

Forest fires in New Brunswick have started up again, fanned by a 50-mile gale.

The most serious of the northern Ontario forest fires are now under control.

Premier Asquith was cheered by both parties in the House of Commons on Saturday night.

Lady Aberdeen and a number of the members of the Women's Council visited Hamilton on Saturday.

Suffragist leaders in England contemplate a demonstration for the purpose of welcoming the homecoming visit of Mr. Asquith to King Edward.

John Sharp, who was the grand old champion long distance runner of Canada, died on Saturday, aged 72 years, after suffering for 23 years from paralysis at Kingston, Ont.

Col. Denison Speaks.

London, June 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Col. Geo. T. Denison of Toronto interviewed by The Standard, "But regarding preferential trade," said: "If the colonies—the other second-class powers—do what they can to them, build and bar the door in the face of the outside dominions who in the interests of the whole Empire, bring friendly offers to their fellow-countrymen at home, then of course our Empire will not be able to last. As yet, England has made no move to meet Canada in our efforts. Twelve years have elapsed. The kindliest reception that has been the boast of a Cabinet Minister is that they had ostracized, banged and barred the doors in our faces in Canada. We look on that as an absolutely stupid and unnecessary insult, but we see signs of a great change of opinion in England, that she may yet see the folly of her present course, that better counsels may prevail, that we may still have time to consolidate, strengthen and preserve the Empire."

British Cruiser Struck.

Dover, June 21.—A serious naval disaster was narrowly averted Saturday night when in a dense fog a Wilson liner collided with the British third-class protected cruiser Sappho off Dungeness. The blow struck by the liner was at an angle, or the cruiser probably would have been cut in two. The liner was practically undamaged and proceeded on her voyage.

The cruiser was seriously damaged, and has been beached here. She had just been commissioned for manoeuvres. She carried a crew of 270 officers and men.

When it was discovered that she was making water rapidly, the bulkheads were closed, signals were sent up and minute guns were fired. Two lifeboats from the Dungeness, aided by the Sappho boats, safely transferred 200 of the crew to the shore. The others, with their officers, remained ashore.

Engine Plunges Into Sea.

Vancouver, B.C., June 21.—The engine and tender of Great Northern train No. 374 left the tracks on the New Westminster side of the Fraser Bridge about three o'clock Saturday afternoon and plunged into the tide. Though the train was traveling slowly the engine failed to take the points at the curve, or the switch had been left open. The locomotive left the tracks and pulled the train along with it for some distance, smashing the wood work and twisting the steel rails. At the junction point of the tracks to New Westminster and Vancouver, the immersion occurred. There the water is deep and no trace of the engine can be seen.

George Zigweid, the engineer, and the fireman, who is an extra man, who just went on the run, and whose name is unknown to the trainmen, were drowned.

Girl Asphyxiated in New York.

New York, June 21.—The body of the young woman found in the trunk in the room of Leon Ching, a Chinaman, was identified at the morgue last night by Paul Sigel as that of his daughter Elsie. Her death is still a mystery.

Nine Horses Destroyed.

Virden, Man., June 21.—During a heavy electrical storm yesterday the barn of C. Cook, farmer, south of here, was struck by lightning and destroyed, together with nine head of horses.

Dined With the King.

London, June 21.—Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, dined with King Edward Saturday evening.

Mr. H. C. Duff, B.S.A., Delivers An Interesting Address At The Farmers' Institute Meeting

Strong List of Officers and Directors Elected—Much Enthusiasm Was Shown, Although the Attendance Was Not Large.

THE NEW DEPARTMENT

If the number of farmers in attendance at their annual meeting on Saturday were a just criterion of the future of the Institute, the prospects for successful work by the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute would be near the vanishing point. Enough members, however, were in attendance to form a quorum, and what they lacked in numbers was made up in interest and enthusiasm for the work in hand. Mr. Chas. C. Nixon, editor of "Far mand Dairy" was present, and gave some valuable suggestions. Mr. H. C. Duff, the newly appointed teacher of the Agricultural Department at Norwood, also gave a short address. Mr. J. Telford, of Bridgenorth, occupied the chair. After the usual routine of business, officers for the ensuing year were elected. Mr. Telford, who, for the past three years, has acted as President, expressed his desire to retire. The elections resulted as follows: Mr. John Garbutt, Smith Township, President; Mr. T. D. Young, Vice-President, Mr. Wm. Collins, re-elected Secretary.

The President, Vice-President and Secretary were appointed to nominate a Board of Directors.

The old Board of Directors were re-elected, with the addition of several younger men, whom it was thought, would prove more energetic in the work of the Institute. They are as follows: J. H. Garbutt, President, Peterborough; T. D. Young, Vice-President, Peterborough; Wm. Collins, Sec.-Treas., Peterborough.

Directors—J. N. Telford, Bridgenorth; T. T. Milburn, Peterborough; Alex. McGregor, Peterborough; G. W. Mann, Bridgenorth; Fred McKee, Selwyn; John McConkey, Selwyn; T. J. Cullen, Lakefield; H. C. Garbutt, Lakefield; C. E. Moore, Peterborough; Robt. Shaw, Lakehurst; Archibald Wilson, Lakehurst; Henry Coons, Lakehurst; J. K. Galvin, Ennismore; John Flood, Ennismore; David Crough, Ennismore; John Brown, Springville; T. M. Hunter, Peterborough; R. Hanbridge, Peterborough; S. Deyell, Peterborough; Sandy Matchett, Peterborough; Robt. Chambers, Peterborough; W. B. Stewart, Peterborough; C. C. Nixon, Peterborough; E. M. Elliott, Peterborough; E. A. Fitzgerald, Peterborough; R. H. Leary, Peterborough; John Riddell, Jos. Bernard.

It was decided to ask the Department for speakers to hold regular meetings at Ennismore and Lakefield one day each next winter. Also three days each for the supplementary meetings, to be held at Stewart's Hall, Otonabee, 4th line, Smith Hall, and at Peterborough, an afternoon meeting, and in the evening at North Monaghan town hall.

Norwood Department of Agriculture.

In addressing the meeting, Mr. H. C. Duff, B.S.A., who has been appointed to take charge of the new District Department of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, that is located at Norwood, congratulated the farmers of West Peterborough upon the great opportunities that laid at their very door for successful Institute work. They were particularly fortunate in having Farm and Dairy and the Canadian Horticulturist located in Peterborough, inasmuch, as the editors of these papers and other members of the staff were available as speakers. Mr. Duff, speaking of the Department at Norwood, said that his work was not confined by any means to that district. West Peterborough would not be left out in the cold, as the work was intended to cover the whole county. An office is being opened in Norwood and in connection with it a reading room in which will be kept agricultural papers, bulletins, and magazines for the benefit of any choosing to use them. The reading room will be fitted out comfortably and will be used also as a meeting place for Farmers' Institutes and directors of Fall Fairs, and for holding the Farmers' Club, which will be organized. Mr. Duff outlined how he could be of assistance to the farmers in addition to the work that would be carried on in the High Schol at Norwod. Greatest of all perhaps would be the assistance he could give in connection with drainage problems. Farmers wishing to drain low lying lands upon which it would be difficult to decide the fall, should make application to Mr. Duff, at Norwood, to have a survey made. This work will be done free of cost.

H. C. DUFF, B.S.A.,
In Charge of the District Department of Agriculture at Norwood, Who Delivered an Address at the Farmers' Institute Meeting on Saturday.

A Course in Agriculture.

It is intended to put on a two-year course in Agriculture at the Norwood High School. Mr. Duff outlined the work that would be taken up in this course. It was pointed out how the public school does not fit a boy for farming, nor does the course in the high school. Few of the boys that attend a high school ever return to the farm. It was evident that something was radically wrong. In the public school, pupils were taught the definiition of relative pronouns, etc. They were obliged to familiarize themselves with the rivers of every little country in the world. They learned the difference between a moraine and a glacier, but not one of them was taught the difference between a head of wheat and a head of barley. They studied and learned about the battle which brought about Napoleon's Waterloo, but were not taught how to bring about the codling worm's waterloo. After explaining the economic value of the course offered, Mr. Duff said that calendars outlining the course in full were now ready and could be obtained on opplication to the Department at Norwood. The course is given free, the only cost being that of board, which can be had at a comparatively low rate in Norwood. He hoped that many from West Peterborough would avail themselves of the opportunities brough before them by the inauguration of this course in agriculture in the county of Peterborough.

CITY SHOULD OPERATE THE BURLEIGH FALLS POWER

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir:—It has been published in the press of your City that the Central Ontario Power Company, Limited, have offered to contract to deliver power to the City of Peterborough at $7.60 per horse power. The Company have not done so. Engineer estimates have been furnished which show that the City can purchase Burleigh Falls Water Power, develop, transmit and transform and have the same ready for distribution for that marvellously low figure $7.60 for 24 horse power per annum.

No private company could do this. No private company can operate on any other basis than that of making reasonable profits for its shareholders; and a private company operating Burleigh Falls Power at the cost estimated to Peterborough even with guaranteed bonds would have to provide for seven per cent. dividend on capital stock and at least 4½ per cent. on bonds which would mean $5,000.00 in interest charges over 4 per cent. which the City would have to pay. A private company would also have to pay taxes, and the City would not. The tax item alone cost the Fenelon Falls and Lindsay plant $2.00 per horse power per annum. A private company would also have to provide for president's and director's remuneration, office expenses, etc.

The iCty can purchase, develop and operate Burleigh Power at an annual saving of about $14,000 as compared with a private Company—a saving of about $4.00 per horse power per annum.

What this would amount to in advantage to the City is not to be measured by these figures of $14,000 per annum, considerable as they may be.

In fact the advantage to the City of being able to offer to industries the cheapest power in Canada cannot be estimated.

Yours truly,
R. J. McLAUGHLIN.

Joint Annual Excursion Of Lawyers And Doctors

This year, secundum more, the lawyers and leeches of the city join issue for their annual excursion down the romantic reaches of the river and Rice Lake. This professional function is this year under the jurisdiction of the desciples of Blackstone and the Aesculapians are their guests. The date of the annual break-away from pleadings and pills is Tuesday, June 29th. The steamer Water Lily will leave the Wolfe street wharf at 1:30 and the Street Car wharf at 2 o'clock, and ho for Gore's Landing. It is to be understood that no one is allowed to board the steamer on this occasion without tickets.

Human Life Increased BY FOURTEEN YEARS

Longer life is due to better understanding of Nature's Laws and use of such medicines as DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

During the last century the average life of man has increased by about four years, Insurance statistics prove this.

What is the reason?

People are learning to take better care of their health and to follow the laws of sanitation and hygiene.

The first law of health and the most important calls for "Daily movement of the bowels."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have helped to prolong the life of many because they have enabled them to follow this first law of health.

A torpid, sluggish condition of the liver and kidneys is certain to bring constipation of the bowels, clogging of the digestive and excretory systems, poisoning of the blood and give rise to the most dreadfully painful and fatal of diseases.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills purify the blood and cleanse the system as no other treatment can because of their unique and combined action on the filtering and secretory organs—the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Mrs. E. Morrow, Bracebridge., Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation of the bowels and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They not only relieved the trouble but have entirely cured the headaches from which I used to suffer, and have improved my health in a general way."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose; 25c a box; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WEDDING BELLS

JEWELL—BICKELL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening last at eight o'clock at the home of Mr. R. H. Bickell in Smith, when his daughter, Miss Ella, was united in marriage to Mr. Trueman Jewell, of Lakefield. The ceremony was performed in the beautifully decorated drawing room beneath an arch of evergreens in the presence of over one hundred guests Rev. Mr. Bedford, of Lakefield, being the officiating clergyman The bride, who was given away by her father, entered the drawing room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the bride's cousin, Mrs. Girven. Six little ribbon girls held ribbon marking off the path of the bridal party. The bride looked charming in a gown of cream net over taffeta. She wore the conventional bridal veil and carried cream roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Roxie Bickell, who looked very pretty in white mulle with trimmings of insertion. She carried pink carnations. The ribbon girls were Misses Lillian Bickell, Ollie Jary, Mabel Bickell, Vera Bottrill, Beatrice Bickell and Murial Boyce. Three were attired in white and three in pale blue. The groom was supported by Mr. Thos. Isbister, of Lakefield.

After the ceremony and hearty congratulations had been bestowed upon the young couple, the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold bracelet, to the bridesmand, a sunburst of pearls, and to the pianiste, a metalized carnation hat pin, and to the groomsman, a neck tie pin.

Mr. and Mrs. Jewell are residin in Lakefield. Mrs. Jewell will be at home to her friends after July 1st.

LUMBER DRIVES ON THE WAY DOWN FROM THE LIMITS

The first consignment of raw material for this year's lumber supply has almost reached the city, by way of the Otonabee. The Peterborough Lumber Company's drive of logs is scattered from their mill to the waterworks dam. The rear guard is camped on the Douro side, opposite the pumping station, and in a few days will have all the straggling timber garnered in at the Company's boom in Little Lake. At present the water level between the Waterworks dam and the Auburn dam is rather low for driving, but will likely be raised to float off the logs which are lodged on the shoals.

PREVENTION IS WORTH WHILE.

When you consider the risk to life, the expense, the anxiety which is involved in an attack of appendicitis and a surgical operation, it is certainly worth while to avoid it by keeping the liver and bowels regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Doctors are now unanimously of the opinion that appendicitis comes from a neglect to keep the liver and bowels in a healthful condition.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP COLLEGIATE TEAM ENTERTAINED BY THEIR PRINCIPAL AT A BANQUET

Form 2B and the Athletic Association Were the Guests of Mr. H. R. H. Kenner Friday Evening—A Most Enjoyable Affair.

ENCOURAGING SPORTS.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate Institute was the host at an enjoyable little banquet Friday evening at Hooper's Palm Parlours, to the members of Form 2B, champions of the Collegiate Inter-Form League, the officers of the Athletic Association and the umpiring staff of the League. The occasion was one of thorough enjoyment to everyone present, and should do much to cement the good feeling and good fellowship existing in the Institute between teacher and pupil. Mr. Kenner is a strong believer in the beneficial effect of athletics and during the past year has done everything in his power to stimulate a healthy interest in amateur sport among the students of the Collegiate. The record of the students during the year shows the success of his efforts. In rugby, hockey and baseball the Collegiate pupils have greatly distinguished themselves. They have benefitted by the exercise and the Collegiate has gained by the esprit de corps and love love of "alma mater" that has been developed.

Friday night's affair was a fitting climax to the season and Mr. Kenner's hospitality was thoroughly appreciated.

A dainty supper, admirably served, was done ample justice to, after which a brief toast list was honoured in an informal manner.

Mr. Kenner, who acted as chairman, proposed the health of the Athletic Association in so doing thanking the members for the fine work they had done during the year and stating that he was strongly in favour of athletics in the schools. He regretted that in building the new Collegiate it had not been placed forward so that there would have been a splendid athletic grounds in the rear.

Harry Hall, President, and Max Dobbin, Vice-President of the Association replied to the toast referring to the success of the season and thanking the members of the Association, the staff, and the pupils of the school, for the interest shown, and the help given in the work.

Mr. J. H. Adams proposed the toast to "The Champions." He referred to the splendid success of the school's rugby, hockey and baseball teams and complimented the boys not only on their success but also on the sportsmanlike way in which they played. Mr. Adams gave the pupils some good advice as to their conduct towards their opponents and regretted that the spirit of win in any way was becoming so prevalent in sport.

MR. H. R. H. KENNER,
Principal of the Collegiate Institute, a warm friend of athletics, who entertained the School Baseball Champions at a delightful little banquet Friday night.

The toast was replied to on behalf of Form 2B by W. Gibson, captain of the team, Douglas Layfield and George Minorgan, who thanked the gathering for the manner in which the toast had been honoured.

Mr. Kenner proposed the toast to the umpires which was responded to by Messrs F. J. Petit and F. D. Craig.

Mr. Petit spoke of the enjoyment that he had in connection with athletics since coming to Peterborough and spoke of the past year as the most pleasant of his life.

Before the enjoyable occasion was brought to a close Mr. Petit expressed the thanks of those present to Mr. Kenner for his hospitality and for the interest that he had always taken in athletics.

Mr. Kenner in reply gave some very interesting reminiscences of baseball as it was at the time in which he was actively engaged in the sport, his descriptions being greatly enjoyed by the audience, who were all ball fans of course. In conclusion Mr. Kenner hoped that the boys would have a very pleasant vacation.

SOME INFORMATION ABOUT THE NORMAL SCHOOL STAFF RECORD OF THE TEACHERS

The Peterborough Normal School Review gives some information about the members of the staff, that should be read with interest:

D. Walker, B. A.

Principal and teacher of mathematics and history of education, was born in Kent County and received his early education in the public schools of that county. He then attended the High School at Chatham, now the Chatham Collegiate Institute.

After teaching in the public schools of Kent County for four years, Mr. Walker returned to the Collegiate Institute and matriculated in '87. In the fall of that year he entered Toronto University, and graduated in Department of Mathematics in '91. He attended the School of Pedagogy in Toronto the following term, and on graduating went to Deseronto High School as mathematical master, where he remained for two and one-half years. From Deseronto Mr. Walker went to Brockville as mathematical master in the Collegiate Institute there. He held this position until '97, when he resigned to accept the position of Inspector of Public Schools of the City of Peterborough. In 1907 he went to the Normal School at London, where he taught mathematics, and on leaving London assumed the duties of Principal of the Peterborough Normal School, on its opening in 1908.

H. G. Park, B.A., D. Paed.

Teacher of science of education, composition, literature and reading, obtained his High School education at Uxbridge, Ontario, under the man who is now Professor Dale. He was trained with a view to becoming a classical specialist.

Dr. Park taught four years in the public schools of the counties of York and Ontario.

He then took a course at Toronto University and graduated with honours in mental and moral science, during the time when the late Prof. Young had charge of that department.

Dr. Park taught in St. Mary's and Hamilton Collegiate Institutes, being on the training staff of the latter institute. He was principal of the High school at Uxbridge for over twenty years, during which time he took the regular university examinations necessary to qualify as classical specialist, and as Bachelor and Doctor of Pedagogy.

S. J. Keyes, B.A., B. Paed.

Teacher of school management and methods in history, grammar and spelling, is a native of Inkerman, Dundas County. He obtained his early education at Iroquois High School and Morrisburg Collegiate Institute. After teaching in rural schools in Dundas County for two years he attended Normal School at Ottawa and School of Pedagogy at Toronto, securing honour certificates in each. In 1902 he graduated from Queen's University as Bachelor of Arts, and in 1908 as Bachelor of Pedagogy. He has had long experience in Public and Training School work, having taught in the District Training School at Gore Bay for three years, in the Model School at Vankleek Hill for four years, and in the Model School at Cornwall for seven years. During the last four years of his engagement at Cornwall he was Supervisor of the Public Schools and instructor in manual training.

G. A. Cornish, B.A.,

Teacher of science, is a native of Courtright, Lambton County. He obtained his high school education at Chatham Collegiate Institute. After teaching in Tupperville, Bothwell, and Chatham public schools for four years he entered Toronto University as an honour natural science student. Here he won three scholarships—the Edward Blake Scholarship, the Alexander T. Fulton scholarship, and the Daniel Wilson scholarship, and the standing first in his class in first-class honours in each of the four years. From the year nineteen hundred to the year nineteen hundred and two, he took a post graduate at Toronto University. He taught in Niagara Falls and Lindsay Collegiate Institutes as Science Master from nineteen hundred and two until nineteen hundred and eight.

A. N. Scarrow,

Our manual training teacher, after graduating from Collingwood Collegiate Institute, attended the University of Toronto and subsequently the School of Pedagogy, Toronto. He engaged in public school work for sixteen years, being Principal at Bruce Mines, Cookstown, Stayner, and at Bradford Model School, where he taught very successfully.

Mr. Scarrow received his training in manual work at Guelph McDonald College, from which he graduated in 1907 as a specialist. Although his experience in teaching this subject is somewhat limited, yet his work at Owen Sound Collegiate Institute and that with us at the Normal School have amply proved his ability in this direction.

J. A. McKens.

Our teacher of penmanship and commercial work, received his high school education at Parkhill. After teaching public school successfully for three years, he abandoned this phase of his profession and attended business college in London. Since then he has had a very successful career teaching as Principal or Associate Principal in Wingham and Orangeville, and at present in Peterborough Business College.

Miss Ethel M. Steinhoff,

Teacher of Household Science, is a graduate of the Collegiate Institute, Stratford and Normal School at London. She taught public school very successfully before entering the McDonald Institute at Guelph, where she pursued a special course in household science. After this she taught for some time, her special subject in the Ingersoll schools.

Miss Jessie McRae

The Art teacher, is the holder of a professional first-class certificate, and has specialized in Art, under the instructor of this suject at Albert College.

Miss Helen Davies.

Teacher of music, is an honour graduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and an honour licentiate of music of the University of Toronto. Miss Davies' reputation as a soprano soloist, has spread throughout the Province and on different occasions she has taken a leading part in the National Chorus, with the Victor Herbert Orchestra, and New York Symphony, Walter Damrosch, Conductor.

Miss Ida Coventry,

Teacher of calisthenics, obtained her training in physical culture, in Toronto, at Havergal College, and at the School of Physical Training. After teaching a year in Toronto, she attended the Chatauqua Summer School. For the last three years she has been in Peterborough, at the Y. W. C. A., where her work has been very successful.

Miss Bessie Mowry,

The Secretary, is a graduate of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, Commercial Department, and Peterborough Business College.

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE TO THE LOCAL LODGES OF MASONS

Delivered by Rev. J. R. Webb at Murray Street Baptist Church Yesterday Afternoon — Urged Men To Be Upright and Streng in Character.

A SPLENDID SERVICE

The annual sermon to the members of Peterborough and Corinthian Lodges A. F. and A. M. was preached yesterday afternoon at the Murray St. Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb. It was a powerful and inspiring discourse impressing upon men the desirability of having strong, upright characters, of being pillars in the Temple of God.

The members assembled at their hall at 3:30 o'clock and marched to the church where they occupied seats in the centre row. A printed form of service was followed, the visiting brethren joining heartily in the singing of the hymns. The choir sang the anthem, "Great and Marvelous," and at the conclusion of the offertory, Mrs. Miller sang a solo in splendid voice.

The Sermon

Rev. Mr. Webb chose two texts on which he based his remarks, the first one being found in the first Kings, the twenty-second verse of the seventh chapter "and upon the top of the pillars was lily work," and the second one being part of the twelfth verse of the third chapter of St. John's Revelation, "Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the Temple of God and he shall go no more out; and I will write upon him the name of God." In referring to the first text the reverend gentleman spoke of the three great powers required by Solomon in the building of the temple. When the construction of the massive pillars and all things were finished, the work was well done. The words of the second text were spoken by St. John on the lonely Isle of Patmos. Looking at the two texts the speaker stated that there were three features of the pillar that a man should manifest in his life.

The first of these was uprightness. Let the pillar be out of the perpendicular and it fell. There were often, he said, unworthy elements creeping into sacred places but he hoped that the Masons would always keep outside their courts anything that did not pertain to virtue and temperance. Their individual life should be for the welfare of the community and the betterment of humanity.

The second feature of the pillar which he pointed out was strength. They should be pillars of strength and of all men, the speaker said, the Masons should be pillars in God's Church. "Your lives should be constructive and not destructive, to build up and not to pull down," said the reverend gentleman. He was glad that the Masons rejoiced in each other's success and that there were no petty jealousies. The eternality of their principles was as the lily work upon the pillar. Founded upon such a basis as they were, they would endure forever.

In conclusion he hoped that they would submit their lives to God and that would be pillars in His Church.

COULD NOT KEEP THIS SECRET

"Six months ago I was cured of piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment," writes Mrs. G. A. Swayze, Copenhagen, Elgin Co., Ont. "I had been afflicted for over thirty years and tried all sorts of treatments in vain, so I was surprised and delighted to be cured. I don't care for publicity but would like to tell every one suffering from piles about Dr. Chase's Ointment."

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE MAKE A TOUR OF INSPECTION

Friday evening the members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee accompanied by Fire Chief Howard and City Clerk Armstrong made a tour of the city for the purpose of inspecting the lights, rearranging them and making recommendations. As the trip took up the evening there was no time for consideration of what had been done and hence no recommendations were made but a meeting will be held in the near future when the matter will be fully discussed and likely some changes will be made.

Cold Weather Interfered With Attendance At Band Concert

The cold weather materially interfered with the attendance at the weekly band concert given by the 57th Regiment Band in Victoria Park Friday night but in spite of the chilling breeze there was a large crowd present and the music of the band was greatly enjoyed. The new Scottish selection "Robert Bruce," a compilation of a large number of old Scottish airs was most favourably received while the catchy patrol "Old Settlers on Parade" had to be encored.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN THE KELLY BLOCK

Corner of Rubidge and Sherbrooke Street —Put on a More Business Appearance.

The Kelly Block, on the corner of Rubidge and Sherbroke Sts., which have been undergoing complete changes for some time past, is now nearly complete.

The corner store, occupied by Mr. T. J. Donoghue, as a grocery, has been enlarged nearly one-half, and what was formerly used as a dwelling in connection with the store, has been remodelled, and much improved. It has been fitted with latest modern conveniences—a new cement floor laid in a cellar, a new floor in the store, and a new Kersey furnace installed.

A new addition has also been added to the north wing, which is now occupied as a first-class meat store by Mr. Robt. Dale, the old wooden structure having been moved back to the rear. Mr. Dale's new shop is quite up-to-date in every respect. A large Eureka refrigerator has been built in the shop, with glass display windows; also new scales, meat hooks, and a new office, neatly fitted up.

TABLET WAS DEDICATED

During the morning service at St. Luke's yesterday a beautiful bronze tablet was dedicated to the memory of the late Adam Dawson. The tablet is of bronze, on top of which is a crown of blue enamel. The capital letters are done in red and the small ones in black. It was made by the Pritchard Andrews Co. of Ottawa.

The tablet was unveiled by Ald. Turner, while Rev. Dr. Langfeldt dedicated it, reciting a part of the service for the burial of the dead.

The tablet bears the following inscription:

To the Greater Glory of God, and in loving memory of Adam Dawson, who died June 18, '97. This tablet is erected by his widow and family "until the day break and the shadows flee away."

R.I.P.

THE HOME PHYSICIAN

Needs Help to Keep People Well.

Ninety-nine per cent. of the ordinary sicknesses are caused by the bowels, the kidneys or the skin.

As you know, these organs are the great guardians of the human system, taking their impurities from the blood and pass these from the body. If the bowels, bowels or skin weaken or get clogged up or fail to do their regular work—then the blood becomes laden with impurities and poisoned. If it be the fault of the bowels, then the kidneys are blocked by overwork and there is constant pain in the back, dizziness, neuralgia, headaches and rheumatism. If it be the fault of the bowels, the blood is poisoned, the skin and kidneys weakened, the stomach upset—and, of course, there is Constipation and Biliousness.

How easy it is, then, to be free of all these troubles!

"Fruit-a-tives" is not merely a remedy for any one of these troubles but a cure for all. "Fruit-a-tives" acts on the skin, the liver, and the kidneys. "Fruit-a-tives" keeps all these great organs well and strong, and thus insures the blood being always pure and rich. With "Fruit-a-tives" in the house to take at the first sign of not feeling well, you need not have a day's sickness. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

RIOTS AT THE PARIS RACE TRACK

Great Parisian Sporting Event Spoiled by Strikers.

BOYS SEIZE THE HORSES

Contesting Animals Are Ambushed and Driven Back to the Stables by Striking Stable Boys—Crowds in Frenzy Attack the Riders and Try to Burn Down the Stands —The Police Restored Order.

Paris, June 21.—An occurrence unprecedented in the history of the French turf almost prevented the running of the grand steeplechase of Paris yesterday, at the Auteuil course. The meeting was disorganized and a serious riot took place, in which several persons were injured and many arrests were made.

Inspired and aided, it is stated, by Pataud and other revolutionary labor leaders, 40 militant members of the Stable Boys' Union, which was organized at the time of the postal strike, armed with revolvers, ambushed the vans conveying the horses from Maisons Laffite, their training quarters, cut the traces and forced them back to the stables.

In the meantime, owing to the delay in getting on the events, the greatest excitement prevailed at the race-track. It was a long time before the cause of the non-appearance of the horses became known, but finally a magistrate, and a force of police set off on automobiles to the scene of the trouble, where they succeeded in putting the stable boys to flight and rescuing the racers.

It seemed at first as though the meeting would have to be abandoned and President Fallieres, who is always present on the occasion of the grand steeplechase, was advised by telephone not to come to the track. Eventually, however, the call was given for the first race. This was more than two hours after the scheduled time and the crowds, already exasperated from waiting, became violent when a single horse presented itself for a walkover in the first event. Jockey and horse were forced to beat a hasty retreat to the paddock, as the crowd swarmed on the track and refused to permit the jockey to take his mount over the course.

The second event was for army officers, riding their own horses. For some reason or other, the crowds became frenzied when several officers cantered out for the start. The officers were pelted with missiles of various kinds and two were quite severely injured. The barriers guarding the course were broken down and hundreds of men invaded the track, several of them being ridden down and injured by the wildly excited horses.

About the same time the booths and stands were set on fire, but fortunately reinforcements of police, troops and firemen, who had been hastily summoned, arrived in time to clear the track and extinguish the flames. The police made a large number of arrests, and the remainder of the program was carried out in comparative quiet.

Arrested for Contempt.

Winnipeg, June 21.—Louis James, husband of the woman murdered on Arlington street some weeks ago, was arrested Saturday, on a bench warrant, charging him with contempt of court in not answering questions put to him in the witness box last Wednesday during the hearing of the case against the demented young Barnardo lad who, though innocent, had confessed to the murder.

A Monument to Champlain.

Plattsburg, N.Y., June 21.—Miss Sarah Phillips has made a gift to the Lake Champlain commission of an acre of land on Walcour Island, near the spot where the Royal Savage, Benedict Arnold's flagship, was sunk by the British, for the site of a monument to Samuel de Champlain.

New Wireless Superintendent.

Ottawa, June 21.—C. P. Edwards of Montreal has been appointed to the position of superintendent of Government wireless telegraph stations. The appointment was made by the board of Civil Service Commissioners.

THE INDIANS ARE VERY RESTLESS

White Settlers on Sikeena Are Experiencing Trouble.

OLD FRICTION IS RENEWED

Natives Declare That the Arrival of Homesteaders Are Taking Their Lands and Threaten to Oust Them All. — Passengers From North Tell of Expulsion of Two Men by Armed Indians in B.C.

Prince Rupert, June 21.—Passengers arriving on the Skeena River steamer [illegible] report the existence of serious trouble among the Indians at the head waters of the Skeena River, in the country around Hazelton, and due to occupying districts, particularly in Kispiox Valley where Indians are alleged to have threatened to take the law into their own hands, if their grievances are not quickly adjusted, and rid the whole country of the hated whites.

For some years there has been more or less friction there between the Indians and new settlers, the Indians resenting their intrusion and claiming the whites are settling on land that belonged to them, and was theirs by right of priority.

"Thirty years ago," said an old-timer just returned from the district, "land was set aside for different tribes, and [illegible] reserves given to Indians. At that time there was no whites in the country to speak of, and although the reserves were well defined, there was no particular reason for keeping Indians on the reserves. Agitators have been at work amongst them, and last winter an outbreak was narrowly averted by the Indian agent producing telegrams promising that a commission from Ottawa would arrive by the first steamer in May, and that all their grievances would be amicably settled. No commission has arrived yet.

"At that time 'Big Frank,' of their braves, was arrested for some offence and thrown into jail at Hazelton. Reports of his arrest soon spread amongst the tribes, and they were quickly up in arms. Runners brought in word to Hazelton that Indians were gathering for an attack upon the town, and preparations were at once begun to defend the place and protect the handful of whites residing there during the winter months. Rifle pits were dug, barricades hastily erected and all made ready for a siege. Two days later 'Big Frank' broke jail. While making his way back to the reserve, it is said, he met his people marching on Hazelton, but a council of war was held and he succeeded in persuading them to return to the reserve."

At the ferry on Kispiox River, a few miles above Hazelton, notices written by Indians have been posted on trees near the ferry crossing, forbidding whites from crossing the river, and the Indian ferryman, who has run of the boat for years, has withdrawn. Reports have also reached here that two white settlers near Kitwanga, on the same river, have been driven from their land and forced to quit the country by Indians armed with rifles from the reserve on that point. Men were threatened with shooting, if they returned.

Woman Fatally Burned.

North Bay, June 21.—Mrs. David Prevost, widow, 32 years old, lost her life here yesterday as a result of burns received from an exploding kerosene lamp used for heating curling tongs. She was preparing for church yesterday at the home of a relative, Moses Guinette, when an explosion occurred.

Mrs. Prevost's husband kept the Balmoral Hotel, Ottawa, for a number of years, and died two months ago. Five children survive. The body was taken to Ottawa.

Bryce Enemy of Typewriter.

Washington, D.C., June 21.—Ambassador Bryce, representative of Great Britain at Washington, probably dislikes dictating to a stenographer more than any other member of the diplomatic corps. Mr. Bryce writes most of his letters by hand, and then summons a typewriter to have them "typed." His habit of using his pen was installed before the day of the typewriter, and Mr. Bryce has held aloof from the entitlements of the machine writer.

Honeymoon In Balloon.

Pittsfield, Mass., June 21.—Floating off up through cloudland in the balloon Pittsfield shortly after midnight yesterday morning, Roger Noble Burnham, a sculptor, and Harvard '99 man, of Brookline, and his bride, who was Eleanor Howard Waring, an author, also of Brookline, began an aerial honeymoon, while 5,000 people sent up their shouts of good will and happiness into the dark night.

Two Killed In Trolley Crash.

Michigan City, Ind., June 21.—Two people, one a motorman and one unidentified, were killed and 15 injured Saturday night, when two trains collided on the South Shore Electric Railroad at Dune Park, eight miles west of this city.

A Rich Cargo.

Halifax, June 21.—The sealing schooner Viliage Bell arrived from the south Atlantic yesterday, after ten months' voyage, during which time her crew captured 1,709 seals, the skins of which are valued at $45,000.

Painter Is Killed.

Toronto, June 21.—William Parrington, a painter, who lived with his mother at 1,067 Shaw street, was fatally injured by falling from a ladder on Saturday afternoon and died at noon Sunday in Grace Hospital.

Weekly Day Off For Police.

London, June 21.—The Government has decided to adopt the recommendation of a select committee and grant the London police a weekly, instead of a fortnightly, day of rest. This means the addition of 1,600 new men and an extra penny in the pound in the county rate.

A Modern Heating System for the Old Home

The old folks in the old home don't have to put up with the inconveniences of the old-style heating systems. They, too, can have the healthful, evenly distributed warmth produced by the

Daisy Hot Water Boiler & King Radiators

Your property will gain greatly in value if you install this modern heating system. It will be a better, more comfortable house to live in—an easier house to rent, and will bring you a bigger price when you want to sell.

Putting a Daisy Boiler and King Radiators into an old house means little or no inconvenience to those who are living in it.

Write us for approximate cost of putting this modern hot water heating system in your home.

Think of the saving of money it will mean to you—15 to 30% less coal—no dust and dirt to ruin carpets and furniture—no repair bills—no worry and work.

Think also what it means to you in health and comfort—clean, pure warmth in every part of the house—no disagreeable gases or dust to breathe—no draughts or cold halls.

Daisy Boilers are designed to get all the heat out of the coal they burn. The fire-pot is large and deep, with corrugated sides, so no dead ashes gather around the fire. The flues are so proportioned that the combustion of gases commenced in the fire-pot, is completed before they escape to the chimney.

The large waterways permit the heated water to circulate rapidly throughout the system.

King Radiators are built of the best material and designed to give the greatest possible radiating surface in a compact space. They lend themselves readily to any style of room decoration.

Each section of each King Radiator is tested to stand one hundred pounds pressure. The sections are then joined by right-and-left screw nipples and again tested. These severe tests ensure them to be absolutely non-leakable.

Write for our booklet, "Comfortable Homes." It tells the whole story. We'll gladly send you a copy free.

Drowning Near Hespeler.

Hespeler, June 21.—A drowning occurred at three o'clock yesterday afternoon at Paslinch Lake, two miles from Hespeler.

Nelson Dickie, 18 years of age, who was out in a canoe along with three others boys. While they were making for the island about a quarter of a mile from the mainland, and when within fifty yards of the island, the canoe was upset. The canoe rolled over and over. The three boys managed to hang on, but Dickie went down in twelve feet of water. The body was recovered last night.

A party of Preston boys saved the other lads.

Dickie was the support of his widowed mother. Much sympathy is felt for her.

Fire In Windsor Boarding-House.

Windsor, June 21.—Boarders at J. B. Hughes' house on Goyeau street were compelled to flee in scanty attire when a fire broke out early Saturday morning. One man remained so long in his room after the alarm that it was necessary to break in the door to get him to leave. He was intent upon completing an elaborate toilet, and thought he had plenty of time. The house was destroyed.

A WOMAN'S BACK WAS NOT MADE TO ACHE.

Thousands of Women Suffer Untold Misery Every Day With Aching Backs That Really Have No Business To Ache.

Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Backaches come from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause.

But they can't help it. If some work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered that they get out of order.

Backache is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you in the same way as they have cured thousands of others.

SEVEN YEARS IN BAD HEALTH.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

T. A. S. BEAT STRATHCONAS BY BUNCHING THEIR HITS WITH ERROR'S—WEST ENDS NOSED OUT PARK STREET

Abstainers Give High Commissioners Third Consecutive Defeat Saturday Afternoon in a Game in Which Lively Batting Was a Feature—West Ends and Park Street Had a See-Saw Battle and it Was in Doubt Until The Last Innings.

Riverside Park, June 19.—The best crowd of the season saw the City League double-header here this afternoon. The T.A.S. defeated the Strathconas in the first game by 11 to 6, and the West Ends nosed out Park St. A.C. in the second by 9 to 8. The weather was perfect, but a strong wind made things miserable for the fielders and carried many fly balls away.

The T.A.S. bunched their hits with the Straths' errors in the first game and piled up an early lead that could not be overcome. Hickey was sent in for the Straths and he was no mystery to the Abstainers, while the support he got was not gilt-edged, and as a result the T.A.S. were ahead ten to one when he was taken out at the end of the fourth. Ryan, who succeeded him, had the T.A.S. guessing for the rest of the game, allowing but four scattered hits and one run. Quinlan was a puzzle to the Straths until the fifth when a batting rally sent three runs across and from that stage on the game was much closer and more interesting. In fact, the Straths out-scored their opponents five to one in the last five innings.

There was some lively batting, Flaherty getting a homer, Shaw a three bagger, Kendry two doubles, and O'Brien a double and two singles Both sides did snappy fielding at times, Shaw getting four nice catches in left field for the Straths.

The T.A.S. played inside ball all the way and won on their merits. Quinlan fanned no less than fourteen of the High Commissioners and gave but one walk. Outside of the fifth he was a mystery.

The play by innings follows:

First Innings—For T.A.S.—Callaghan got a life on Kendry's error. Flaherty took one in the slats. Derocher flied out to Weatherstone. Quinlan doubled, scoring Callaghan and Flaherty and incidentally winning the picture for the first three two baggers M. O'Brien singled to left and scored Quinlan, and went to second on the throw in. W. O'Brien went out Weatherstone to Heaslip. Doherty fanned.—Three runs.

For Straths—Curtis struck out. Shaw lifted one to Flaherty and Weatherstone fanned.—No runs.

by stri

Second Innings—For T. A. S.—McFadden opened by striking out. H Quinlan hit a hard one at Hickey and was safe at first. Callaghan was safe when Weatherstone dropped his fly back of second. Flaherty fanned. Derocher's grounder got away from Craig and the bases were full. Quinlan scored on a wild pitch. A. Quinlan was passed again filling the bases, but Callaghan was caught off third on a throw from Hickey.—One run.

For Straths—Craig reached first when McFadden missed his third strike, but was caught off the bag on a quick throw from Quinlan. Wettlaufer fanned. Kendry was passed, and scored on O'Brien's wild throw to second, after he had been caught off the base. Heaslip missed three. One run.

Third Innings—For T. A. S.—M O'Brien opened with a single and stole second. W. O'Brien fanned. Doherty doubled to centre scoring O'Brien. McFadden bunted nicely along first base lines and beat it out. H. Quinlan fanned, but Callaghan was walked, filling the bases. Flaherty lifted one over left field fence cleaning up the cushions. Fast fielding by Shaw held him at third, but he will likely be given a home run, as the fence is more than 235 feet from the plate. Umpire McCabe reserved his decision and kept Flaherty at third. He scored a moment latter when Heaslip dropped a throw from Kendry on Derocher's grounder. A. Quinlan fanned.—Five runs.

For Straths—Wilson and Hickey fanned and Curtis grounded out to first.—No runs.

Fourth Innings—For T. A. S.—M. O'Brien was safe on Kendry's error and went to second on a passed ball. W. O'Brien sacrificed him to third, going out, pitcher to first. Shaw made a nice catch of Doherty's fly to left, but O'Brien scored on a wild pitch after McFadden had walked. Hickey was taken out and Curtis went in to finish the innings. Corkery flying out to Shaw. One run.

For Straths—Shaw was out on a bunt to Quinlan. Weatherstone fanned. Craig beat out a hit to short and stole second and third, but Wettlaufer fanned. No runs.

Fifth Innings—Ryan now pitching for the Strathconas.

For T. A. S.—Flaherty flew out to Shaw. Derocher fanned, and A. Quinlan grounded to Kendry.—No runs.

For Straths—Kendry opened with a ringing two bagger to left centre and Heaslip slashed out a single, bringing Kendry home. Wilson lifted one to left, which Derocher dropped and Heaslip scored. Wilson reaching second, going to third on a passed ball, Ryan sacrificed neatly, Wilson scoring. Curtis was safe on Doherty's error and stole second. Shaw lifted a fly to McFadden and Curtis was caught off second, Quinlan to Callaghan.—Three runs.

Sixth Innings—M. O'Brien doubled. W. O'Brien was out, pitcher to first, Doherty singled, scoring O'Brien and went to second on a passed ball. McFadden flew out to Ryan and Curtis took care of Corkery's fly to centre.—One run.

For Straths—Weatherstone beat out a hit, and stole secand. Craig fanned. Wettlaufer was hit by pitcher. Kendry grounded to Callaghan who forced Weatherstone at third. Doherty made a nice running catch of Heaslip's foul fly.—No runs.

Seventh Innings—For T.A.S.—Callaghan flew out to Shaw. Flaherty fanned and Derocher lifted an easy one to Wilson.—No runs.

For Straths—Wilson died on a grounder to O'Brien, Quinlan covering first. Ryan grounded to O'Brien and Curtis fanned.—No runs.

Eighth Innings—For T. A. S.—A. Quinlan fanned after having had three balls called. M. O'Brien also missed three. W. O'Brien hit for two bases but Doherty grounded to Heaslip.—No runs.

For Straths—Shaw led off with a beautiful three bagger to right. Weatherstone sacrificed neatly sending Shaw over. Craig died on a grounder to Callaghan, and Wettlaufer fanned. One run.

Ninth Innings—For T. A. S.—McFadden fanned. Corkery lifted one to Ryan. Callahan beat out a bunt to third, but Flaherty grounded to the pitcher.—No runs.

For Straths—Kendry bounced a two bagger off Callaghan's shins, the ball bounding into right field. Heaslip fanned. Wilson grounded to third. Kendry scored on Quinlan's wild throw to third. O'Brien missed Quinlan's throw of Ryan's grounder, but Curtis fanned, ending the game. —One run.

Final Score—T. A. S. 11, Strathconas 6.

Second Game.

The second game was a see-saw affair all the way and was in doubt until the last innings. The pitchers had it on the batters throughout, but the support was not o fthe best and errors boosted the score. The Park Street team got an early lead, hitting Kirn hard in the second and third, but after that the West Ends pitcher had it on them. Dusty's shoots puzzled the Oldham squad for a while, but they rallied and won out after an up-hill fight. It was a good game for the spectators, although it was not perfect baseball by any means. Ted Pilling had several nice catches in right field that brought him a generous hand from the crowd.

West Ends scored in first on gifts to Gibson and Halpin and a wild pitch.

Park Street came back with two in the second, Pilling driving out a fine three-bagger, and scoring on the squeeze play, Guerin sacrificing nicely. Singles by O'Brien and Dusty sent the second run over.

In the third the Baptists added 3 more on errors by Minorgan, Kirn and King.

The West Ends got them back in their half on singles by Halpin and Carton, bunched with errors.

Dobson's error followed by Dusty's hit in the fourth gave Park Street another.

There was no further scoring until the sixth, when Carton's single and an error by Dusty, allowed the West End catcher to score.

In their half of the seventh Park Street scored on errors by King and Halpin, Dusty crossing the plate. West Ends went ahead in the seventh, getting three runs on singles, by Rose, and Dobson and errors by Crowe.

In the eighth with J. Pilling pitching for Park Street, West Ends scored another, Crowe's error and a single by Fallon being responsible.

Park Street tried hard in the ninth, sending one over on singles by McDonald and Davidson, but they could not tie the score.

TWO SEMI-FINAL GAMES PLAYED IN THE MIDLAND FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Examiner Special:

Lakefield, June 19.—Honk! Honk! Look out, here comes the big auto bus with the Havelock football team. Yes, they arrived here this afternoon after a pleasant trip from the railway town by way of Peterborough.

This evening the return game of the semi-final series of the Midland League was played here with the weather is its most pleasant mood. The Agricultural grounds were in perfect condition with the grass clipped off like a well-kept lawn. The attendance was fairly large and the enthusiasm was strong as the visitors had several rooters along, who were well trained in the art of giving praise to their favourites and annoying their opponents. The visiting eleven came up with a lead of three goals which they scored in the game at Havelock on the 11th. Even with this safe looking margin, they brought the best team that could be collected and they showed that they had been pretty well drilled by that veteran Harry Andrews.

The official in charge of the game was Mr. J. E. Sullivan, of Peterborough, and he gave entire satisfaction to both teams and kept the game clean and orderly.

At 7:10 the contest opened with the homesters having the sun and wind in their favour. The play was quite even and both forward lines cut loose with some splendid rushes and several very close shots were made. Not until three minutes before recess did a score result. After a brilliant bit of combination Lancaster got a swift one past Moore at close range and the spirits of the lads in the grey shirts went up a few degrees. This period ended with no further tally and both teams were strong and fresh.

After the resting interval our boys in blue spruced up and made the heavyweights travel right along to keep them under control. Both goals were in danger many times and several corner kicks were taken. It so happened, however, that McPherson, the visitors' outside right wing man, got an opening and made a hot cross shot which was just skimmering along the ground and deceived our "Pete." This made the score, Havelock 2 Lakfield 0, and it remained that way till the end of the session. With this demoralizing tally against them, our lightweight aggregation never let up in their pace and played the game right up to the last moment, and there was nothing "ragged" about this exhibition of football.

This game was a real friendly contest and the duties of the referee were light as his decisions were not questioned and the players acted in a gentlemanly way.

Of our own eleven it can be said that Bob. Quinlan was the smoothest and most finished player on the field. He has such an easy gait that he just seems to glide along with the ball. Meddler is a fine strong kick and has the happy faculty of picking the ball out of a scrimmage and relieving some very critical situations. Morley McDonald is a speedy little half-back and works like a beaver every minute of the game. He has absolutely no fear and checks up the big fellows with a vengeance and generally gets the ball when he goes for it.

The Havelock team is such a nicely balanced aggregation that it would be an injustice to specialize. They show the results of long experience in the game and have the "Com." down pretty fine. It will be a battle royal when they hook up with the Bowmanville experts for the League championship and it's not safe betting either way.

This is the first year that the local club has been entered in the Midland League and they are not ashamed of their showing when it is considered that some of the players are just learning the game. The boys are satisfied with the treatment accorded them by the management of the League and if all is good and well next year, this town will be represented by a fast and aggressive team that will be in the race all the way.

And the comforting part of it all is that there is a snug cash balance in the bank ready for next spring's operations. Lucky club this is!

In this evening's game the teams lined up as follows:

Havelock (2)

Goal, W. Rose; backs, H. T. Andrews, K. McKay; half backs, W. Hitchins, Dr. H. Kindred, W. McMullen; right wing, R. McPherson, T. P. Lancaster; centre, H. Mathison.

Lakefield (0)

Goal, N. A. Moore; backs, W. Ridpath, H. Dodds; half backs, M. McDonald, C. Meddler, S. Hill; right wing, J. Quinlan, B. Bench; left wing, A. Murdoff, D. Charlton; centre, E. Quinlan.

Bowmanville and Bethany Tie

Examiner Special:

Bowmanville, June 19.—At 4:45 this afternoon the local team lined up against the worthy representatives from the far-away inland burg of Bethany. The scene of the excitement was the High School grounds, where the large and enthusiastic crowd was assembled to witness the deciding game for the honours of the Midland League in the western division. The terraced lawns adjoining the school provide a splendid view point for the spectators.

The referee was Mr. W. D. Hannah, who is an official referee in one of the Toronto leagues. He is the best in the business that has been seen here for many a long day, and he puts the lid right down tight on close checking and "bodying." The players must keep strictly to football or give the other side a free kick.

The wind was rather strong for first class combination and quite frequently the machinery was suddenly put out of gear by the breeze. In spite of this interference the team work of both sides showed that they have been down to hard practice during the past week. The play was just as the score 1 to 1 would indicate and the ball coursed up and down the field as rush after rush was broken up by the stalwart backs. The contest was marked by good individual plays and there were some clever little stunts in those winding scientallating dashes which make the applause come forth with a gush. Every man was on the job for all he was worth and no criticism can be offered on the work of any of the players. Goals were what counted and one saved was as good as one made so no risks or chances were taken, whereby the opponents would gain an advantage.

As the local eleven won out last Saturday by 1 to 0, they have the round by 2 to 1. It was a pretty close shave but it's good enough for this cool weather.

It was learned by telephone tonight that Havelock has given the knock-out to everything in the far east, so that means a long journey for the green shirts next Saturday if the schedule holds good." The news has drifted down this way that the Easterners are hard hitters with an abundance of weight and now it looks like a real 45-round "go" for the honour of holding the Stratton Trophy for 1909.

The players and their positions in to-day's match were:

Bowmanville (1)

Goal, Geo. W. James (Capt.); backs, Alex. Brown, A. W. Carter; half backs, F. Werry, E. Horn, A. Smith; right wing, Dr. E. W. Bisson, C. Adams; left wing, P. Gimblett, P. Clemens; centre, Mr. Bradley,

Bethany (1)

LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT

Rev. Canon Davidson Gives an Account of the Synod Proceedings.

Yesterday morning, at St. John's Church, Rev. Canon Davidson, in lieu of the sermon, gave to the assembled parishioners a detailed report of the Synod meeting last week in Toronto.

While the discourse was of interest principally to Anglicans, the mention of the report on the Laymen's Missionary Movement is of interest to all churchmen. Canon Davidson made the statement that during his term of ministry he has never known such a remarkable working as this Laymen's movement, the enthusiasm displayed to give the Gospel, not necessarily to convert, but to place it within hearing of the entire world during the next twenty-five years.

ST. PETER'S T. A. S. ELECTS ITS NEW LIST OF OFFICERS

Arrangements are Being Completed for the Pic-nic on July 1st—Bank Report Shows That That Department is on a Flourishing Condition.

MEMBERSHIP PRIZES

At a large and enthusiastic meeting of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society held yesterday the following officers were elected:

President—J. Picard.
1st Vice-President—J. J. Duffus.
2nd Vice-President—D. Cushing.
Recording-Secretary—Jos. Maher.
Financial-Secretary—A. ehane.
Treasurer—Jos. Primeau.
Marshall—Geo. Ahearne.
Assitant Marshall—Jas. oCllins.
Guard—R. Begley.
Trustees—Geo. Ball, Jas. Drain, J. A. Sharp, W. S. Merrell aind J. McDonnell.
Delegates to the C.C.T.A.U. of A.—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.

Twenty new members were received at the meeting.

There were reports from the different committees in charge of the picnic on July 1st, which showed that everything was most encouraging. The sports committee reported a large number of prizes donated. The committee will take several trips to T.A.S. Park this week to get the grounds in shape. Special arrangements are being made for the comfort of the women and little children, and the committee will have constructed a gang plank with side railings.

The report of the Savings Bank was given by the banker, Mr. J. H. Quinn, showed that every six months [illegible] been an increase in the deposits, which now total $7,500.

The Young Ladies' Sodality in connection with St. Peter's, who, for the past few years have supplied the meals for the picnic will do so again this year and the society is indebted to them for their assistance. There will be a special meeting next Monday to make the final arrangement for the picnic, and on the following Sunday, the members will take Holy Communion in a body at St. Peter's Cathedral. The retiring President, Mr. N. Bibby, has donated a locket for the member securing the most new members in the next six months, and Mr. J. J. Duffus will give a second prize.

REV. JONATHON GO-FORTH COMMENCES HIS MEETINGS

Rev. Jonathan Goforth opened a weekly series of meetings in Peterborough yesterday, preaching at St. Paul's church in the morning, addressing a mass meeting at St. Andrew's church in the afternoon and conducting the evening service at Knox church. Mr. Goforth, who is one of the leading missionaries of the Presbyterian church of Canada in China, was actively identified with the great revivals in Honan and Manchuria and he tells a wonderful story of the work of the spirit in those places. He is an impressive speaker and was heard by large audiences yesterday. The revival in Manchuria, which is Mr. Goforth's principal subject, aws greatly blessed by God and hundreds of Chinese men, women and children. There is no doubt, Mr. Goforth says, but that the spirit of God was at work in China and he believes it will be at work in Peterborough before the week is over. A great revival is looked for here.

Each afternoon this week a service will be held in St. Paul's church at 3.30 o'clock in the same place. A children's rally will be held on Friday afternoon, June 25th, at 4.15 o'clock. Meetings for business men will be held each evening in the Y.M.C.A. parlours at twelve o'clock.

At St. Paul's church yesterday Mr. Goforth said that Peterborough could be blessed with a revival if people were really desirous of having one and would pray earnestly for a visitation of the spirit of the Lord.

CAUSE AND EFFECT OF THE CURVES USED IN BASEBALL

What makes a base ball curve?

The spin given it by the pitcher.

How many curves can a ball be made to take?

That question is open to discussion. Some say one, others declare four or five curves are possible.

Why does the ball curve after being spun by the pitcher?

It curves as the result of friction caused by revolving against the air. When a ball pitched by a right-handed man is delivered with a twist from right to left, one side constantly spins in the air, the other away from it. The side spinning against the air gets the greatest friction, and as moving bodies follow the line of least resistance, the ball edges away from the friction. In brief, the air pushes the ball in the direction of its spin, resulting in what is known as an "out curve."

Every time a ball is thrown it spins, but ordinarily the thrower does not spin it rapidly enough to cause it to curve perceptibly.

Six spinning motions are possible. Two of them, the vertical spins to right and left, do not curve the ball. Instead they hold it to its course as rifling in a gun barrel holds a bullet true.

Of the others, the horizontal right to left produces the out curve." The horizontal left to right produces the "inshoot," which disappeared when pitchers were forced to deliver every ball with the same motion to prevent "telegraphing" to the batter their intention only to reappear when Mathewson and Joss brought out their famous "fadeaway" ball. A vertical spin away from the pitcher develops a "drop ball" and a vertical spin toward the pitcher produces the "rise" ball.

But only a strong, supple wrist and powerful fingers can produce a curve. In the hands of good pitchers, with a wrist capable of "snapping" the ball the instant of delivery, the sphere can be made to do wonders.

Pitchers declare they have but two deliveries—the fast ball and the curve—and they believe what they say, but watch a Mathewson, "Cy" Young, Brown, Joss, or a Walsh, and you will convince yourself that they have more in their repertoire than they confess.

For instance the "fadeaway." Only Joss and Mathewson have it under perfect control. This ball, delivered overhand with the same motion they use in throwing the straight ball or out curve, falls off rapidly to the right as it nears the plate.

This break, or curve, or shoot, is obtained by jerking the fingers from left to right behind the ball as it is released.

Then there is the jump ball, a straight ball of tremendous speed, given a quick rise as it reaches the plate, after the way the "fadeaway" is produced. The pitcher, as he releases the ball, whips his fingers downward, producing a fast backward spin which "takes" as the ball travels, causing a rise or "jump" of a couple of inches.

A curve that is wonderfully effective is the "out drop," which is, in fact, a two-way curve, the ball breaking down and out near the plate. This ball is delivered after the fashion of the out curve, save that instead of a horizontal spin the pitcher spins the ball on an angle which is about half way between the vertical and horizontal.

And still pitchers claim they have nothing but the cure ball and the fast one. They refuse to distinguish between the different curves and slants which are apparent to those who sit back of the catcher and study what they see.

Mr. W. R. G. Higgins, of the Higgins Hardware Co., has been confined to his home for the past few days, owing to illness, but was able to return to business this morning.

OBITUARY.

MRS. THOS. WEATHERHEAD.

The death occurred yesterday morning at 6 o'clock of Mrs. Thos. Weatherhead, at the residence of her son, 834 Water street. he deceased was on of the oldest and most highly respected citizens. She was 77 years of age, and was born in Asphodel. Her maiden name was Ellen Fitzpatrick. Her husband predeceased her 29 years ago.

Eight sons are left to mourn her loss. They are Messrs. Thomas, John, Stephen, Angus, Charles, Albert, Bruce and Richard.

The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock from the family residence to St. Peter's Cathedral to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MARY CAVANAGH.

Last night there occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital the death of Mary Cavanagh, wife of Mr. G. H. Kane, 394 London street. The deceased lady was born in the Township of Douro and was held in high esteem by all who knew her. She was 54 years of age and has for some time been suffering with rheumatism, which was the eventual cause of her death. Besides her husband there are left to mourn her loss the following four sons and four daughters: Harry, of Campbellford, Eva of Schenectady; Emma, of Sault Ste Marie, Charles of Orillia, and Thomas, Eddie, Katie and Nora, of this city.

The funeral will be held to-morrow (Tuesday) from St. Peter's Cathedral at 3 p.m., to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

JOHN LEE.

There are many people in Peterborough who will rgret to hear of the death of Mr. John Lee, wich took place at te home of his son, Hammond Lee, 172 Charlotte street. The deceased was 67 years of age, and was a resident of this city for 64 years, having come here from Belfast, Ireland, with his arents when only three years old. Upon arrival in the city the old folks settled at the corner of Smith and George streets, and when the deceased was 17 years of age he erected the octogan house now standing at 705 George street, just a few yards from the old homestead, and there he lived continuously until some nine months ago when he retired from active lief and went to live with his son. He was a millwright by trade, and was employed in the Auburn Woolen Mills for 40 years. He enjoyed good health all his life, and was always active and faithful to his duties. He ws well known to all the old residents and many of the new ones, and greatly respected. He was married twice, the first time to Miss Carlyle, sister of Mr. John Carlyle of Ashburnham, and some years later to Miss Maggie Moffatt, daughter of Mrs. S. S. Gallety, of Banff, Alta., and sister of the late Dr. John Moffatt, of Norwood. He was a life-long member of St. Paul's church, and also a member of the A. O. U. W.

The late John Lee is survived by one brother, Robt., of the W. A. Murray Co., Toronto, and four sons, Fred, of Toledo, Ohio, Rollie of Toronto, and Bruce and Hammond of the city.

The funeral will be held to-day and will be private. The services will be conducted at the house by Rev. Mr. Pogue, but interment in Little Lake Cemetery will not take place until Tuesday, when Fred Lee, of Toledo, will arrive.

Royal Theatre

4-Motion Pictures-4

"A BRUISED HEART"
This is a prettily coloured Pathe Film depicting the love of a wealthy young man for his fiancee who plays him false and causes him in desperation to shoot himself, but he does not die and all is made happy.

"RAPIDS AND FALLS OF TANNFOSSEN AND RISTA"
A grand educational picture which will please all who are fond of travel and like seeing good scenery of land and water—the best that Sweden can produce.

"A SOLDIER'S HEART"
A most beautifully coloured picture story of the love of a young lieutenant for a pretty maiden, and also for his mother, and how things get mixed up and his bathrothed becomes jealous thinking his mother is another rival, but all ends well.

ALPHONSE GETS IN WRONG
A very funny picture showing the troubles and adventures of Alphonse, and how he turns the tables on his joker friends and gets the best of them.

New Illustrated Song

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

To-morrow will be "Fan Day" at the Royal. Every lady will be presented with a pretty fan with which to keep themselves cool. Do not miss getting one as a souvenir of Royal Theatre.

SNAP SHOTS OF THE GYPSIES

The Roy Studio Secured Twenty-three Different Views of the Motley Mexican Band and Their Caravans.

The band of Mexican Gypsies arrested yesterday morning and brought to the County gaol had scarcely reached the yard when the enterprising photographer appeared on the scene with his camera. With his customary instinct for novelty as well as business, Mr. Fred Roy, scented a rare chance for something out of the ordinary to still further popularize the famous Roy postal cards. One of the charms attaching to human effort is that we have the element of enough curiosity and shrewdness to keep our faculties on the alert for the appreciation of unexpected variations from regular business. Mr. Roy at first encountered considerable opposition when he attempted to take aim with his camera. The queen of the Gypsies and other females of the band "wouldn't stand for it," and as Mr. Roy had to draw upon his diplomatic reserves. He had been wise enough to bring with him quantities of confectionery, tobacco, etc., and by the aid of these and some hard coaxing succeded in securing some really interesting pictures. Some bold ventures had to be made to be able to reproduce the pictorial poses which are shown. One realizes that Mr. Roy's task was not an easy one to be able to secure twenty-three different pictures, not only novel and characteristic but mysteriously life-like in every detail. These pictures are already on sale at the Roy Studio.

LOOK OUT FOR PNEUMONIA

Your system is in a run-down condition. You catch cold. You think it will soon pass off. It doesn't. You neglect taking any special care of yourself. Bronchitis developes and then comes pneumonia and a fight for life. A fight which is too often unsuccessful. Why not take every cold seriously and cure it promptly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

ARE CUTTING DOWN TREES ON ISLAND

For many years the people of Lakefield have been credited with true artistic taste and judgment in keeping the islands in Katchawanooka Lake in a state of nature covered with a luxuriant growth of trees. A beautiful feature in the lake is the island immediately opposite the wharf. The village council has undertaken to provide men with axes with which they are slashing down trees and rudely trimming up the island that they may afford standing ground for people who on July 1st may watch equatic sports Once cut, the trees have lost forever their original beauty and a pleasing feature in the landscape has passed away. This act of vandalism has left a painful impression on the tourist and the credit given Lakefield for religiously preserving nature's own beauty is taken away.

MR. BRODEUR'S IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT REGARDING CANADA'S NAVAL POLICY

Examiner Special (2.45 p. m.)

Montreal, June 22.—A conference of the highest importance took place at the government offices here between Hon. L. P. Brodeur and a deputation from Montreal Chambre de Commerce. The Minister made two pronouncements: (1) That maintenance of Canadian Navy is the policy of the Government regarding Imperial defence; (2) If only one dry dock to accommodate large vessels is to be built on the St. Lawrence, Quebec would seem to have the best situation.

ACCEPTED SPECIFICATIONS FOR THE NEW PUBLIC LIBRARY

The plans and specifications for the new Public Library were submitted before the members of the Property Committee of the City Council at a meeting last evening. A resolution was passed accepting the specifications and it is altogether likely that a special meeting of the council will be held to-night to take up the matter. The chairman, Alderman Bradburn, presided and the other members of the committee were present.

Mr. Wm. Blackwell and Mr. John E. Belcher, architects for the new public library, were also present, and Mr. Blackwell read the specifications The document was a very long one, and took over two hours to read. The first item to be discussed was that the contractor be given until May 1st, 1910, to complete the building. A clause was also added, providing that, the contractor furnish his own fuel during the winter months. The foundations will be concrete as far as the surface, and then stone. Coarse lime stone will be used, and all will be of equal size. The main walls will be of solid brick with stone window sills. The brick to be of first-class pressed brick front backed up with first-class burnt brick. All the lathing throughout will be metal lath. Each paragraph was head separately and discussed by the committee when all the necessary changes were made or the clause was passed without changing. The building throughout will be a first-class one in every respect. All the material from the basement to the roof will be of the best, and it will be superintended by Messrs. Belcher and Blackwell, who will see that the work is first-class and performed according to the specifications.

Queen Victoria Of Spain Gives Birth To Daughter

Examiner Special (2:05 p.m.)

Lagranja, Spain, June 22. — Queen Victoria gave birth to a daughter at 6.25 this morning. The birth of a princess is particularly pleasing to both the King and the Queen, as they had hoped that this child, their third, would be a girl. The first two children are boys. Prince Alfonso, born May 10, 1907, and Prince Jaime, born June 23, 1908.

PROMPT ACTION OF COUNTY AUTHORITIES IS COMMENDED

The raid on the gypsies yesterday was a complete success and Warden Scott and the county authorities are to be congratulated upon the business-like way in which they have put a stop to the damaging trek of the nomads. As soon as Reeve Scott heard of the advance of the Mexicans in this direction he took steps to have it checked and High Constable Cochrane proceeded to get after the marauders. The high constable secured the county constables of the neighbourhood and obtained the assistance of two of the local police, P. C. Newhall and McGinty, and went out and brought in his men. Chief Vincent, of Lindsay, came down to give assistance and the provincial authorities were also on hand.

Series Of Closing Recitals At The Conservatory Of Music

The first of the series of recitals to mark the closing of the fifth successful year of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music was held last night in the Conservatory hall. There was a large attendance of the parents and friends of pupils and the public. The programme which was presented by pupils of Miss Newman, piano, and Miss Adamson, violin, was as follows:

Consonette—Schutte— Miss Genevieve Sanderson.

March— Mignon — Poldini — Miss Kathryn Burnett.

Adagio—Schubert—Violin—Miss Edwina Palmer.

Fantasy—Schubert—Miss McGill.

Faust Waltz—Gounod—Miss Katharine McCarthy.

Bercense in D flat—Chopin—Miss Annie Sisson.

Spring Song—Mendelssohn— Violin —Miss Edwina Palmer.

Liebestraum—Liszt — Miss Beatrice Stark.

(a) Field Nocturne.

(b) Spinning Song—Miss Kathryn Burnett.

Three of Miss Newman's pupils were unable to be present or were not present and their places were filled by three young ladies showing a creditable musical devotedness by coming forward from the audience and playing their numbers most acceptably, a circumstance which speaks highly of their earnestness and throughness in their musical studies. They were pupils of Mr. Gliddon.

The pupils who played during the evening did fine justice to their own proficieney and the excellent quality of their instruction.

The accompanyists of the evening were Miss Julia Choate and Miss Sisson. The second recital is to-night and the programme will be given by pupils of Mr. Lautz and Mr. Gliddon, vocal and piano respectively.

The Entrance Examinations Commence To-morrow

The candidates from the public and separate schools of Peterborough, who are trying their entrance examinations will commence their ordeal to-morrow morning at 8.45 o'clock in the new Collegiate Institute. There are some 200 candidates who will write upon these examinations. The county pupils are writing at their own centres. The departmental examinations will commence on June 29.

Special Service In Park Street Baptist Church

Next Sunday evening's service in the Park Street Baptist Church will be in full charge of the Bible School. Every part of the service will be taken by some member of the School. The children of the school will sing several selections, under the leadership of Mr. J. C. Miller, and from start to finish it will be a most unique and interesting service.

The church in the hands of a committee will be elaborately decorated with flowers for the occasion, and during the service, pretty little flower girls will present a "button-hole" bouquet of flowers to every one who attends.

The boys of the Sunday School will usher and receive the offering.

The programme will be published in Saturday's issue.

All who wish to contribute flowers will kindly bring them to the church Saturday afternoon, or send them. All will be thankfully received.

COMMITTEE MET LAST EVENING

Business Transacted—Many Tenders Opened for Roadwork.

The Property Committee of the City Council met last night, when the specifications for the new public library were dealt with and accepted. The chairman, Ald. Bradburn, was in the chair, and all the other members were present.

Another meeting will be held shortly to take up the isolation hospital specifications.

The two lots, 100 and 101 James street, which belong to the city, will cost $11.80 for fencing and this will be done, according to the engineer's report.

S. W. Rose, Lancaster and Staunton, will be notified by the city clerk to call at the clerk's office and make arrangements and sign the necessary lease for the boat houses they have built on the river bank.

The chairman brought up the matter of a shaker for the furnace in the city buildings. There is no shaker on the furnace now and the new one will save that much fuel in one season.

On motion the chairman was authorized to purchase the shaker from the Canadian Steam Boiler Equipment Co. of Toronto.

Conservatory Closing Concert will be held to-morrow evening in Conservatory of Music Hall. Conservatory Orchestra, Miss Winnifred Rankin, Elocutionist. Andrew Ross Love, Tenor of Toronto, two new members of the faculty. 14

PRICE OF BREAD TAKES A JUMP

The Staff of Life Will Cost One Cent a Loaf More From Now On.

The bakers of the city at a meeting held on Saturday night decided to raise the price of bread one cent, henceforth it will cost the householders 11 cents instead of ten, they have been paying. Flour is much dearer than formerly which is the reason for the jump in the price of the staff of life. Coarse flour has increased about 70c per 100 pounds, while the finer grade has jumped in price about $1.80 on the same quantity.
